ILLICIT STILL SEIZED

An Illicit Whiskey Plant Discovered and Seized in Asphodel.

Preventive Officer Floody, of the Inland Revenue Department, has made a seizure in Asphodel, about six miles from Norwood. He drove out from town this morning, having had information and made search for an illicit still. He was accompanied by County Constable Cochrane, and they made a seizure of a large plant in Asphodel. The illicit still was brought into Norwood and will be brought on to Peterborough, where the hearing of the case will take place.

St. Joseph's Hospital Picnic.

Indications point to the fact that the St. Joseph's Hospital picnic on July 2nd promises to eclipse all previous records. The affair will be held this year on the Murray-st. school grounds, which is in every way adapted for a gathering of this nature. The different committees have now everything arranged. The 57th Regimental band, which was undoubtedly the drawing card at last year's picnic, has again been engaged this year. The programme of sports provided has even surprised the committee in charge. It is an excellent one. The public will have an opportunity of witnessing a thrilling mid-air performance by Thos. J. McGrath, the celebrated equilibrist. He will give his grand acrobatic flying and balancing trapeze performance, introducing head balancing, swinging perch ladder act and many other sensational, daring and thrilling feats, concluding with the slide for life. The ladies of the congregation will furnish meals during the day, and it is needless to say anything regarding their excellence. Through the kindness of Mr. H. LeBrun the public will have an opportunity of competing in the drawing contest for a beautiful painting of "The Last Supper," valued at over $200. Mr. LeBrun has donated this picture, the original of which cost thousands of dollars. It is a beautiful work of art, and is on exhibition in Mr. H. LeBrun's window, George-st. No one should miss seeing it as well as making an effort to secure it.

BRIGADE CAMP AT DESERONTO

ARTILLERY MEN ATTEND A CAMP SERVICE ON SUNDAY

Sham Battle on Monday—Local Officers Distinguish Themselves — Pleasant Evenings.

Deseronto Camp, June 25

Never before in the history of nations have Tommy Atkins and Johnny Canuck shown to the world, in such a widespread manner, that Britain still has those fighting qualities characteristic of their race. This year, although many of our Canadian troops are in active service in South Africa, their place has been filled by young recruits, and our four batteries now stationed here are a credit to our country and Queen. On Sunday every man was in his place. At 9 a.m. all lined up, and headed by the Deseronto military band, were marched to the beautiful grove on the eastern side of the camp, where an excellent sermon was preached by Rev. Mr. Costigan, of the Anglican church, Deseronto. On Monday forenoon another sham battle was fought, in which the Durham Field Battery took an active part. In the engagement Lieutenants Bradburn and Ackerman distinguished themselves very highly. Colonel McDonald, of Guelph, has command of the Third Brigade, which consists of the 8th and 14th Batteries. After the hard drill through the day the boys entertain themselves with vocal and instrumental music, and I must not forget to mention the expert dancers. Erastus, "the coon," is a favorite and figures as a minstrel. Gauthier is a sport and one of the best wrestlers in camp. To-morrow evening a baseball game is arranged between "A" Battery and the Durham boys. On Saturday we will all be returning home, but we expect a high old time the remaining evenings.

—All Saints' choir will practice this evening instead of Thursday evening.

—The Town Council is called for a general session on Friday evening.

—Inspector Howe, of the Underwriters' Association, is in town to-day, and inspected the fire apparatus, including the steamer.

—Large numbers of canoeists enjoyed themselves on Little lake last evening.

—A very successful lawn social was held by the young people of St. Luke's church on Mr. Strickland's grounds, Ashburnham, last night. The 57th Regimental band was present. A large crowd enjoyed the evening.

—The superb picture of the Lord's Supper, to be drawn for at the St. Joseph's hospital picnic, and now on exhibition in H. LeBrun & Co's window, is attracting much attention. It is the work of Miss Caisnie, of Toronto, formerly of town, and is a work of art of which anyone might be proud.

—Mr. R. M. Roy has in his window a fine view of the mines at Belmont recently visited by the County Council. It is the largest photograph ever taken in Canada, not being an enlargement, and was made by Mr. Fred Roy.

BASEBALL.

On Thursday, June 21st, at the Douro picnic an interesting match was played between the Clear Lake team and T.V.C., North Douro team. At the close of time the match was declared a draw neither side scoring. The South Douro team were to have played the winners but as neither won a mixed team was proposed but the South Douro team decided to take no chances as they had received one defeat at the hands of Fenelon Falls so the game was declared off. For Clear Lake, L. Godfrey, S. McIlmoyle and P. Ayotte showed up well, while for T.V.C., G. Galvin, F. Nolan and F. H. Jory were the stars. The teams lined up before W. Watson, of Lakefield, as follows:

T.V.C. North Douro.—A. Nolan, goal; P. Hynes, R. Charlton, backs; J. Foley, F. H. Jory, J. Sullivan, half-backs; W. Charlton, J. Hanrahan, B. Dench, F. Nolan, G. Galvin, forwards.

Clear Lake.—P. A. Ayotte, goal; G. J. Ayotte, S. Godfrey, backs; Geo. J. Ayotte, J. G. Ayotte, F. Welsh, half-backs; J. McFadden, R. Fitzgerald, S. McIlmoyle, P. Ayotte, J. Ayotte, forwards.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

Cultivate the peach orchard in the same manner as when cultivating corn.

For grounds limited in extent dwarf trees will be found quite an advantage.

Cherry culture is the cheapest of all fruit culture. Plant good trees and let them alone.

Do not look for a fine crop of fruit from any tree that lost its leaves prematurely last fall.

One of the best washes for fruit trees is a lime whitewash to which a small quantity of carbolic acid has been added.

Failure to provide good drainage so that the roots are too wet and setting the trees too deep when planting are two leading causes of root rot among fruit trees.

No matter what crop is grown for the first four or five years after setting out, thorough and frequent cultivation is essential at least during the early part of the growing season.

One of the cheapest and best ways of fighting insect pests in the orchard is by giving a good flock of poultry the run of it. Their natural instinct is to pick up every bug, insect and worm they see.

The removal of a tree to a new locality, no matter how much care is taken in making the change, always results in weakening its vitality. Hence good care should be given until the tree starts to growing thriftily again.—St. Louis Republic.

APHORISMS.

What loneliness is more lonely than distrust?—George Eliot.

The mind attracted by what is false has no relish for better things.—Horace.

Things don't turn up in this world until somebody turns them up.—Garfield.

There is no substitute for thorough-going, ardent and sincere earnestness.—Dickens.

Half the work that is done in this world is to make things appear what they are not.—Beadle.

Where there is emulation there will be vanity; where there is vanity there will be folly.—Johnson.

Occupation is one great source of enjoyment. No man properly occupied was ever miserable.—Landon.

There is no dispute managed without a passion, and yet there is scarce a dispute worth a passion.—Sherlock.

Envy is a passion so full of cowardice and shame that nobody ever had the confidence to own it.—Rochester.

He is incapable of a truly good action who finds not a pleasure in contemplating the good actions of others.—Lavater.

Trees and Landowners In England.

By the general laws of England oak, ash and elm are "timber" if not younger than 20 years, or so old that a good post cannot be cut from them. What constitutes "timber" varies slightly according to locality, but when a tree is proved to be "timber" a person who has only a life interest in the land it grows upon cannot cut it down unless it be on an estate cultivated solely for the production of salable "timber" or unless he has a special agreement giving him power to do so. A mere life tenant may not even cut down trees which are not "timber," but which would at the age of 20 years attain that dignity.

Botanists differ as to the poisonous nature of yew trees. There are many instances both of their poisonous and their harmless effect when browsed by horses and cattle, but the partially dried clippings of yew are certainly most dangerous. If a yew tree overhangs a neighbor's land and his horses eat the yew without trespassing, the owner of the tree is liable to pay for any injury the horses may sustain. On the other hand, if the horses or cattle cannot browse on the tree without putting their heads over the fence the owner of the horses must bear the loss, for his animals have trespassed.—London Answers.

SELECTIONS

A QUICKLY PAINTED HOUSE.

The Boss Put Thirty-seven Men at Work and Won His Bet Easily.

"Paint Your House While You Wait" is the sign that Gus Obenlund, a boss painter, will hang out. Obenlund, with 37 painters to help him, painted Herbert Long's house in 91 minutes and thereby won $500 and a clambake.

Long owns a house at Neptune avenue and West Fifth street, Coney Island—a two story frame house, 35 by 20 feet, entered by three doors, lighted by 14 windows. The storms of 20 years had beaten this house since it was painted, and it did not please Long's æsthetic eye. So Long went to Obenlund a few days ago and asked him how long it would take to paint his house.

"Oh, I'll paint your old shanty in two hours," answered Obenlund indifferently.

"'Shanty!' Bet you $500 and a clambake you can't," exclaimed the "Pony King," much nettled, and he drew forth a large roll of bills.

"Take you," said the boss painter, who has sporting blood too.

Tuesday, if clear, was fixed for the day or the first clear day thereafter.

It rained on Tuesday and Wednesday, so at 5:30 p. m. Thursday Obenlund knocked off work on the depot and with his brigade of painters, armed with paint pots, platforms, ladders and brushes, charged on the "Pony King's" house.

In five minutes the painters were putting a coat on that house faster than ever did a hand me down clothes man on an unwilling customer.

It turned out there were not enough paint pots, so Long, who was cocksure of winning, lent a coal scuttle and a water bucket to the painters.

Joseph Burkhardt was judge and timekeeper. At 6 p. m. the buff paint was used up.

"Take a pony—take two ponies," said the confident Long. "Go to the depot. Get more paint."

So a pony express was established between the house and the depot. The trolley cars run near the house, and 300 people alighted to watch the painters swarming over the house, whose coat soon strongly resembled that of Joseph, of many colors.

"An hour's gone!" shouted Burkhardt.

Long began to lose confidence. With much cunning he ordered a keg of beer from the nearest saloon.

"Help yourselves, boys," he cried.

"Much obliged; when we've finished here," chorused the painters.

"One hundred to one against Long!" yelled an excited man in the crowd.

"Eighty-five minutes!" screamed the timekeeper.

"And the job's done," triumphantly exclaimed Obenlund.

In a jiffy the ladders and platforms were lowered.

"No," gasped Long. "No! There's a spot under the eaves you haven't touched."

Two painters rushed to the roof. One held the other by the heels, and, thus suspended, he covered the spot under the eaves with buff paint.

"5:35 to 7:06—91 minutes," announced Burkhardt.

Every one but Long enjoyed the clambake.—New York World.

Airship Matches In France.

A prize of 100,000 francs has been offered by M. Henry Deutsch to any one, irrespective of nationality, who will make an aeronautic tour successfully, starting from the park of the aeronauts at St. Cloud or from Longchamps or from any other place situated at an equal distance from the Eiffel tower, and who will in a half hour have doubled this tower and have descended at the point of departure.

Aeronauts who enter into this competition are expected to provide new aeronautic inventions to enable them to accomplish this feat, and dates will be arranged for a practical test of such apparatus as is considered good. All who present flying machines, balloons or similar aeronautic apparatus are expected to bear their own expenses until one of them has won the prize under the conditions named. Should several win, the prize will be apportioned among them. If not won in five years, the prize is to be withdrawn.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Whom Did He Mean?

When Lord Kitchener, returning in glory from Egypt, was asked by Queen Victoria concerning his alleged reputation as a woman hater, he evaded a direct answer by saying something nice about his love and respect for "one woman." Everybody thought at the time that he referred to his queen, but now that Mrs. James Brown Potter, the actress, has been detected with the hero's picture on her dressing table and also in a locket suspended from her neck the matter appears to be in doubt, at least with some of the newspaper correspondents. — Philadelphia Ledger.

Good Feeders.

A hostess of the west end, Washington, who proposed giving a dinner to some doctors visiting a convention in town said to the caterer when she had finished with her order:

"Now, Mr. X., I trust you will make this dinner as fine as possible, for my guests come from all over the country, and I want them to see how well we do things at the capital."

"Is it the doctors you're going to entertain, then?" asked the caterer.

"Yes," responded the hostess. "I have invited a number of the doctors."

"Give me my list, then," said the caterer, and he forthwith proceeded to increase the quantity of everything upon the menu and to nearly double the amount of wine.

"What do you mean by that?" asked the patron. "Why have you increased the quantity of everything so materially?"

"I was all right at first for the ordinary guest, madam," said the caterer, with an ex cathedra air, "but them sawbones does eat and does drink—they does eat and drink. Their trade seems to give 'em an appetite."—Exchange.

The Poisonous Pineapple.

"It is a notorious fact," says The National Druggist, "that the pineapple is considered the least healthy of all the edible fruits of the tropics by those who know anything of the matter. The juice of the green and growing plant is credited in Java, the Philippines and throughout the far east generally with being a blood poison of a most deadly nature. It is said to be the substance with which the Malays poison their krishes and daggers and is also credited with being the 'finger nail poison' formerly in use among aboriginal Javanese women almost universally. These women formerly (or some thirty odd years ago), and possibly do yet, cultivated a nail, sometimes more, on each hand, to a long, sharp point, and the least scratch from one of these was certain death."

To Be Expected.

His friend expressed no small surprise that his sympathies were so intensely with the Boers.

"Well, you see, my great-grandfather was Dutch, and our cook is Irish," replied the suburbanite, and all was at once clear.—Detroit Journal.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Toronto, June 27.—The run of live stock at the Western Stock Yards yesterday was large—72 carloads, composed of 1,164 cattle, 914 hogs, 1,072 sheep and lambs, and 60 calves. The quality of fat cattle was only medium, owing to the fact that stable-fed animals are becoming scarce, while grassers have scarcely had time to become well finished. Trade was fair, with prices firm at Friday's quotations for all grain-fed animals.

WHEN DOCTORS DISAGREE

What Becomes of the Patient?

Doctors have their hobbies as well as other people and in the treatment of disease often carry them too far for the patient's good. For instance, in the treatment of indigestion or dyspepsia many doctors give bismuth and nothing else, others rely on pepsin to bring their patients through, still another doctor treats stomach troubles with the various vegetable essences and fruit salts.

Now, one or the other of these excellent remedies becomes a hobby with the doctor who has had most success with the particular one in question, because all of them are first class remedies for indigestion and dyspepsia, but not one of them alone is so good as a combination of all of them, such as is found in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which contain not only vegetable essences and fruit salts, but also the freshest, purest pepsin and bismuth, making altogether a remedy unsurpassed for every form of indigestion, sour stomach, nervous dyspepsia, belching of gas, distress after eating, sleeplessness, headaches, etc.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is not a secret patent nostrum, but you can see for yourself what it is, and knowing this, its success as a dyspepsia cure is not surprising. All druggists recommend and sell them at 50 cents.

A DELIBERATE SUICIDE.

William Armstrong Tried Bug Poison, Which Failed—Then a Knife.

Hamilton, June 27.—William Armstrong, a single man of 30 years of age, deliberately committed suicide yesterday at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Robinson, where he boarded. A short time ago he was laid off work and he became despondent. During yesterday morning he took a quantity of bug poison, but as it was slow he stabbed himself twice in the left breast with a knife, making ugly cuts, and then cut his throat from ear to ear. He was found in this horrible condition by a neighbor, and died shortly afterwards.

Cattle and Horse Poisoned.

Niagara Falls, Ont., June 27.—Martin Upper of Thorold Township had three head of valuable cattle and a horse poisoned the other night. Some inhuman wretch placed half a dozen heaps of salt in different places in the field. The salt contained Paris green, as it was afterwards found. The Ontario police have the case in hand.

He Fooled the Surgeons.

All doctors told Renick Hamilton, of West Jefferson, O., after suffering 18 months from Rectal Fistula, he would die unless a costly operation was performed; but he cured himself with Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the best in the world. Surest Pile cure on earth. 25 cents a box. Sold by J. Lynch, druggist.

BREVITIES

PERSONALITIES.

N. P. Bunker and wife of Newburyport, Mass., celebrated on Monday, April 30, the sixty-third anniversary of their marriage.

Joseph Chamberlain has changed his plans for the American trip which he planned for next autumn and has postponed it indefinitely.

President Loubet of France is posing for Denis Puech, the well known French sculptor, who is making a bust of the chief executive.

While playing in Kansas City recently Sir Henry Irving contributed $50 toward the rebuilding of the convention hall which was destroyed by fire.

Dr. Moses M. Bagg, who has just died in Utica, N. Y., was one of the organizers of the Oneida County Historical society in 1877 and wrote a history of Utica and Oneida county.

With a party of friends the Rev. Minot J. Savage of New York will travel through southern Europe in a gasoline automobile built for six people and with plenty of room for luggage.

Representative Small of North Carolina is devoting himself to the study of fishes and is incidentally trying to have established on the coast of his state a station to investigate problems connected with marine fisheries.

David T. Haraden, who died recently at Roxbury, Mass., came of a family which for five generations had been engaged in the making of musical instruments, and Haraden himself had been 76 years in the employ of one firm of piano makers.

Governor Roosevelt of New York said the other day that he believed strongly in the teaching of modern languages in the public schools, as there came a time in the life of nearly every one when such knowledge would be of the utmost use.

Jules Guerin, recently well known for his failure to start a revolution in Paris, is most methodical in his efforts to undo the evil effects of prison life. Not wishing to grow stout, he takes regular exercise daily and is doing a great deal of very solid reading.

In London they are telling of a Scotchman who had a son in Washington and posed as an authority on American affairs. To try him some one asked who was the former speaker of the house. "Oh, I dinna ken. But, at any rate, he wasna a Scot, like bonnie Davie Henderson."

Henry C. Bliss of West Springfield, Mass., for many years has carried out a public spirited scheme of a novel character. Within 20 years he has planted over 1,000 trees about the town, doing the work systematically in a way which has greatly beautified the streets and parks.

One Was Enough.

That illustrious astronomer, Professor Simon Newcomb, in an article on "Science and the Government" in The North American Review, gives an amusing instance of the ignorance even of the most prominent politicians regarding the work of the greatest scientists:

"It is said that some 50 years ago the British academy had printed a few copies of an important work for presentation to some foreigners who, from their prominence in the scientific world, were best entitled to be honored with the gift. Professor Airy, the astronomer royal, was requested to make a selection of the names. A few days after he had sent in his list he was informed by the secretary of the admiralty that 'my lords' were struck by the number of unknown names included and that they wished to make an inquiry on the subject. Airy asked the secretary for some specifications as to the names referred to.

"'Well, as an example,' said the secretary, 'here is the name of Professor C. F. Gauss of Gottingen. Who is he?'

"'Gauss is one of the greatest mathematicians of the age and stands among the two or three most eminent masters in physical astronomy now living. Who else do you wish to know about?'

"'No one else. That will do,' replied the secretary."

Kidney Disease and Backache.

Mr. Patrick J. McLaughlin, Beauharnois, Que., states:—"I was troubled with kidney disease and dyspepsia for 10 years, and have been that bad I could not sleep at nights and suffered terrible agony. I tried all sorts of medicine, but got no relief until I began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They made a new man of me and the old troubles seem to be driven out of my system." One pill a dose. 25 cents a box.

For Over Fifty Years.

An Old and Well-tried Remedy.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Is pleasant to the taste. Sold by druggists in every part of the world. Twenty-five cents. Its value is incalculable. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup and take no other kind.

Little Comfort Out of it.

Mail and Empire.

"The election of a Ministerialist by acclamation in North Renfrew is represented as an indication that the Ross Government is restored to public confi-

"This is an astonishing delusion.

"The result really means that the Government began to campaign immediately that the late member died, that it hurried on the bye-election expecting to catch the people napping, and that the Conservative candidate preferred for business reasons not to enter a contest at that particular time.

"It may cheer the Local Government to get a seat in the Legislature without having to order out its ballot-box stuffers; but Mr. Ross does not seriously believe that this experience implies enthusiasm for his rickety Cabinet or endorsation of the frauds."

The Green Sickness.

Girls who lack sufficient nerve force to develop into healthy womanhood become pale, weak, nervous and irritable. They have chlorosis or "green sickness" and can only be cured when the nerves are restored and re-vitalized and the blood made rich by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great restorative in pill form. It makes pale, weak women and girls healthy, rosy and plump. Note increase in weight while taking it.

SEYMOUR'S FORCE DID NOT REACH PEKIN

But are Returning to Tien Tsin--Russia Evidently Preparing for Big Things --A Japanese Revolt.

ADMIRAL SEYMOUR'S FORCE DID NOT REACH PEKIN

Che Foo, June 28, via Shanghai (Noon)—Admiral Seymour's expedition has been relieved, having failed to connect with Pekin. There is no news from Pekin. Russian Col. Schelle commanding the combined forces of 10,000 men is supposed to be proceeding to Pekin. Admiral Seymour's expedition is returning to Tien Tsln. His force has suffered greatly. It is estimated that from 40,000 to 60,000 Chinese troops are now before Pekin. Boxers from all sections are swarming there.

THE RELIEF OF SEYMOUR

St. Petersburg, June 28—The Minister of War has received the following despatch from Admiral Alexejeff: Port Arthur, June 27—During the night of June 25 a detachment of four companies of Russians, Col. Schievinski commanding, and the same number of foreigners, relieved Admiral Seymour and brought 200 of his wounded to Tien Tsin.

FOREIGN MINISTER'S SAFE

Berlin, June 28—The commander of the German squadron at Taku telegraphs under date of June 26 as follows: "The foreign ministers are with the landing force."

RUSSIA PREPARING TO MOBILIZE

Berlin, June 28—The Vorwaerts says: From an absolutely reliable source it is stated that the civil authorities in Russia have sent to all civil and military authorities in Russia telegraphic secret orders to prepare everything for mobilization. The orders bear the date of June 18th and 19th.

A JAPANESE DISTURBANCE

Che Foo, June 28—Shanghai reports that the Japanese have a serious uprising of their own to deal with in Formosa in which the revolutionists are armed. Refugees from inland districts report terrible massacres of native christians, rivalling the Armenian horrors. Only the officials within reach of the gun boats made a show of offering protection.

GERMANS UNINJURED

Hamburg, June 28—Commercial firms here have received telegrams from Shanghai saying that all the Germans at Tien Tsin are uninjured.

12,000 MEN NOW LANDED

Washington, June 28—The following cablegram was received this morning by the Navy Department from Admiral Kempff: "Chefoo, June 28—Secretary Navy, Washington—About 12,000 foreign troops now ashore. Soldiers ordered should report at Taku instead of Chefoo, substituted Nashville for Yorktown at Chefoo. Yorktown used as despatch boat being more suitable."

A MISSIONARY DESPATCH

New York, N.Y., June 28—The Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions this morning received the following cablegram from Shanghai: Wei-Hen destroyed, foreigners escaped. The Presbyterian Board had $40,000 worth of property at Wei-Hen.

THE FOREIGN LEGATIONS

Were Ordered to Leave Pekin in Twenty-Four Hours.

Ministers Now With Admiral Seymour Entrenched Eight Miles From Tien Tsin—The News Confirmed From German and Chinese-American Sources—An Escort Out of the City Furnished—News Given to Imperial Commons.

London, June 28.—(3.20 a. m.)—The composite brigade of 2,300 men, who raised the investment of Tien Tsin and pushed on to help Admiral Seymour, has probably saved him, but the news has not yet reached Che Foo, the nearest wire point. The last steamer at Che Foo from Taku brought this message, dated Tien Tsin, Monday:

"The Russian general in command of the relief force had decided, in view of Saturday's heavy fighting and marching, that one day's rest for the troops was essential and that the advance should not be resumed until to-day."

"Meanwhile came Admiral Seymour's heliograph that his position was desperate, and that he could only hold out two days. The relief started at dawn to-day (Monday)."

Germans Confirm It.

Berlin, June 28.—The German consul at Che Foo confirms the contents of the message from Vice-Admiral Seymour, which reached Tien Tsin Monday, saying he was then eight miles westward of that city, terribly harassed, could only hold out another two days, and had 68 men killed and over 200 wounded, and adds that the Admiral asked for the despatch of a relief column of 2,000 men. This column left Tien Tsin during the morning of June 25, under Russian command.

24 Hours to Leave Pekin.

London, June 28.—The Foreign Office has issued the following telegram from W. R. Carles, the British consul at Tien Tsin, undated, but probably sent June 24, and forwarded from Che Foo, June 27:

"A note has been received by the Commissioner of Customs here from Inspector General Hart (Sir Robert Hart) at Pekin, dated June 19, stating that the Foreign Legations had been desired to leave Pekin within 24 hours."

Ministers With Relief Force.

Washington, June 28.—The following cablegram was received at the Navy Department late yesterday afternoon:

"Che Foo, June 27.—Secretary Navy, Washington: Pekin force and ministers re-

GEN. BULLER'S WIRES ARE CUT

Boer Commandant Dewet and Botha Have Made a Compact.

They Agree That Neither Will Surrender While the Other Is in the Field—The Exposures Regarding the Hospitals in South Africa Have Made a Great Sensation in England—Lord Roberts Will Fully Reply.

London, June 28.—(4.20 a.m.) —Gen. Sir Leslie Rundle had a sharp artillery and rifle skirmish near Senekal Friday with a large force of entrenched Boers. He declined to attack them. This is the only fresh fighting reported.

Buller's Wires Cut.

The Boer outposts northeast of Pretoria are busy. The telegraph wires between Standerton and Newcastle were cut Sunday, and Sir Redvers Buller had to resort to heliograph.

Will Not Surrender.

Commandant De Wet, with 3,000 men and three guns, is moving northeast in the Orange River Colony. It is understood that he and Commandant-General Botha entered into a compact that neither would surrender so long as the other was in the field.

Have Surrendered 12,000 Rifles.

Twelve thousand rifles all told have been surrendered to the British.

President Kruger is still at Machadodorp.

The exposures regarding the hospitals in South Africa have made a great sensation in England. They began with three columns of restrained language in The Times yesterday, from Mr. W. A. Burdett-Coutts, Conservative member for Westminster. His disclosures have been widely reproduced, and they were supplemented this morning with denunciatory telegrams and interviews from survivors and army medical men.

Archbishop Dissatisfied.

The Archbishop of Cape Town, in an address before the Society of Good Hope, in the Cape Government House, Monday, expressed great dissatisfaction at the way in which the sick and wounded were treated.

He declared that the warm clothing that was absolutely necessary was freely offered, but was rarely, if ever, distributed by the army doctors; that the sick slept on the bare ground, and that even in Cape Town the way in which the hospitals were mismanaged made one's blood boil.

Mrs. Hanbury-Williams, wife of Major John Hanbury-Williams, Sir Alfred Milner's military secretary, told the meeting that if the visiting ladies had reported the mismanagement, the doors would have been shut in their faces. A news agency despatch from Cape Town says: " despatch from Cape Town says: "Certain revelations point to malfeasance in connection with the supplies of comforts for the sick and wounded."

The Daily Express refers to the springless, out-of-date ambulances" of the British, and contends that the Boer ambulances are notoriously superior. Princess Christian publicly asks for volunteer nurses.

Roberts Will Reply.

The Cape Town correspondent of The Daily Telegraph says that Lord Roberts will reply fully to the charges of Mr. Burdett-Coutts. Mr. Frederick Treves, consulting surgeon to the London hospital, who was recently at the front, says the charges come to him as an absolute shock and are quite incredible. He praises the medical department.

Trouble at the Fag End.

London, June 28. — The Lorenzo Marques correspondent of The Times, telegraphing yesterday, says: "According to Transvaal advices the Boers are entrenching in considerable force in the Middleburg hills. The Irish, Hollanders nd Italian corps are getting uncontrollable. They are looting stores and farm houses."

Eloff at St. Helena.

Jamestown St. Helena, June 28.—Sarel Eloff, President Kruger's grandson, who was captured by the British at Mafeking, landed here yesterday with eleven officers and 98 troopers, mostly foreigners. The prisoners, who were clean and of respectable appearance, were immediately sent on to Deadwood, the prison camp.

THIS LOOKS RATHER SERIOUS.

Sir Frederick Hodgson Promised to Hold Out Till June 20.

London, June 28.—The Colonial Office has received a telegram from Col. Willcocks, dated Prahsu, Ashantee, June 26, as follows:

"Major Wilkinson reached Bekwai June 19. In response to my telegram to the Governor of the Gold Coast (Sir Frederick Mitchell Hodgson), at Coomassie, the latter writes, June 16, saying he will hold out to June 20. This letter, received by Capt. Hall at Esumeja, was forwarded to Wilkinson at Bekwai at midnight, June 21. Wilkinson proceeded immediately to Esumeja, arriving there at dawn, June 22, after marching through torrents of rain. Lieut. Burroughs, with about 500 natives, is going north as fast as the flooded rivers permit."

Boy Killed by Lightning.

Delaware, Ont., June 28.—During a severe thunderstorm which passed over this place about 5 o'clock last evening Clarence Mahler, aged 9, son of Mr. L. Mahler, was instantly killed by lightning while taking shelter under a tree. Another boy, Manson Cudley, who was with him, was severely shocked, but will recover.

Trouble in The Stomach

Which Doctors Failed to Remove, Cured by Less Than Two Boxes of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

The experience of Mr. Blackwell is similar to that of many sufferers with chronic indigestion. Stomach medicines will seldom really cure indigestion. The kidneys and liver must be set right, and the bowels made regular and active.

Mr. Joseph Blackwell, Holmesville, Ont., says:—"I derived more benefit from the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills than from any other medicine I ever took, and can highly recommend them for stomach troubles. I was in a terrible state and could hardly work at my trade. I tried most every kind of medicine and doctors, until I was tired doctoring, and before I used one box of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills I could see that they were helping me, and after taking a box and a half, found that I was cured."

Nearly every family on the continent has used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills or heard of the remarkable cures they have effected. One pill a dose, 25c a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates and Co., Toronto.

BETTER LOOK TO THEMSELVES.

The fact that developments have not justified all the vivid imaginings of the Grit newspapers over the Birmingham bluff has greatly troubled the Grit journalists, and they are now busy telling stories of "love feasts," etc., between Conservative leaders. But it is the unity that is presented by the Conservative party that is bothering our Liberal friends, and the failure of all their vigorous efforts to rouse feeling and cause a breach among the Opposition leaders rankles them. But, if the Liberal newspapers will look to their own party they will find evidences of division and faction feeling that will justify their attention. The Martins and the McInnes, the Tartes and Bourassas, the Siftons and the Blairs, not to speak of the smaller fry who are at sixes and sevens, do not represent such a happy and harmonious family as one interested in the welfare of the cause they represent might desire. When Martin settles with Sifton, when McInnes settles with Laurier, when Tarte settles with the critics of his French speeches and Bourassa is made a palatable dose for loyal Liberals to swallow, then the Liberals may begin to look for divisions and factions in the ranks of their opponents. Until then they had better attend to their own troubles.

Why the Judge Paid the Bill.

For this story of the relation of politics and medicine the Philadelphia Medical Journal vouches: A physician was summoned in haste to attend the child of a family that lived in two rooms in the heart of a large American city—not New York. The child had been seized suddenly and seriously and just at election time. The mother was in despair, and when the doubtful prognosis was given she broke into wailing and violent self condemnation for some horrible sin of the family to which she said the child's illness was due—a direct punishment for their crime. She would go and curse the magistrate for it all, her husband should resign from "the force" and such evil ways should be renounced forever.

Curious to know how the magistrate could be held responsible for the child's illness, the doctor finally secured the confession that the crime of the poor, conscience stricken woman consisted in allowing the names of many fraudulent voters to be registered as residing in her house, in swearing to the lie, etc. The magistrate also had demanded this of all the neighbors in return for indescribable political favors.

The child recovered, and the magistrate paid the physician's bill.

THE CONCILIATION BILL.

Intended to Help to Prevent Strikes and Lock-Outs.

A Department of Labor, Similar to the Ontario Bureau of Industries, Is to Be Established to Gather Labor Information to Be Given to the Public—Prohibition to Come Up in the House on Tuesday—The Public Health.

Ottawa, June 28.—The most important bit of Government legislation this year was introduced yesterday morning by Hon. William Mulock. It was the long-promised Conciliation Act to aid in settling trade disputes and to provide for the publication of industrial statistics.

To Prevent Strikes.

Hon. Mr. Mulock introduced his Conciliation Act and said that the bill proposed by the aid of conciliators to promote the settlement of trade disputes, and the differences that might arise between employers and employed. The bill would help to prevent strikes and lockouts. It was intended to establish a department of labor. It would be the duty of this department to gather labor information for the purpose of publication. A monthly gazette would be published by this branch in public service. It would fill a similar position to the reports of the Minister of Agriculture and of the Department of Trade and Commerce. There was nothing new about the machinery of the act, as it was on the same lines as the Conciliation bill of England.

Mr. Foster condemned the Government for its tardiness.

Mr. McMullen made a speech in reply.

Sir Charles Tupper spoke at some length censuring the Government for its lack of speedy legislation.

The House rose for recess at 1 o'clock.

At 3 o'clock there was a sparse gathering of members.

Mr. Ingrim criticized Mr. Mulock's Conciliation bill. The bill did not state the number of employees necessary to be employed in a factory before arbitration took place.

Mr. Mulock declined to talk, because it was not usual to discuss the merits of a bill upon its first reading. Pressed, however, he said the bill dealt with trade disputes, and anything of that nature would come within its purview.

Mr. Ingrim wanted a clause inserted that in case of strikes where the public interest was at stake the Government might step in and straighten out the difficulty.

Dr. Sproule wanted to know what Mr. Mulock meant by a department of labor.

Mr. Mulock said that there would be no portfolio created. A bureau of industries would be formed similar to the one in the Province of Ontario.

The bill was read a first time.

The Prohibition Question.

Mr. Foster asked if the prohibition question would come up Monday?

Sir Wilfrid replied that next Tuesday would be the day. He also said that the House would sit on Saturday and Monday, although July 1 is celebrated on Monday. He desired to accomplish prorogation as soon as possible.

The Alaska Boundary.

Sir Charles asked that the report of Major-General Cameron on the Alaskan boundary question be brought down.

Sir Wilfrid replied that the request was reasonable for the more light thrown upon this question the more Canada had to gain. He would give a definite answer later.

Want to Serve in China.

Dr. Borden, in answer to Col. Prior, said that the Militia Department had yesterday received an offer of service in China from the officers, non-commissioned officers and men of the Esquimalt Garrison, A Company, R. C. R., Victoria. About 60 soldiers signed the application.

No Statutory Measures.

Mr. McNeill wanted to know the position of the Government on the matter of statutory increases to civil servants.

Mr. Fielding said that the Government's policy would be enunciated, if necessary, by the legislation.

Stubbs Denies the Charge.

William Stubbs, M. P., arose and in vigorous tones declared that he had been charged by W.H. Bennett, M. P., with attending a political caucus. Mr. Stubbs denied the charge in toto, declaring he had never attended any political caucus since he entered Parliament.

The House believed him and Stubbs subsided.

Department of Public Health.

Dr. Roddick, on a motion to go into supply, spoke a few words about the necessity of establishing a department of public health. At present when the facts were desired, one had to go to two or three departments. He suggested that such a department should be formed and Dr. Montizambert put in charge. His duties would take in quarantine regulations, Dominion vital statistics, sanitation and others. The Dr. believed there should be a strong corps of sanitary police paid by the Dominion Government and co-operating with the provincial police. A bacteriological laboratory was a necessary institution for Canada. In this laboratory the latest developments that the Government should have medical men at the ports of exit in Europe and the Orient. These men might look carefully at immigrants for Canada.

Mr. Fisher appreciated the suggestions and hoped some day to have them carried out.

Sir Charles Tupper backed up Dr. Roddick's suggestion and pointed out the great evils arising from tuberculosis and the need of its prevention. He believed that if cattle were properly and medically examined and germs of tuberculosis eradicated from them, great good would result to Canadians.

A general discussion upon Canada's health then ensued and the matter dropped.

The House went into supply on the railway estimates and Mr. Blair continued his speech, glorifying his work.

Big Expenditure on Canals.

Mr. Blair anticipated that by an expenditure of $10,000,000 more upon canals, Canada's waterways would be perfected. He intended to spend $1,200,000 upon the Sault Ste. Marie canal and over $1,000,000 upon the Welland canal. All told, nearly $80,000,000 was the past, present and future cost of the canal system.

Hon. Mr. Haggart followed Mr. Blair. He reviewed the vain-glorious speech of the Minister, and showed by detailed arguments that Mr. Blair had been bolstering up a very weak case. Mr. Blair's surplus had been obtained by charging to capital all improvements upon I. C. R., whereas, these charges should have been made to income.

Mr. Powell (Westmoreland) followed, and declared that Mr. Blair, in his boasting, had been juggling with figures and drawing colored conclusions as far from the truth as the north was from the south.

Some progress was made with Mr. Blair's estimates, and the House adjourned at 12.30 o'clock.

The Senate.

Ottawa, June 28. — The case of H. J. Pineau, M.P.P., P.E.I., came up in the Senate yesterday, introduced by Senator Ferguson, in moving for a return of all correspondence relating to the preparation and forwarding of the products of the island. The motion for the returns was carried.

THE COLONIES TRADE.

Mr. Ritchie Says a Measure of Reciprocity With the Colonies Would Be Practicable.

London, June 28.—On the resumption yesterday of the session of the Association of Chamber of Commerce of the United Kingdom, the president of the Board of Trade, Mr. C. T. Ritchie, addressed the delegates. Referring to Tuesday's discussion of commercial relations, he said he believed the days of the strict Manchester free trade school were passing. The remark was greeted with cheers and cries of dissent, after which Mr. Ritchie explained that he did not wish to infer that Great Britain was likely to abandon her free trade policy, but thought that without departing from the fundamental principle, there might be arranged a closer reciprocal connection between the Motherland and the colonies.

BIG BLAZE AT ST. CATHARINES.

Lumber Yards of Messrs. Wilson & Co. Nearly Destroyed.

St. Catharines, Ont., June 28. — About 10.15 o'clock yesterday forenoon fire broke out in the barn in the rear of Mrs. Hennagan's residence, and before it was scarcely discovered the flames had leaped into one of the large lumber piles of Wilson & Co. The fire had a strong foothold before the firemen were able to get to work. The heat from the fire was something terrific. Several of the men were prostrated, and compelled to retire. This is the fourth fire this firm has had in the last two months. The other three were of incendiary origin, and the fire yesterday looks like another attempt, as the barn, which was evidently set on fire, is situated close to the lumber yard. The loss is about $50,000.

THE ROYAL COMMISSION.

Initial Meeting Appoints as Counsel Mr. Aylesworth, Q.C., and Mr. Nesbitt, Q.C.

Toronto, June 28.—The Royal Election Commission appointed by the Dominion Government, held a meeting at Osgoode Hall yesterday morning, the Hon. Sir John A. Boyd, Chancellor Mr. Justice Falconbridge and Judge McTavish being present.

Mr. Aylesworth, Q.C., and Mr. Nesbitt, Q.C., were appointed counsel to conduct the investigation on behalf of the parties interested.

Mr. John D. Falconbridge was appointed registrar of the commission.

The date for the initial sitting has not yet been fixed.

A Pretty Lame Excuse.

Ottawa, June 28.—The Government declares that ex-Lieutenant-Governor McInnes' statement that he acted on the advice of Hon. Mr. Scott, Secretary of State, does not incriminate the Government. It is known that Mr. Scott and Mr. McInnes were great chums while in the Senate, and anything Mr. Scott wrote to Mr. McInnes is taken as being purely of a personal nature.

No Railway Legislation.

Winnipeg, June 28.—It is said that no railway legislation, as far as the construction of new lines is concerned, will be brought down this session.

"I found your medicine a blessing to me and my family."

There are women who feel something like a grudge against the children, who, one after another rob their mother of her beauty and strength. Men do not usually realize how much the mother gives to each child to her own loss. Women accept it as part of the obligation of Nature and pay the debt grudgingly. Yet in Nature's plan every child is a new joy and fresh happiness. It isn't the children that steal the mother's strength. It is the unnatural drains and pains which weaken her.

Every woman who has used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has found in it the one thing women has waited for. It stops the drains, heals inflammation and ulceration, makes the baby's advent a pleasure and his life a blessing. No opiates or narcotics are contained in "Favorite Prescription."

"I read what your medicine had done for other people," writes Mrs. [illegible], [illegible], "so thought I would try it, and I found that it was a blessing to me and my family. I began in June and took six bottles of your medicine and three vials of 'Pellets.' I took your medicine a year when I had a ten pound girl. I had the easiest time I ever had with any of my children. I have been very well since. I took three bottles of 'Favorite Prescription,' three of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and three vials of 'Pellets.' I had no appetite and would not eat much without it distressing me. Before I took the medicine I only weighed [illegible] pounds, and now I weigh [illegible]."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets clear the brain by cleansing the body of the corruption which clouds it.

GOD-KING'S SECRETS.

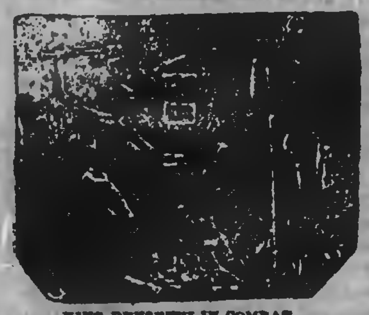
ABYDOS GIVES UP THOSE OF THAT ANCIENT EGYPT.

Discoveries by Prof. Flinders Petrie Add Thousands of Years to the History of Mankind—Millenium-Old Objects Unearthed That Tell a Fascinating Story of Eighty Centuries Ago.

The results of the last winter's work, conducted by Prof. Flinders Petrie, at Abydos have just been announced. The discoveries which have been made at this most ancient site of Egyptian civilization are, to say the least, interesting, for they carry conviction to the minds of the most unbelieving as to the reality of the men and women who were alive eight thousand years ago.

Abydos has been considered an especially valuable site for exploration, because it was known that the gods Isis and Osiris had their chief altars there. M. E. Amelineau, a French explorer, began work at Abydos in the winter of 1895 and 1896, and later announced the discovery of the actual tombs of the supposed gods Isis and Osiris. If scholars accept the conclusion of Amelineau that these are indeed the tombs of the gods, they have in it argument in favor of Herbert Spencer's contention that man's first gods were the chiefs of the tribes.

The tombs of kings of the First Dynasty have been discovered. That of King Densetui, the fifth monarch of the dynasty, is the largest of those uncovered. A diagram shows the entrance by a long flight of steps and the peculiarly shaped oblong form given to it. It was paved with red granite and must have been magnificently furnished when it was first built. The lapse of seven or eight thousand years has reduced the furnishings to fragments, which, however, are still magnificent in suggestion. The body was mummified and placed in the gorgeous sarcophagus that it might be ready for the resurrection. The ka, or spirit, was supposed to inhabit the tomb, which was furnished and provided with wine and food. On account of this conception of life here and hereafter it is almost like stepping into the palace of an ancient Pharaoh to walk into his tomb. In little chambers leading off from the tomb lie the bodies sometimes of his wives and court advisers and sometimes of his favorite dogs. There are even wine jars standing here, covered with clay stoppers bearing the stamp of the king's own seal. The wine, of course long since evaporated. There were sofas and chairs around the tomb to make it homelike, and while the wood and upholstering have fallen away, there are still magnificent carvings of hippopotamus ivory, which served as the leg of couch and settee.



KING DENSETUI IN COMBAT.

In the jars and vases which have been found at Abydos lies a revelation even of the food which was eaten. Cereals, wheat and rye, were known, and date stones have been found, showing that the date palm was eaten. The bones of oxen and of the gazelle have also been discovered in the tombs. The pottery of the time might almost be arranged in chronological order, according to its shape and perfection, for it ranges from the rudest kind of flat plate moulded by hand without the aid of the potter's wheel, the earliest human invention, up to magnificent bowls of rock crystal, which bears traces of having been worked upon with delicate tools cutting like a diamond.

The almost innumerable carvings in ivory and ebony are not only evidence of the artistic capacity of the early Egyptians, but as ebony did not grow here, and even the stones with which King Densetui's tomb was paved were brought from afar and wide and had commercial relations with many distant countries. The figures of animals and human beings produced by these expert wood carvers are as exact and realistic as art could make them.

The tombs, with all their magnificence, offer evidence of a rather primitive method of construction, for the walls are often so irregular that it seems doubtful whether the plumb line was then in use. Some of the chamber tombs running off from the main tombs were so short that it was evident no human body could have been placed in them at full length, but that the remains of human being were placed in some of these tombs was finally proven by the discovery of one which had remained untouched by the vandal Arabs, in which the skeleton of a human being was found all curled up and surrounded with earthenware pots containing food, ointment, etc. This was one of the most primitive tombs, antedating the introduction of mummification.

Some of the tombs were found to be floored with heavy planks of some wood closely resembling sycamore. They were not nailed down to crosspieces, but were simply bound together by strips of brass or copper, which ran through holes made in the planks. Even the mortar between the bricks of the wall has a story to tell to the modern explorer, for it is found to have been mixed with fibres of palm leaves, much as hair is now mixed with plaster, so that it holds together well. The evidence of the age of this secret is somewhat astonishing.

There is no better proof of the long period of prehistoric development than the ornaments which were used at this time. Not only did the Pharaoh and his court adorn themselves with beads of clay covered with blue enamel, or cornelian, amethyst, emerald and rock crystal, all pierced for stringing, for the beads are still here, though the strings have long rotted away, but there were scissors and razors, all kinds of domestic implements and utensils indicating a high state of civilization. Even glass was known, for large pieces of wood inlaid with bits of glass have been discovered at Abydos. The manufacture of glass is in itself proof of a high state of inventive genius.

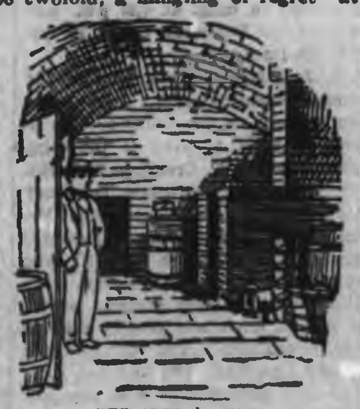
Abydos has been long recognized as the most sacred spot of pilgrimage in Egypt, and it is more than possible that on this very site still greater discoveries are yet to be made. With Professor Petrie to check the conclusions of Amelineau there can no longer be any doubt as to the importance of the discoveries that have been made there.

THE "QUEEN'S PIPE."

A Queer Old Oven Which Yields Twenty Thousand Dollars Per Year to the British Government.

If it were a favorite pastime with the Canadian newspaper reader to plod through the weighty reports of the various branches of the British Government he might one day be astonished and pained by alighting on this off-hand entry: "Queen's pipe, $20,000."

Probably his first sensation would be twofold, a mingling of regret at learning that Her Majesty was the victim of the tobacco habit, and of surprise that no attempt is made at hushing up the sad matter, instead of blazoning it forth as if it were a source of national pride.



THE QUEEN'S PIPE.

But his surprise over these two points would be a small thing beside that which he would fell upon realizing the extent of the sum apparently exhausted in gratifying the Queen's unfortunate appetite—$20,000 a year. If he looked again, to make sure, his bewilderment would only be increased by the discovery that this large sum was set down, not as an expense, but as a revenue.

As a matter of fact it is a revenue, and that item of $20,000 doesn't mean that the Queen of England is either so luxurious or so energetic a smoker as the mention of this sum in connection with her "pipe" would seem to indicate.

Her Majesty's admirers may be of good cheer—her "pipe" has been out for 40 years, although it can be seen yet by the curious. Few people do see it, however, and, beyond those who work around it, few even know where it is.

The Queen's pipe is a mysterious old square furnace down in the underground recesses of the customs building in Billingsgate, on the Thames. Until about 1858 it used to be charged and lighted once a year. All the tobacco that unscrupulous folk attempted to bring into the kingdom without the formality of paying duty thereon and which was pounced upon by Her Majesty's customs officials was dumped into that furnace and a burnt offering made of it. The customs people of to-day say "all" with perfect gravity, and they shook their heads severely when I frivolously hinted that some brands occasionally might have been saved from the burning for the private delectation of their predecessors in office.

There used to be some absurd old formality that had to be gone through with when the tobacco was burned — just what, nobody now can tell — but the whole business was done away with long ago, and the captured "smoking mixture"—which last year amounted to 6,115 pounds —are put to better use. Lunatics and bugs get the benefit of them. The first are in the government asylums for the criminal insane, the latter have their local habitations among the plants in the Royal Botanical and the Kew Gardens. Neither the lunatics nor the bugs get cigars — these are sold at public auction in Mincing lane — but the best of the captured smoking tobacco is served out to the inmates of the three great British institutions mentioned.

The greater part of all this tobacco, practically the whole of it, in fact, comes from Holland and Germany, and is brought by the lowest class of common sailors, who try to "run" the tobacco, either for their own enjoyment on land, as a gift to their friends, or to sell to small dealers, and it is almost invariably of the poorest quality. The sailor's methods of hiding the tobacco are frequently original and crafty, but the customs rummagers as they are called have proved themselves even more astute, bringing the carefully secreted stores to light with so much ease that the army of petty smugglers is gradually becoming discouraged. Of course, every one of the detected men is "brought up" and fined, and, while ten years ago the yearly bag of seafaring men with unrighteous proclivitie used to be nearly 4,500, it has now shrunk to 2,200. Although $20,000 worth of tobacco is captured for "the Queen's pipe," the government doesn't make much, if anything, out of the transaction, for it has to keep a perfect army of officials, boatmen, etc., to attend to the job of detection, 6,000 of them in all. Every ship that comes into England, no matter from what port she sails, or who is aboard of her, is searched for smuggled tobacco and spirits.

She Was Ready.

He (describing his journeyings)—Then, leaving Gibraltar, I made my way to Australia, and from there I went to the diamond mines in South Africa, where I made my fortune. Then—do you follow me, Miss Crynkle?

She (with a vivid blush)—To the world's end, Mr. Rocksworthy!—Chicago Tribune.

Where the Blame Lies.

"No woman," he said in his superior masculine way, "can sharpen a lead pencil."

"Well," she said, "do you know where the blame lies?"

"No. Where?"

"With the pencil, of course. Woman was invented first, wasn't she?"—Chicago Post.

Genuine Optimism.

The Pessimist—That waiter is awfully slow with those cheese sandwiches.

The Optimist—Oh, never mind. The longer we wait the better grows the cheese.

An English actor who died on the road was shipped in his coffin to London recently by his manager as "theatrical properties." This cost $4, whereas if he had gone as a corpse the cost would have been $60.

An American Dinner Party.

Here is Clement Scott's picture of an American dinner party: "You are no sooner ushered into the reception room than you feel at home in half a second. Conversation is general and animated. Your hostess is genial, gracious and an artist in the difficult ceremony of introduction. The room and the atmosphere beam with friendliness. Introduced to your dinner companion, she is determined that you and your partner shall be friends at once. You have not to make conversation. She makes it for you. If you know anything, she will drag it out of you in double quick time, and you have some difficulty in holding your own against her readiness, wit and sly cynicism. She can discuss everything and knows something about all she discusses, but without pedantry or affectation. She has the art of appearing to like you and be interested in you whether she is or not. This may be humbug, but it is delightful humbug all the same.

"The elements of flirtation are never to be despised by man or woman of any age. This social art is generally ignored in England, and that is why American women are so supremely popular. And what is the consequence? You go home from a dinner party in England tired and bored to death or wander off to your club to try to forget it all. You go home from an American dinner party exhilarated, a little proud of yourself and saying sincerely, 'It has been a jolly and delightful evening.' At least that is what I have felt whenever I have been honored with an invitation in New York."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Kidney Disease and Backache.

Mr. Patrick J. McLaughlin, Beauharnois, Que., states:—"I was troubled with kidney disease and dyspepsia for 20 years, and have been that bad I could not sleep at nights and suffered terrible agony. I tried all sorts of medicine, but got no relief until I began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They made a new man of me and the old troubles seem to be driven out of my system." One pill a dose. 25 cents a box.

Apparently Satisfactory.

"How do you get along with your new hired girl, Mrs. Upton?"

"Well, of course one can't always be certain in such matters, but we seem to please her."—Chicago Tribune.

AN ENTERTAINMENT

Charlotte-st. Choir at Elmvale Hall—An Enjoyable Evening.

Two bus loads and several rigs filled with members of the Charlotte St Choir drove out to Elmvale Town Hall last evening and assisted at an entertainment given there in aid of the Union Sunday School, so ably conducted by Miss Lillicoe. Miss White and Rev. Mr. Potter also kindly assisted and a splendid programme was given. One of the features of the evening was the abundance of strawberries and cream, fresh home-made bread and butter, and cake, which were much appreciated by everyone present.

Services Appreciated.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. W. A. Graham, Water-st., on Tuesday, when the directors of the North Smith Dairy Co. met to present Mr. Graham with a handsome silver cake dish as a slight token of their appreciation of his services during the fifteen years he has ably filled the position of director on the Board.

Death of Mrs. Sparks

An Almeda despatch dated the 19th says: Mrs. Elizabeth Merrill Searks, died this afternoon at her home, 1497 Central Avenue after a two weeks' illness. Deceased was a native of Kingston, Ontario, aged 33 years. Besides her husband she leaves two young children. She was prominent in church work in the First Methodist church. Her father, Dr. M. Laval, was at one time warden of the Penitentiary at Kingston, Canada, where her parents now reside. The remains will be sent to Kingston for interment.

A Bad Case of Asthma.

Mrs. George Buchan, Putnamville, Ont., says:—"I feel it my duty to recommend Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, as I had the Asthma very bad, could get nothing to do me any good. A friend of mine persuaded me to try this remedy, as he had tried it, and it proved successful. I tried it and it cured me. I am thankful to-day to say I am a well woman through the use of this remedy. I keep it in the house all the time, and would not be without it."

IN CAMP AT KINGSTON

Notes From the Brigade Camp Where the Dragoons Are.

The volunteers in camp at Barriefield began their second week's work on Monday. A great difference is already noticeable in the men. They are beginning to acquire the steady motion and the sprightly alacrity of regulars. Their manoeuvres on the field, which last week partook considerably of the nature of awkwardness and showed a want of drill and discipline, are to-day executed with precision and alacrity. The men, however, are beginning to show the effects of the long continued hot weather. Yesterday the hospital gathered into its friendly bosom, "to have and to hold," a number of privates suffering from dysentery and the heat. A good shower of rain would be a blessing for the men in camp. The ground is so dry that wherever a column of infantry marches or a troop of cavalry sweeps on its way, the thick dust arises in large, dense clouds that almost hide them from view. The dust chokes the men and horses, and prevents the soldiers from keeping as neat a uniform as they would desire.

Baseball teams are being formed in the 4th Hussars and the 3rd Dragoons, and a match will likely be played with some of the city teams before the men strike camp. The troopers feel confident they have a winning team.

The Hussars and Dragoons both practice at the butts on Monday, using the Morris tube. Forty rounds were fired by each man, and some good marksmanship was displayed.

The officers whose corps came in over the G.T.R., held a conference with Mr. Hanley, ticket agent, Monday afternoon, to make arrangements for the return trip.

Col. Foster, Quartermaster General, accompanied by Col. Montizambert and staff, inspected all the lines yesterday afternoon.

Col. Alymer, representing the Major-General commanding the Canadian militia, arrived in camp at 7.30 p.m. last night from the Deseronto camp. He inspected the lines to-day.

Mr. T. J. Wilkie, office secretary of the Provincial Committee of the Y.M.C.A., is known in camp as the "Bishop." He is assisted in Y.M.C.A. work at the camp by Evangelist W. P. Crombie, F. I. Hill and by Mr. G. H. Williamson, Secretary of the Peterborough Association. Mr. Crombie gives gospel lectures illustrated by limelight views, while Mr. Hill, who has an excellent voice, sings. The large tent is crowded at each service. George Mills and B. Robertson greatly assisted in the arrangement. The tent serves a very useful purpose. The men can there answer their correspondence, or read good literature, or lie around and rest after the exertions of a fatiguing drill in the hot sun.

THE FIELD OF GENERAL SPORT.

BASEBALL.

This is evidently from the pen of a baseball fan:—

He went to see a cricket match,
In youthful strength and pride;
He didn't stay to see the end,
For he grew old and died.

—Exchange.

The Crescents and Total Abstainers are scheduled to play a City League baseball match on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Brevities

—The dates for the autumn sittings and Assizes of the High Court are announced. Non-jury sittings will open at Peterborough on Tuesday, Nov. 27, before Chief Justice Meredith, and Jury sittings on Oct. 15th before Justice Ferguson.

—Bathers who are accustomed to take their dip in the placid waters of the Otonabee in the vicinity of the Goose Pond are likely to get into trouble. Many complaints have been made regarding the promiscuous bathing of men and boys, and prosecutions are likely to follow.

—The train and boat service to Stony lake promises to give satisfaction this season. A party of Americans crossed from Rochester on Tuesday, leaving home at 3 a.m., and they were at Burleigh Falls at 3.20 p.m. They went up to Lakefield at 5.40 and took the evening boat up. This evening trip will be popular.

—The Entrance examinations opened yesterday at the Collegiate Institute building. 155 candidates are writing, 89 girls and 66 boys. Public School Inspector Walker and Messrs. Fessenden, O'Brien, Macpherson and Kenner are presiding examiners.

—At the band concert in Victoria park to-morrow evening the two chief selections will likely be the Reminiscences of All Nations" (Godfrey), and the descriptive piece, "The Fire Alarm." The band has been strengthened by the addition of Mr. Scott, G trombone player, late of London, Ont.

A PRETTY WEDDING

Miss Eva Jean Edwards, of Dummer, Weds Mr. Wm. Crawford, of Medicine Hat.

An exceedingly pretty wedding was quietly celebrated on Wednesday, June 27th, at the hour of 12 o'clock noon, at the residence of Mr. Samuel Edwards, "Maple Lane," Dummer, when his third daughter, Eva Jean, was united in marriage to Mr. Wm. Crawford, of Medicine Hat, N.W.T.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of only a few of the most intimate friends of the contracting parties by the Rev. Mr. Hyde, Presbyterian minister at Warsaw.

The bride was given away by her father and was attended by Miss Edith Garbutt, of Smith, and Miss Minnie Rawlings, of Sandon, B.C., while Mr. Ira Snelgrove, of Peterborough, acted in a like capacity for the groom.

The bride was handsomely gowned in white organdie, trimmed with lace and insertion.

After the ceremony had been performed and the usual congratulations and well wishes extended, the company sat down to an excellent wedding breakfast.

The presents to the bride were both numerous and costly, the groom's present being a gold watch and chain.

The newly married couple drove to Peterborough, where they took the 5.50 G.T.R. train on an extended wedding trip to Detroit, Sarnia and points west. On the completion of their tour they will leave for Medicine Hat, where they will take up their residence.

The bride, who was a great favorite among a large circle of friends, will be greatly missed in the community and in social circles, and general regret is felt at her departure for such a distant home, but all extend the heartiest well wishes to her and her husband.

O'BRIEN—O'DETTE.

A very pretty wedding took place last evening at 5 o'clock in St. Peter's cathedral before a gathering of about forty relatives and friends, when Miss Marie O'Dette, youngest daughter of Mr. Marcelles O'Dette, 141 George-st., was united in marriage to Mr. Wm. O'Brien, of town, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Dr. O'Brien.

The bride was attired in white dimity muslin, trimmed with Valenciennes lace and insertion, and carried in her hand a bouquet of white roses. She was assisted by her cousin, Miss Lena Ritchie, of Hastings, who was becomingly attired in white organdie, trimmed with lace and watered ribbon. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

The groom was assisted by Mr. George Hayes.

After the ceremony the happy couple repaired to the residence of the bride's parents, where a sumptuous repast was partaken of by over forty guests.

The presents to the bride numbered forty-five.

A June Wedding.

On Tuesday night, at 96 Wescott-st., the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McMasters, Rev. Mr. Elliott performed the ceremony uniting in marriage their daughter, Mrs. Burns, with Mr. Wm. Fraser, of Cardiff township, Haliburton. Mr. and Mrs. Fraser left next morning for Parry Sound, where they will reside.

AT THE SAULT

Peterborough Interests There Will be Benefitted by the Boom

Mr. Ed. Dawson has arrived home from a trip to Sault Ste. Marie, and reports that there is a great boom in the air there. The Clergue interests have been doing great things towards the development of the town, and the people are confident that a great future is ahead of them and their town. Peterborough is largely interested there by investments made by citizens some years ago. These will all benefit by the growth and development which is in sight.

Personal

The following have been guests at Fairy Lake Villa, Stony lake, during the past week:—Mrs. B. Edwards and Master Donald Edwards, Miss Helen Edwards, Miss Brown, Mr. J. D. Collins and Mr. C. N. Brown.

Among the gentlemen sworn in as barristers and solicitors at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, on Tuesday was Mr. C. H. Bradburn, of town. Mr. Bradburn's friends will extend congratulations on his being "called to the bar." It is understood that he is likely to remain in Peterborough to practice.

"Delays are dangerous." Those who have poor, weak, impure blood should take Hood's Sarsaparilla at once. It never disappoints.

Closing Recital.

Last evening the music pupils of the Misses Hurley held the closing exercises of the year. The recital was a very interesting and pleasing one, and the standard of work reflected credit on both teachers and pupils. Miss Hazel Sanderson was prize winner in the memory selection competition.

Pearce Block Has a Narrow Escape From Destruction—A Double Funeral—Personal Paragraphs.

Norwood, June 27, 1900.

Division Court was held here to-day before Judge Weller. Five cases came up, three of which were postponed.

The C.P.R. appeal against the Village of Norwood was sustained and a reduction was made from $1,500 to $1,300.

The Pearce block had a narrow escape from fire to-day, caused by W. A. Carnahan's eating house catching fire from a barrel of ashes which stood near. The fire did very little damage.

Mr. Wm. J. Stewart, clerk at Kirkpatrick & Buck's store, was called home this week to attend the funeral of his father, Mr. Jas. Stewart, of Thornbury.

The young Harrison boy's body was found at Trent Bridge on Friday, just a few feet from where his father's body was found. The double funeral was held on Saturday to the Norwood cemetery, and was attended very largely by hundreds of sympathetic friends and relatives.

The Rev. Mr. McLelland is in Hastings to-day to attend the Free Mason's picnic.

The members of Christ church are giving a lawn social on the parsonage grounds on Friday night.

Mr. Waddell, Manager of the Union Bank, was in Toronto yesterday on business.

GRAND TRUNK FLYER

First Trip Made by the New International Limited, Running from Montreal to Chicago.

REMARKABLY FAST RUN MADE—THE EQUIPMENT IS FIRST-CLASS IN EVERY RESPECT

Peterborough People Can Leave Here at 11.25 a. m. and Arrive in Chicago at 7.20 Next Morning.

(Hamilton Spectator.)

Always alive to the needs of the travelling public the Grand Trunk has put on a great train—the International Limited—running from Montreal to Chicago, in remarkably fast time. The train leaves Montreal at 9 a.m., Toronto 4.25 p.m., London 7.25, Detroit 10 o'clock, arriving at 7.20 the following morning. Such excellent service is bound to be popular and will be appreciated by the public. The equipment is first class, the best the company could procure.

The first trip was made yesterday, and was highly successful, showing that the officials can carry out what they undertake. The train, consisting of a combination baggage and smoker, first-class coach, parlor cafe and through Pullman sleeper to Chicago, left Montreal at 9 a. m. From Montreal to Cornwall the run of 68 miles was made in 75 minutes, to Brockville, 125 1-4 miles, in 155 minutes. A number of Toronto newspaper men went to Napanee and came up on the flyer. They were accompanied by G. T. Bell, general passenger and ticket agent; M. C. Dickson, district passenger agent; J. M. Herbert, superintendent of the eastern division; J. W. Ridout, city passenger agent, Toronto; W. Duprow, chief clerk district passenger agent's office, and W. T. Brownlee, assistant superintendent eastern division. A very fast run was made from Belleville to Toronto, and there was quite a crowd at the Union depot to see the flyer.

C. S. Proctor, travelling passenger agent, chaperoned a party of London, Woodstock and Hamilton newspaper men, who went to Toronto on the 12.40 train, and returned on the limited. Superintendent Jones joined the other officials at Toronto. There was a change of crews at Toronto. The crew that took the train from Toronto to Detroit was: Thomas Miller, conductor; J. Garrison, engineer; J. Grieve, fireman; W. Dees, Brakeman; J. Collins, baggeman. A fast run was made from Toronto to Hamilton over the perfect roadbed on that line. The train was backed down from the Y. to the Hamilton depot, so as not to cause any delay in reversing the engine. In spite of the grade on a portion of the line the train made a fast run from Hamilton to Woodstock. The officials and the Hamilton newspaper men returned on the express, which made great time. The officials, besides being good railway men, proved to be princely entertainers, and gave their guests a most enjoyable time, showing them every possible attention.

Having a first-class roadbed the Grand Trunk can make fast time, and the public can depend on it that the limited will run on scheduled time.

In speaking of the train General Passenger Agent Bell said:—"The results which the Grand Trunk have been able to achieve have been brought about by a policy of having the road and roadbed placed in proper shape to stand quick and heavy traffic. Grades have been levelled or reduced, sharp curves lengthened, bridges strengthened to permit heavy traffic, while solid vestibuled trains have been introduced with the results that engines have more hauling power."

The train runs from London to Detroit, and thence to Durand, Mich., where sleepers from other points are taken on. A dining car runs from Hamilton to London, the service being first-class in every respect, and after Wednesday there will be a through sleeper from Portland, Maine, to Chicago. It will be a great convenience to Hamilton people to leave there at 5.30 p.m., and arrive in Chicago at 7.20 the next morning.

To show the fast time made by the International limited, a comparison is made between it and the Pennsylvania limited, which runs from New York to Chicago, and is regarded as one of the best trains on the continent:

International Limited, from Montreal:—

	Miles.	Average time per mile.
To Morrisburg	92.27	47 4-10
To Napanee...	198.51	47 3-10
To Toronto...	333.00	44 9-10
To London..	448.00	48 4-10
To Chicago......	872.32	37 9-10

Pennsylvania Limited, from Jersey City:—

	Miles.	Average time per mile.
To Philadelphia...	89.76	46 3-10
To Harrisburg......	195.06	42 6-10
To Altoona......	327.06	43 7-10
To Pittsburg......	443.96	41 3-10
To Chicago......	911.96	38 4-10

Between Montreal and Chicago there are 42 stops, and between Jersey City and Chicago 16 stops, which makes the net average time per mile of the International Limited 43 3-10 minutes, as against 41 5-10 for the Pennsylvania Limited.

The Grand Trunk also has a fast service from Chicago to Montreal. Another flyer has been put on between here and Montreal. It leaves Hamilton at 9.25 p.m. and arrives in Montreal at 7.00 a.m.

The Grand Trunk is to be congratulated on the success of the first trip of the International Limited, and the officials have just cause to be proud of the way the new service was inaugurated.

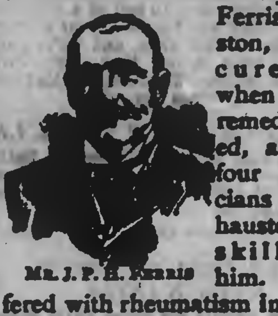
FOUR PHYSICIANS FAILED.

One who speaks in terms of the highest praise of Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure is Mr. J. P. H. Ferris, Kingston, Ont. It cured him when all other remedies failed, and after four physicians had exhausted their skill upon him. He suffered with rheumatism in the legs and shoulders for over a year, and for six months the pain he endured was excruciating. For three weeks it confined him to his room. Happening to read of some of the remarkable cures effected by Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure, he was induced to give it a trial. Almost from the time he began taking the first bottle he was relieved, and after using seven bottles, he found himself as well and free from pain as ever he was. He declares the medicine is a wonderful remedy, and recommends all rheumatic sufferers to give it a trial. He says if the directions are carried out faithfully, a cure is sure to follow.



MR. J. P. H. FERRIS

Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure is put up in 50 cent bottles, containing ten days' treatment. For sale by all druggists and dealers in medicine. The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

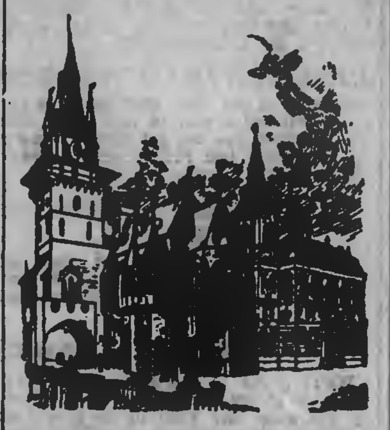
HUNGARY'S PAVILION.

Stands in the Paris Exposition as a Masterpiece of National Architectural Art.

Usually Canadains associate the name of Hungary with the gypsy camps that prove a menace to the tranquility of any locality which attracts them. We class them as fortune tellers, as horse traders, as loafers and the lowest class of nomads. That anything good could come out of Hungary seems almost impossible when we compare the country with the people from it that we know best and yet Hungary is making a fine show at the Paris Exposition.

This exhibit of Hungary is a remarkable building in many ways, for it embodies many historical reconstructions and reproductions of Hungarian monuments of rare beauty. These are all assembled in one building in such a way as to produce a masterpiece of architectural art, that while it portrays the various stages of the development of Hungarian architectural development, yet each varying style of architecture is made to fit in with each other style in an artistic effect,



THE HUNGARIAN PAVILION AT THE PARIS EXPOSITION.

The idea for this peculiarly designed building came from the Buda-Pesth exposition of 1896, at which the visitors were treated to a display in different buildings of the various styles of Hungarian architecture. To erect several buildings at Paris was impossible, and Commissioner General M. Bela De Lukacs sought to overcome the difficulty and still attain the desired results by combining the features of the various styles in the one building and it has certainly has done successfully.

The tasks set the architects was to combine in the one ensemble all the styles of architecture that have been followed in Hungary, the Roman, the Gothic, the Rennaissance, the queer and unshapely, and the rococo, or old-fashioned Louis XV. The architects were to render as prominent as possible the spirit of each period by reproducing the most characteristic specimens of monuments that have been built in Hungary.

Notwithstanding all the difficulties they encountered, the result obtained by the architects is worthy of praise. The plans of the pavilion comprise four wings grouped around a Roman cloister. Facing the quay d'Orsay, that is to say, on the southern side, the Roman style dominates. The famous portal of the Church of Jaath has supplied the leading motive; it serves also as a main entrance. The arch windows are borrowed from the same church the style of which has likewise lent inspiration to the designers for the floor above.

The Gothis facade fronts on the northern side, that is, on the river, Seine. This handsome facade, with its balconies, of the knights' hall of the castle of Vajdahunyad forms the principal adornment of the north facade of the pavilion and it is admirably supplemented by the arched roof of the chapel of Csuetoertockhely. The gorgeous section of the structure finds a counterpart in a tower which measures 131 feet in height. The top part of the pavilion is very characteristic, being a reproduction of the tower in the church of the citadel of Koermoeczbanya.

Joining the turret, on the southern facade, is a fine Gothic monument, the facade of the chapel of Kessa with its curious pediment and turret.

The most remarkable detail in the facade is supplied by the loggia in the architecture of which—very rightly termed Hungarian Rennaissance style is a group of details borrowed from very original monuments in upper Hungary. The architects have placed here the motives of the Rakocry house at Eperjes, and of the houses of Kesmark and of Loesce, the moldings and endings of which are frequently discernible in some of the finer monuments of the above-named towns. They are exceedingly interesting and characteristic. The windows on the ground floor are copied from the city hall of Bartfa.

The small building that connects the west facade with the southern portion of the pavilion on quay d'Orsay is a pearl of early Renaissance architecture in Hungary. It represents the architecture of one of the entrances to the Cathedral of Gynlafeheivar and is remarkable on account of its details which are of most delicate composition. This small structure appears to have been added to the pavilion after the general design was completely finished. It, nevertheless, fits in splendidly with the Roman tower above it.

The western facade is copied from the barracks of Eperjes, formerly the castle of Count Klobusitzky. The principal motive is composed of a series of windows. The original chateau is ornamented with reliefs by Raphael Donner, the great artist of Porsony (Presburg).

Between this facade and the chapel of Csuetoertoekeby, is a well-proportioned turret, the top portion of which is copied from the tower of the Servian church at Buda-Pesth.

On the quay d'Orsay side, a vestibule leads into a courtyard, surrounded by picturesque and handsome cloisters, On one side is a staircase, the design of which is a reproduction of the grand staircase of the city hall of Bartfa.

Rough on His Lordship.

A carpenter in an English town having neglected to make a gibbet that had been ordered by the hangman on the ground that he had not been paid for the last one he had erected gave so much offense that the next time the judge came to the circuit he was sent for.

"Fellow," said the judge in a stern tone, "how came you to neglect making the gibbet that was ordered on my account?"

"I humbly beg your pardon," replied the carpenter. "Had I known it had been for your lordship it would have been done immediately."

Cupid's Mistakes.

'Tis sad to think that Cupid
At times makes grave mistakes
And hearts that he united
Are often feeling aches,
But as the little cherub
Is busy night and day
It's not at all surprising
At times he's led astray.

We now and then are startled
On hearing tales of woe
From those who seemed so happy
A few brief months ago,
For brilliant was the prospect
When they exchanged their vows,
And there was no suspicion
They'd soon be raising rows.

We've now and then predicted
Some other groom and bride
Would often be regretting
The knot had e'er been tied,
But later we've discovered
That nothing goes amiss
And that instead of wrangling
They live in perfect bliss.

At times a "perfect angel,"
Whose praise has oft been sung,
Will prove to be a tartar,
With ever scolding tongue;
At times some "manly fellow"
Will make his choice and wed,
Then prove to be a tyrant,
And many tears are shed.

Now, while the little cherub
Is blamed for such mistakes,
It's wrong to charge poor Cupid
With all domestic breaks.
The fault is mainly [illegible]
With husbands and with wives,
And if they curb their tongues

GERMANY'S PROBLEM

INCREASE IN BEET SUGAR PRODUCTION ELSEWHERE CAUSES ANXIETY.

One-Fourth of the Sugar Produced in the World is German Beet Sugar, and There Is a Large Overproduction—Several Questions, Therefore, Are Puzzling the Calm and Intelligent German Mind.

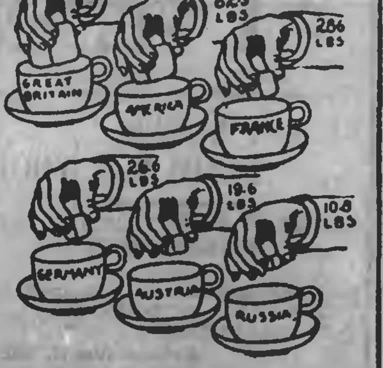
Beet sugar is one of Germany's greatest industries. Nearly one-fourth of all the sugar produced in the world is German beet sugar, which amounts to 1,700,000 tons annually. Of this German production, more than one-half is exported, and accordingly the price is dependent upon sugar consumption in other countries and the demand in the world's markets. The growth of the beet sugar industry and the increase of production in other parts of the world are already causing anxiety in Germany. The calm and intelligent German mind is accordingly now busy with investigations upon the results of which plans can be based for preserving a healthy equilibrium between consumption and production and thus protecting industries in which millions of Germans have a vital interest.

Many elements of uncertainty enter into the question of how to restrict the increase of production. Moreover, as far as foreign countries are concerned, it would be useless to waste time in discussing this question.

The questions, therefore, which Germans are now considering are these:

There is a large overproduction of sugar in Germany, which at present makes exportation an absolute necessity. Will natural causes maintain this foreign demand for German sugar? And can Germany's overproduction be decreased by increasing the consumption of sugar at home?

Of these questions Germans prefer to consider the latter. It is always possible that the foreign demand for German sugar may be lessened by increased production abroad, by measures growing out of international customs, wars and by other unforeseen causes. Furthermore, the amount of sugar which must be exported may be increased by the extension of beet culture in Germany. The protection of this great industry and of the people dependent upon it therefore demands a large increase in the home consumption. The amount of sugar used in Germany per capita is rapidly growing, but it is realized that this growth must be encouraged and largely accelerated. This can be done in two ways—namely, by increasing the manufacture and exportation of conserves, marmalades, etc., and by increasing the amount of sugar used by individuals, especially in the army, where increased consumption may be made compulsory. The question of increasing the manufacture of conserves is a practical one, which does not require consideration here.



PER CAPITA CONSUMPTION OF SUGAR IN DIFFERENT COUNTRIES.

But before raising the amount of sugar to be used by individuals, German scientists have investigated the question as to whether this can safely be done. They have decided that the amount of sugar used by individuals can be increased without hesitation, as sugar has many valuable characteristics. Its value lies not alone in its sweetness, but in the fact that it is a valuable dietetic remedy and an excellent article of food. Sugar is a very easily soluble carbon hydrate, and as such is quickly assimilated in human and animal bodies, producing warmth and force. It is also fattening and can be used as mast, As a developer of strength it has long been used, especially by mountain climbers. Various experiments have been made for the purpose of ascertaining whether sugar can be advantageously used for fattening animals. The results have proved favorable as far as hogs are concerned. It has been found that byproducts of sugar fabrication, denaturalized and free of tax, can be advantageously used as food for hogs. Molasses, which contains 50 per cent. of sugar, is already much used, mixed with palm flour or peat, as cattle food.

The principal object of the experiments has, however, been to ascertain positively whether, as alleged, sugar possesses the power of quickly increasing or restoring strength, and thereby making man fit for unusual exertion. This point has been carefully investigated, the scientist not watching the entire muscular action of a man, because that would have been too difficult, but confining himself to observing a single finger through an instrument called an ergograph—i.e., "work measurer." He allowed the middle finger of the right hand to lift a weight, and then registered the degree of lifting force. The experimenter found that after sugar had been eaten the lifting force was stronger than before, and he therefore concluded that sugar is a strength-producing material.

The Blood on the Knife.

"For the last ten years," said a curio dealer in the Old Quarter, "a broad bladed dagger with an imitation bronze handle has been lying among a lot of odds and ends in that corner showcase. I don't know where it came from, but I probably got it when buying some collection. At any rate, the other day, while looking over my dead stock, it occurred to me it might be burnished up and used as a paper knife. I took it out, scraped the handle a little to see what it was made of and then laid it on my desk to attend to a customer.

"When I picked it up again, I was astounded to find the blade dripping with blood. It seems a childish thing to tell, but the incident was so gruesome and apparently inexplicable that it set me trembling like a leaf. In a moment, however, my common sense came to the rescue, and what proved to be the correct explanation flashed into my mind.

"It was a trick dagger, for use either on the stage or in some secret society mummery, and the hilt contained a hidden reservoir for artificial blood. In scraping the side I had pressed a spring which opened a little valve, and out came the gore, still fluid, after all these years. I afterward found that the top unscrewed for replenishing the supply."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Beds.

We cannot tell with any certainty when the first portable furniture was invented, and, to judge by the ark as it survives among our children, Noah was either ignorant of such things or, and more probably, denied himself their use for the time being in order to leave more room for the animals.

But long before Cowper somewhat apologetically sang the sofa Homer was proud to enumerate the cherished and decorated pieces of furniture in the tents of the heroes before Troy and described Odysseus' pleasure in seeing once more his own beautiful bed as sympathetically as any other incident of the return, while that he had a second best bed is one of the very few personal facts we know regarding our Shakespeare.

Shades of Ulysses and Shakespeare! A bed was a bed then. In Greece, a couch worthy of a hero; in England, a miniature stage of life, with its tapestried roof and hangings and curtains that rose or fell with fitting pomp on the great scenes of the domestic drama.—Chambers' Journal.

Tales of the Nose.

Indented nostrils evidence meanness, wide nostrils a spendthrift. A tip jutting out far from the face is a token of vulgarity, refinement being the possession of the owners of noses that do not stand out far at the end. An aquiline bend denotes firmness of will and sense of justice; the long, narrow bridge proclaims a fastidious, self sufficient yet often tender nature. All the active qualities—combativeness, eagerness, passionate temper, power of hatred, jealousy, ambition—go with the more common type of Roman nose. The Greek form, on the contrary, tells of artistic capabilities and love of inanimate beauty.

Wornout Nerves.

So Weak she Couldn't Sleep or Work—Hands Trembled—Could Scarcely Walk—Restored by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. Margaret Iron, Tower Hill, N. B., writes:—"Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has done me a world of good. I was so weak that I could not walk twice the length of the house. My hands trembled so that I could not carry a pint of water. I was too nervous to sleep, and unable to do work of any kind.

"Since using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I have been completely restored. I can walk a mile without any inconvenience. Though 76 years old, and quite fleshy, I do my own housework, and considerable sewing, knitting, and reading besides. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has proved of inestimable value to me."

CHICAGO'S BIG STRIKE OVER.

After Nine Months of Fighting 50,000 Men Will Go to Work.

Chicago, June 28.—One of the greatest industrial strikes, perhaps, in the history of the world has just been brought to an end. It lasted from October, 1899, to June, 1900, involving a loss in wages to laborers in and within a radius of 100 miles of Chicago of over $150,000 a day. About 50,000 men employed among the building trades here are said to have been idle most of the time.

The Linemen's Strike.

Ottawa, June 28.—Another Ottawa strike has failed. Most of the union linemen returned to work without gaining any of the things they went out for. The men asked for nine hours a day instead of ten, and for increased wages, but the electric companies refused to concede these requests, and after two weeks of idleness the men went back to work.

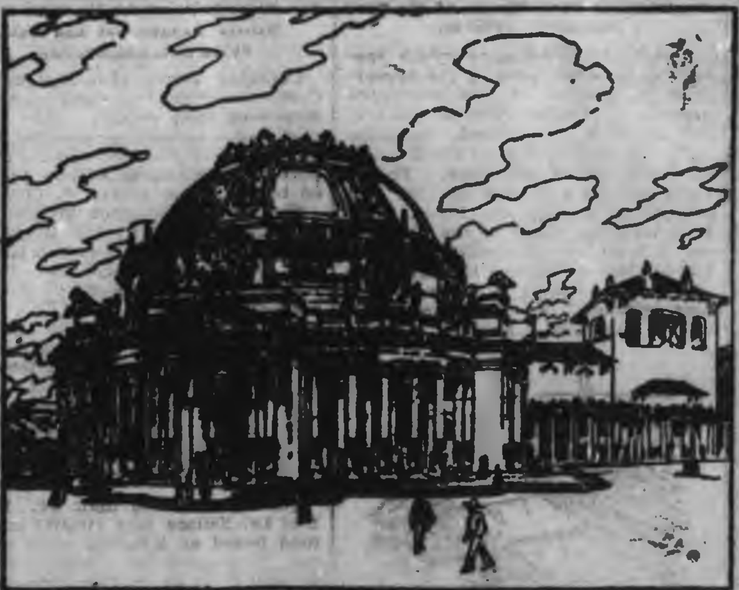
ETHNOLOGY BUILDING, PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.



Copyright, 1899, by the Pan-American Exposition Co.

One of the handsome structures at the great Pan-American Exposition, which is to be held in Buffalo from May 1 to Nov. 1, 1901, will be the Ethnology building. It will contain an exhibit of unusual interest to all Americans. Ethnology is the science which treats of the division of mankind into races, their origin, distribution and relations and the peculiarities which characterize them. At Buffalo the Ethnology building will be a veritable mine of information concerning the countries of North and South America. This will be peculiarly appropriate for the reason that the Exposition is a Pan-American, or All-American, event, and everything of interest concerning the various nations inhabiting the new world discovered by Columbus will be represented by an interesting exhibit in Buffalo when the Exposition's gates open on May 1, 1901. Strange to relate, the most interesting exhibits concerning several countries in South America are already in this country. Peru, for example, will send many interesting exhibits to the Pan-American Exposition and will use her influence to have exhibited in her section the remarkable collection of Peruvian antiquities now owned by various American museums.

AN OBLIVIOUS CASE.

So Oblivious That a Tragedy Was Clearly In Sight.

Going up town from the depot, I saw a young colored man cautiously peering out from an alley and also noticed that he had a razor in his hand. As I reached him I asked if he was in trouble, and he flourished the razor about and replied:

"I spects to be purty soon, sah. Yes, sah, I spects to meet a young man who'll jump fur me wid all de felicity of a tiger."

"What's the trouble between you?"

"It's an oblivious case, sah—werry oblivious. I'se dun ingaiged to a gal, an de weddin day am set. He knows how dat gal lubs me an how we's gwine to be j'ined, but he desists in prognosticatin aroun an declarin he can't jist lib widout her; jest goes ober to her house an cries like a chile, an ebery day he sends me word dat he's gwine to insinuate my anatomy."

"What does he mean by that?" I asked.

"Why, to carve me up wid a razor, sah—carve me up wid two razors mebbe. I'se on de lookout fur him right dis minit. Yes, sah, when we turn de nex' co'ner we may run right into dat specificus indiwidual, but doan' yo' be skeert if we do. Ye' jest take yo'r satchel an stand one side an witness de tragedy."

"Then there'll be a tragedy?"

"Dere will!" he shouted as he jumped around. "Sah, don't yo' make no mistake on me. If dat reprehensitive pusson comes along yere, dar will be de mos' tragical tragedy yo' ever heard tell of, an w'ile he will be left lyin dead on de fiel' I shall hold my head up an glide away wid an asperity of pomposity to astonish yo' fur de nex' fo' weeks to come." M. QUAD.

Her Idea of It.

"What is your idea of an egotist?" asked Willie Wishington conversationally.

"An egotist," answered Miss Cayenne thoughtfully, "differs from the rest of mankind only in one respect. Every person feels at heart a certain sense of superiority. But the egotist has sufficient courage to publicly admit his opinion."—Washington Star.

Equally Unfortunate.

"The trouble with that singer," Mr. Lettigee said, grabbing his hat as the first act of the opera came to an end, "is her loud gasping. She doesn't know how to manage her breath."

"You don't know how to manage yours either," his wife remarked after he had come back and taken his seat again.—Chicago Tribune.

A Big Array.

"It'll take 10 cents to carry that, madam," said the postal clerk.

"Oh, my! Will it?" she exclaimed. "Well, give me ten 1 cent stamps then."

"Why not a 10 cent stamp?"

"No," she said; "I want to feel that I'm getting my money's worth."—Philadelphia Record.

"Persevere and prosper." If you take Hood's Sarsaparilla faithfully for scrofula, salt rheum, boils, eruptions, dyspepsia, it will cure you.

A Dinner of Mule and Axle Grease.

The following is an incident of the siege of Ladysmith narrated by Sir William MacCormac: "An officer related an incident which will serve to illustrate the lengths to which things had gone as regards food. A shell fell into the mule lines one afternoon, killing one mule. In spite of other shells following the first one in rapid succession, so as to make occupation of the spot very dangerous, the men in the vicinity made a rush at the mule like so many ravenous creatures, cutting off the flesh with their clasp knives in great chunks. They then in safer quarters built fires, toasted the meat and swallowed it at once. To make them more palatable the men fried their biscuits in the axle grease provided for the carts. The want of fatty foods and vegetables was greatly felt. In spite of all their hardships nobody ever thought of giving in. The general inquired as to how many horses in the camp could carry their riders six miles, in view of a sortie being made, and the answer came back that only 12 horses in the whole camp could do it."—London Lancet.

The Green Sickness.

Girls who lack sufficient nerve force to develop into healthy womanhood become pale, weak, nervous and irritable. They have chlorosis or "green sickness" and can only be cured when the nerves are restored and re-vitalized and the blood made rich by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great restorative in pill form. It makes pale, weak women and girls healthy, rosy and plump. Note increase in weight while taking it.

ported with Pekin relief expedition, entrenched eight miles from Tien Tsin. Kempff."

Mr. Wu Confirms It.

The Chinese Minister has just received a telegram from Pekin via Ching Fu, dated June 19, saying that the Ministers and foreigners in Pekin were there and well, and that arrangements were being made to provide them with an escort out of the city.

HEARD OF IT AL LAST.

News of the Relief of Tien Tsin Announced in the Commons.

London, June 28.—The Parliamentary Secretary of the Foreign Office, Mr. William St. John Broderick, in the House of Commons yesterday, said he was at last able to announce the information of the relief of Tien Tsin. He added that the Government had received two telegrams, one from the British consul at Tien Tsin, wired June 23, by way of Che Foo, June 27, announcing that a British column under Major Maurice of the Welsh Fusiliers, and a naval brigade under Commandant Craddock, had arrived at noon 550 strong. The message also said that 1,500 Russians were reported to be at the Tien Tsin Railroad Station, and that 150 Americans and 50 Italians had also arrived.

The second telegram was from Rear-Admiral Bruce, dated Taku, June 25. It added to the above that Vice-Admiral Seymour was reported to be 10 miles from Tien Tsin, hampered with sick and wounded and engaged with the enemy.

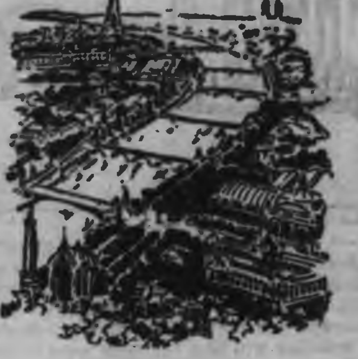
A BIRD'S-EYE VIEW.

An Excellent Idea Herein of the Paris Exposition Grounds.

Here is an illustration which conveys an excellent idea of the appearance in general of the exposition grounds. Immediately in front of the centre is the grand entrance, with the fashionably gowned female upon the top of the dome. To the right and back of this are the two art palaces (Palais des Beaux Arts) that took the place of the old Palace of Industry. Immediately to the left of these structures the handsome bridge of Alexander III, with its four columns of marble and gold, crosses the Seine. Looking straight along the center to the background, you view the Eiffel tower. Look well at it, for it is to be taken down after this exposition. It does not pay the expenses of keeping it in order. To the left of the huge tower is that other big thing, the Ferris wheel. To the right of the tower, across the Seine again, upon one of the new exposition bridges, and you come to the old Trocadero palace, which was the grand show place of the first exposition in Paris. You see in the picture its two towers rising high above the surrounding level. The old Trocadero is a grand show place still. It is upon a hill, and the view from it is one of the finest in all Paris.



BIRD'S-EYE VIEW.

UNIQUE WATER-PROOFING PROCESS.

Impregnation of Fabrics With Metallic Salts Successful.

When one starts to count on the fingers the available methods of water-proofing materials, he usually starts out with rubber, and then, after much thought, fatty substances, such as wax, soap and paraffine suggest themselves, and there the counting abruptly ends. Recently, however, a new method has come into vogue, being independently introduced by an English and by a German firm. The beauty of the process, which consists in impregnating the fabric with a solution containing zinc, copper and ammonium hydrate, is that the material does not lose its usual physical characteristics, except as regards its ability to shed water. In other words, the chemical action takes place between the fibre of the fabric and the solution, and as there is no organic substance on which even the lowest forms of plant or germ life could subsist, there is no possibility of the goods becoming mildewed, or suffering decomposition, even when buried in damp ground. Still other meritorious features are that the goods do not weigh any more after than before treatment, and that they retain their porosity, permitting the free circulation of the air, an important improvement over rubber goods and its usual substitutes. The German army administration is making free use of goods so treated for field hospitals, tents, horse blankets, awnings, etc. This cotton goods are now made into waterproof garments for hunters, physicians, coachmen, cyclers, and others who have to go out in all kinds of weather.

Fire at Corbyville.

Belleville, Ont., June 28.—The fire at Corbyville yesterday burned Ridley Palmer's hotel, a complete loss of $2,000. Mrs. Nancy Palmer's residence was burned, and a house owned by her and occupied by Richard Foxton is a loss. R. P, White's house was also burned.

Electric Storm at Ottawa.

Ottawa, June 28.—A tremendous thunderstorm came to town yesterday, and stayed on for two hours. Lightning badly wrecked the home of Mr. Robert Taylor, 76 College avenue, at noon, but, strange to say, Mrs. Taylor, who was sitting in the dining-room with her child, was not in the least injured, although badly frightened. The lightning struck the shed first and split it in two. It then went in the back of the house, ripped the walls, tore down the cornices and passed out of the front of the house, badly damaging the whole building. Another peculiar thing about the affair was that there was no fire as a result of the lightning striking the house.

THE ARCHITECT.

It is believed that nothing short of an earthquake could destroy the Washington monument, so solid is its foundation.

The stairway leading to the tower of the Philadelphia city hall contains 598 steps and is said to be the tallest continuous stairway in the world.

The highest point of the new Montgomery Ward building in Chicago is 385 feet, while that of the Masonic temple is only 322 feet. The Auditorium tower is 270 feet high.

MAJORITY WHITEWASH.

The Minority Condemn Dr. Borden and Militia Department and Make Three Recommendations.

Ottawa, June 28.—The Rations Committee spent all day yesterday discussing their report. At 10.30 they had agreed to disagree, and drafted a minority and a majority report. These reports will be presented to the House to-day at 11 a.m.

The majority report in brief is that the charges made by Mr. Monk have not been proven. The report is short and whitewashes everybody. In the language of one member, "it does not amount to a row of beans."

The majority report, it is said, jumps on R. S. White for having allowed the goods to come in free, but R. S. White is a Conservative.

The Minority Report.

The minority report covers twelve pages of closely written copy. It reviews the evidence adduced at committee.

The report states that: Dr. Devlin told Dr. Neilson that vitaline and the food tested at Kingston were identical. Thereupon Dr. Neilson recommended it to Dr. Borden as an emergency ration. Then, without an analysis to show the identity of the foods, Dr. Borden approved of the recommendation, and Dr. Devlin got the contract.

Moreover, on Jan. 25, 1900, Mr. Hatch wrote Dr. Borden a registered letter, warning him of the bogus character of Devlin's food, that it was not Hatch's protos tested at Kingston.

Public Document Suppressed.

"Your committee are of opinion that this letter, bearing upon a contract made with the Department of Militia and concerning a purchase of emergency food to be supplied to the troops, was of its nature, a public document. It does not seem to have been filed in the department by the Minister, nor does he seem to have mentioned its contents to anybody except to Dr. Devlin, the contractor; on or about the date of its reception, and to the Deputy Minister, on or about June 17, instant.

The Chain of Facts.

"Your committee desire to call the attention of the House to the following facts:

"The sample filed with the tender was called 'vitaline'; it was labelled vitaline and stated to be manufactured by the Vitaline Company, corner of Craig and Bleury streets, a company which has no legal existence. It was accepted on the sole assurance and false representation of the contractor, that it was identical with the food tested at Kingston which was known under the name of 'Hatch's Protos,' manufactured by the Hatch Protos Company. It was to serve as an emergency ration, so that, failing all other food, it was something for the soldiers to rely on. It was never examined, tested or analyzed before shipment.

Denounced as Fraudulent.

"It was denounced by the manufacturer of Hatch's protos on Jan. 25, as 'a poor and fradulent adulteration.' It was shown by analysis by the official analyist on Feb. 12 to contain but 16.12 per cent. of proteids and not entitled to the name of concentrated food; it was nevertheless paid for and shipped for use by the troops and no intimation had been given up to June 6, inst., that it was worthless as an emergency ration.

Devlin's Food Worthless as a Ration.

"Again, Dr. Ruttan analyzed a sample of the food sent to South Africa. He swore it 'would require about a pound and three-quarters in order for soldiers to get sufficient proteids.' Dr. Ruttan's evidence showed that Dr. Devlin's food was absolutely worthless as an emergency ration.

"As to the cost of the food, taking Dr. Devlin's estimate of the value, 30 cents per pound, the committee finds that, adding $300 for traveling expenses, the cost was $1,349.90 and 'the contractor realized a profit of $8,316.10 on an emergency ration which the evidence established beyond controversy to be worthless as such."

Enquiry Was Burked.

The report complains of the fact that the Liberal majority prevented the finding out of what had been done with the money that had been borrowed by Devlin and Lyons from the Merchants' Bank, Montreal, on the strength of the contract.

Minority Recommendations.

The report concludes with:

"Your committee beg leave to report and make the following recommendations:

"(1) That, under the circumstances disclosed by the evidence, the contract of Jan. 4 last for the supply of emergency rations to the Canadian contingents was entered into with undue and unnecessary haste by the Minister of Militia and Defence. Tenders were excluded. Sufficient enquiry was not made and the sample offered by the contractor was not properly examined. The committee recommend that in the matter of purchase of concentrated foods for troops on active service, samples be secured and analyzed before contract and full security required.

Say Contractor is Liable.

"(2) The emergency food supplied by the contractor was totally unfit for the purposes intended and an imposition was practised on the department. The contractor is certainly civilly liable to the Government. He seems furthermore to have committed an infraction of section 14 of the Adulteration Act, chapter 107, R.S.C., as amended by 58 Victoria, chapter 26, section 1. He violated section 448 of the Criminal Code, 1892, by offering for sale an article bearing a false trade description as defined by sub-section of article 443 of said code.

Action Should Have Been Taken.

"(3) After the warning contained in the letter of Jan. 25 last, quoted in the reference, and the report of Feb. 12, 1900, by Chief Analyst MacFarlane, the Department of Militia should have disallowed payment of the $6668, which was made on Feb. 14. The Minister should have immediately communicated with the Canadian contingent.

"On the whole your committee find that the Minister of Militia and Defence and the Department of Militia were guilty of culpable negligence in purchasing and providing the Canadian soldiers with an article totally unfit for the purposes for which it was intended. In this connection the committee recommend that the military authorities in South Africa be given immediately by cable the benefit of the report of the chief analyst."

Devlin in Montreal.

Montreal, June 28.—Dr. Devlin, who failed to appear Tuesday before the Emergency Rations Committee at Ottawa, did not go to New York, but returned to Montreal.

An Old Saw That Is Senseless.

In olden times when a person died it was customary to toll the church bell a certain number of times to indicate whether it was a man, woman or child. For a woman it was tolled three times and for a man thrice three times. The stroke of a bell was called a "teller," and hence it was nine tellers for a man; or, as folks said in those days, "Nine tellers mark a man." This saying, which was continued long after the telling custom was abolished, finally became converted into the present saying, "Nine tailors make a man," which is devoid of both sense and reason.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Safe, sure, and Painless.

What a world of meaning this statement embodies. Just what you are looking for, is it not? Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor—the great sure pop corn cure—acts in this way. It makes no sore spots; safe, acts speedily and with certainty; sure and mildly, without inflaming the parts; painlessly. Do not be imposed upon by imitations or substitutes.

Slater Shoe Polish

Many men use poor dressing on their shoes and when the shoe suffers as a result, blame the shoe instead of the vandal polish.

Slater Shoe Polish is made to protect "Slater Shoes," keeps the leather soft, pliable, healthy; prevents cracking and insures satisfactory shoe service; equally good for ladies' and children's shoes.

Every bottle contains a coupon good for 5 cents, on the price of "Slater Shoes." Price 25 cents per bottle, and it's worth it.

G.T.R. STILL OWES $2,500,000

In the Early 50's the Province of Canada Advanced £3,111,500.

Ottawa, June 29.—In the Senate yesterday afternoon, Hon. W. R. Scott, in answer to a question from Hon. Mr. Perley, said that in the early 50's the Province of Canada advanced the sum of £3,111,500 to the G. T. R. In 1858 the repayment of the loan was postponed till the preference stock had been paid; later, till after the payment of interest on the capital invested; later till after the payment of a dividend at the rate of 6 per cent. The public accounts still showed the G.T.R. owed the Government $2,500,000. In one case, Mr. Scott said, permission had been given to issue bonds.

SOME SEVERE FIGHTING.

Col. Carter's Force Was Ambushed, But the Bayonet Was Resorted to.

Cape Coast Castle, June 26.—Col. Carter left Kiwassi on the morning of June 26 with the intention of re-inforcing Captain Hall at Bekwai, with 400 men, 200 carriers, a seven pounder and a Maxim.

When half a mile from Domposasi he was fired up heavily from the bush. The stockade was carried at the point of the bayonet and the force retired. The casualties were 6 officers and 87 men. The enemy's loss was 50 killed and many wounded. It was estimated that the natives numbered 10,000, one-half of whom had muskets.

BOERS WERE BEATEN AGAIN.

Three Britishers Were Killed and Ten Were Wounded.

The Enemy Was Beaten Off in Two Small Fights—General Hunter, With Hamilton's Brigade, Made a Day's March Without Finding Opposition—Derbyshires and West Australians Beat Off an Attack—The Hospital Charges.

London, June 29.—(2.30 a.m.) — Lord Roberts has sent bulletins of two small fights occurring on June 26 and June 27, in both of which the Boers were discomfited. In a despatch from Pretoria, dated yesterday, he says: "A small force of mounted troops with two guns, commanded by Lieut.-Col. Dreiper, was attacked by the enemy under Prefers and Nel, on the morning of June 26, seven miles north of Senekal. They beat off the enemy and burned their laager. Our casualties were three killed and 10 wounded.

Hunter on the March.

"Hunter, temporarily commanding Ian Hamilton's brigade, made one march yesterday, from Heidelberg towards Frankfort, without meeting any opposition

Roodeval Spruit Attacked.

"The enemy attacked our Roodeval Spruit post on the railway yesterday, but were easily beaten off by a detachment of the Derbyshire Light Infantry, the West Australian Mounted, a 15-pounder and an armored train.

Baden-Powell Has a Captive.

"Baden-Powell reports the capture of an influential Boer named Ray, who was endeavoring to raise a commando in the Rustenburg district. A patrol brought in over 100 rifles. More than 4,000 rifles and 1,000 inferior pieces have been taken during the last few days. He states that 80 Boers have arrived at Rustenberg, going to their homes from Delarey's commando. They would have left before if they had seen the proclamation, which was carefully concealed by Boer authority."

Good Market in Pretoria.

Lord Roberts says Wednesday, June 27, was a record market day in Pretoria for Boer farmers selling produce.

Parties of Boers still hang on General Buller's flanks. Mr. F. R. Burgham, the American scout, is invalided.

Three Days' Fighting.

The Pretoria correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, dated yesterday, says:

"Since Sunday Gen. French on the left, Gen. Ian Hamilton on the right, and the 11th Division in the centre, have been endeavoring to surround the enemy's position in the hills 15 miles east. There was fighting for three days, but Tuesday night the enemy decamped, going eastward. The total casualties were under 150."

THE HOSPITAL EXPOSURES.

Mr. Balfour Said Lord Roberts' Rapid Work Caused the Trouble.

London, June 29.—The exposures regarding the hospitals in South Africa, which began with a three-column letter in The Times Monday from Mr. W. A. Burdett-Coutts, Conservative member of Parliament for Westminster, detailing the great suffering endured by soldiers owing to mismanagement, led to a number of questions in the House of Commons yesterday, in response to which the Government leader, Mr. A. J. Balfour, the First Lord of the Treasury, made a big statement, during the course of which he said that so far as the Government was aware not any of the sufferings of the sick or wounded were due to insufficiency in the supplies sent out. He then proceeded to read extracts from correspondents with Lord Roberts on the subject, in which the British Commander-in-Chief in South Africa, dwelt on the difficulties of transportation owing to his rapid advance. He could quite understand that people imperfectly experienced in these matters were concerned at hearing of the hardships the sick and wounded had to undergo. He did not wish to shirk from responsibility or screen anyone, and suggested that a committee of medical men and persons of sound common sense proceed to South Africa to investigate the charges.

Mr. Balfour also informed the House that the Government agreed to the appointment of an independent committee, as suggested by Lord Rosebery, and he, to-day, will propose a nominal grant for the army corps, so that the House will have an opportunity to thoroughly thresh out the matter.

Correspondence With Lord Roberts.

The War Office has issued correspondence with Lord Roberts regarding the charges of Mr. Burdett-Coutts. On June 4th, his attention was called in brief telegrams to the allegations and also to other complaints of a general break-down of the hospital system. Two days later he replied in part, as follows:

WHY THEY SHOULD GO—NO. 1.

By the Laurier organ Canada is challenged to say why the Laurier-Tarte Government should go.

Here is a business reason:—

The Liberal-Conservative policy is and has always been a constructive policy; it has developed the great agricultural industry in its various branches; it has built, and is building now, the industrial enterprises upon which the great centres of population flourish; it gives us our prosperity.

Everybody knows where the Liberal-Conservatives stand on the question of the development of Canada.

The Laurier-Tarte policy is an uncertain policy, a policy of opportunism, and, as many believe, of corruption as well.

A few years ago it was a policy of free trade up to the hilt, and death to Canadian industry.

More recently it was a policy of commercial annexation to the United States, with discrimination against Great Britain and the destruction of Canadian industry by the United States monopolies as its leading features.

It tolerates Canadian interests at this moment in order to get a second term and a free hand for its eccentricities.

Laurier is pledged to strangulation by slow degrees; he is negotiating with the United States for a scheme of reciprocity, the details of which he will not and dare not give out to the people in advance of an election; he is violently opposed to preferential trade with Great Britain.

The Liberal-Conservative policy is Canadian and British; the Laurier-Tarte policy is unsafe, and no assurance can be given that it will be harmless, because unfortunately Laurier adheres to no public pledges, and no one can accept his most solemn promises.—Mail and Empire.

Mr. Tarte's name has been mentioned in connection with the Lieutenant Governorship of Quebec if he retires from the Cabinet. But the maker of those Paris and Rouen speeches might as well remain in the Government as be sent to represent Her Majesty in any Canadian Province. No such position should be open to such as Mr Tarte.

Still the men who pledged and promised to reduce expenditure continue to pile it up. It is now some fifty-three millions, and only four short years ago they said is was a disgrace to spend thirty-nine millions. Liberal extravagance knows no bounds.

If Sir Wilfred keeps Tarte in his Government now the people will understand that it is because he has to. Tarte must be agreeable to going, must be satisfied, or there will be trouble. But if the Government does not send him from office the people will do it with an emphasis that will be a warning to all men and all parties in the future.

He Fooled the Surgeons.

All doctors told Renick Hamilton, of West Jefferson, O., after suffering 18 months from Rectal Fistula, he would die unless a costly operation was performed; but he cured himself with Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the best in the world. Surest Pile cure on earth. 25 cents a box. Sold by J. Lynch, druggist.

SEYMOUR HAD A HOT TIME

The Fighting Around Tien Tsin Against Chinese Regulars.

Germans and Russians Suffered the Heaviest Losses—Gun Fire of the British and American Marines Was Particularly Good—Seymour's Men Fought 15 Days—Were on Short Ration 10 Days—Promises of the Viceroys.

London, June 29. — (4 a.m.) — The casualties of the international force attacking Tien Tsin were the following:

American killed 8, wounded 2; British killed 2, wounded 1; Germans killed 15, wounded 27; Russians killed 10, wounded 87.

The gun fire of the British and Americans is described as beautiful.

After the relieving force pushed on to relieve Admiral Seymour, Chinese regulars under Gen. Nich, says a despatch from Shanghai, attacked Tien Tsin fiercely and bombarded the foreign settlement with a terrible fire.

A Britisher Commander.

Col. Dore Ward, British, commanded the column that relieved Admiral Seymour. American marines participated in the achievement. The admiral was found entrenched and surrounded by immense masses of Chinese, who were driven off by the relieving column after a brisk fight. His men had made a brilliant resistance, never failing in courage, for 15 days of continuous fighting.

During ten days the men were on quarter rations. They started with provisions for ten days and they could have held out a day or two longer. The column was a few miles beyond Lofa. Deeming it hopeless to attempt to break through the hordes, Admiral Seymour essayed a night retreat towards Tien Tsin, but he came into collision with a strong force of Chinese arriving from the northwest, and could neither advance nor retreat.

Nothing But Stand Siege.

There was nothing to do but entrench and stand siege. He vainly attempted Heliographic communication. Seymour's men caught several Chinese, who said the legations had been burned and the ministers killed. Others said that the Ministers had been imprisoned. The Chinese displayed fanatical courage in the attack.

Four thousand Russians left for Tien Tsin four days after Admiral Seymour, but they never got in touch with him.

Railway communication between Taku and Tien Tsin has been resumed, and the troops have been advancing towards Pekin. Fighting was in progress on Wednesday in the vicinity of Tse Chulin.

The fate of the members of the legations is still a mystery. If they are alive and unharmed at Pekin, the Chinese Government deserves some credit. Shanghai correspondents think, for restraining the fanatical mob.

Pekin Imperial Palace Burned.

An important decree, published in Shanghai yesterday (Thursday), says a correspondent of The Daily Express asserts that the Imperial Palace in Pekin was burned on June 16, and that the attack on the palace was made by revolting Chinese troops.

Casualties at Tien Tsin.

London, June 29.—Admiral Bruce, in command of the British forces at Taku, reports to the Admiralty the following casualties:

At Taku, June 24, one seaman wounded. At Tien Tsin, up to the forenoon of June 23, four seamen killed and Lieuts. Sterling, Powell and Wright, Commander Beatty and 44 midshipmen and seamen wounded.

Viceroys Promise to Keep Order.

Rome, June 29.—The Italian Consul at Shanghai telegraphs that the Viceroys of the Provinces of the Yangtsekiang Valley have resolved to maintain order, provided the powers do not intervene, so long as order prevails. The consuls, it is added, unanimously accepted the proposal and signed a declaration to that effect.

SEYMOUR IS RELIEVED.

Failed to Reach Pekin and Returned to Tien Tsin—His Force Has Suffered Severely.

Che Foo, June 28, via Shanghai, noon.—Admiral Seymour's expedition has been relieved, having failed to connect with Pekin. There is no news from Pekin. Russian Col. Schteile, commanding the combined forces of 10,000 men, is supposed to be proceeding to Pekin. Admiral Seymour's expedition is returning to Tien Tsin. His force has suffered greatly.

It is estimated that from 40,000 to 60,000 Chinese troops are now before Pekin. Boxers from all sections are swarming there.

But the Relievers Suffered.

St. Petersburg, June 29.—The Minister of War has received the following despatch from Admiral Alexejeff:

"Port Arthur, June 27.—During the night of June 25, a detachment of four companies of Russians, Col. Schivinsky commanding, and the same number of foreigners, relieved Admiral Seymour, and brought 200 of his wounded to Tien Tsin."

Ministers With Seymour.

Washington, June 29.—Minister Wu called at the State Department yesterday afternoon and submitted the following cablegram to Secretary Hay:

"Canton, June 28.—The legation Ministers, having left Pekin, are now 12 miles from Tien Tsin, with Admiral Seymour. (Signed) Li Hung Chang."

Germans Are Uninjured.

Hamburg, June 29.—Commercial firms here have received telegrams from Shanghai, saying that all the Germans at Tien Tsin are uninjured.

Fight Lasted Eight Hours.

Berlin, June 29.—The German commander at Taku reports that in the relief of Tien Tsin the Germans lost Lieut. Friedrich and 10 men killed, and had 20 men wounded. The fight lasted eight hours.

Means a Declaration of War.

London, June 29.—A representative of the Associated Press was informed at the Foreign Office yesterday afternoon that the Viceroy of Nanking has telegraphed to the British Consul-General at Shanghai that he had received, June 25, an Imperial rescript as follows:

"The Foreign Legations at Pekin continue as usual to receive every protection from the Imperial Government."

On the other hand, the officials of the Chinese Embassy say they have reason to believe the Foreign Minis- ports June 19. ters at Pekin were given their pass-

The Foreign Office is much concerned at the latter report and hopes it will not be confirmed, as it would be an unexpectedly adverse development, which would possibly mean a declaration of war.

THE WANT OF MONEY

Makes a Heap of Trouble for Russia These Days.

London, June 29.—A despatch from Moscow to The Westminster Gazette, says: "The Boxer troubles and the death of Count Muravieff have greatly accentuated the difficulties of the financial situation in Russia, which is in such a critical state as to arouse the gravest anxiety. The black list of good firms failing lengthens, and the sense of insecurity, and fear that something worse is to come has caused vast sums to be temporarily withdrawn from the market. In Moscow alone within two months, it is stated on good authority, 320,000,000 roubles, most of which was previously in currency, have been lodged in the Imperial Bank, without interest, for safety."

Russia Prepairs for the Worst.

Berlin, June 28.—The Vorwaerts says: "From an absolutely reliable source we hear the Russian War Ministry has sent to all the military and civil authorities in Russia telegraphic secret orders to prepare everything for mobilization. The orders bear the dates of June 18 and 19."

NATIVE CHRISTIANS BUTCHERED.

Massacres in Inland Districts Which Rival the Armenian Horrors.

London, June 29.—A telegram from Jardine, Matheson & Company, dated Shanghai, yesterday, suggests that the Ministers are still at Pekin, but admits that there is no news from the capital.

The telegram adds: "Seymour arrived at Tien Tsin with 312 of his force wounded, besides 62 killed. The damage done to Tien Tsin has been much exaggerated. Shanghai is quiet."

Other despatches from Shanghai reiterate the announcements of the massacres of native Christians in the inland districts, which rival the Armenian horrors. The officials at the place, watched by gunboats, make a show of protecting the missionaries, but there is not even a pretence of protection for the converts in the interior, who have been butchered by wholesale.

News From Admiral Kempff.

Washington, June 29.—The following cablegram was received yesterday by the Navy Department from Admiral Kempff:

Secretary, Navy, Washington:

About 12,000 foreign troops now ashore. Soldiers ordered should report Taku, instead of Che Foo. Substituted Nashville for Yorktown at Che Foo. Yankton used as despatch boat, being more suitable.

(Sgd.) Kempff.

1,300 Men From Manila.

Washington, June 29.—The War Department received the following undated cablegram from Gen. MacArthur yesterday:

Adjutant-General, Washington:

Transport left Manila at 8.30 morning June 27, with Col. Liscum in command; 30 officers, 1272 men.

(Sgd.) MacArthur.

PEEL WILL NOW BE REDEEMED.

Mr. Richard Blain of Brampton Gets the Unanimous Conservative Nomination.

Brampton, June 29.—The Conservatives of Peel County, at their annual convention here yesterday, unanimously nominated Mr. Richard Blain of this town as their standard bearer in the forthcoming Dominion elections. Mr. Blain has all along persistently declined the overtures that have been made to him to become the Conservative candidate, and it was only at the eleventh hour, when he became aware that he was the choice of every polling sub-division in the riding, that he allowed his name to go before the Convention. The consensus of opinion is that he is the only man available that can redeem the constituency, and every effort will be forward to secure his election.

Mr. Blain Is Well Known.

Mr. Blain is a man not quite 40 years of age, possessed of any amount of energy, and has been a life-long resident of the county. He has been reeve and deputy-reeve of the town and warden of the county. Some years ago he was captain of the famous Excelsior lacrosse team, which brought so much fame to Brampton, and, as a defence player, he at that time had few equals. In social circles he is very popular, and since his boyhood has been a staunch Conservative, and has actively supported the party's candidate every time. For many years he was president of the Conservative Association of the county, and is a splendid, forceful speaker. If elected he will be a decided acquisition to the House, and Conservatives are a unit in declaring that he will carry the riding hands down. The support of the party has been pledged to him, and he enters the coming fight with everything in his favor—a united party and the strong desire for a change that is perceptible manifesting itself throughout the constituency.

The late Squire McDonnell's house at Lindsay was damaged by fire to the extent of $2,000.

A Fatal Pistol.

The present president of the Royal College of Surgeons of Edinburgh told the writer that some years ago a woman was brought into his ward in the infirmary at Edinburgh shot through the head by a bullet from a revolver which some one was examining in a salesroom. She died. Nine years afterward a woman was brought into his ward shot in the chest by a bullet from a revolver which her husband had bought in a salesroom. She recovered, but a judicial inquiry was held. Some days after the inquiry the chief of police entered Dr. Chiene's consulting room and, producing a revolver, said:

"I have something here that will interest you. You said at the inquest that it was a very remarkable coincidence that you should twice have had in your ward a person shot in such an unlikely way. I have looked up the old case, and I find that this pistol which recently wounded a woman is the same one which killed your patient of nine years ago."

Any one with a touch of superstition would be likely to remark that until that pistol has been dropped in the deepest hole in the Pacific ocean it is not safe to enter a salesroom.—"Alexander Hill's"

DR PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY

FOR THE BLOOD, LIVER, LUNGS.

Experience has shown to physicians that the majority of diseases have their origin in the derangement or disease of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. The stomach is the receptacle in which food is received and the laboratory in which it is prepared to nourish the different parts of the body. It prepares brain nourishment in one way, nerve nourishment in another, muscle nourishment in another. When the stomach is "out of order" these various forms of nourishment are only partly or imperfectly prepared, and nerve, muscle, or brain, as the case may be, is only partly fed, and the result is pain, which is Nature's protest and warning. The pain may be in the head or in the heart, but you must reach it through the stomach or you can't cure it. That is the philosophy on which Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is prepared. It has absolute control of the stomach and digestive and nutritive system. It cures disease in head, heart, liver, lungs and other organs by curing the diseased condition of the stomach which prevents the proper nourishment of the various organs and corrupts them by its own diseased condition, in the partial nourishment it provides. In like manner "Golden Medical Discovery" purifies the blood, by purifying the stomach and other blood-making organs.

It contains no alcohol, or other intoxicant, and no narcotic.

LIBERALS AFRAID OF JUDGES

Won't Have Judicial Enquiry Into Yukon Affairs.

Mr. Bell Moves That a Commission Be Appointed to Investigate Charges—Ex-Minister Foster Says Their Report Would Astonish the Government on Two Topics, Gambling and Vice—Sir Charles Tupper Says Farewell.

Ottawa, June 29.—Before the House met yesterday morning, all the Conservative members gathered in Room 6 to say good-bye to Sir Charles Tupper, who sails for England on the Allan Line to-day. Brief speeches were made, to which Sir Charles replied, and after cheers and good wishes Sir Charles left for the Montreal train. He expects to be absent for about six weeks. When he returns he will go on a vigorous campaign throughout the Dominion.

The Report of the Grit Five.

When the House assembled yesterday morning Mr. N. A. Belcourt presented the report of the committee appointed to investigate the emergency food charges made by Mr. Monk of Jacques Cartier.

In answer to some inquiries, the Prime Minister said he considered the best way to celebrate Dominion Day was by good hard work.

Railway Subsidies Next Tuesday.

Hon. Mr. Fielding informed Mr. Foster that as far as he knew there were no other supplementary estimates, but that the railway subsidies would be brought down next Tuesday. These subsidies are said to total $20,000,000.

W. H. Bennett arose to explain what he had said about Equal Righter Stubbs. He said that he had declared in his speech at Cardwell that Stubbs frequented the caucus room of the Liberal party, and that the party had no more partisan follower than Stubbs.

To this Mr. Stubbs said: "I thank the gentleman for his apologies." (Laughter.)

Yukon Charges.

The rest of the morning, the whole of the afternoon and most of the evening were spent in the discussion of Yukon charges advanced by Mr. Bell of Picton. Mr. Bell made a long speech, and presented a longer resolution. The resolution was in the form of a censure upon the Government, and asked that a commission be appointed to investigate all Yukon charges made and to be made. The speech recounted the charges already made by Sir Hibbert Tupper, that Hon. Clifford Sifton had used his position as Minister of the Interior to exploit the Yukon for political purposes. The transactions regarding royalties and granting claims, and the whole garment of official favoritism and gross mismanagement were again enlarged upon.

Mr. Bell read a letter written by Dr. Cotto of Edinburgh, Scotland, in which the misgovernment of the Yukon was described in language more forcible than printable.

Jim Sutherland Bluffs Again.

Mr. Sutherland replied, and declared Sir Hibbert had left the latest Yukon fake to Mr. Bell because he was ashamed to face the House and the country on it. The whole of the charges were unfounded, and the resolution itself was a most disgraceful document, tending to discredit Canada in the eyes of the world. Dr. Catto, whom he did not know, he characterized as a person partly lunatic, and as a vicious and immoral character in whom no credence was to be placed.

Then a Fight Followed.

He desired to read a letter from Major Walsh, explaining his relation to the opening of Dominion Creek, when Mr. Foster raised a point of order that the letter was written June 2, whereas the present charges were dated June 28.

Half an hour of disgraceful bickering ensued, but the Speaker allowed the letter to be read. In conclusion, Mr. Sutherland declared that if any member made a charge of favoritism against Mr. Sifton, a committee of investigation would be given at once.

Mr. Davin replied that this challenge was ridiculous at such a late hour in the session.

Mr. Belcourt termed the charges foul, dirty and vile. They were scandalous and infamous. Then he told what he knew of one of the charges, having acted as solicitor of an interested party.

After Col. Domville had spoken in vain, against the resolution, and Hon. Mr. Paterson had rent the Chamber with his thunder, Mr. Foster summed up the situation, and argued ably for a commission to go up to the Yukon and investigate the festering corruption there.

"Put on your investigation by judges, if you dare, and I am prepared to say their report will astonish you on two topics, namely, gambling and vice."

Sir Louis Davies followed and termed the charges infernal lies.

Mr. Clancy continued the debate till 12.

D. C. Fraser talked till 1 a. m., when a vote was taken. The vote was 70 nays and 34 yeas.

Sir Wilfrid laid on the table the order of Lieutenant-Governor McInnes' dismissal.

The House arose at 1.10 a. m.

BOERS WERE BEATEN AGAIN

that the arrangements at Kroonstadt were in all respects in good order, and Lord Methuen said they were theroly satisfactory. I was deeply distressed at being unable to make suitable arrangements for the sick on our first arrival at Kroonstadt; but it is obvious that a certain amount of suffering is inseparable from the rapid advance of a large army into an enemy's country."

Suggests Committee of Inquiry.

On June 20 the War Office cabled to Lord Roberts that disquieting reports regarding the hospital were accumulating, and asked him if anything could be done, and particularly, whether more nurses were needed.

On June 25 Lord Roberts replied, saying that he did not wish to shirk responsibility, or to screen the shortcomings of the medical corps, and he suggested a Committee of Inquiry. He said that there had been an abnormal number of sick at Bloemfontein, due to the exhausting nature of the march and the terribly unsanitary condition of the camp at Paardeberg, where the only water available for drinking flowed from the Boer camp, higher up, where the river was crowded with decomposing animals and also with a considerable number of wounded after the fight on March 10. To improvise accommodations at Bloemfontein for such a number, which had become 2000 before he left Bloemfontein, was no easy task, said Lord Roberts. No tents were carried, and the public buildings had to be turned into hospitals.

In three months there had been 6096 admissions to the hospital of patients suffering from enteric fever, while the deaths numbered 1370, or about 21 per cent. Lord Roberts observed that he did not know whether this would be an abnormal rate in a civil hospital in peace times, but if the rate were abnormal it was due to the exhausted state of the men and not to the neglect of the medical corps.

THE INVALIDED CANADIANS.

Will Be Brought Home at Once—Paid Till They Receive Discharge.

Ottawa, June 29.—The parents of Pte. William Latimer, member of the first contingent, received a cablegram from him yesterday stating that he had arrived in England and was well. This was their first intimation that he had been sent to England.

The Militia Department has completed arrangements by which the Canadian soldiers invalided from South Africa to England, who are not capable of returning to the front will be sent home at once to Canada by the War Office. Those who are desirious of so doing may then return to their homes and the others who are not yet recovered will be attached to the Royal Canadian Artillery at Quebec and provided with hospital accommodation there, receiving pay up to the time of their discharge.

Honors for Col. Girouard.

Ottawa, June 29.—It is rumored that Lieut.-Col. Girouard, who is manipulating railways in South Africa for Lord Kitchener, as he did in the Soudan, will be made a K.C.M.G. on July 1.

Ottawa, June 29.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier is not looking well. He has decided to go to Paris after the session closes. Mr. Tarte is expected to arrive home in September. He may return earlier when he meets Sir Wilfrid in Paris. Hon. Mr. Sifton is expected in Ottawa on Monday.

The drouth in the Niagara Peninsula is creating no end of anxiety among fruit growers.

WHEN DOCTORS DISAGREE

What Becomes of the Patient?

Doctors have their hobbies as well as other people and in the treatment of disease often carry them too far for the patient's good. For instance, in the treatment of indigestion or dyspepsia many doctors give bismuth and nothing else, others rely on pepsin to bring their patients through, still another doctor treats stomach troubles with the various vegetable essences and fruit salts.

Now, one or the other of these excellent remedies becomes a hobby with the doctor who has had most success with the particular one in question, because all of these are first class remedies for indigestion and dyspepsia, but not one of them alone is so good as a combination of all of them, such as is found in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which contain not only vegetable essences and fruit salts, but also the freshest, purest pepsin and bismuth, making altogether a remedy unsurpassed for every form of indigestion, sour stomach, nervous dyspepsia, belching of gas, distress after eating, sleeplessness, headaches, etc.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is not a secret patent nostrum, but you can see for yourself what it is, and knowing this, its success as a dyspepsia cure is not surprising. All druggists recommend and sell them at 50 cents.

MANITOBA PROSPECTS.

Crops Promise Better—Twelve Bushels Per Acre Is Now Predicted After the Late Rains.

Winnipeg, June 29.—Reports from all parts of the province yesterday in regard to crop prospects are more cheering, and those who a couple of days ago would have been contented with a quarter of a crop, are now predicting something better. A recognized authority from Brandon, writing to a railroad official before the rains Tuesday, Wednesday night and Thursday morning, said that, after careful calculation, he estimated the yield in the province at 12 bushels per acre. Since this estimate was made, conditions have improved. A farmer from Springfield, who came into the city yesterday, says that grain which had shown no signs of growing previously, was now beginning to appear. He said many fields from which the farmers thought they would not even get the seed, may yield some crop. He says the only trouble now is the shortness of the season. Heavy rains fell yesterday.

The legislation exempting C. P. R. property from the frontage tax was amended in the Legislature yesterday, and the company is now liable. School tax on the C.P.R. has, however, been abolished, and instead a general tax is levied on railway companies.

George Magwood of Brandon died in the hospital yesterday, while undergoing an operation for lockjaw.

The Earl of Erne, Lord Farnham, William Johnston, M.P., and Col. Sanderson, M.P., are expected here for the Orange celebration on July 12.

Kidney Disease and Backache.

Mr. Patrick J. McLaughlin, Beauharnois, Que., states:—"I was troubled with kidney disease and dyspepsia for 20 years, and have been that bad I could not sleep at nights and suffered terrible agony. I tried all sorts of medicine, but got no relief until I began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They made a new man of me and the old troubles seem to be driven out of my system." One pill a dose. 25 cents a box.

TROOPER JOHNSTON IN THE HOSPITAL

HE WRITES A VERY INTERESTING LETTER TELLING OF THE MOUNTED MEN'S FIRST FIGHT

He Was Struck by a Bullet But Not Seriously Injured—Then He Sprained His Ankle and Went to the Hospital—Tells of the Country and the Prices Paid for Some Articles.

The following very interesting letter is from Trooper R. G. Johnston, who is in South Africa with the Canadian Mounted Infantry, and was written to his brother, Mr. W. B. Johnston:—

Bloemfontein, May 7, 1900.

Dear Brother,—Since I last wrote you we have advanced up country about seven hundred miles. Our sojourn in Cape Town only lasted a few weeks, and you cannot imagine how gladly we welcomed the order to advance. We marched out of the city at 2 p.m. and bivouacked at a small place called Woodstock. The night was cold and the dew so heavy, our blankets were quite wet, and you would think it to see the water dropping off the galvanized roof that a small sun-shower had passed over. Although the dews are disagreeable to people in our vocation in life, it is the very life of all vegetation, which at best is very scarce. Most of us expected to see tall prairie grass, and a veritable African forest, with beautiful vines twining round the branches fo giant trees, fragrant flowers, snakes in abundance, and wild animals and fowls galore, but, alas, how disappointed we were to find barren fields, with not a tree, nor flower, hardly a living creature in fact to break the monotony of the scene. You can travel for days and never see a farm house nor any kind of implement, and it is to all of us to know how the few people inhabiting the State do really manage to make a livelihood. The soil, which for most part is sandy or extremely rocky, shows no signs of cultivation except at odd places where some have planted corn and a few melons. However, around the city the soil is good clay loam and would, I believe, if properly tilled, yield a handsome reward for the labor expended; but as yet there is apparently no demand for farm products. The supply of breadstuffs is always very limited and prices very high. One of the Grenadier Guards in the tent with me was asked to pay ninety cents a pound for butter, when he desired a morsel for breakfast. This was too expensive a luxury for Tommy's pocket, so he had to breakfast on plain bread and tea. You may perhaps wonder why I am with some of the Grenadier Guards, but you will better understand when I tell you I sprained my ankle and was sent down here to the hospital. I was very sorry indeed to leave my regiment, but it couldn't be avoided, and I have grave doubts if I shall ever be again

A CHINESE PUZZLE

PHYSICALLY FIT FOR DUTY.

We escorted a convoy of mules and ponies, about two thousand in all, from Springfontein to this city, and after handing them over to Lord Roberts we marched out of town to Fischer's farm for a few days' rest. We went the greater part of the distance—seven miles—after dark, and not being familiar with the road we lost our way three or four times. I was so sick I could hardly sit in the saddle, and when the rest trotted I had to walk, and so got far behind. It was just as well, however, for I generally met the others coming back. Fischer has a very fine brick residence and a small fruit farm, but then you know he does not rely on his farm for a living as he is Secretary of State for the Orange Free State. He is at present in Pretoria, I believe. While here we were inspected by the Commander-in-Chief, who expressed himself as being highly pleased with our showing, and said he was proud to have the Canadians under his command. The general advance on Pretoria began on the first day of this month and we marched up country about sixty miles. On the 3rd we had our first and it was a hot one, too. The Boers were in a strong position on top of a kopje and allowed our advance guard to get almost at its foot, when they opened fire on them. We were quite close behind our guard and they retired at the gallop. One man in the first troop was shot through the thigh and fell from his horse. The bullets fell like hail around us and we had no covering whatever. We weren't in the fight more than five minutes when I was struck a sharp crack on the leg with a bullet. It made quite a bruise, but that was all. Our artillery and Maxims soon cleared the heights. Our casualties were one killed, not a Canadian, and seventeen wounded. The Boers lost three killed and it is not known how many were wounded. We moved on a few miles and camped for the night. Next morning we rose at three o'clock, and after quite a delay moved out at seven a.m. My troop was the advance guard for our column, but after going a few miles we were called in as there was a column ahead which had an advance guard thrown out, and our services were not needed. We had not gone very far when we heard guns to our front, and knowing at once that the column in advance was in action we trotted about two miles to their assistance. There were a lot of mounted infantry, but no artillery, and without the latter we could do comparatively little. We were again in an open plain without even an ant hill for cover, and trotted on under a hot Maxim fire with a shrapnel shell whizzing over our heads every few yards we went. Two or three shells came uncomfortably close and one burst within twenty yards of my horse. He was so frightened he almost fell, but it can only be said to the credit of the boys that without exception they were quite cool and composed. After trotting upin front of their fire line for half a mile we were ordered to wheel about and retreated. Not a shot was fired by us for half an hour, when our Maxim and riflemen replied. We remained there all day and retreated after sunset to our camp three miles away. We took a number of prisoners, a waggon, 5,000 rounds of ammunition and quite a quantity of other munitions of war. None of the Grenadier Guards were injured, but some of the

INTRODUCTION TO FIRE,

THE REPORT OF HEAVY

QUEENSLANDERS WERE WOUNDED

by the exploding of a shell. Lord Roberts' whole column marched out the next morning at 6 a.m., and at dark the last of the transports had not came up. It was a great sight to see about forty thousand troops on the march, accompanied by heavy artillery, pom-pom guns, and the dreaded Long Tom. The prisoners said the last stand would be made at Kroonstadt, and we expect that place will be taken in a few days. The war cannot last much longer, and I am afraid I have seen all it will be my privilege to see.

I forgot to say that the ladies of Peterborough presented each of us from the town and county with a large quantity of useful articles, including the luxuries and necessaries of life, for which we are all sincerely grateful and wish to return thanks. We shall ever appreciate the kindness and generosity of our lady friends in Peterborough.

I sprained my left ankle by stepping in a hare hole, and I am certain I will not be permitted. I shall not be able, to go up again. I would like to see more, but it is impossible. I expect to be sent to Cape Town in a few days, but am not certain. Fred. Trussler is in the hospital here suffering from lumbago. I have not seen him. One day we marched 25 miles, captured two prisoners, and then camped for the night. We turned the Boers' dining room into a guard room and the people gave the guard tea. The women were very much frightened. I enclose a few flowers which I plucked from a bouquet on the table. They offered us their beds and made shake-downs on the floor. We left at three in the morning. I don't know what was done with them, but I know I rode behind them as aguard and watched them all day. I must hasten to close, but before so doing will mention the prices of a few articles: Eggs, 96c; tea, 36 cents; sugar, 42 cents per lb.; potatoes, $5 per bag of 90 lbs.; skimmed milk, sometimes sour at that, 12 cents per quart. If you can afford it you can have a fairly respectable house, nothing more, for $125 per month, and read your daily 4-page paper for $10 per year.

Remember me to my old friends and acquaintances. With best wishes I remain, yours ever,

R. G. JOHNSTON,
3rd Troop, A. Squadron,

Buggy Stolen From Bobcaygeon—Horse Taken in Cavan Last Night.

The Chief of Police has received information of a couple of thefts in the vicinity. On Monday night a good top buggy was stolen from the village of Bobcaygeon. A stranger drove a horse and cart into the village and in a hotel yard exchanged the old cart for the other man's buggy.

Last night a gray mare was stolen from Mr. Andrew Boyd, Cavan township, Ida post office. It is believed that it is the one party that lifted the buggy in one place and the horse in the other.

PUT OFF THE TRAIN

The Case of Mrs. Sellers Comes Before the Courts.

Mrs. Margaret Sellins is suing the G. T.R. for unstated damages for failing to carry her as a passenger from Lakefield to Toronto, where her husband is working. The story she tells is one of considerable hardships.

It appears that the plaintiff paid to the ticket agent at Lakefield the price of the fare to that city. When the conductor came to collect her fare he found her ticket to be made out for Peterborough. Mrs. Sellins asked him to wire to Lakefield and verify her explanations, but he evidently thought it was none of his business and declined to do so. The train carried Mrs. Sellins past Peterborough, and on reaching Lindsay at night, she was put off despite her protests.—Toronto News.

SOME NEWS FROM KROONSTADT

PTE. JOE MATTHEWS DESCRIBES THE BOER POSITION AT ZAND RIVER

Was a Second Paardeberg — Chasing After the Treking Boers—Men on Short Rations.

The following letter from Private Joe Matthews, 1st contingent, received by his mother, Mrs. Geo. Matthews, will be read with pleasure:—

Near Kroonstadt, May 13, 1900.

Dear Mother,—Well, here we are, just a couple of miles from Kroonstadt, and the Boers are still running. As I wrote you a week ago to-day at Winburg, we were to push right on to this place, where it was expected the enemy would stand.

We left Winburg that night and marched eight miles, where, to the surprise of all, we rested two days. On Wednesday, the 9th, we marched to the Zand River, where the enemy had a good position, and next day we drove them out. We got up at four and marched at daylight, our regiment taking up a position on the extreme right to prevent a flanking movement by the enemy. About seven o'clock the enemy being in the river bed almost the same as at Paardeberg. The General said afterwards that he put us there thinking we would have a snap, but we found ourselves opposed to about 800 of the enemy, who (as we learned from prisoners afterwards) were placed there to try and flank us. "B" company and ourselves formed the firing line, and as some of the Boers were using black powder they gave their position right away, and we peppered them for all we were worth.

WE WERE UNDER FIRE,

About ten they began to think discretion the better part of valor and sneaked away in parties of ten and twenty; as the river was thickly covered with trees, they could do this quite easily, although we saw some of them and "soaked" them. Once a party of about 200 made a break at once, and our fellows were so excited that they kneeled right up to get a better shot. We but lost two men killed and three wounded in "B" company; these were the only casualties our regiment suffered. Our company fortunately escaped without a man being hit, although we were in the firing line all the time, and their fire came very close, one man having half the sole taken off his boot by a bullet.

By 12 or 1 o'clock the last of the enemy had retired, so we formed up and had an hour's rest and then marched back to the ford, crossed the river and camped. None of the other regiments in our brigade had any man hit, so the Canadians got quite the most of the fire. Our artillery did some magnificent work, driving the enemy from the hills back of the river in double-quick order. Our five inch R.A. guns are regular dandies, and although the Boers have some big guns they can't stand the fire of our gunners.

I saw more Boers and fired more shots in this fight than in any other fight we have had—just think, I and my shoulder is still sore, after about 80 shots the rifle was so hot I could not touch the metal and could hardly hold it by the stock, and for the remainder of the firing it pounded my shoulder into a jelly almost.

On Friday and yesterday we marched about forty miles across a plain, and got here about 8 o'clock last night. We are having a rest to-day. Lord Roberts' column got here a little ahead of us and we are camped all around the town. The Boers are still "treking" and I suppose we will have to follow them right up to Pretoria, which means many a weary day's marching. We now think they will fight at the Vaal River, but we have been expecting them to make a stand all along and so far on this advance

Early Closing Movement Gaining Ground.

The early closing movement, advocated in the interests of merchants and clerks by the clergymen and others who believe that shopping can be done during the day or early in the evening as well as it can at ten or eleven o'clock at night, is gradually but surely gaining ground. The outlying stores are taking up the movement, which is decidedly in the right direction to educate the people to early shopping. Some of the north end grocers are responding to the movement, for cards are seen in the windows of Edgcumbe's grocery, Gordon's grocery and Braund's grocery, announcing that these stores will be closed at 7 p.m. each evening except Fridays and Saturdays and on days preceding a holiday. This arrangement is to hold, it is understood, during July and August.

NOTES FROM BRIGADE CAMP

Lt.-Col. Edwards as Brigade Major—The Third Dragoons at Practical Work.

Kingston Whig.

Col. Hodgins, formerly of the Governor-General's Foot Guards, and Brigade-Major Edwards, commanding the 57th Regiment, Peterborough, are two of the most efficient officers in camp, and it is greatly owing to their untiring efforts that the 5th brigade now shows up so splendidly.

Yesterday the 3rd Dragoons and the 4th Hussars were exercised at cavalry reconnaissance. They proceeded as far east as Cunningham's Corners and Pittsferry to meet a supposed enemy moving on Kingston from Brockville. The plan was well carried out. The army medical corps went ten miles east in four waggons. They did some practical work, removing the wounded from the firing line and then back to the permanent hospital. They pitched their tent at Cunningham's Corners, and were given plenty to do.

The 16th and 46th are the only regiments in camp who are armed with the new Lee-Enfield rifle. The others use the old Snider. The 3rd Dragoons and 4th Hussars have, beside their trusty swords, the Lee-Endfield carbine, a very powerful weapon.

The fact that only one arrest for drunkness has been found necessary out of over 3,000 militia men speaks highly of the morals of the soldier boys. The one offender, sad as it is to confess it, was a Kingston man.

London's Great Docks.

St. Katherine docks are famed as an important part of London's great commercial highway. Carlyle refers to them in this expressive paragraph: "This London city, with all its houses, palaces, steam engines, cathedrals and huge immeasurable traffic and tumult, what is it but a thought, but millions of thoughts made into one—a huge immeasurable spirit of a thought, embodied in brick, in iron, smoke, dust, palaces, parliaments, hackney coaches, Katherine docks and the rest of it."

It is said that over 1,200 houses had to be razed and 11,000 inhabitants removed to make room for the construction of the docks, which cost £1,700,000. They were opened for use in 1828 and are now a part of the London docks, the two having been united under one management.

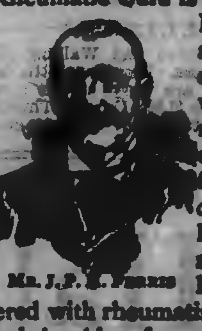
FOUR PHYSICIANS FAILED.

One who speaks in terms of the highest praise of Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure is Mr. J. P. H. Ferris, Kingston, Ont. It cured him when all other remedies failed, and after four physicians had exhausted their skill upon him. He suffered with rheumatism in the legs and shoulders for over a year, and for six months the pain he endured was excruciating. For three weeks it confined him to his room. Happening to read of some of the remarkable cures effected by Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure, he was induced to give it a trial. Almost from the time he began taking the first bottle he was relieved, and after using seven bottles, he found himself as well and free from pain as ever he was. He declares the medicine is a wonderful remedy, and recommends all rheumatic sufferers to give it a trial. He says if the directions are carried out faithfully, a cure is sure to follow.



MR. J. P. H. FERRIS

Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure is put up in 50 cent bottles, containing ten days' treatment. For sale by all druggists and dealers in medicine. The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

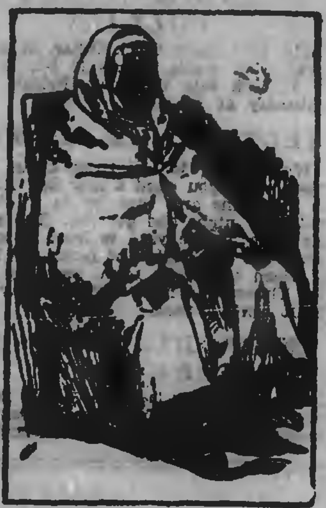
PEN PICTURE OF MOORISH STATESMAN WHOSE WORD WAS LAW.

What Will Become of Morocco Now That Si Ahmed Is Dead—For Years the Brains and Brawn of Despotism, His Passing Away Raises an International Question.

Si Ahmed Ben Musa, Grand Vizier of Morocco, and for many years the power behind the throne in that much ruled country, is dead. A convulsion in internal affairs is threatened, and already there have been reports that a holy war has been proclaimed in Southern Morocco. It is believed that Great Britain, Germany and Italy have agreed to maintain the status quo, so it is hoped that anarchy will be averted.

Whenever a Sultan dies in Morocco anarchy reigns until a new Sultan mounts the throne; for there is no law of succession, and there is generally a fierce struggle for the throne among the Sultan's many sons. The death of a Sultan is held to dissolve all existing authority until a successor wins the throne and enforces authority at the point of the sword. There is no law save the word of the Sultan. Like Louis XIV., he is the State.

But, though all power emanates from the Sultan, it was Si Ahmed, the Vizier, who directed this power. He has been the real ruler of Morocco, and it was he who, upon the death of the former Sultan, in 1894, placed the young Abdul Aziz upon the throne. The Moslem Warwick speedily crushed out all opposition. Two brothers and other relatives of Abdul, who had designs of their own, were cast into dungeons, and such risings as took place were suppressed with a severity that awed the nation into submission.



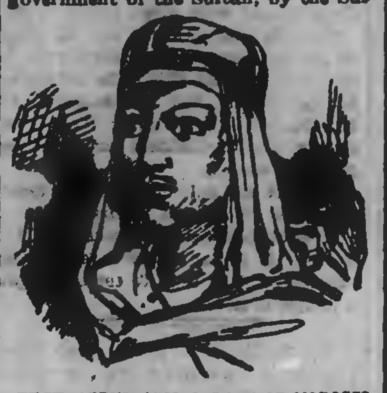
SI AHMED BEN MUSA.

At that time Abdul Aziz was but fifteen years old, so Si Ahmed became practically the regent, and since then until his death, the other day, his power was unquestioned. Indeed, it was a common complaint of the people that the Vizier ruled, not their Sultan.

Judged from a purely civilized standpoint, the rule of Si Ahmed, which has just come to a close, would be regarded as exceedingly harsh, brutal and corrupt, but the point of view in Morocco is very different from that of any civilized State, and, compared with other rules, that of the Vizier has been a beneficial one, and whatever peace and quiet the turbulent country has enjoyed must be attributed to the Vizier's strong hand and political skill. Although by no means an educated man, according to European standpoints, Si Ahmed was not the ignorant fanatic he was generally credited as being.

Notwithstanding his isolated position in the interior of a country which has neither railroads nor telegraph lines, he kept himself fairly well informed as to the course of European affairs and politics. He had a correspondent in London from whom packets came regularly, and these were carried from Tangiers by couriers to whatever city in the interior the Vizier honored by his presence. For there are three capitals in Morocco — Fez, Mequinez and Morocco City, or Marrakesh. In whichever of these cities the Sultan happens to abide, there for the time being is the capital.

Might is synonomous with right in Morocco, and the Sultan has practically a monopoly of might. It is a government of the Sultan, by the Sultan and for the Sultan. According to governmental ideas in Morocco the only excuse a man has for living is that he may contribute to the Sultan's exchequer. The monarch has absolute power over the lives and properties of his subjects. Consequently in carrying out a government of this kind Si Ahmed should not be judged by foreign standards; he was himself, as are most men, subject to his environment.



MULEY ABDUL AZIZ, SULTAN OF MOROCCO.

No one who has not been in the interior of Morocco can appreciate the extraordinary unprogressiveness of the country. It has not changed in centuries. There are no roads worth speaking of, no carts or wagons, and locomotion is accomplished by natural means or by the aid of horses, mules or camels. Caravans wend their way along as they did in the days of Father Abraham.

The implements and customs of the Moorish farmers are also patriarchal in their simplicity. A few boughs tied together, with a stone on top, serve him for a harrow. He is ignorant of rotation, and generally even of the use of manure. Grain is hidden away in underground excavations, in order that the tax gatherer may not seize, for all things of any worth in Morocco, must be hidden away from the rapacious sight of the Sultan's minions.

Recently a writer made a trip on horseback into the interior of Morocco. From Mogador, a coast town, together with guides and a small party I rode to Morocco City, which at the time was the capital, for it held the Sultan and his retinue, which consists of about thirty thousand armed men.

I had the pleasure of beholding the august Si Ahmed, but I must confess that to a certain extent all Moors, like all "coons," look alike to me. Si Ahmed could, however, be distinguished by his dignified appearance and manner and by the kootooing of those about him. The reverence paid him was only second to that paid to the Sultan, who, however, very rarely appears in public.

While I was in Morocco City a characteristic incident happened, which from one standpoint would not redound to the credit of the Grand Vizier. The former Sultan, Mulai El Hasan, of blessed memory, had left about a thousand wives and concubines to mourn his loss. An order was given by imperial decree that about three hundred of these widows should be conveyed to Mequinez, and a trusted chief of eunuchs of the deceased Sultan's harem was detailed to accompany the women.

The Grand Vizier sent for the old Ba, as the eunich was called, and after praising him for his long and faithful service he told him that in consideration of that service he might collect all his treasures without fear, place them upon mules and take them with him to Mequinez. The old Ba had collected considerable treasure during his long service, and this he had wisely hidden away in places known only to himself. He was told that he should remain permanently in Mequinez with the women, and that there he might pass his last days in peace and comfort.

Much delighted, the old Ba dug up all his treasures and had them packed upon mules preparatory to the start. But as soon as Si Ahmed was satisfied that the Ba had collected all his treasures he seized them and had the poor old man cast into a dungeon, there to end his days.

Here is another story which illustrates the Moorish point of view:—In the garden of the Sultan at Morocco City is a lake. One day the Sultan El Hasan took a few of his aforementioned wives for a row. The boat upset, and both Sultan and women would have been drowned had it not been for two Sardinians who rushed to their rescue. Were the rescuers rewarded? Not a bit of it; they received terrible punishment, for it was a crime, according to Moorish ethics, to have looked upon the Sultan in such an undignified position, especially as he was accompanied by some ladies of his harem. Accordingly the unfortunate rescuers were walled up in a closet and left to starve or suffocate. Their skeletons were found several years afterward when the present Sultan was making some alterations in the palace.

I saw the present Sultan but once, as he returned from a mosque accompanied by a bodyguard of six thousand soldiers, decked out in all the gorgeous colors of the rainbow. There was a flourish of trumpets and of strange barbarian instruments, the populace fell upon their knees and repeatedly bowed their heads into the dust as a young man appeared riding a white horse. It was the Sultan. He is tall and erect. His cheekbones are prominent and his skin is of a rich bronze color; his eyes are large and dark and melancholy. His eyebrows are well defined, his nose is long and semi-aquiline, and the expression of his face is wild, but not particularly intelligent. Owing to the retired life that the young monarch has led, but little is known of his character and habits outside the regal palace.

Now that the Grand Vizier is dead the young Sultan will be called on to take a more active part in affairs. Indeed, a revolution may be already in progress, for now that Si Ahmed's strong hand is removed some of the partisans of the Sultan's elder brother may instigate a revolt for such a revolution has more than once been threatened.

The young Sultan has called a wise and competent adviser in the person of his mother, the favorite of the former Sultan, and considered the most beautiful woman in his harem. She is poetically styled "Ray of the Sun," and is distinguished as much by her talent and sagacity as by her beauty. She is a Circassian, and she played no small part in placing her son upon the throne.

But there are other dangers besides internal dissention which must loom up before the young Sultan. The jealousy of nations, the balance of power idea, so far has kept Morocco intact, but there are several European powers who are casting furtive and jealous eyes upon the land of the Moor. Any one of these powers is both able and willing to extinguish the Moorish Empire if their neighbors will but permit them to do so.

Fighting Quails.

Chinamen train quails to fight each other. The attack is made with wings, beaks and claws. The beak is sharpened to a razor point, the wings are carefully trimmed and the claws are sharpened. The two stand up to each other, peck, strike and dodge, and a successful blow from the trimmed wing temporarily blinds the enemy, and the fight is won.

The Two Romeos.

Joe Jefferson told this story: "David Garrick and Spranger Barry were both playing Romeo at the same time in London. Barry played it at Drury Lane on the Monday and Garrick played it the next night at Covent Garden, and the town was divided as to which was the greater Romeo—in fact, there was quite a great excitement about it, and they acted it upon such different lines and with such marvelously different conceptions that the people argued the case as to which Shakespeare intended. The fact is that Shakespeare intended it to be acted well, and if one man's temperament suited it best to act in that way it would do for another temperament the other way.

"So they asked Mrs. Siddons, who was the Juliet alternately with the same Romeo, which she considered better of the two, and she said: 'It is difficult to say; they are both wonderfully great, but I will tell you how they impress me in the balcony scene. In the balcony scene Garrick seems so eager, so intense and so full of fire and spirit that I'm afraid he'll jump up in the balcony to me, and Barry is so lovable and fascinating that I'm afraid I shall have to jump down from the balcony to him.'"

It is reported that E. E. MacCargo has arranged with Charles ("Doc") Tanner of Cleveland to drive the great wagon horse Pray Tell, 2:09¼, in his match race with Maxine.

Terry McGovern's young brother Phil, who is learning to be a jockey in the employ of Phil Dwyer, gives promise of becoming as successful in the pigskin as his famous brother is in the ring.

Ernest Leonard, who has a stable at the Jewettville track, has two very promising green horses. One is a trotter by Red Wedge, 2:29¼, that has stepped a quarter in 32½ seconds, and the other is a pacer by Blackburn that has been the distance in 32 seconds.

At St. Petersburg on March 13 the International Prize was won by Quarter Cousin, 2:29¾, by Quartermaster, who trotted the distance of 3,200 meters (18 meters less than two miles) in 4:49¾. Pasta Bene was second in 4:51¾ and Golden Belle third in 5:09¼.

A SONG.

The rose root takes earth's kisses for its meat;
The rose leaf makes its blush from the sun's heat;
The rose scent wakes—who knows from what thing sweet?
Who knows
The secret of the perfume of the rose?

A rose ungathered is but a rose;
Pluck it, lover, don't mind a thorn!
Tuck it away in your bosom clothes
And drink its beauty from night to morn.

Dig, gardener, deep till the earth lips cling tight.
Prune, gardener; keep those blushes to the light.
Then, gardener, sleep. He brings the scent by night.
Who knows
The secret of the perfume of the rose?

Pale, pale are the rose lips, sweet!
Red is the heart of the rose,
But red are the lips mine meet
And your heart white as the snows.
—Flora Annie Steel in New Lippincott.

IN AN AFRICAN HOME.

Natives Will Not Work When They Get a Chance to Play.

The Rev. David A. Carson, a graduate of the Union Missionary Training institute, Brooklyn, gives an interesting picture of his African home:

"My room is a neat little hut of mud and thatch is 12 by 14 feet. The bed is constructed with branches, holes being augered in posts for the sides and ends to be inserted. The support for the grass mattress is of leather thongs laced across both ways, thus holding all secure.

"My chair is the same. The table and washstand are of branches with reed mat tops. There are no boards. The desk is the same, with the inside case of my steamer trunk for a top; very good.

"The windows are of white cloth, tacked to a frame which can be opened right back and fastened to the wall. Hinges for doors and windows are of skin. No mats or rugs are used on the floor, as they harbor insects."

Mr. Carson is a member of the industrial mission of the Phil-African Liberators' league, located at Lincoln, on the west coast. And the following will illustrate the difficulties of teaching the African to work:

"There is practically no routine here. The unexpected most always happens. Here is one day out of many varieties: We rise with the sun, 5:35 a. m., have private devotions from 6 to 6:30, then breakfast, after which the ram's horn is blown for native roll call.

"Our superintendent seats himself outside his house; the associate workers, six of us, stand beside him while he rattles off the names, to which the people shout 'ame'—the personal pronoun I.

"He then asks us how many helpers we need in our various departments. We begin to calculate, and he calls those qualified for certain kinds of work, when there is a terrible barking down in the valley and a shrieking like that of a child.

"Every man with a black or white skin (black always first) runs to investigate, and there is a fine deer at bay with three wild dogs barking at it. They see the rush of people, and, jealous of their prey, pounce on him and tear him limb from limb in a twinkling, so strong are their mouths and shoulders.

"The rush of natives on the poor dead beast is more terrific, it would seem, than that of the dogs. They cut him up, indifferent as to whether they have a rib or a steak or the tail or an ear, then march up the hill, blow up the log fires and feast till all is finished.

"The consequence is, no work that day; a day's pay is gladly forfeited for such a treat."—Presbyterian Banner.

Why He Did It.

Smith—Well, but if you can't bear her, whatever made you propose?

Jones—Well, we had danced three times, and I couldn't think of anything else to say.—Tit-Bits.

That Exposition Pallor.

"All those Paris exposition buildings are painted a pale color."

"They must look like pail factories."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Further Drop in Wheat—General Selling Caused Big Decline in Chicago—Latest Quotations.

Liverpool, June 29. — Yesterday spot wheat was steady. Futures declined 1d to 1½d per cental.

Chicago, June 29.—The wheat market lost some of its inflation yesterday. Cables came weak, and people began to see that America is likely to have a good-sized wheat output, despite the drought in the spring wheat belt. Selling was general, and futures dropped 4½c per bushel below Wednesday's close. There was a late recovery to the extent of nearly a cent a bushel.

Dizzy Spells and Headache

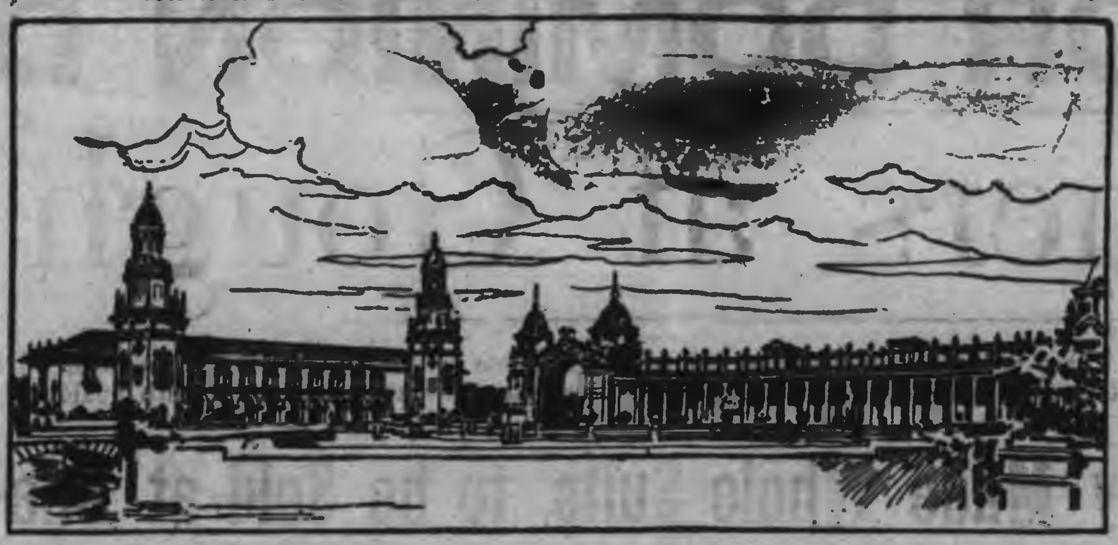
Weak, Nervous, and Run-Down, would Shake with Nervousness—A Terrible Case—A Remarkable Cure.

Mrs. Chas. H. Jones, Pierceton, Que., writes:—"For years I have been a great sufferer with my heart and nerves. I would have sinking spells and a dizzy, swimming feeling would come over me. Night after night I would never close my eyes, and my head would pain as though it would burst. At last I had to take to my bed, and though my doctor attended me from fall until spring, his medicine did not help me.

"I have now taken five boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and it has done me more good than I ever believed a medicine could do. Words fail to express my gratitude for the wonderful cure brought about by this treatment."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food makes pale, weak, nervous [illegible] strong, healthy, and [illegible]. In pill form, 50 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

NORTH AND WEST SIDES OF PLAZA, PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.



Copyright, 1900, by the Pan-American Exposition Co.

Standing at the great Electric Tower and looking north, the visitor to the Pan-American Exposition, to be held in Buffalo from May 1 to Nov. 1, 1901, will have before him the Plaza, or square, a beautiful open space 350 by 500 feet. On the opposite, or north, side of the Plaza will be the Propylæa, or monumental, entrances, connected by a curved colonnade 280 feet long. A large building at the left, 341 feet long and 52 feet wide, with towers 164 feet high, will be used for restaurant purposes. This forms also the eastern entrance to the Midway, or pleasure ground, where the visitor may find a collection of novel entertainments that will astonish the most cosmopolitan traveler. Directly across the Plaza from the Restaurant building is a companion structure, forming the entrance to the Stadium, or athletic field, where 25,000 people may be seated to enjoy the high class athletic sports.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Toronto, June 29.—Receipts of live stock at the Western Stock Yards were large yesterday for Thursday—60 carloads, composed of 995 cattle, 1,045 hogs, 673 sheep and lambs, and 70 calves. The quality of fat cattle, generally speaking, was only medium, stall-fed animals becoming fewer in numbers every day, and at the same time there is a large class of inferior unfinished grassers that are not wanted, being offered. These inferior cattle were slow of sale, while all grain or stall-fed animals and those that were partly stall-fed and finished on grass were in good demand, with prices firm at Tuesday's quotations. Some old grasser cows sold at $3 to $3.25 per cwt. In all other classes of live stock prices remained about steady.

THE GLASS OF FASHION.

A novelty in this summer gowns is a white organdie trimmed with ecru lace insertion.

A V shaped neck filled in with transparent lace is a pretty accompaniment for the lace undersleeve.

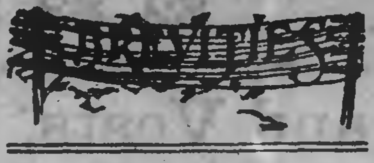
The neck bands on our gowns are high and straight around and very simply trimmed, a result no doubt of the tendency to crowd so much decoration on this one small portion of the bodice.

Twine colored batiste decorated with guipure lace applique of the same color is used for fancy collar and revers on cloth jackets as a substitute for satin covered with lace and for detached collars as well.

Among the new robe gowns for summer wear are the white pique skirts elaborately trimmed with embroidery all ready to hang and zephyr robes in ecru color decorated with bands of embroidery of the same color.

A flat, round, platelike sort of hat is worn in Paris, poised well back on the head. It is a revival of the Louis Seize period and made of crinoline straw, with flowers and rosettes of chiffon or soft ribbon underneath the brim.

Black net well covered with applications of black taffeta makes a very pretty short cape, finished with frills of lace and chiffon. This sort of garment is made in cream tints as well, and also in gray and beige.—New York Sun.



PERSONALITIES.

Frank W. Hackett, the new assistant secretary of the navy, is a graduate of the Harvard class of '41.

Henry Clews is reported as saying that he considers Mrs. Hetty Green as the equal of Russell Sage in conducting a business transaction.

Arthur Sewall, vice presidential candidate with Bryan in 1896, is reported to be in very poor health and to have been ordered by his doctor to go abroad for the summer.

E. Parmlee Prentice, whose engagement to Miss Rockefeller has been announced, will one day inherit from his father one of the best collections of rare books in America.

Police Judge Buckley of Louisville has decided that women have a right under the law to smoke cigarettes on the streets. He is sorry, though, that there is no legal provision against it.

G. F. Sever has been appointed as superintendent of the electrical exhibits at the Buffalo exposition. Mr. Sever is an electrician of national fame and for seven years has lectured at Columbia university.

Lady Wolseley, nee Louisa Erskine, wife of the British commander in chief, comes of a long line of fighting ancestors. Since her marriage her great interest in life has been centered in military matters.

It is not generally known that James R. Keene, the Wall street operator, is an Englishman by birth. He came to this country when 13 years old, however. His son, Foxhall, passes most of his time in England.

Winfield T. Durban, Republican nominee for governor of Indiana, has had a varied career. Educated in a district school and a business college, he taught school for several years, then turned traveling salesman and finally became successful as a banker.

Much sympathy is felt in England for Mr. Charles Day Rose, formerly of Montreal and once a challenger for the America's cup. His two eldest sons have been killed in the war. A third son, Adrian Rose, has just been gazetted and started for South Africa.

Ex-President Harrison was driving in Indianapolis the other evening, when the horses of his carriage took fright and started to run away. The coachman had lost control of the animals, when Mr. Harrison took the reins into his own hands and quickly brought the horses to their senses.

Congressman Dolliver of Iowa is among those who spend their vacations in fishing. But Mr. Dolliver does his fishing in the old fashioned way, and nearly every early morning in season will find him, having dug his own bait, setting out in coarse fisherman's clothes after the bass of the Des Moines river.

STAGE GLINTS.

Richard Mansfield has secured rights to Tolstoi's "Ivan the Terrible."

A man named Junius Brutus Booth is appearing in vaudeville in New York.

Anthony Hope is dramatizing his novel, "Simon Dale," specially for E. H. Sothern.

Ezra Kendall, the monologuist, has a 13-year-old son who is making quite a success as a public entertainer.

Miss Annie Russell is not an American by birth, as has been supposed, but was born in Liverpool in 1865.

Joseph Jefferson's receipts for the three weeks of his recent engagement at the Fifth Avenue theater, New York, were $45,000.

During the season now practically closed 132 new plays, exclusive of the 29 credited to the dramatic schools, were produced in New York.

It is said that Emma Calve will take the part of Zaza in Leoncavallo's opera based on the play of the same name that will be produced in Milan next season.

There is to be an "international congress of theatrical art" at the Paris exhibition from July 27 to 31, to which leading English managers and artists will be invited.

The Green Sickness.

Girls who lack sufficient nerve force to develop into healthy womanhood become pale, weak, nervous and irritable. They have chlorosis or "green sickness" and can only be cured when the nerves are restored and re-vitalized and the blood made rich by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great restorative in pill form. It makes pale, weak women and girls healthy, rosy and plump. Note increase in weight while taking it.

LIFE..

A question of great interest for intending insurers is which Canadian Life Company is in highest favor with the insuring Canadian public? The following table is a good indicator:

Name of Company.	Commenced Business.	Canadian Business Written in 1899
North American	1881	$4,834,505
Sun Life	1871	3,996,865
Ontario Mutual	1870	3,965,509
Confederation	1871	3,639,469
Canada Life	1847	3,300,917

The above are the five leading Canadian Companies and although the North American is much the youngest in years, she is outstripping all her rivals in the Canadian field.

$20,000 Worth of Perfectly Made Whole Suits to be Sold at One-Half Their Price

MORE THAN 4,500 SUITS AT LESS THAN THE ACTUAL COST OF MAKING! The secret of this 19th century puzzle rests upon the extraordinary buying opportunities we took advantage of in Montreal a few weeks ago, when the great Clothing concern of McKenna-Thompson & Co. capitulated to our terms and turned over to us their entire surplus stock of Fine Clothing—the most brilliant and successful bargain of our business history.

Peterborough men may well be proud to own some of these Suits. They are not the kind commonly advertised. The patterns are stylish and pleasing and the qualities and tailoring quite impossible of duplication.

They were made to sell at $4, $6, $8, $10 and $12
But this week's Prices are.............................. $2, $3, $4, $5 and $6 they haven't put up a fight worth speaking about.

WE ARE ON SHORT RATIONS

again and have to exist by buying tinned beef from the transport niggers. This morning we got no breakfast, as our quartermaster had allowed his store of groceries to run out completely. Fortunately one of our sergeants had enough tea to make a couple of pots, and some of the men had a little tea or coffee, so we did not go without altogether.

I don't know how long we will stay here; if we are here to-morrow I will write to some of the rest, but to-day I am mess orderly and have a good deal of work to do. We have had no mail since we left Bloemfontein three weeks ago yesterday. Our draft reached us at Winburg just in time to come with us on the march to Kroonstadt. A number of them dropped out by the wayside and [illegible]

ONLY EIGHTY-SIX FINISHED.

Monday, May 14th—We are still here, but expect to move forward to-morrow, Lord Roberts inspected us this morning, and from some words we caught while he was talking to Col. Buchan that is what we infer. I hope we won't have to march far before getting new boots and clothing; my boots are "gone" and my jacket is in threads. There is an issue of clothing at Bloemfontein for us, but we left before receiving it. Will have to close now to post this. We only get about five minutes' notice when the mail is to be collected.

Am in perfect health—barring a boil on the back of my neck, the first I ever had. We all think the war will soon be over now. Love to all.—Your affectionate son,

M'INNES BLAMES OTTAWA.

Says a "Wholly Unwarranted Exercise of Power" Tied His Hands for Nine Months.

Victoria, B. C., June 29.—Ex-Governor McInnes has written to a number of petitioners who asked him to oppoe Turner and Eberts, to the effect that it would be undesirable to oppose the Ministers. He says that the unsettled state of the province demands that they be not opposed. He blames the Ottawa authorities for having by "an wholly unwarranted exercise of power" tied his hands for the past nine months by refusing to allow him to interfere with the Ministers. Had things been otherwise, he says, the unsettled state of British Columbia politics would long since have ended.

The Liberal Association have drafted a resolution to Ottawa, protesting against the dismissal of Mr. McInnes, and will not give an official reception to the new Governor, Sir Henri Joly.

The Order Dismissing McInnes.

Ottawa, June 29.—The Order-in-Council, dismissing Hon. T. R. McInnes from the Lieutenant-Governorship of British Columbia, was presented to the House last night. It reads as follows:

On a memorandum dated June 20, 1900, from the Right Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, stating that the action of the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia in dismissing his ministers, has not been approved by the people of that province, and further, that in view of recent events in the said Province of British Columbia, it is evident that the Government of that province cannot be successfully carried on in the manner contemplated by the constitution under the administration of the present Lieutenant-Governor, His Honor Thomas R. McInnes, whose official conduct has been subversive of the principles of responsible government. The Right Hon. the Premier submits that, therefore, Mr. McInnes' usefulness as Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia is gone, and he recommends that Mr. McInnes be removed from the said office and that the cause to be assigned for such removal under the provisions of sec. 59, the B.N.A. Act, shall be the matter set forth in this minute."

—[illegible], June 22.

Safe, sure, and Painless.

What a world of meaning this statement embodies. Just what you are looking for. Is it not? Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor—the great sure pop corn cure—acts in this way. It makes no sore spots; safe, acts speedily and with certainty, sure and safely, without inflaming the parts. Be not be imposed upon by imitations or substitutes.

BEE BUZZES.

The body of the drone bee is hardly so long as that of the queen, but it is much thicker.

It is bad management to place and replace frames, using the full set in the hive at the same time.

One of the greatest hindrances to large honey crops is allowing the bees to run short of stores at this time.

When brood rearing is carried on extensively, more water than usual is required. Supply it conveniently.

Fertile workers are workers' bees that lay eggs that will hatch, but they hatch only drones and never worker bees, and the drones are smaller than the drones produced by the queens.

In nearly all cases when a bee is crippled or diseased in any way from any cause it crawls away from the cluster out of the hive and rids the community of its presence as soon as possible.

To keep honey with unimpaired flavor it must not be subjected to dampness. If water condenses on the surface of the comb, it soon dilutes the honey, and then it sours and spoils.—St. Louis Republic.

TRUST THRUSTS.

Congress is talking about controlling trusts; mind you, only talking.—Buffalo Times.

The sun of publicity will shine hot enough to melt the ice trust yet.—New York World.

There is a movement on foot to organize a banana trust. It will require no supreme court to take the hide off that.—St. Paul Globe.

It is most desirable that monopolizing corporations should be convinced that it does not pay to be too greedy. That is a lesson which the American Ice company seems to be in the way of learning.—New York Times.

The czar of Russia does some things in a refreshing manner. He learned that the Standard Oil company, which operates in Russia, was doing the "gouge act." Thereupon he appointed an auditor of the trust's accounts. Now that auditor allows the trust a fair profit, and the rest goes into the imperial treasury. And the price of oil in Russia is not fluctuating to any noticeable extent.—Omaha World-Herald.

SCRAPS OF SCIENCE.

The weight of all the air on the globe would be eleven and two-thirds trillion pounds if no deduction had to be made for space filled by mountains and land above sea level.

An English physician writes in The Lancet that he believes the time is approaching when the study of diet will do away with the need for most medical and surgical knowledge.

The government of New Zealand has requested proposals for lighting Wellington by electricity from Kartari falls. A scheme is already under way for using the water power from these falls for a cordite factory now building in the vicinity. The idea is to combine the two schemes.

FOREIGNERS AT PEKIN STILL UNACCOUNTED FOR

And the Greatest Anxiety Prevails--Account of the Operations During the Last Few Days--Reported Executions at Pekin

ANXIETY FOR FOREIGNERS IN PEKIN

Taku, June 27—The greatest anxiety exists concerning the foreigners at Pekin. Admiral Kempff believes that large reinforcements are necessary to reach Pekin. Major Waller's command, with 440 Russians, was ambushed three miles from Tien Tsin on June 21. They were compelled to retreat, the Americans abandoning a three inch rifle and a Colt gun, losing four killed and seven wounded. The forces ashore now number 16,000, of which 3,200 are British, 1300 Germans, 4000 Russians, 3600 Japanese and the remainder American, French, Italian and Austrian. Major Waller's battalion of 130 marines, with Commander Craddock's British Naval Brigade, numbering 500, were camped on June 22 eight miles from Tien Tsin where the railroad had been destroyed. At daylight on the morning of the 23rd Major Waller and two companies of British marched on Tien Tsin. The remainder of the British and 300 Welsh Fusiliers supporting, went up the river bank. Another column, consisting chiefly of Russians and Germans, took up the route chosen by Waller. They were repulsed, however. On June 21 the Russians became engaged in a conflict with the Chinese. First Major Waller reinforced them and then rejoined the British, the military college being attacked. The Chinese exploded a mine under the marines, merely bruising a few of them. While crossing to join the English they were exposed to a heavy flanking fire, and one man was killed and two were wounded. Of the English two were killed and three wounded. The English and American forces carried the village outside of the walled city by storm. They found in Tien Tsin Lieut. Irwin and Cadet Pettinghill with 400 men in good condition. When the forts were attacked the British gun boat Algerine surprised and seized four Chinese torpedo boats under the shadow of the forts.

RUSSIA'S THREAT

London, June 30.—A despatch from St. Petersburg says the Chinese legations in St. Petersburg was lately officialily warned that if the rebels touched the Russian railway in Manchuria, Russia would move all her forces against them. According to reports the Russian railway has been attacked.

EXECUTIONS AT PEKIN

Nanking, June 30.—French priests here have received reports that beginning June 20th a public execution of foreigners has been going on in Pekin. The reports add that French priests administered the rites to those executed.

Russians to Be Deported.

Quebec, June 30.—Among a large number of Russian Jewish immigrants who arrived on Sunday last at Quebec on board the steamer Lusitania, almost all bound for the United States, were a number who were suffering from fevers or scalp disease, which appears to be contagious but not quarantinable. These were refused their passports and were kept here. As they were refused for the time being, admittance to the United States, they were not considered desirable immigrants for this country, and Thursday afternoon thirteen of them were sent down to Grosse Isle on board the quarantine boat Challenger, and they were deported last evening on board the steamer Lusitania as she passed out.

IN THE ORANGE RIVER COLONY

Boers Break Out in Active Guerilla Warfare at Many Points.

Boers Claim to Have Captured Another British Convoy — Six Months Yet Before War Is Over — U.S. Consul Hay Said to Be With Kruger in Sympathy —Lord Roberts Reports Severe Fighting.

London, June 30. — (4.20 a.m.)— Active Boer guerilla operations are reported from half a dozen points in Orange River Colony. Boer official reports from Machadodorp aver that part of a British convoy was captured on June 28, near Wynburg.

Six Months Yet Predicted.

The Lorenzo Marquez correspondent of The Times says: "Both the burghers and the foreigners who are arriving here profess a strong belief that it will take from three to six months to subdue the Boers."

Another despatch from Lorenzo Marquez says:

"A consignment to a foreign firm, marked 'Dutch Cheese—Damaged,' proved, on landing, to contain army boots for the Boers. It passed the customs, nevertheless, with unusual despatch, and the British consul is making representations to the Portuguese Government."

Is Hay With Kruger?

The Daily Express has the following from Machadodorp, dated Thursday, June 26:

"There is much condemnation of United States Consul Hay for the failure of his visit. It is supposed he is with Mr. Kruger. The prisoners' camp at Nooitgedacht is in a terribly unsanitary state. President Kruger is supposed to be at Watervalonder."

LORD ROBERTS REPORTS

That a Convoy of Stores for the Lindley Garrison Was Attacked on June 26.

London, June 30.—The War Office has received the following from Lord Roberts:

"Pretoria, June 29.—Paget reports from Lindley that he was engaged on June 26 with a body of the enemy, who were strongly reinforced during the day. A convoy for the Lindley garrison was also attacked on June 26; but, after a heavy rear guard action, the convoy reached Lindley in safety. Our casualties were ten killed and four officers and about 50 wounded.

"The fight reported yesterday was under Lieut.-Col. Grenfell, not Dreiper. Brabant came up during the engagement. Total casualties of the two columns, three killed and 23 wounded.

Fight Near Ficksburg.

"On the previous day, near Ficksburg, Boyes' brigade was in action with a body of the enemy. Our casualties were two officers killed, four men wounded and one man missing.

"Methuen found yesterday that the Boer laager near Vachkop and Spitskop had been hastily removed in the direction of Lindley. He followed the enemy 12 miles and captured 3,000 sheep and 500 head of cattle, which the enemy had seized in that neighborhood. Our casualties were four men wounded.

"Hunter continued his march yesterday toward the Vaal River unopposed. A few farmers along the route have surrendered.

Canadians Beat the Boers Off.

"Springs, the terminus of the railway from Johannesburg, due east, was attacked early yesterday morning. The Canadian regiment, which garrisons the place, beat off the enemy. No casualties are reported.

"Lieut. North, reported missing after the attack on the reconstruction train, is a prisoner of the Boers."

KRUGER HAS BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

Two Boer Deputations Have Asked Him to Surrender.

London, June 30. — This despatch is published by The Daily Telegraph from Bennett Burleigh, its special correspondent:

"Pretoria, June 28 (via Bloemfontein.) — Kruger's flight with the money has greatly disgusted the Boers. Two deputations have proceeded to Machadodorp to induce him to surrender. As he is afflicted with Bright's disease he was told that the English would probably allow him to remain in South Africa under parole."

A question of great interest for intending insurers is which Canadian Life Company is in highest favor with the insuring Canadian public? The following table is a good indicator:

Name of Company.	Commenced Business.	Canadian Business Written in 1899
North American	1881	$4,834,505

Every Kind of Backache

Yields to Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, Because They Act Directly on the Liver as Well as the Kidneys.

Pains in the small of the back, over the kidneys, are usually due to derangements of the kidneys, and disappear when the kidneys are set right.

But there are other kinds of backache, by far the greater proportion, that can never be reached by treating the kidneys. Pains in the shoulders, through the centre of the back, and in the sides are caused by a torpid action of the liver, and can only be driven out when the liver is made healthy and active.

To reach the liver, as well as the kidneys, to set the filtering organs in working order and to cure every kind of backache, there is but one unfailing remedy, and that is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. It is the only treatment that has this direct and combined action on both liver and kidneys, and the only one that positively and permanently cures backache, whether caused by liver or kidneys.

THE LEADING LIBERAL ORGAN IN QUEBEC ON MR. TARTE.

The Liberals are at last showing signs of awakening to the necessity of effectively sitting on Mr. Tarte. That a gentleman given to making such speeches as Mr. Tarte has made in a foreign country should be allowed to continue as a Minister of the Crown in a British colony is more than loyal Canadians should be asked to bear with. That he is entitled to his own opinions every one will admit, but he should not be maintained in a position which allows him to air those opinions as those of a member of a Canadian Government. This is the ground the Review has taken ever since these speeches have been made. Canada's position should not be misrepresented, and there is no excuse for retaining a man in a Ministry who gives utterance to such views as Mr. Tarte holds. It is a matter of satisfaction to see that the Montreal Herald, the leading English Liberal newspaper in Quebec, has taken a proper stand in regard to Mr. Tarte and his speeches. The Herald says:—

"It is difficult to know what Mr. Tarte intended to convey to his Rouen audience when he informed them that the French in Canada have remained French, that we are more and more French; we are more French than we were twenty years ago; aye, we are more French than we were one year ago. But whatever meaning may have been intended, it is still more difficult to understand what possible motive could have prompted these and other expressions in the same speech. One has to remember, what it is charitable to hope he himself did not, that the speaker is the representative in France of a British country; that he is a Minister of the Crown in this British colony, and that, whether he is right or not about Canada, or even North America, ultimately becoming French in the majority of its population, just at present there is in Canada a considerable majority of English-speaking people, and that he is in France to represent these even more than the minority from which he springs. It may be, for such things are always possible, and indeed natural, that a reactionary movement might find a certain measure of support in Quebec. Reactionaries of one kind and another are to be found everywhere. Every man is free to hold his own opinions. But in Quebec, no less than in the English provinces, Laurier is looked upon as the chosen spokesman of the opinions of this province. He has never, in the quarter of a century he has been in public life, permitted himself to be understood, or even misunderstood, in the way Mr. Tarte has made familiar. If we are wrong about the sentiments of the people of Quebec, if we are wrong in believing that Laurier speaks for his province, when he goes beyond the language of Cartier and Lafontaine, it is just as well we should know it. But in that event it were more seemly that the work of enlightenment should come from avowed opponents of the present Premier, and not from one who sits with him at the Council Board."

The Herald sets an example to the Toronto Globe, which indulges in such high-sounding phraseology when discussing the desirability of elevating politics to a higher plane, etc., and yet defends anything and everything that is indifferent, bad or worse in its party. Mr. Tarte was not a gentleman who at any time was entitled to elevation to the Cabinet, but having given his party effective services in Quebec Sir Wilfrid had to take him in. His record has been bad all the way through, but for departmental sins the Herald, like the Globe, would probably defend, or at all events not openly condemn him. But when his offence was such a persistent misrepresentation of Canada's loyalty and the Canadian people, the Herald for its country's sake sank party interests and condemned Tarte as he should be condemned by all loyal Canadians.

Dominion Day falls on Sunday this year, and to-morrow national thanksgiving and praise for blessings showered and favors bestowed on our land and our people will mingle prominently with the religious services throughout the length and breadth of the land. And well they may, for Canadians have a goodly heritage and good reason to be proud of their fair Dominion.

The Government members of the committee that investigated the emergency rations charges have done what they were expected to do—they have whitewashed the Minister of Militia and his department. But the people have had the evidence that was heard placed before them, though badly garbled by the Liberal press, and are quite capable of reaching a conclusion in regard to the case. The minority report presented puts the case on the evidence and shows conclusively how well founded were Mr. [illegible] charges, and what negligence exists at Ottawa when Liberal friends are to be [illegible]

ADMIRAL SEYMOUR'S STORY

British Commander Tells of the Adventures of the Allies.

Capture of Rice and Immense Stores of Modern Arms and Ammunition—Attack on the British Guard—Destruction of the Railway—The Wounded Started by Boat—A Night March—The Casualties.

London, June 30.—(3 a. m.)—The adventures of the hard-fighting allies, under Admiral Seymour, the reaching of Anting, 12 miles from Pekin, the decision to retreat, the capture of rice and immense stores of modern arms and ammunition, affording material for a strenuous defence until relieved. All this is told in a despatch from Admiral Seymour, received by the Admiralty at midnight, which runs as follows:

Seymour's Despatch.

"Tien Tsin, June 27.—(via Che Foo, June 29, 10.05 p. m.)—Have returned to Tien Tsin with the forces, having been unable to reach Pekin by rail. On June 13, two attacks on the advance guard were made by the Boxers, who were repulsed with considerable loss to them and none on our side. On June 14, the Boxers attacked the train at Lang Yang in large numbers and with great determination. We repulsed them with a loss of about 100 killed. Our loss was 5 Italians.

Attacked British Guard.

"The same afternoon the Boxers attacked the British guard left to protect Lofa Station. Reinforcements were sent back and the enemy were driven off with 100 killed. Two of our seamen were wounded.

"We pushed forward to Anting and engaged the enemy on June 13 and June 14, inflicting a loss of 175. There were no casualties on our side.

Railway Destroyed.

"Extensive destruction of the railway in our front having made further advance by rail impossible. I decided on June 16 to return to Yang Tsun, where it was proposed to organize an advance by the river to Pekin. After my departure from Lang Yang two trains, left to follow on, were attacked on June 18 by Boxers and Imperial troops from Pekin, who lost from 400 to 500 killed. Our casualties were 6 killed and 48 wounded. These trains joined me at Yang Tsun the same evening.

Road Entirely Demolished.

"The railway at Yang Tsun was found entirely demolished and the trains could not be moved. The force being short of provisions and hampered with wounded, compelled us to withdraw on Tien Tsin, with which we had not been in communication for six days, and our supplies had been cut off.

Wounded Started by Boat.

"On June 19, the wounded, with necessaries, started by boat, the forces marching alongside the river. Opposition was experienced during the whole course of the river from nearly every village, the Boxers, when defeated at one village, retiring to the next, and skilfully retarding our advance by occupying well-selected positions, from which they had to be forced often at the point of the bayonet, and in face of a galling fire, difficult to locate.

A Night March.

"On June 23 we made a night march, arriving at daybreak opposite the Imperial armory above Tien Tsin, where, after friendly advances, a treacherous heavy fire was opened while our men were exposed on the apposite bank of the river. The enemy were kept in check by rifle fire in front, while their position was turned by a party of marines and seamen, under Major Johnson, who rushed and occupied one of the salient points, seizing the guns. The Germans, lower down, silenced two guns, and then crossed the river and captured them. The armory was next occupied by the combined forces. Determined attempts to retake the armory were made on the following day, but unsuccessfully.

Guns of Latest Pattern.

"Found immense stores of guns, arms and ammunition of the latest pattern. Several guns were mounted in our defence, and shelled the Chinese forts lower down.

"Having found ammunition and rice, we could have held out for some days, but being hampered with large numbers of wounded, I sent to Tien Tsin for a relieving force, which arrived on the morning of June 25. The armory was evacuated, and the forces arrived at Tien Tsin on June 26. We burned the armory.

The Casualties.

"Casualties to date: British—Killed 27, wounded 77. Americans—Killed 4, wounded 25. French—Killed 1, wounded 10. German—Killed 12, wounded 62. Italian—Killed 5, wounded 3. Japanese—Killed 2, wounded 3. Austrian—Killed 1, wounded 1. Russian—Killed 10, wounded 27."

A FORCE OF 80,000 MEN

Drawn From the Different Powers Will Constitute the Army of Occupation in China.

Paris, June 29.—A representative of the Associated Press was informed yesterday that as a result of negotiations between the powers an agreement has been arrived at which provides for the maintenance of the statu quo as regards the spheres of influence and commercial agreements, and also respecting the nature of the guarantees and compensations which will be demanded from China.

According to the understanding, the international army of occupation will consist of 80,000 men. Russia and Japan will provide 12,000 each. Great Britain will provide 10,000 men, France 8,000, and Germany, America and the other powers 5,000 each.

The Russian army corps in Siberia, which has just been mobilized, will only cross the Chinese frontier in the event of the crisis being aggravated.

LEGATIONS STILL AT PEKIN.

Mr. Brodrick Says 25 British With Admiral Seymour Were Killed.

London, June 30.—In the House of Commons yesterday the Parliamentary Secretary of the Foreign Office, Mr. St. John Broderick, announced that the British losses with Admiral Seymour, which, with the rest of the relief force, had returned to Tien Tsin, June 26, were: Killed, Captain Herbert W. H. Beyts (Royal Marines) and 24 men; wounded, 7 officers and 91 men.

Mr. Broderick added that the return of the foreign casualties was incomplete, but the total loss was supposed to be 62 men killed and 212 men wounded.

In conclusion, Mr. Broderick said that the most recent reports which had reached the Government pointed to the legations being still at Pekin.

From the Che Foo Consul.

The British Consul at Che Foo wires the Foreign Office yesterday that a message from Pekin to the Taotai of Customs at Tien Tsin says the foreign legations are still at Pekin.

Corroborated by Kempff

Washington, June 30.—The Navy Department yesterday morning received the following cablegram from Admiral Kempff:

"Che Foo, June 29.—Secretary of the Navy: Pekin relief expedition now in Tien Tsin with 200 sick and wounded. Ministers and Pekin party not with them. No news from them. (Signed), Kempff."

The department also was advised this morning that Admiral Remey on the Brooklyn has arrived at Hong Kong, en route to Taku.

No News About Legations.

London, June 30.—(3 a.m.)—There is absolutely no authentic word as to the whereabouts of the members of the legations, although abundant reports from Chinese sources say they were safe a few days ago.

A Russian in Command.

Shanghai, June 29.—It is officially announced that the Russian Vice-Admiral Alexiff will take command of the allied forces in the north.

U.S.S. Oregon Ashore.

Shanghai, June 29.—It is reported here that the United States battleship Oregon is ashore 50 miles north of Che Foo.

BOLE BEFORE THE COMMISSION.

The Much-Wanted Witness Turns Up and Gives Evidence.

Toronto, June 30.—Yesterday Duncan Bole turned up before the West Elgin Commission, when the members met together at the Parliament Buildings to prepare their report. He explained his absence upon the ground that he had been absent from the Soo when subpoenaed and upon returning and learning from his wife that he was wanted as a witness, had hastened to appear. He had been employed at Ingersoll just before the election by an insurance company and hearing that A. S. Hardy, Mahlon J. Cowan, M.P., and other speakers were to be present at St. Thomas, went over one evening to see the fun. This was two evenings before election day. The next day he remained in the riding and learned of the illness of the D.R.O. at Southwold. He was requested to take his place and did so, and his conduct that day was exemplary. He knew of no wrongdoing, nor had he been a party to any.

This completed the evidence and the commissioners spent the rest of the day in preparing their report. They expect to have the report signed to-day for presentation to the Lieutenant-Governor.

INDIANS ON THE RAMPAGE.

Refugees From Minnesota Flee to Canada for Safety.

Winnipeg, Man., June 30.—A Rat Portage special last night says the steamer Keenora has arrived there with 100 women and children, refugees from Rainy River, Minnesota, who are leaving the district, owing to Indian troubles. The residents of Koochoching, Minn., are deserting everything and moving across the river to Fort Francis, Ont., for protection. The Indians of the district, numbering about 1,000, have divided into two hostile bands. The captain of the Keenora says all the remaining women and children of the district are to be down on the next steamer, and arms are urgently besought by the settlers. The excitement is intense.

MANY MATTERS BEFORE ALDERMEN

cleaning the stock pens on the market from June 1st, 1900.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

ROBT. CLINKSCALE,
Chairman.

The report was adopted.

BOARD OF WORKS.

Ald Roger, chairman, read the appended report of the Board of Works:—

Gentlemen,—Your Board of Works beg leave to report as follows:

1. That the treasurer was instructed to accept from Dr. Greer $3 90 for material delivered to him from the streets.

2. That the request of Mr. Bailey to purchase broken stone from the town was not granted, as the town was not in a position to furnish it to him.

3. That the request of Mr. T M Hunter that the town put in a catch basin at the corner of Lock and Lansdowne-sts was not granted, as the capacity of the sewer to take off surface water is limited, so much so that the town is not able to put in as many catch basins in the town as is desired, and owing to the slight grade of the sewer below the point named, and no hydrants being near for flushing purposes it would not be advisable to grant the request.

4. We recommend that the Orangemen be permitted to use the Central Park for the demonstration on July 12th.

5. We recommend that the gravel purchased for the streets be paid for on the certificate of the town engineer.

6. Also that an application from Mr. A. McPherson for a sidewalk on Paterson-st be referred to the town engineer with power to act.

7. Your Board instructed the engineer to get the specifications and general conditions for the granolithic sidewalks printed at the office that would do the work the cheapest.

8. We recommend that the Peterborough Water Co. be instructed to move the hydrant on Smith-st near Benson-st 50 or 60 feet west at the expense of the town.

9. Your Board instructed the engineer to advertise for 50 cords of stone for road metal.

G. M. ROGER,
Chairman.

The report was adopted.

MUD LAKE BRIDGE.

Ald Oke for the Joint committee, made a verbal report. He stated that they had conferred with the County Council and there was a request that the time be extended for the commencement of the bridge.

He therefore moved that the time for the commencement be extended to July 1st, 1901, and the time for completion to December 31st, 1901.

Ald Oke stated that this would not affect the town's case and assisted the county to take advantage of the town's by-law.

The resolution was passed.

WHAT WE HAVE WE HOLD.

Ald. Roger reported verbally on the tangle over the stone loaned to the Dickson Co. He stated that he had seen Mr. Richard Hall, president of the Dickson Co., on the matter and Mr. Hall stated that he had explained it to Town Clerk Armstrong.

Mr. Armstrong stated that Mr. Hall had told him that the company had a claim against the town on account of building the bridge on London-st. and also, the clerk thought, a bridge on the raceway. Mr. Armstrong had asked Mr. Hall to put in a statement of his claim if there was anything of that kind.

Ald Sawers stated that this was something new. There ought to be a commission to look into this sort of thing. We want to get our stone back. The town never guaranteed anything to the Dickson estate. The town takes $3.90 from Dr. Greer for a little bit of earth and here the town allows the Dickson Co. to keep $1,400 of stone taken in 1899 and we know not how much taken in 1898.

Ald. Denne stated that it was agreed at a meeting of the Board of Works in 1898 that the town would allow the Dickson Co. the cost of building a bridge over the race on London-st.

Ald. Sawers stated that this might be true, but the $1,400 worth of stone taken in 1899 was never put into London-st. bridge, but went into their private property. If the Board of Works was bought it should go to the Legal committee.

Town Clerk Armstrong stated that he did not think there was any record on the the books of the agreement mentioned by Ald Denne.

Ald Oke and Denne suggested that the matter be still left with the Board of Works to meet the Dickson Co. regarding the matter.

Ald Roger did not believe in any of that "conversation" business. Business should be done in a business like way.

The Mayor held that there should be a written statement of their claim from the Dickson Co.

Ald Roger moved that Mr. Denne be asked to furnish to the Council a memorandum of what took place in that connection in 1898.

Ald Denne objected vigorously. He was not there to represent the Dickson Co. He moved that the whole Board of Works of 1898 be called. He did not want it made a personal matter or any slur made upon him.

It was moved by Ald Oke, seconded by Ald Sawers, that the Board of Works report in writing on the matter at the next meeting.

WANTED EQUAL RIGHTS.

Mr. Moore, a resident of Benson-st. addressed the Council asking that it secure for him and his neighbors "equal rights." He wanted the Water Co. to be compelled to extend the water system so as to afford them its privileges. It was moved that it be referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee, but Mr. Moore complained that this had been moved and referred and removed again. Once more it was so moved and carried.

Ald. Roger stated that he was bothered with complaints every day that the Water Co. refuses to supply applicants with water.

KEEPS THE INTEREST PAID.

Ald. Denne moved that the treasurer be authorized to issue a cheque for the interest on [illegible], due by the town to Messrs. Richard Hall and Chas. McGill, trustees of the Nicholls estate. The rate of interest is 5 per cent. The resolution was passed.

REBATES ON MARKET.

On motion of Ald. Denne and Sawers, it was ordered that the rebates of $50 each on market tolls passed by the Council be paid Miss Lossie Green and Mrs. Goodfellow.

ACTIONS MAY BE SETTLED.

Ald. Rogers stated that he believed that the actions threatened against the town by Mrs. Sherwood and Miss Corkery for damages for accidents might be settled amicably and he moved that the matter be referred to the Finance Committee and that the committee be given power to settle and pay whatever amounts are decided upon. H. Lee's claim was similarly referred to the Committee, two-thirds vote of the committee to be necessary for settlement.

PRIZE PACKAGES.

Mr. Scriber addressed the Council, stating that he makes a business of selling "novelty packages," consisting of bootlaces and other enticing goods, and asking that he be allowed a space on the street to sell goods on July 12th. He was instructed to deal with the Orangemen, the control of the day having been given to them, and he was warned to join a lodge before the glorious 12th.

RAILWAY CROSSINGS.

The matter of arranging for protection at the railway crossings at Charlotte and Simcoe-sts. was on motion left to the Mayor and the Town Solicitor.

RESOLUTIONS IN WRITING.

The Mayor asked the Aldermen to have all their motions and resolutions in writing or presentation in order that the business of the meetings may be facilitated.

A REALLY SICK MAN

SUFFERED TERRIBLE AGONY DUE TO KIDNEY AND LIVER TROUBLE.

Medicines Apparently Had No Effect, Until at the Solicitation of a Friend He Used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and Was Cured.

From the Mail, Granby, Que.

Mr. Albert Fisher, accountant at Payne's cigar factory, Granby, Que., is known to almost every resident of the town, and is held in the highest esteem by all who know him. In conversation with the editor of the Mail recently, something was said concerning Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, when Mr. Fisher remarked that he had found these pills a very valuable medicine. It was suggested that he should make his experience known, and to this he readily consented, handing to the Mail the following letter for publication:—

Granby, March 15th, 1900.

In justice to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I think it my duty, in view of what they have done for me, to add my testimonial to the many which I have seen in print. For some months I suffered most severely from pains up and down my back. It was thought these were due to liver and kidney trouble, but whatever the cause, they kept me in terrible agony. The pains were not confined to the back, but would shift to other parts of the body. As a result, I could get little rest; my appetite was much impaired, and I was really a sick man. I tried many different remedies without effect, and which disgusted me with medicine. A friend suggested that I try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I was not easily persuaded, for I had given up the use of medicine, as nothing had helped me, but as he insisted, I finally concluded to give them a trial. I purchase one box, and was astonished to find that before it was entirely used, I was quite a bit relieved, and after using six more was fully restored to my former good health. I take great pleasure in recommending this valuable remedy that others may profit by my experience, and not suffer the tortures that I did.

Yours sincerely,
Albert Fisher.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure by going to the root of the disease. They renew and build up the blood, and strengthen the nerves, thus driving disease from the system. If your dealer does not keep them, they will be sent post paid at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Provincial Bank of Canada, Montreal, having received the necessary permission from the Treasury Board, Ottawa, will open its doors for business on July 9, the authorized capital being $1,000,000, $750,000 paid up.

Edward Tremblay, a Hull lineman, was electrocuted Friday morning. He was climbing a new fire alarm pole, and came in contact with a live wire of the Hull Electric Co. He was overcome, and would have fallen only his spur strap kept him tied to the pole, so he hung there, head downward. He died from his injuries.

VICTORY OVER DYSPEPSIA

Is Easy and Quick with Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

There's no need to tell those who suffer with Dyspepsia or Indigestion, what is the matter with them.

They know it only too well.

The great object with them is how to get cured.

They can be cured, easily, simply, and surely. There's no earthly reason why any person should suffer with dyspepsia, indigestion, heartburn, sour stomach, or any similar disease of the digestive organs. It is rank foolishness to do so.

Why?

Because Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cure these diseases, positively and simply.

There's no secret about how to do this. You take one or two of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal, and the work is "done while you wait."

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets digest the food. They do the work your tired out stomach cannot do. At the same time they tone up and strengthen the stomach, fitting it to again do its own work properly.

There can be no failure. If the stomach were paralyzed in every part, Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets would digest the food taken into it. That's what Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are made for. And that's what Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets will do.

FOR THE HOLIDAY

Multiple Attractions for the St. Joseph's Hospital Picnic on Monday.

On Monday all the people will celebrate the birth of the Dominion and the best way to truly enjoy the holiday is to attend the grand picnic on Murray St. School grounds in aid of St. Joseph's Hospital. For several years the hospital picnic has been the big event of Dominion Day in Peterborough and this year more than ever it is the strongest attraction for young and old. A great variety of attractions has been provided, the list of sports is a capital one and there will be amusement and pleasure for all. A day of thorough enjoyment is assured. That the meals, refreshments, etc., will be above criticism is guaranteed by the fact that they are in the charge of the ladies of St. Peter's. Everybody should spend the day at Murray St. School grounds. The competition for the beautiful picture of the Lord's Supper will close on that day and all should have tickets in this contest.

MANY MATTERS BEFORE ALDERMEN

THE COUNCIL CONSIDERS DIVERS SUBJECTS AT THE SPECIAL MEETING

Committee Reports Presented—Actions for Damages Referred to Committee—Pretoria Night Damages—Other Matters Discussed.

The Town Council held a meeting last night to dispose of the business which had accumulated, next Monday, which is the regular meeting night, being a public holiday.

There were present Mayor Kendrey and Ald. Corkery, Denne, Clinkscale, Roger, Weir, Oke and Sawers.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The following communications were received:—

From Thos. Main, re dog tax, stating that he had no dog at last assessment.—Court of Revision.

From M. Heffernan and R. McGill, asking for permission to build a wooden fence 8 feet high, within the fire limits, the by-law making the fence 4 feet.—Referred to Property, Building and Market committee.

From the police staff, asking for usual holidays.—Granted on motion.

From John Macfarlane, asking for two weeks' holidays.—Fire, Water and Light committee.

From Town Solicitor Edwards re damage done by firing of cannon on Pretoria night. He stated that the Council was in no way responsible.

From John Bell, asking that Rubidge-st. be watered two blocks farther south.—Board of Works.

From Peterborough Water Co., offering to remove a hydrant on Smith-st. as requested if the town would pay the expense.—Received.

From H. Phelan, asking that the walk on west side of Rubidge-st. be laid outside the trees.—Referred to Board of Works, the people to get up petitions to show where the majority want the sidewalk placed.

From Town Solicitor Edwards reporting re the town's suit to compel the G.T.R. to erect a bridge over the creek on Smith-st., dismissed by Justice Street. The evidence showed that the bridge erected by the company was inferior to that removed by them. He has asked for a stay of proceedings to allow the town to determine its course as to appeal or otherwise.

Ald Denne—I think we had better pay the costs.

The Mayor—I think we had better consider it.

The matter was left to the Legal committee to report to the Council.

THE CRAWFORD MEMORIAL

The Contract Placed with Messrs Coughlin Bros. for the Monument.

"Kit" in the Mail and Empire says: "Mrs. Maud Miller Wilson, of Peterborough, has just forwarded to me the design for Isabel Vallancy Crawford's monument, towards which many readers of the Kingdom generously subscribed when the proposed tribute to the brilliant Irish-Canadian girl's memory was spoken of in these columns. Mrs. Wilson writes:—

Peterborough, June 6.

'Do not allow the bulky envelope to alarm you, dear Kit—neither a manuscript story nor a will is being inflicted upon you—but I want you to see the design (enlarged of course) for Miss Crawford's monument.

'Do you like it? The maple leaves you recollect are your suggestion—and to my mind they are beautifully put in.

'The plan is the gift of Mr. Hay, our town engineer, and we cannot but be impressed by his kindness in spending so much time upon the work and going so minutely into details.

'The marble cutter has the order and in a couble of months we hope to see the stone erected, sufficient money to pay for it is in the bank for this purpose.

'Perhaps you would kindly mention the above fact in your newspaper column, so that the contributors to the Crawford Memorial Fund may see that the work here is progressing satisfactorily.

'Believe me, dear Kit,
Sincerely yours,
MAUD MILLER WILSON."

"Mrs Wilson so honored the writer as to permit her to offer a suggestion regarding the little monument, and I ventured to say that I thought the dead girl who so loved Canada, who sang of her woods and streams and divine natural beauties so tenderly and impressively, would like the maple leaves entwined round the Irish cross. This has been done, and the design so generously worked out and presented by Mr. Hay, of Peterborough, is delicate and artistic and full of meaning. The Celtic cross will, I understand, be mounted on a rough-hewn granite rock. The simplicity of the whole design fits in with the tender, sweet, unaffected girl over whom it will lie—Canada's tribute to one who loved and gloried in the strong, beautiful Young Land."

The contract for the monument has been placed with Messrs. Coughlin Bros., of town, and the design will be reproduced with their well known skilled workmanship. The design is an Irish cross or cross of Ionic design on a rough-hewn rock. The top and each arm of the cross will bare maple leaves.

UP THE LAKES DOMINION DAY.

Remember the Auburn Sunday School Excursion to McCracken's Landing, Stony Lake, calling at Julian's Landing, Burleigh Falls and Juniper Island on Monday, July 2nd, Dominion Day, per Str, Sunbeam and Barge. Boat fare 40c. and 20c. The Grand Trunk will sell return tickets to Lakefield at single fare for the day.

Wheeling Party.

On Tuesday evening a very enjoyable wheeling party was given by Miss M. Sherlock, Stewart-st, from the residence to Nassau and down the Ashburnham side of the river. About 20 guests took part, after which they returned to the house and partook of strawberries, lemonade and cake to which full justice was done. The evening passed pleasantly amid singing and games, closing with Auld Lang Syne.

DOMINION DAY

The Big Picnic and the Baseball Matches the Home Attractions.

Monday will be celebrated as Dominion Day. The programme at home will have for its main feature the annual hospital picnic, under auspices of St. Peter's, which is to be held on the grounds of Murray-st. Separate school, with the 57th Regimental band in attendance.

There are two baseball matches on the P.A.A.A. grounds. In the morning Peterborough plays a league game with Cobourg, and in the afternoon an exhibition game with the same team.

There is an excursion to Stony lake, single fare run to Port Hope and cheap fares on the railways.

The Park-st. Baptist Sunday school will run an excursion down the river to Highland Park by steamer Beaver, the boat leaving the wharf at 8 o'clock.

Personal

Rev. G. Bonsfield, of Pembroke, was in town to-day on his way home after the closing of Trinity College School, Port Hope.

Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, of Young's Point, was in town to-day.

Miss E. H. Stephens left to-day to spend the holiday in Cobourg.

Mr. F. W. Walden, organist of George-st. Methodist church, leaves on Monday to spend a month's vacation with his father, London township.

Trinity College School.

The annual speech day of Trinity College school was held yesterday. Norman Creighton, son of Rev. J. Creighton, of Cartwright, was head boy of the school. The preacher at the service was Rt. Rev. Bishop Anderson, of Chicago, who was the first of the Trinity College boys to be made a bishop. There is a fine cadet corps in connection with the school, and it was present in khaki uniform. It is attached to the 46th. There have been many Peterborough boys at this school in years past, and Gerald Rackham is in attendance at present.

Brevities

—Monday being a public holiday there will be no issue of the Review.

—During the months of July and August the Holy Communion will be administered at 8 a.m. at St. John's.

—Owing to the cold and wind last evening the band concert to have been held in Victoria Park was not given.

—Mrs. John Sawers caught a fine 18 pound 'lunge at Stony lake this week. Ald. Sawers brought a few fine specimens down to town with him last evening.

—The crop of huckleberries in the north is reported to be very light this year.

—The G.T.R. express from Toronto was half an hour late to-day. The C.P.R. express was also late. All the trains were crowded and the holiday travel is well up to the mark.

—The strawberry festival at St. John's last Monday was a success in every way. Quite a nice sum was realized, which will be devoted to the cause of missions. The members of the Women's Auxiliary desire to thank all those who so kindly helped in any way.

—Lindsay Post:—The Crandella came in yesterday afternoon well loaded with a happy looking crowd of excursionists, the parishioners of Father McColl, of Ennismore. The crowd, which was composed chiefly of young people, spent their time doing the main street, the candy stores and restaurants. After a short stay the steamer started on the return trip, much to the regret of many of the excursionists, who had expected to have a much longer time in our vigorous town.

—The Grand Trunk main line locomotives will in the near future be equipped with electric headlights. A new passenger locomotive has just been turned out from Point St. Charles shops with this equipment and also with several incandescent lights in the engine cab. The brilliancy of the new headlight enables the engineer to readily distinguish objects on the track for over half a mile. The system embodies a simple, independent and complete outfit, each engine having a dynamo for generating the light.

Special train will leave Peterborough for Port Hope at 8 30 a. m. on Monday, July 2nd. Returning leaves Port Hope at 10.30 p.m., stopping at all intermediate points. Everyone go and see the great Kalithumpian procession. Return tickets single fare. W. BUNTON, Ticket Agent, G.T.R.

A Thankful Farmer

THERE is no class of men more subject to all the ills the human flesh is heir to than farmers. Their calling causes them to be out in all kinds of weather, consequently when sickness overtakes them they become great sufferers. Rheumatism is the disease most prevalent among the farming classes. Mr. C. W. Trotter, Cushendall, Ont., a most respected farmer of Pittsburg township, suffered for two years from this dread disease. So severely was he afflicted that for three months at a stretch he was compelled to remain idle. Being induced to give Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure a trial, he is now very thankful he did so. Before the contents of one bottle had been taken the pains disappeared, and he was able to resume his work. He took only one bottle of the Rheumatic Cure and one box of pills, but even that small quantity completely cured him. He has not been troubled with the pain since, and is now as strong and healthy as ever.

Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure is put up in 50 cent bottles, containing ten days' treatment. For sale by all druggists and dealers in medicine. The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

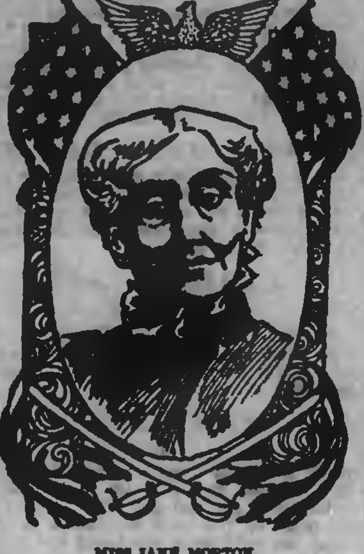
WOMAN AND HOME.

A CLAIMANT FOR THE POSITION OF FIRST "REAL DAUGHTER."

Woman's Higher Education—Her Work In Turkey—Cured of Her Craze—Principles Versus Cooks. They Conduct a Sheep Ranch.

Miss Jane Morton of Salisbury, Vt., is the first "real daughter" of Ethan Allen chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution of Middlebury, Vt. She was initiated early in the year 1898 and at the age of 95 still retains her mental and bodily faculties to a remarkable extent. She was born at Middleboro, Mass., and came to Vermont with her parents in 1807.

Miss Morton's father was Captain John Morton, born in Massachusetts in 1763. He fought through the Revolution, together with two brothers, and was at the burning of New Bedford in 1781. In 1807 Captain Morton moved from Middleboro, Mass., to Salisbury, Vt. Here he organized a company of militia, and when the war of 1812 broke out he became captain of the famous "Silver Grays," 77 men, which took part in the battle of Plattsburg in 1814. He passed away at the age of 94 years on Dec. 23, 1857.



MISS JANE MORTON.

Among Miss Morton's treasured keepsakes are an ancient desk and a drinking cup of peculiar shape, relics of her Massachusetts home. She relates her early experiences in Vermont with a pleasure born of a knowledge that they are past. Among her recollections is hearing the cannons fired at the battle of Plattsburg, this memory being indelibly imprinted by her anxiety for her father, who was engaged in that fight. A student of physiognomy will mark gentleness and high breeding in the portrait above given, and these terms aptly describe her character. Her health has not been of the best recently, but her friends hope for her many more years of life.—Middlebury (Vt.) Cor. Boston Herald.

Woman's Higher Education.

In these days of discussion about the higher education of girls and the propriety of woman's entering the arena of political life, the effect of this education and political work on her position in society is rather lost sight of. Has the study of philosophy a bad bearing on the power to entertain? and has a knowledge of the ins and outs of election day a tendency to decrease the ability in charm? are aspects which are considered only by the few and not by the great majority. The fact is, let a woman know what she may, if her smile is winning, her manners pleasant and her disposition charitable she will be popular. The trick of telling the character of the land by the rock formation will not harden the true woman's heart against an appeal for mercy or charity. The ability to determine what medicine will help her ailing child without a doctor's aid will never make her heart less loving to that child, if she be a true woman in the first place, and if she is not, then all the ignorance in the world will not remedy the defects which education cannot cure but may help.

INORDER

50c. per box, five boxes for $2.00.
All druggists, or Doan Williams & Co., Toronto, Ont.

In the social ranks alone, leaving out of the question entirely the thinker's view on the subject, it cannot be claimed that the ignorant are the most popular because of that ignorance. There are many very popular girls who know nothing of the depths of learning, and there are many girls who are able to demonstrate a problem in mathematics and astronomy who are shunned and left to be wallflowers, and there are the cases cited by the pessimist, who wishes his women to know nothing beyond what he tells them and to be fools enough to believe it all.

Many pretty, sweet tempered girls have not the ability to study deeply, and that these girls are popular is no argument against study. They are loved in spite of their ignorance, not because of it. The student may be loved if she is lovable in the first place and does not allow her study to detract from that characteristic and if she will come out of her books to be in touch with the people about her and descend sometimes from her clouds to know their little hope and fears.

It is a cynical but true statement that people love us for the interest we display in their own affairs. This may not be true of the one great love of life, but it is true of the love which is possessed by a person of whom it is said, "Everybody loves her," and it is almost invariably the secret of great popularity. The faculty may be expected by the student as well as the know nothing, and, although the former will have less time in which to win her hearts, she may have a better chance of keeping them when won if she can school herself never to forget the details which interest her confidants or the affairs which have been poured into her sympathetic ears.

The result of thinking on the subject, then, is that if the mathematician can dance as well as her sister, who cannot say the rule of three, and can listen as well as the dear little girl who never opens a book and flirt as nicely and comfortably as the one who always wore the dunce cap at school she may have the same measure of popularity they possess, and she will have the additional great comfort of being independent of others for amusement and solace in sorrow, which she can find in her beloved books, and in old age, when they can do nothing but knit and gossip, and this is a comfort worth all the study of a lifetime.—Graziella in Pittsburg Press.

Her Work In Turkey.

Miss Corinne Shattuck of Urfa, Turkey, spoke at the meeting of the ecumenical conference upon "The Work of Orphans." Miss Shattuck was the only foreigner in Urfa at the time of the massacre there in December, 1895, when 3,000 people were killed, and but for her presence many more must have lost their lives, says the New York Tribune. As soon as order was restored after those frightful days she was offered escort to Aintab, where there was an American college and mission station, but her reply was: "I remain here for the present. I cannot leave our orphaned people." Before the evidences of carnage were fairly removed she began to plan the relief work which benefited a multitude of wretched people. Within three months she had distributed 9,580 garments to 7,236 persons and given kettles and wash basins to those who were absolutely destitute. Women and children at that time were also employed in picking cotton which she had bought in the bush and were cleaning and spinning it for the wearer. This mostly enabled many women to maintain themselves and gave work to over 300 people. Her next step was to utilize the native handiwork of the women, and before many months had passed samples of silk embroidery in cotton homespun had been sent to the markets in England. The industries have continued since that time, and Miss Shattuck, besides performing her ordinary duties as missionary, had supervised the importations of materials, the work itself and its sale through agents in Constantinople.

Her exhibit of this work was one of the most interesting in the missionary exhibition held in connection with the ecumenical conference which opened April 30. Besides the industrial work, Miss Shattuck has had charge of the orphans, who at some times have numbered 200 or more. The waifs she has endeavored to bring up in such a way that while they received careful training they shall not be in anyway estranged from their natural position and their people. Miss Shattuck became a missionary under the American board of commissioners for foreign missions in 1873 and soon after charge of the girls' school in Aintab, Turkey, was given to her in place of Miss Procter, who was obliged to return home on a furlough.

In 1874 Miss Shattuck toured about central Turkey, riding for more than 1,000 miles on horseback. In 1878 she started a school for girls in Urfa, in 1877 at Kessab and in 1878 in Adana. The next four years were spent in this country, to which she had been obliged to come because of ill health. Upon her return to Turkey the girls' college in Marash was put in her charge. While there she organized and sustained a kindergarten in addition to her other work. She went to Urfa, where she had started the school eight years before, arriving there just before the massacre.

Cured of Her Craze.

A genealogist received a letter from a wealthy woman the other day, saying that she was anxious to know something of her descendants and she would like to have him call upon her with reference to looking them up. As the letter was addressed to the genealogist, instead of to an astrologist, a palmist, phrenologist, or even the woman who tells fortunes with cards or tea leaves, he came to the conclusion that she had made a slight mistake in her phraseology and wanted to look backward instead of forward, and he called upon her. That was what she wanted. She was anxious to have her family tree developed, and she agreed to pay him the regular price, $25, for a line of ancestors.

The man went to work, and, being a conscientious laborer, he worked along regulation lines and did not get down to William the Conqueror or even Roger Williams. What he did come to was an interesting ancestor who would have been just the man by whom the woman could have joined one of the Revolutionary societies or become a Colonial Dame. But there was one trouble with this ancestor. He was imbued too strongly with the independent feelings of the early days, but his independence was not properly directed. The fathers of the country had noted this, presumably with sorrow, but they had felt it necessary to have him shot for what they called "insubordination," and the sentence was carried out.

All these facts, with details, the antiquary wrote out and sent to his patron. She should have been appreciative of her ancestor's qualities. It is a prominent quality in the feminine descendants of Revolutionary heroes. They don't call it insubordination, but they have not the slightest objection to disagreeing with their superior officers and make it so manifest at times that there are battles that would not be much hotter with powder and bullets.

But the woman in search of descendants, getting her pedigree before she joined a society, evidently did not know this. Her ardor for a family tree was quenched once and for all. She paid the $25, but she found she had all the living ancestors she cared to look after and decided to let the others alone.—New York Times.

Principles Versus Cooks.

A volume might be written on the malign influence exerted on femininity's principles by the loss of a cook. Volumes have been written relating how an injury to her child turns a woman into a savage, but just as radical a change marks her when her culinary department has lost its priestess and madam herself has been battling with pots and pans for days and is wearied in soul and body.

She, too, becomes savage then in some degree, and all her fine ideas about domestic etiquette which she has paraded in palmy days before Mary Ann went to newer fields are forgotten.

There's one little woman known to the writer who is an excellent example of this fact. Comfortably servanted—if one may use such an expression—she's the soul of honor. Her principles are well defined on nice points, and not for the world would she covet her neighbor's goods, his manservant nor his maidservant.

For a week after her maid had gone she stood by her original tenets and struggled with the drafts of the range and the intricacies of omelets until she was too tired for words. She visited intelligence offices and spent her leisure hours, which were few, owing to these same intricacies, reading advertisements in the papers and seeking out the advertisers.

The second week she herself advertised, interviewed all the applicants that came in response to her notice and engaged the one that suited her best.

When the one failed to appear at the appointed time, she engaged another, and when she also failed her she engaged with calm impartiality every maid who came within her reach. When these either did not come or proved incapable, she began to cast covetous eyes on her neighbors' "help" and was with difficulty restrained by the men of the family from approaching the maids and asking them if they did not want to make a change.

She did ask such as told her they were engaged for service but had not yet gone to their new homes to send word to their prospective mistresses that they could not come because of a prior engagement which they had forgotten.

To such depths of infamy did one gentle woman fall just from sheer weariness of body. 'Tis a sad commentary on feminine nature, but it goes to prove by what trivial things one's morals are affected.—Baltimore News.

They Conduct a Sheep Ranch.

Two young girls, Gussie and Louise Lamn, respectively 19 and 20 years of age, are running a sheep ranch covering 15 miles of the California mountains. They are making a success of it, too, although their previous training was hardly in that direction, as they were educated in a convent.

They began the work in an accidental way. When home for the Christmas vacation several years ago, a heavy snowstorm began, and night came on with 700 sheep out in the storm back of one of the mountains. Gussie, then 14 years old, insisted on helping her father get the sheep under cover, and worked bravely until daybreak, when all were safely housed. The next day when her father started out to see how the sheep were he found his daughter, clad in one of his old suits for greater ease in travel, waiting to accompany him. After that the two girls went everywhere with the father when on their vacations and adopted boy's attire for everyday wear while at home. In this way they learned all details of the management of a sheep ranch, so that when Mr. Lamn died they continued to conduct it as he had.

Their costume on ordinary occasions consists of blue jean overalls, tucked into top boots, with shirt waist open at the throat, sailor fashion. The hair is braided singly and coiled close to the head. Each girl carries a rifle when she rides over the hills and knows how to use it.

Calve the Woman.

Calve the woman is a topic not a whit less fascinating than her career as a prima donna. Each summer is spent at her chateau at Cavrieres, near Aveyron, France. There is a pretty romance connected with this country seat. When as a girl she used to walk past this place each day, her most daring dream was to some time be rich enough to purchase it. Today she spends as much time as possible there in company with her parents and brothers and sisters. To the village folks Calve is an ideal Lady Bountiful. She visits the poor, takes the sick all sorts of tempting delicacies, interests herself in securing positions for the unemployed. The village children fairly worship her. Calve loves children. She will sit for hours on the lawn under the big trees surrounded by a group of admiring children, telling them strange tales of what she has seen and heard in foreign lands or relating legends of long ago.—George T. B. Davis in Woman's Home Companion.

Her Seven Sons.

A mother who had only one child, a son, lost him through an accident by drowning when he was 17. His body was washed out to sea and never recovered. She very much wanted a portrait of him, and she called upon a famous artist, who was a friend of the family, to reproduce the boy's face and form. He asked for every photograph she had of her son from babyhood onward.

When the painting arrived, it represented a glade in a wood. Playing about were five little children of various ages, but all the same boy as his mother had known him. Coming down the center, joyous, gay, was the 17-year-old lad, leading his baby self of 1 year by the hand.

The mother looked at the picture and burst into tears. "I have lost seven sons!" she said.

"You had lost six of them before your son died," the artist replied.

Boot Buying.

People would find less difficulty with ready made shoes, says an experienced salesman, if they would stand up to fit them on instead of sitting down. Nine persons out of ten, particularly ladies, want a comfortable chair while they are fitting a shoe, and it is with the greatest difficulty you can get them to stand for a few minutes even after the shoe is fitted. Then when they begin walking about they wonder why the shoes are not so comfortable as they were at first trial. A woman's foot is considerably smaller when she sits in a chair than when she walks about. Exercise brings a larger quantity of blood into the feet, and they swell appreciably. The muscles also require certain space. In buying shoes this fact should be borne in mind.

A Thoughtful Princess.

Once, during her schoolroom days, the late Duchess of Teck went into a shop at Richmond to buy something. When paying for the purchase, she gave a sovereign to the young woman who had served her and on receiving the change instantly put it into her purse. Her governess noticed the action and said in perhaps too audible a tone: "Princess, you must count your change. You should always do so to see if it is correct." Princess Mary replied: "No; I should not like to do that. I am sure it is correct." Then, turning to the shopkeeper, she smiled reassuringly and said, "Good morning," fearful lest the remark about the change should have hurt the young woman's feelings.

New Orleans women, while wearing quite as many of the soft, thin materials which are so charming in women's clothes, wear less lace than is seen in many other places. The reason of this is that they cling to the old fashioned idea that if one cannot wear real lace it is better to wear none at all.

In selecting a chair for the hall avoid upholstery or any gilt trimmings. A little flat leather trimming is permissible if the style of the chair demands it, but preferable even to this is the chair or bench all of wood in a simple, severe style.

In creaming chicken in the chafing dish Mrs. Herrick recommends that it be marinated in two tablespoonfuls of oil and one of vinegar to two cupfuls of the meat. The chicken should be left in this marinade for half an hour before creaming.

Then He Caught It.

"You've been fishing again," said the stern parent. "Suppose you come with me now to the woodshed."

"Father," protested the bright youth, "I hope you intend to make the punishment fit the crime."

"That's my intention."

"Well, father, the crime amounted to two nibbles. I didn't catch a thing."—

Mania for Operations

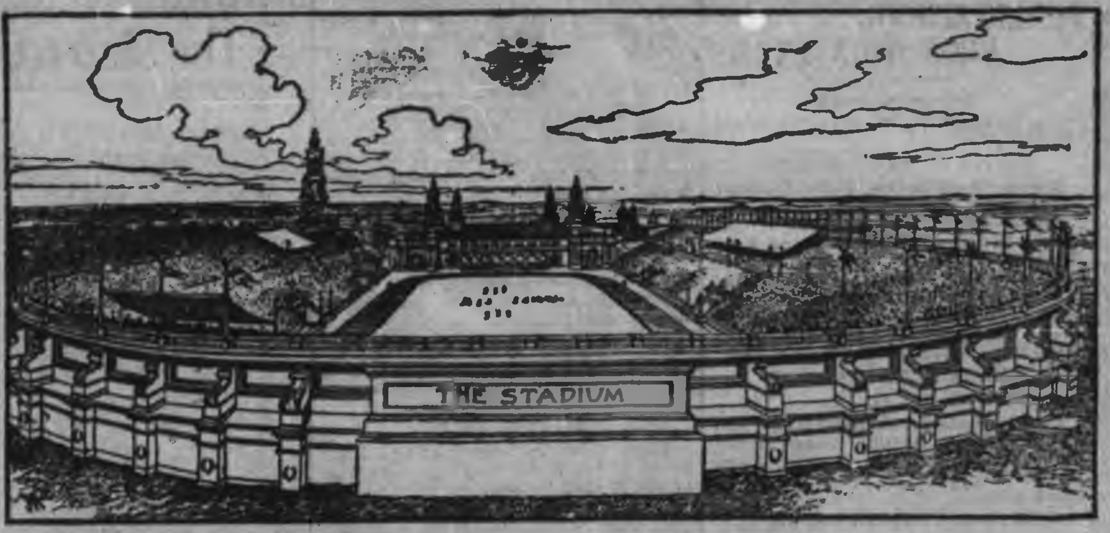
Among the Sufferers. No Need of the Knife to Cure Piles. A Surer, Cheaper Easier Way, Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Dread of the surgeon's knife causes multitudes of people to suffer on year after year with piles, when they could be cured without risk, expense, or danger of an operation by using Dr. Chase's Ointment, the only preparation guaranteed to cure any case of itching, bleeding, or protruding piles.

Rev. J. A. Baldwin, Baptist minister, Arkona, Ont., writes:—"For over twenty years I was a great sufferer from itching and protruding piles. I used many remedies and underwent three very painful surgical operations, all without obtaining any permanent benefit. When about to give up in despair I was told to use Dr. Chase's Ointment, and did so, finding relief at once. I used three boxes, and am almost entirely cured. The itching is all gone. I have advised others to use it, believing it would cure them as it has me."

Dr. Chase's Ointment is the only positive and actual cure for every form of piles, 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates and Co., Toronto.

COLOSSAL STADIUM AT THE PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.



Copyright, 1900, by the Pan-American Exposition Co.

The completed Stadium for the Pan-American Exposition, to be held in Buffalo from May 1 to Nov. 1, 1901, will offer to the lovers of sports the most spacious and splendid arena ever erected in America. The athletic carnival to be held during the great Exposition will be the most notable in the history of American sport. The co-operation of many of the best promoters of athletic games has been secured. Visitors to the Exposition may therefore expect to witness the meeting of the most famous athletes of the world in competition for prizes worthy of their best feats. It is said that the great Colosseum at Rome could accommodate 87,000 spectators. The Pan-American Stadium will be 129 feet longer and but 10 feet narrower than the historic amphitheater of Rome. The Stadium, however, will have a larger arena, and the seating capacity is estimated for 25,000 people.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Toronto, June 30.—The run of live stock at the Western Stock Yards was large yesterday—80 carloads, all told, composed of 1,320 cattle, 2,028 hogs, 1,107 sheep and 50 calves. The quality of fat cattle, generally speaking, was only medium. Too many half-finished grassers are being rushed on the market. Trade was generally good, although not as brisk as it has been during the past three weeks. Prices were easier.

How the Government Is Making the People Pay the Piper.

Will Delay Bringing in the Railway Subsidies Till the Last Moment Hoping Thus to Escape Scrutiny—The Opposition, However, Is Determined to Stand Guard Over the Public Treasury—The House Proceedings.

Ottawa, June 30.—The railway subsidies, which will amount to about $20,000,000, will, as usual, not be brought down till the last moment, in the hope that they may be got through without much scrutiny, but the Opposition is determined to stand guard over the public treasury, and no subsidy will escape thier careful criticism. It is understood on excellent authority that the former subsidy of $3,200 a mile will be this year of growth made $6,400 a mile. This will bring the bill of Government expense up to nearly $80,000,000, a record breaker.

IN THE HOUSE.

The Postoffice Estimates Constituted the Bill of Fare.

Ottawa, June 30. — Yesterday morning but a few members were in the House when Speaker Bain gave his Bible reading.

Mr. Belcourt asked that the report of the Rations Committee should be considered on Monday.

Sir Wilfrid said he would prefer to have it put off till later. It is understood that the whole question will be disposed of on Wednesday.

House Will Sit on Monday.

Mr. Britton suggested that the House do not sit on Monday, Dominion Day. T. D. Craig and David Henderson added their voices to the suggestion, but Sir Wilfrid, doubtless prompted by Col. Prior's desire to work, said the best way to celebrate was to work. Hence the House will sit on Monday, but there will not be a baker's dozen here.

Mr. Foster wanted an explanation of Mr. Tarte's utterances in France. He read the article from The Montreal Herald, and declared it emanated from a source not at enmity with the Government.

Sir Wilfrid declined to give an opinion upon Mr. Tarte's utterances till he had heard from him as to the authenticity of the reported speech.

Postoffice Estimates.

The House went into supply on the postoffice estimates.

Mr. Foster censured Mr. Mulock for making a surplus for his department by charging the expenses of nonproductive areas to departments other than the postoffice. Mr. Foster cited the case of the Yukon mail service, where $47,400 was charged to the N.W.M.P., and $4,000 to the Interior Department. These sums were for carrying mails, but they should have been charged to the Postoffice Department. The whole system of bookkeeping in the Postoffice Department tended to deceive the public.

Mr. Mulock replied that what he had done in this respect had been done by the Conservative Government. In dealing with the N. W. T., speaking of the withholding of statutory increases to outside service clerks Mr. Mulock said that the total amount was only $19,000, not $74,000, as Sir Adolphe Caron had recently said. This was because the number of the outside staff had been reduced by him by 135 in three years.

Mr. Mulock, after recess, instituted a comparison between the Postoffice Department of to-day and the Postoffice Department of 1896. He said there had been an enormous increase in all parts of the service. He prophesied that within a few months the Postoffice Department would yield a revenue equal to the revenue made in the department's palmiest days, even though the rates were now lower.

Mr. Foster reiterated his charge of manipulation of accounts.

Mr. McMillan eulogized Mr. Mulock and all his deeds.

Sir Adolphe retorted that Mr. McMillan's attacks were too indefinite, and defied anyone to point out irregularities in his work while he was at the head of the Postoffice Department. Sir Adolphe scored Mr. Mulock for withholding the statutory increases from the junior members of the service, like the letter carriers. This pressed especially heavy upon the poorly paid clerks. Sir Adolphe thought that the Postoffice Department could never realize a surplus if a proper service were given to the country. He thought the duty on the newspapers was a retrograde step.

At the evening session Mr. Davis spoke for half an hour.

Mr. Craig followed, and pointed out that the Government was really obstructing the passing of its own estimates. The truth was, the Government was prolonging the session.

Dr. Mulock's Estimates.

At 10 o'clock the House got down to business, and remained on one item for over an hour. The item amounted to $3,655,483, and covered mail service, salaries and compassionate allowances. Mr. Mulock explained that he intended to go through the whole service and appoint worthy temporary clerks to permanent positions in the outside service.

Mr. Puttee appeared as the representative of the Trades and Labor Council of Toronto, and asked that the claims of the letter carriers should be attended to. Mr. Puttee thought these requests were reasonable, and demanded an answer. He deprecated the plan of cutting down the working staff below efficiency, as had been done in Toronto. Such cheese-paring hurt the service.

In reply Mr. Mulock said that he was not aware there was any postoffice in Canada where the letter carriers did not get their holidays. The temporary clerks were not given holidays, because the statutes prohibited it.

At 12.30 a. m. the discussion ran to salaries of postmasters in rural districts.

David Rogers and Dr. Rutherford urged the Postmaster-General to increase their remuneration. Dr. Rutherford thought the postoffice should be taken to the people in rural districts instead of having the people go to the postoffice. The item carried at 12.40.

Passing to another item Mr. Powell asked why Mr. Mulock had not made a report to the House on the cancellation of mail-carrying contracts, a little scheme inaugurated by the present Postmaster-General. Mr. Powell understood that it was desired to have the legality of such cancellation tested. Mr. Mulock replied that there was no legal claim or equity.

The Postoffice estimates with the exception of the supplementaries, were passed and the remaining estimates on canals were taken up at 1.15 and the House adjourned shortly after.

The Green Sickness.

Girls who lack sufficient nerve force to develop into healthy womanhood become pale, weak, nervous and irritable. They have chlorosis or "green sickness" and can only be cured when the nerves are restored and re-vitalized and the blood made rich by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great restorative in pill form. It makes pale, weak women and girls healthy, rosy and plump. Note increase in weight while taking it.

Kidney Disease and Backache.

Mr. Patrick J. McLaughlin, Beauharnois, Que., states:—"I was troubled with kidney disease and dyspepsia for 20 years, and have been that bad I could not sleep at nights and suffered terrible agony. I tried all sorts of medicine, but got no relief until I began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They made a new man of me and the old troubles seem to be driven out of my system." One pill a dose. 25 cents a box.

THE GLASS OF FASHION.

Large all black hats are very fashionable this season and especially good style with the foulard gowns.

Gold and silver belts with snake head buckles are very popular, and as a less expensive substitute the gold ribbon is used.

Wide black taffeta silk collars finished with rows of stitching are a feature of the ecru linen gowns trimmed with bands piped with black.

Modified bishop sleeves are very much worn in the thin gowns and blouse waists; but, like so many other whims of fashion, they are not becoming to stout women.

The special fabric of the season is crepe de meteor. It is like crepe de chine with a satin finish, very soft and glossy, and comes in double width, both figured and plain.

Some of the new skirts are made with a silk drop skirt which has a ruffle of the material like the gown. This is made just long enough to clear the ground, so it is a simple matter to hold up the outside skirt.

Silk and lisle thread hosiery in lace-like openwork designs are the daintiest novelties in this department. They come in a variety of colors as well as black and lead the line for smart effects with the low cut patent leather shoes.

[illegible] and Patience.

What a world of [illegible] this statement embodies. Just what you are looking for, is it not? Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor—the great sure pop corn cure—acts in this way. It makes no sore spots, [illegible] and with certainty [illegible] without inflaming the parts [illegible]. Do not be imposed upon by [illegible] or substitution.

ASHBURNHAM PUBLIC SCHOOL

Report of June Promotions in the Ashburnham Schools.

Pupils have been promoted on the result of their work during the term as shown by the monthly reports. Pupils who come regularly and work faithfully always stand a good chance of being promoted at the end of the term. Pupils who remain away from school one or two days in each week cannot expect to make satisfactory progress.

This plan of promotion appears to give better results than are secured by having only a final examination at the end of the term.

The names below are in order of merit:—

CANADA AT THE PARIS EXPOSITION

A Belleville Man Tells of What He Saw of Canada at the World's Fair.

Mr. R. J. Graham, a well-known citizen of Belleville, recently returned from an European trip, which included a visit to the Paris exposition. Mr. Graham in an interview with the Belleville Intelligencer bears out what has been said by so many others regarding the Canadian building and the manner in which the Government has mismanaged the Canadian exhibit, which promises to be such an expensive one for the people. Mr. Graham was asked by the reporter if he would care to talk of his visit to the Paris exposition.

"Yes, I was there three days before I located the Canadian building in a remote corner. I met a man with 'Canada' on his cap walking about the grounds presumably to give information re our country and exhibits, who was very shabbily dressed and could not speak English—evidently a common laborer without education. This was the only man I met in the grounds save those working in the building who claimed to represent Canada. I think many of our manufacturers made a serious mistake by not sending one in charge of their exhibits to have them properly put up, as those in charge in many cases knew practically nothing about the exhibits or how to dress them or their points of merit, the result being they show to great disadvantage. I think the Government could well have improved on the exhibits of the natural products of the country, and refrained from putting up manufactured goods that would not compare favorably with those of their competitors of other countries. Those of our exhibits as were there arranged, except in the cases mentioned, in my judgment, were not as artistically arranged or decorated as those of European countries."

"In what way do you consider the Canadian exhibit has not been properly conducted?"

"The building is very shabby and very unsuitable to make a proper exhibit in, and those who are setting up the exhibit find considerable fault, having had to decorate the wood with bunting, etc. Whoever built the buildings did a very bad job, and they are located in a corner out of the way. I have met several Canadians who were at the exposition, but did not find the Canadian building at all."

"I understand you said the exhibit was not open when you left Paris; what was the date of your leaving?"

"We were at the Exhibition from May 15th to 26th. The Canadian building was not open then and they did not expect to have it ready for some time."

"Did you hear, while you were in Paris, any comments about the way the Canadian exhibit was conducted?"

"Yes. I met several Canadians who were as much disgusted as myself, and I understood from employees that Canadians were daily complaining. I heard considerable unfavorable comments made by others, especially English and United States people. The Peterborough and Lakefield Canoe Co. have creditable exhibits in the Marine buildings."

"Would you care to give an opinion as to what the cost of the building would be in which the Canadian exhibit was placed?"

"The building is a very ordinary affair. Nothing expensive or artistic about it. I should say $20,000 would put up a much better one here. Whoever built it or planned it need not feel proud of their job, and it certainly is very unsatisfactory to those in charge of the exhibits. It is not a credit to our country."

"Were the other branches of the Paris Exposition open at the time you left?"

"Several of the other national buildings were completed and opened to the public among them the U.S., Italian and German, and the vicinity of ours the French colonies had their buildings all completed and opened to the public. The Australian exhibit is along side of ours; does not occupy so much space; was not yet complete, but I found their men there nights working, while our buildings were closed up. I found Mr. Jardine, of Toronto, doing his best to arrange the exhibit, but the building was was so badly built and so late in completion that it was impossible for him to put things in proper shape."

"You have no objection to your name being used in the press in connection with this matter?"

"No. The wooden exhibit under Mr. Munson, an old Belleville boy, was about complete and well arranged also, the cereals were well put up under the direction of Mr. W. H. Day, an experimental farm employee, but the rest of the exhibit was in a state of chaos. The dairy building had been bungled and was not ready and not likely to be for some time. In my judgment the Canadian exhibit has been very badly managed, and from what I can learn has cost our country entirely too much. I think the Government deserves criticism and severe censure for their conduct in this case."

Kidney Disease and Backache.

Mr. Patrick J. McLaughlin, Beauharnois, Que., states:—"I was troubled with kidney disease and dyspepsia for 20 years, and have been that bad I could not sleep at nights and suffered terrible agony. I tried all sorts of medicine, but got no relief until I began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They made a new man of me and the old troubles seem to be driven out of my system." One pill a dose. 25 cents a box.

THE GLASS OF FASHION.

Large all black hats are very fashionable this season and especially good style with the foulard gowns.

Gold and silver belts with snake head buckles are very popular, and as a less expensive substitute the gold ribbon is used.

Wide black taffeta silk collars finished with rows of stitching are a feature of the ecru linen gowns trimmed with bands piped with black.

Modified bishop sleeves are very much worn in the thin gowns and blouse waists; but, like so many other whims of fashion, they are not becoming to stout women.

The special fabric of the season is crepe de meteor. It is like crepe de chine with a satin finish, very soft and glossy, and comes in double width, both figured and plain.

Some of the new skirts are made with a silk drop skirt which has a ruffle of the material like the gown. This is made just long enough to clear the ground, so it is a simple matter to hold up the outside skirt.

Silk and lisle thread hosiery in lacelike openwork designs are the daintiest novelties in this department. They come in a variety of colors as well as black and lead the line for smart effects with the low-cut patent leather shoes.

Safe, sure, and Painless.

What a world of meaning this statement embodies. Just what you are looking for, is it not? Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor—the great sure pop corn cure—acts in this way. It makes no sore spots; acts speedily and with certainty; sure and safely, without inflaming the parts, painlessly. Do not be imposed upon by imitations or substitutes.

ASHBURNHAM PUBLIC SCHOOL

Report of June Promotions in the Ashburnham Schools.

Pupils have been promoted on the result of their work during the term as shown by the monthly reports. Pupils who come regularly and work faithfully always stand a good chance of being promoted at the end of the term. Pupils who remain away from school one or two days in each week cannot expect to make satisfactory progress.

This plan of promotion appears to give better results than are secured by having only a final examination at the end of the term.

The names below are in order of merit:—

Winwood, 2:25¼, by Arrowwood, stepped a last half recently at the Jackson (Mich.) track in 1:11½, the last quarter in 34 seconds.

Neil Alcyoner, 2:14¼, has been entered in several of the grand circuit stakes and will not be seen as a guideless wonder this season.

George King of Springboro, Pa., acting for horsemen in Europe, has just purchased the fast trotting mare Shedd Wilkes, 2:16¼. She will be shipped in the near future.

The wise ones who keep an eye on the form of light harness horses regard Will Leyburn, 2:10¼, by Wilton, as one of the best pacers that will appear in the 2:10 class this season.

Anaconda, 2:03¼, and Klatawah, 2:05½, have arrived at Cleveland in charge of John Blue. Before leaving Pleasanton Anaconda paced a mile in 2:07, the first half in 1:07 and the last half in 1:00 flat.

At Newmarket, England, the other day Tod Sloane, the American jockey, won the last race of the meeting, the Flying handicap, on Zanoni. Previously he also captured the Breeders' stakes on the Dunover colt and was second in three other events.

ROUNDING UP THE BOERS

London, July 3—An important step in the attempt to round up the Boer commandos still active in the Orange River Colony is recorded by Lord Roberts to-day. He reports from Pretoria that Gen. Hunter has crossed the Vaal River from the Transvaal into Orange Colony and should have reached Frankfort, twenty miles south of the river, yesterday (Monday). Here he was expected to be joined by MacDonald's Brigade from Heilbron. Gen. Roberts fu-ther reports that Gen. Buller's leading brigade has gone to Graylingstad in the Transvaal on a direct line north from Frankfort. Buller's move is part of the scheme to tighten the lines about the Boers.

SITUATION IN CHINA STILL UNCHANGED

The Situation in Pekin was Desperate when this Informant left--German Reinforcements Start for China.

THE SITUATION WAS DESPERATE

Tien Tsin, June 29 via. Che Foo, July 1 and Shanghai, July 3—A courier from Sir Robert Hart. Inspector General of Customs at Pekin, has just arrived. He left Pekin on Monday, June 25, and reports the situation desperate. All of the legations except the British, German and Italian have been destroyed. The diplomats and missionaries are in the British legation under rifle fire. Cannon commanded the legations but they are not being used. It is impossible to start relief to Pekin at present. Capt. McCalla, commander of the United States Newark, reports 50,000 soldiers will be required for the rescue of the ministers.

GERMAN REINFORCEMENTS

Wilhelshaven, July 3—The Transports Wittekind and Franktfurt with 2100 marines on board, sailed this morning to reinforce tho German contingent in China.

COKE LOCATES THE ENEMY.

Buller Wires That the 10th Brigade Found 2,000 Boers, With Guns, in the Transvaal.

London, July 3. — The War Office has received the following despatch from Gen. Buller:

"Standerton, Sunday, July 1. — Gen. Talbot Coke (Major-General John Talbot Coke), with the 10th Brigade, reconnoitered June 29 towards Amersfoort (Transvaal), and found the enemy there, with guns, in a strong position. Having shelled them, he retired, and was not followed up. His casualties were two killed and six wounded."

Commandant Botha on Bail.

Cape Town, July 2.—Commandant Phillip Botha (who was captured by the British near Kroonstad, May 17) has been released under heavy bail. He is to reside at Aliwal North until the conclusion of his preliminary examination.

That Indian Uprising.

Rat Portage, July 3.—Now that the Indians have been discovered in their concerted plan to make trouble, it is improbable that anything will come of it. The authorities have visited their camping grounds and warned them of their danger should they attempt anything in the shape of an uprising.

Schooner Picton Is Lost.

Belleville, Ont., July 3. — The schooner Annie Minnes arrived in port last evening, and her crew confirm the loss of the schooner Picton off Charlotte. Her captain says he was within two miles of the Picton when she foundered, but he was unable to render an assistance.

TRAGEDY AT ORANGEVILLE.

Ottaway Hunter Shoots Gertie Nixon, the Girl He Loved.

He Then Suicided—Both Were Attending the Dominion Day Games at Idylwyld Park—Young Man Was Maddened by Jealously — Both Left Toronto in the Morning — Miss Nixon May Die.

Orangeville, Ont., July 3.—Maddened by jealousy, Ottaway Hunter, a young man 19 years of age, shot Gertie Nixon yesterday afternoon, and then, pressing the muzzle of the weapon to his own heart, pulled the trigger and killed himself.

The terrible occurrence took place in Idylwyld Park about 4.30 o'clock in the afternoon. A concourse of nearly 1,000 spectators were intently watching the lacrosse match between the Dufferins and the Tuscarora Indian team.

Two Shots Were Heard

Suddenly the sharp crack of a revolver was heard at the south end of the grounds. A second later the report rang out again, and the horrified crowd saw a young woman and a man stagger and fall to earth almost at the same instant. There was a wild rush for the spot, and a scene of great excitement ensued until the prostrate victims were carried from the grounds.

Hunter died where he fell, and his lifeless body was taken to the Town Hall, where an inquest was held last night.

The other victim was carried to Mrs. Murray's residence near by, where she now lies in a precarious condition, with a bullet lodged in one of her lungs.

Gertie Nixon, the female victim, is the only daughter of Mr. Thomas Nixon of Mono Township. She was 17 years of age and very pretty.

Infatuated With the Victim.

Hunter is a son of the late Isaac Hunter of Caledon. His mother, Mrs. Samuel Montgomery, resides in Orangeville. He appears to have been infatuated of Miss Nixon, but if reports are to be believed, his love was not requited.

The two kept company for some time about a year ago. Her lover, becoming very persistent in his attentions, the young lady tried to get out of his way by going to Toronto last February. There she secured a situation in the T. Eaton store, where she has since been employed. Shortly afterwards Hunter also went to the city, and is said to have been working in the C.P.R. freight shed.

Both parties came to Orangeville yesterday morning to spend Dominion Day in town. Hunter had dinner at his mother's home, and Miss Nixon wheeled out to Isaac Nicholson's in Mono. She returned to Orangeville in the afternoon, and went to Idylwyld along with some friends.

Was Watching the Game.

When the shooting occurred she was standing watching the lacrosse game along with a young man named Nicholson. Hunter stood just behind them for a short time before committing the awful deed.

Witnesses who saw the deed say Hunter stepped up to Miss Nixon, and said: "Are you coming with me? If you don't, I'll shoot."

Miss Nixon turned round and said: "Well, shoot!"

Thereupon Hunter shot Miss Nixon from behind, the bullet entering the spinal column just below the shoulders.

The unfortunate girl is paralyzed from the waist downwards, and Drs. [illegible] Carr and Lewis, who have [illegible] her, hold out slight hopes for her recovery.

Miss Nixon Was Conscious.

She remained quite conscious from the first, and to those around her said she could not understand why Hunter had done the awful deed. They had not quarreled openly, nor had he ever threatened her in any way.

Her widowed mother is at her bedside, and by the dead body in the Town Hall sits another heartbroken mother, to whom death has come in its most terrible form.

Two Ottawa Fatalities.

Ottawa, July 3.—Thomas Barret of Hamilton, who worked here as a laborer, was drowned in the Ottawa River Sunday evening, while crossing what is known as the Bronson boom. Barret was walking ahead of two companions and fell in. They were unable to save him.

J. B. Kennedy, a brakesman on the Canadian Pacific Railway, was killed at Hintonburgh Sunday morning.

Heart Failure Killed Him.

Montreal, July 3.—Summerville Weir, stock broker, and son of William Weir, late of the Banque Ville Marie, died last evening at his summer residence, Back River. Heart failure was the cause of death.

The Daily Review.
TUESDAY, JULY 3, 1900.

Walked Into the Arms of Death.

The London Graphic says that the queen's action in bestowing upon Lady Roberts the Victoria cross which was awarded to her ill fated son, although of rare occurrence, is not altogether unique.

The first case in which the much coveted distinction was conferred upon a deceased soldier was during the Indian mutiny, when the fuse attached to some powder bags placed at the gate of one of the enemy's forts proving ineffectual an officer coolly held his lighted cigar to the explosive and, with the gate, was blown to atoms.

Another posthumous bestowal was that conferred upon Lieutenants Melvill and Coghill, whose heroic behavior with the colors at Isandhlwana is still fresh in the memory.

SIMPLE DISPEPSIA CURE

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Simple in Action, Sure in Effect.

It's just as easy to make a bonfire of an iceberg as it is for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, or any kind of stomach trouble to resist the action of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

This is a big assertion. But it's a big fact. The experience of thousands has proved it, and all men can't be liars. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets can't help curing Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, etc. They do it very simply and easily, too. They digest the food. The stomach does not help. It rests, and the Tablets give it strength and vigor—make it over—new, in fact. That's all there is about it.

One or two Tablets will prove their worth. Are you tortured with a dead weight on the stomach after eating? Take a couple of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets after your meal, and see if they don't relieve you. They digest the food that your weak, exhausted, stomach can't digest.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cure Dyspepsia, Indigestion, etc., so quickly, easily and pleasantly, that you forget you ever were troubled with it. Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets purify the blood, restore the shattered nerves, give new vigor to stomach and bowels, and make the complexion pure and clear. These effects follow the proper digestion of food, as surely as day follows night.

Who would walk, open eyed, into a furnace at white heat? Who would deliberately tread, bare-foot, on a rattle snake? Who would suffer from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, or any of their kindred ills, when for fifty cents, a box of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, a positive, unfailing and speedy cure for these diseases can be got?

Heat Cure.

"Did the doctor give you something to cure your neuralgia, Edgar?"

"No; I got awfully mad because he kept me waiting so long. Then I felt better and came away."—Chicago Record.

TERRIBLE DISASTER BY FIRE.

200 Lives Lost in a Conflagration at New York City.

Three of the Fine Steamships of the North German Lloyd Line Burned and a Property Damage of $10,000,000 Incurred—In Three Hours the Awful Havoc at the Docks Was Wrought—Supposed to Have Been Started From a Workman's Pipe.

New York, July 3.—Almost $10,000,000 worth of property was destroyed, many lives were lost, many persons were injured, and at least 1,500 lives were imperilled by fire that started among cotton bales, stored on pier No. 3 of the North German Lloyds Steamship Company in Hoboken, at 4 o'clock on Saturday afternoon. In less than 15 minutes the flames covered an area a quarter of a mile long, extending outward from the actual shore line to the bulkheads from 600 to 1,000 feet away, and had caught three great ocean liners and a dozen or more smaller harbor craft in its grasp.

Those who gathered along the shores of the Hudson River to witness the great conflagration, saw a spectacle that they can never forget, and one that will always have a conspicuous place in the history of New York.

How the Fire Started.

Fire in a bale of cotton on Pier 3, the most southerly of the four piers belonging to the North German Lloyd Line, started the conflagration. It was a few minutes after 4 o'clock when O. L. Spengler, an employe of the transportation company which handles the baggage at the North German Lloyd piers, walked into his company's office to count up and to carry away the money which was there. Looking down the pier as he entered the office he saw a bale of cotton ablaze.

Disaster in Three Hours.

By 7 o'clock the three piers of the North German Lloyd Steamship Company had been burned to the ground.

The southern end of the Campbell Storage Company building, consisting of five five-story structures, caught fire and flames shot out from every window from the two floors in a few minutes. The buildings, being filled mainly with jute and whiskey, made good food for the fire. The fire was so hot that the firemen were unable to go within fighting distance, and the flames had pretty much their own way there.

Efforts to Save the Ships.

Four North German Lloyd liners were lying at the piers. No ship was at either side of the pier on which the fire started. On the south side of Pier 2 lay the Saale. On the opposite side of that pier the Bremen was tied up, and on the south side of Pier 1 lay the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse. On the north side of Pier 1 lay the Main, a brand-new ship which had crossed the ocean only twice. As soon as it was seen that a conflagration was threatened the attention of all the employes of the line was turned to saving the ships. The stream immediately in front of th erunning piers soon swarmed with tugs. The Kaiser was the first to connect with its tugs, but after they had made fast to her stern her great steel hawsers were still holding her to the pier. Already the heat made it impossible for men to handle those hawsers and cast them loose from the mooring posts.

"Chop the hawsers in two!" yelled some one in the crowd.

It was the work of only a moment to bring axes, and stout arms began hacking away at the steel ropes. One after another the hawsers snaped in two, and slowly the great liner moved out into the stream. Before she was clear of the pier, however, it was seen that her starboard bow was afire. The crew immediately got to work on that part of the vessel, and by the time she was well out in the stream the fire was practically out.

Awful Sight on the Saale.

While the crew of the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse was at work on her the crews of the Saale, the Bremen and the Main were doing their best to save those ships. The Saale was the next of the four to get out into the river. As she swung clear of the pier she was a mass of flame and smoke. She was afire from stem to stern. Persons afloat and ashore heard heartrending cries from the men aboard. Suddenly heads were seen at portholes on the port side and then brawny arms were waving frantically out of the same holes. As the first head appeared a man on a lighter near Pier 2 yelled:

"For God's sake, somebody go to the Saale! A lot of the crew are down in the hold."

Tugs ran up as close to the burning vessel as they could and pikes were made fast to some of the portholes. Desperate attempts were made by those at the portholes to get a firm hold on the pikes, but it is feared that many who were in the Saale's hold when she swung clear were burned to death.

The Bremen's hawser had to be chopped before she could swing loose. Once free, she moved out into the stream and was towed over towards the New York shore about opposite Desbrosses street. The fire boats, finding they could do nothing to save the Saale, abandoned her and ran up alongside the Bremen. Their streams had been playing upon the Bremen are simply kidney disorders. The kidneys filter the blood of all that shouldn't be there. The blood passes through the kidneys every three minutes. If the kidneys do their work no impurity or cause of disorder can remain in the circulation longer than that time. Therefore if your blood is out of order your kidneys have failed in their work. They are in need of stimulation, strengthening or doctoring. One medicine will do all three, the finest and most imitated blood medicine there is

No Help for the Main.

But by the time any one thought to ask after the fate of the Main she was beyond the possibility of saving. As has been said, she was on the north side of Pier 1, the most northern of the North German Lloyd piers. She was fitted with what are known as sunsails. As the flames swept northward from one pier to another they found fair fuel in these pieces of canvas, and before any one realized it the ship was afire from stem to stern. So quickly did the flames catch and hold her that no attempt was made to save her. Moored to her pier she lay and burned to the water's edge.

Among the dead are a number of officers. The body of Capt. Mirow of the Saale has been found, burned so as to be unrecognizable.

Six Women Perished.

At least six women, stewardesses, perished on the Saale. They fought hard to live, scrambling to the portholes and begging the men in the fleet of little tugboats that hung about the liner.

"For the love of God, take us out!" they cried, and begged the firemen to play the hose upon them.

The men on the wrecking boats wept and sobbed like children. They thought of their own wives and families at home. None of them had ever been present at so awful a sight.

111 Out of 252 on the Saale.

From a very reliable source, it was learned that the officers of the Saale had accounted for 111 persons, out of a total of 252, who were on board at the outbreak of the fire.

Some of the Larger Losses.

The steamship Main of the North German Lloyd Line cost $1,500,000, outside of the cargo, fittings and stores. The loss is placed at $1,200,000 for the vessel, and about $400,000 for the fittings and stores and cargo that were aboard her.

The steamship Bremen of the North German Lloyd Line cost $1,150,000, and her fittings and cargo were valued at $300,000. The cargo and stores were entirely consumed, and the loss to the vessel proper will amount to at least $700,000.

The Saale, the steamship which will have the most horrible story of death to unfold when the divers go down in her, cost the North German Lloyd Company $1,250,000, and the fittings and cargo were valued at $300,000. The damage to the vessel proper is placed at about $800,000.

The damage done to the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse is estimated at $25,000.

The three docks of the North German Lloyd line man Lloyd Line, which were burned to the water's edge, are estimated to have cost $300,000. The docks were well filled with merchandise, just received fromabroad, ceived from abroad, and valued at $350,000.

The Thingvalla pier, which was entirely consumed, was valued at $50,000, counting the stores which were on it.

STILL FINDING THE DEAD.

Other Facts Which Show the Appalling Loss of Life.

New York, July 3.—The partially submerged hulks of the huge North German Lloyd steamers Saale, Bremen and Main lie smoking in the upper bay and North River, apparently thoroughly wrecked. These German merchantmen hold many dead men within their iron sides. A police patrol forbids near approach to the sunken steamers, and warns off the curious who hover about in row boats. Eleven charred bodies now in the New York morgue were taken from the deck of the Saale, and divers are expected to bring up scores. Charred logs, sections of planking from half burned scows and lighters and other wreckage are drifting about the upper and lower bays, compelling steamers to pick their way with caution, to save their screws and paddles.

Dead Nearly All Employes.

It is not yet possible to state accurately the number of dead, but the first reports of the fire, which represented the steamers and the piers as containing many visitors and prospective passengers, are not borned out by investigation, and it seems likely that nearly all of the victims of the disaster were employed in some capacity by the steamship company. However, the loss of life is appalling.

Forty Bodies Recovered.

Forty bodies have been recovered, hundreds are missing, and no estimate of the number of dead now falls below 200. Of many of the dead no trace will ever be found, their bodies having been reduced to ashes in the furnaces. Nearly all of the members of the crews had their homes in Germany, and news of the disaster will carry sorrow to many a fireside in the Fatherland. No missing, except those employed about the steamers, have been reported to the police or to the company.

Most of the estimates of loss do not fall below $10,000,0000. Insurance men are rejoicing over the fact that the risks on the steamers were placed abroad.

May Have Been a Pipe.

New York, July 3.—Notwithstanding the immediate investigation set on foot by the North German Lloyd Steamship Company, the cause of the fire has not been determined satisfactorily. It is now believed that one of the gang of laborers dropped the contents of a lighted pipe.

Bryan Dominates.

Kansas City, July 3.—The throb and thrill of a great national assemblage is beginning to take possession of this young queen city of the southwest. Throughout the day there has been a steady tramp, tramp of incoming thousands by every train. The dominating influence of Mr. Bryan over the convention has been made perfectly manifest. To-day the convention will likely get down to business.

Waterloo 100 Years Old.

Waterloo, Ont., July 3.—The musical societies of Waterloo and Berlin celebratated Dominion Day on a grand scale here yesterdayt, the centennial of Waterloo County. It is exactly 100 years since the first settler arrived from Dundas, wheeling his belongings all the distance in a wheelbarrow. The celebration opened with a patriotic, historic and calithumpian parade.

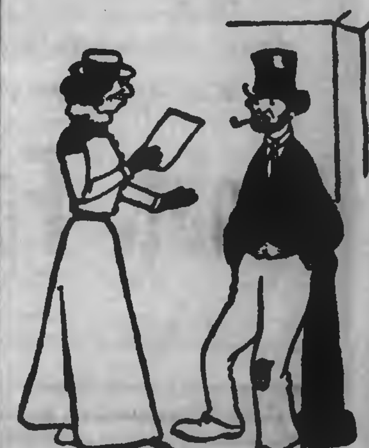
Rio Janeiro, July 3.—The total number of bubonic plague cases reported since Jan. 4, is 224. The fatalities number 99.

Wanted the Real Thing.



Miss Stiggins—Ah, my friend, I can see you're a poor, erring sinner! Here is food for reflection.

Tramp—Thank yer all the same, mum, but don't yer think a little food for digestion 'ud do a chap like me more good?

He saw the hole in the sack when he was filling it. But it was such a little hole that he thought it wouldn't matter. Out of that little hole he lost his grain while taking it to market.

It's that way with holes in the health. None are so small but life can leak out of them. "I've got a little touch of indigestion" says one man. Another says, "my stomach feels a little out of sorts." It is just such little things which if neglected mean the total loss of health.

The one medicine for disorders and diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the activity of the whole digestive and nutritive system, clears away obstructions, stops the loss the body sustains by undigested or partly digested food, purifies the blood from the poisons resulting from imperfect digestion, and increases the activities of the blood-making glands. "Golden Medical Discovery" has a wonderful record of cures of so-called "hopeless" cases.

Mr. Thos. [illegible], of Henry, Lincoln Co., N. C., says: "After having suffered from inaction of the liver and all the troubles usually attending such a condition for over twenty years, and having deluged my system with floods of medicine from every available source, and being only temporarily benefited thereby, I applied to your institution for treatment. You instructed me to take a course of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which I am now doing. Although unable to strictly follow directions I have derived more actual benefit from the few bottles I have taken so far than from all the other remedies together.

Allow me to thank you for your prompt and courteous attention to my case as well as for your good treatment [illegible]."

MUST SATISFY THE GERMANS

Murderers of Von Ketteler Will Be Taken to Task for the Deed.

Emperor Will Insist Upon Full Satisfaction for the Murder of His Minister and Will Send 20,000 Men to China to Enforce His Demands—New Battleships Will be Sent to Increase the German Fleet—Situation Is Desperate.

London, July 3. — (3.30 a.m.) — The allies are not advancing for the relief of Pekin. This announcement to the House of Commons by Mr. William St. John Broderick, Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, was received with exclamations of astonishment and dismay.

Sir Edward Bartlett inquired if any information had been received from the legations at Pekin or as to the composition or the command of the relieving forces and its present position.

Mr. Broderick read the despatch received to-day, and said that the total allied force available is now about 13,000, as troops have been rapidly arriving, adding:

"We do not yet know what arrangements have been made locally regarding the command of an expedition, but it has not yet been thought possible to attend a further advance. The consuls have been in communication with the viceroys in the Yangtse region, and they are quite aware that support will be given them by Her Majesty's Governments in preserving order. It is obviously impossible that the representative of the powers at Pekin should be consulted, as no communications are passing with them."

The Situation is Desperate.

"The situation is desperate, Hasten," these words from the message of Von Bergen, a member of the German Legation at Pekin, countersigned by Sir Robert Hart, Inspector-General of Customs, and dated nine days ago, was the theme of all private comment. They are preparations for news of a frightful tragedy. Nine days ago the ammunition of the littl days ago the ammunition of the little garrison defending the foreigners was running low, and that food was nearly exhausted, while around them was a hord of Kan Su braves, having at their service Krupp guns and repeating rifles. Pekin was in the hands of the revolutionaries.

GERMANY TO SEND 20,000 MEN.

Will Insist on Full Satisfaction for Murder of the Minister.

Berlin, July 3.—From well authenticated reports, the Associated Press is able to state that yesterday, after detailed statements by Count Von Buelow, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, regarding the Chinese situation, Emperor William made up his mind to insist upon full satisfaction for the death of Baron Von Ketteler, for which purpose he resolved to send armed forces, approximately as large as those of the other powers chiefly interested in restoring order in China. The precise size of the force has not yet been determined, but it is expected that it will altogether amount to a score of thousands. A considerable portion of the German fleet will be sent also.

How German Minister Was Killed.

Berlin, July 3.—Privy Councillor Hamann informed the correspondent of the Associated Press yesterday that the official despatch announcing Baron Von Ketteler's assassination was received here early yesterday. It was based on a direct written message, conveyed from Pekin, and signed by Von Bergen, a member of the German legation at Pekin, and Sir Robert Hart, the Inspector-General of Customs. It was addressed to the commander of the European forces at Tien Tsin, and was forwarded June 29 by Consul Zimmerman to the German consul at Che Foo. The message contained a number of interesting details.

Baron Von Ketteler, while riding on horseback to Tsung Li Yamen (Foreign Office), on June 18, was attacked by large numbers of Chinese, who pulled him off his horse and beat him to death. An interpreter who was with him was seriously injured, but escaped, and subsequently reached the German legation.

Herr Hamann supposes that there was more bloodshed at the legation, the destruction of which, he declares, was more alarming because the message adds that the condition of the whites in Pekin was desperate, and aid was imperatively needed. It was also announced that the ammunition of the legation guards was almost exhausted.

Russians Moving on Pekin.

Moscow, July 3. — A despatch from Port Arthur says that the Russian cruisers Rurik and Vladimir Monomach have arrived with fresh troops from Vladivostock. The Russia-Chinese Railway between Kirin and Moukden is guarded by 5,000 Russians, and an equal number of troops is advancing from Moukden on Pekin. A force of 11,000 Chinese gathered from the district through which this Russian force is passing, is marching in the same direction.

Corroborated by Kempff.

Washington, July 3.—The Navy Department has received the following from Admiral Kempff (undated):

"A rumor from Pekin reports legations are besieged. Provisions nearly exhausted. German Minister going to Tsung Li Yamen murdered by Chinese soldiers. American, Italian, Dutch legations burned. Twenty thousand Chinese inside, 30,000 outside Pekin; 3,000 reported bound for Tien Tsin; still fighting at Tien Tsin. Communication with Tien Tsin by rail and river insecure."

Seven Italians Killed.

Rome, July 3.—The commander of the Italian warship Elba cables from Taku that the Italian detachment at Tien Tsin had a lieutenant and six sailors killed during the recent fighting there.

NO LACK OF LITHO STONES.

Supply In Bavaria Will Last For Two Centuries at Least.

Stones on which drawings in process of lithography are done are found in different sections of this country, but they are of a poor quality. Their clayey substance is mixed with gritty particles which interfere with the smoothing of the slabs to a perfect surface. Hence lithographers in this country have to depend upon a foreign supply of these stones. Heretofore the supply has been sufficient, but every little while the rumor is circulated that it soon will be insufficient. The best, indeed nearly all, of these stones come from Bavaria, and our consul at Nuremberg has reported on the subject to the state department.

According to him most of the ground beneath which the litho stones lie belongs to the communities of Solnhofen and Moernsheim, and therefore each of these communities has a share in the ground. From time to time each of the communities measures out a new stretch of land and divides it into lots, and each homestead owner gets his part. He either can explore the ground himself or sell his claim to one of the larger owners. The ground itself, after it has been deprived of its costly treasure, becomes again the property of the community. One would suppose that these communities are rich, but these Solnhofeners never have understood how to utilize the monopoly which they practically possess. They undersold each other, and the result was that up to about a year ago their profit was modest. In January, 1899, they formed a combination and now get more satisfactory prices.

The blue or gray stones are the most costly, as they are harder and better for engraving, and more copies can be obtained from them. Being harder, they stand the polishing on both sides better than the yellow ones and therefore are used chiefly for exportation to the United States. In fact, the United States takes only these double faced stones, which can be worked by the printer from both sides. The Germans, on the other hand, are wont to use single faced stones. Every stone does not take polish on both sides. A stone may be good on one side while on the other it is unfit for use, has flaws, splits, etc. Such blemishes are not always apparent on the surface, but may come out when the stone is worked upon by the printer. It requires, therefore, skilled workmen who have been in the trade from their childhood to see that none but good stones leave their hands.—Chicago Chronicle.

"LABBY" AS AN ATTACHE.

He Got Even With the Red Tape Head of His Legation.

Once I served under a minister who was the incarnation of officialdom. He looked with humble and reverential awe on all the tomfooleries of red tapeism, as though they were of equal value with the Ten Commandments. At that time all dispatches from a minister to the foreign secretary had to finish as follows, if he were a peer:

> I have the honor to be, with the highest respect,
> My lord,
> Your lordship's
> Most humble,
> Obedient servant.

One day I took him a batch of dispatches among which he discovered one in which I had written "Most humble, obedient servant" in one line instead of two. He started back with horror depicted on his countenance. "Good heavens!" he said, "do you wish to ruin me? Look, look!" and he pointed to the words. "What's the matter with them?" I said. "Do you not know," he replied, "that it ought to be in two lines?" "Why should it be?" I asked. "There are no doubt good reasons," he answered. "If you treat with disrespect rules that have been laid down for our guidance, I am afraid that you will never advance in your profession."

It was not long before I had my revenge on the worthy red tapist. Dispatches were not allowed to be sent home unless sealed with sealing wax. The chancery ran out of this article, and I asked him for more. "What I gave you," he said, "a little time ago ought not to have been used so carelessly that none remains. I shall not give you any more before a month hence." He was in the habit of writing home long, twaddling dispatches by the bushel, and at the end of the month there were some 20 or 30 of them which, instead of sending home, I had carefully deposited in a drawer. Then I mentioned this to him, adding that there was a rule which forbade them being sent except in sealed envelopes—a rule that I had not felt justified in violating after his valuable observations on obedience to orders. The cruel thing to him was that no one at the foreign office had complained of his silence or had seemed desirous that it should be broken. If he realized that he had in me a model attache, he did not express this opinion of me aloud.—Labouchere in London Truth.

Proved Too Much.

The troubles of housekeepers with their "help" are endless, and many that actually happen are quite as funny as those that find their way into print through the active imaginations of the gifted young men who write for the comic journals.

The mistress of an establishment went into the kitchen one morning to see how her new cook was getting along.

There was a wash basin in the sink, half full of water, and a cake of soap was floating in it.

"This is wasteful, Keturah," she said. "When you wash your hands, always take out the soap and empty the water."

"I haven't used that washpan at all today, ma'am!" replied Keturah indignantly.

The next day Keturah was hunting for a new situation.

The Canny Scot.

In the differences that would sometimes arise between members of his tenantry the Duke of Argyll was often invited to arbitrate upon the matter in dispute, and he used to tell a characteristically Scottish story of one of the occasions. Two tenants having waited upon him and asked him to decide the question at issue, the duke put what he always regarded as a very necessary preliminary question, "Will you abide by my award?"

"Well, your grace," was the reply of one of the hard headed old disputants, "I'd like to ken first what it is."—London Chronicle.

AWEDDING EVENT

Marriage of Mr. J. J. English, of Hastings, and Miss Ella Cahill.

A wedding of much interest was celebrated at St. Peter's cathedral this morning at nine o'clock. It was the marriage of Mr. John J. English, of Hastings, to Miss M. E. Cahill, eldest daughter of the late Thos. Cahill, Esq. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Maguire, of Hastings, assisted by Ven. Archdeacon Casey. The wedding was of a private nature, only the members of the family of the bride and groom being present.

Miss Aggie Cahill, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Mr. Wm. English, of Stirling, attended the groom. The bride looked charming in a wedding gown of white silk and lace and wore a picture hat of black and white. She was given away by her uncle, Mr. Thos. Sheehan, of Bay City, Mich. The bridesmaid wore a gown of white organdie and a picture hat of black and white.

Mr. and Mrs. English left on the 11.27 C.P.R. express for Montreal, whence they will sail on Saturday for Europe. They will visit Paris and other continental points, returning in about two months. Their many friends will wish them a pleasant trip and a happy wedded life.

A Holiday Wedding.

A quiet wedding was happily solemnized at six o'clock last evening at the residence of Mr. Robt. Watt, when his daughter, Miss Bertha Watt, was married to Mr. Wm. H. Alsey. Rev. W. L. Armitage officiated. Her sister, Miss Violet Watt, attended the bride, and the groom was supported by Mr. Gladys Henderson. The happy couple, who will have the well wishes of many friends, left for a honeymoon trip to Detroit and the west.

THE ANNUAL HOSPITAL PICNIC

BIG GATHERING ON THE GROUNDS OF THE MURRAY STREET SCHOOL.

A Variety of Pleasing Attractions for the Day—Big Attendance of Visitors—Entertainment for the Public.

The annual picnic of the congregation of St. Peter's cathedral in aid of St. Joseph's hospital was held in the grounds of the Murray-st. school yesterday, and the same enterprise and industry which has made this picnic a success in former years again made the event the big attraction of the day in town. The crowd in attendance was large and there was an abundance of good things and a variety of entertainment for all. A great many of the townspeople enjoyed the day on the grounds and there were many visitors from outside town and the country round. The attendance in the afternoon and evening was especially large, a steady stream of pleasure seekers pouring in at the gates.

The dining tables were spread under large tents. The meals supplied by the ladies of the congregation were excellent in every way. The refreshment booths in connection with the different wards were also well looked after and did a thriving trade. "Sold out" was the word about dark.

The 57th Regimental band was on the grounds during the afternoon and evening and entertained the people with a great number and variety of selections. Their music was one of the most pleasing features of the day.

The dancing platform afforded an opportunity for enjoyment to the young people, of which a great many availed themselves.

Prof. McGrath, of Campbellford, gave interesting exhibitions of trapeze work in the afternoon and evening.

The grounds were decorated and were lighted in the evening with electric light. They presented a very attractive appearance.

The sports and games were well contested and afforded lots of interest. The events and winners were as follows:—

THE AUBURN PICNIC

The Auburn Sunday School Has a Pleasant Outing.

The annual outing of Auburn Sunday school was held yesterday to Stony lake, the Sunbeam carrying the excursionists from Lakefield. About two hundred and fifty children, parents and friends took in the trip, which proved most enjoyable and was accomplished without accident or incident to mar the pleasure. The excursionists had dinner at McCracken's Landing and then enjoyed a sail to Burleigh, where a couple of hours were spent. The run to Lakefield was delightful and the picnickers arrived home about eight o'clock delighted with the annual outing.

SEASON OPENING AT STONY LAKE

THE ISLANDS ARE TAKING ON SUMMER LIFE AND THE SEASON WILL SOON BE IN FULL BLAST

Many Were up for Dominion Day—Cottages That are Opened and Occupied—The Lake is a Picture at Present and Visitors are Enthusiastic.

There were crowds at Stony lake yesterday for the first time this season. It was a preliminary rustle before the rush which will begin in dead earnest the beginning of next week. Quite a crowd went up to the lakes on Saturday and remained until last evening or this morning.

Things are beautiful all over the lake. The bright green of spring has not left the trees or the verdure, and the islands appear in their prettiest attire. Already many Americans are at the lake as a result of the wide advertising done last season, and they are all enthusiastic over the picturesque scenery.

The Majestic and the Empress are ready for their season's work, and are equipped better than ever to meet all demands made of them. The Sunbeam is also on the lake route, running an evening and morning trip.

Capt. Scollard has the same crew with him and he dispenses his good-nature and draws on his patience the same as ever in attending to his duties. The Majestic is the same old reliable that she has always been. She is spick and span for the season.

Capt. Reynolds is still suffering from the injuries to his eyes resulting from his accident, but though his eyes are only mending slowly he can see a good thing in the Empress this season. And he has a trim, fast steamer, and no mistake. He is ready to try conclusions with anything on the Kawartha waters. On the holiday afternoon he had over thirty calls to make, but they were all made, and there was no rush in making Lakefield ahead of train time.

Capt. White had the Auburn excursion up for Dominion Day, and gave them a good glimpse of the lake and a safe ride. On Saturday evening he took up a crowd on the Sunbeam.

The cottages are fast getting into summer shape. Shutters are coming down and flags going up all over the lake, and signs of life increase every day.

A jolly crowd of young men are at "Ballyraggit," Mr. Dumble's island. Mr. Oscar Dumble is there for a two weeks' outing.

Mr. Marshall Wynn and family, of Toronto, went up to spend August at Mr. Ferguson's cottage at the "Syndicate."

Mr. and Mrs. R. Neill and family went up yesterday, and have occupied their

BASEBALL ON DOMINION DAY

PETERBOROUGH WINS MORNING GAME AND DROPS THE SECOND ONE TO COBOURG.

Large Crowd Present at the Morning Event—Good Play Seen—Peterborough and Port Hope Tied for First Place in League.

The baseball match on the P. A. A. A. grounds yesterday morning between Peterborough and Cobourg league teams was one of the best of the season and was appreciated by the large crowd present as first-class sport. Both teams put up good ball. The play of the home team especially was pleasing to the rooters, and many remarks were passed as to improvement in the team.

The superior work of the Peterborough battery, together with sharper infielding and better base running gave the home team the match by 7 runs to 1 and an innings to spare. McCabe pitched fine ball and was given good support. Except for an error or so, each at short stop and left field, Cobourg would have been shut out from a run.

In the first innings neither side scored. Cobourg filled the bases with two men out, but McCabe retired the third man with the others still on the bags. The second round was rapid work. Cobourg batters sent flies to Grady and Connors and one man struck out. Peterborough got the scoring started on good hits by Scott and Connors and netted 2 runs. There were no runs scored in the third, fourth or fifth innings. The 4th innings gave the spectators a couple of things worth seeing. They were a catch by Graham of a high foul, he having to run to the gate to get under it. Andy Scott made a great stop of a grounder.

In the 6th Cobourg tried to take up the slack and again filled the bases. They scored their first and only run. Peterborough scored 2 more; Parnell made a 2-base hit, but was caught stealing third. In the 7th Earls made a home run, smashing the ball over the fence. The crowd was joyful. In the last three innings not a Cobourg man got to second base. In the 8th the home team made 2

THE NEW PASTOR AT GEORGE STREET

REV. MR. WILSON GREETS HIS CONGREGATION ON SUNDAY.

The Mixed Feelings Which Occupy a Clergyman's Mind on Such an Occasion—His First Address.

Rev Mr Wilson, the new pastor of the George-st church, late of Oshawa, has entered upon his pastorate and addressed his congregation for the first time on Sunday morning. While not an eloquent preacher Rev Mr Wilson is straightforward, earnest, sincere and impressive in his pulpit style and brings his thoughts home to his hearers clearly and forcefully. He is evidently a man of wide reading, both of Scripture and of a general nature. In addressing his congregation Sunday morning he spoke a few words on the change that had taken place, saying:—

I am this morning feeling a new experience that comes to a Methodist minister once in a while. It seems to me I am never able to become accustomed to these changes or take kindly to them. It is very difficult to break the old associations, especially to leave the men and women who have been growing in Christian life and those who have come to God under one's care. And yet, I fancy, the itinerant system is the best of all. The church has grown great under it. Doubtless many of you regret that you could not keep your late pastor. Many must feel that way. But by the system the congregation receives in course of time a full, rounded man, one is a teacher, one a preacher, and so on. I feel I am here under the direction of Divine Providence. I have had nothing to do directly or indirectly with this appointment. I would feel sorry to stand here unless by the approval of Divine Providence and I feel that I have the approval of my heavenly Father.

And yet I shrink from the work somewhat. Your late pastor is not an easy man to follow. He is a strong, true christian gentleman in every respect. This church seems to me a sacred place because of the men who have ministered here. I have come to a much larger pastorate than my last and feel that without the aid of all my people the work would be heavy.

I believe, and am happy to believe, that I shall receive the aid of the people and that is what every minister needs, the sympathy and prayers of his people. As Moses' hands were held up I trust that the minister will be so held up. I have no particular line of conduct laid out. The Sunday school work of this church is doubtless a great work, and the Epworth League and the other branches must be great and and important. Pray that the love and peace of God may dwell amongst us and bless all our efforts.

CHRISTIAN GOODNESS

Rev. Mr. Wilson preached from Matt 25, 23, "Well done, good and faithful servant." He pointed out that goodness is naturally and essentially associated with Christian holiness. In the man or woman of Christian goodness the grace is apparent at all times and not called out by special occasions as are such graces as patience and resignation. A difference of natural endowments does not weaken a man's Christian influence but the least suggestion of moral delinquency does. The greatest beauty is the beauty of Christian goodness.

On speaking of faithfulness Rev Mr Wilson pointed out that we should give to God the same faithfulness as a parent expects from his children. We should enter into all His plans and wishes and details. A man's faithfulness is not to be known by the amount of labor he performs, for one with better natural endowments may do more than another with less cost and trial to himself. The widow's two mites were valued more than the rich man's treasure.

A faithful servant is one that walks on and does not grow weary, that continues in his work after revivals are over and excitement is gone. A man that takes the work God gives him and carries out that to the best of his ability is a faithful servant of God. There are men and women who at the last day will here the words "faithful servant" because they have been faithful over a few things. We must be faithful to the end no matter what men say. We must not tire of our surroundings. Each must reap his own harvest.

There are three classes of people in the world—those that bear no burdens and do not earn their living; those that bear their own burdens and bear them well; those that bear their own burdens and bear the burdens of others as well. It is the same in the church "Bear ye one another's burdens and so fulfil the law of Christ". The history of the church of God is a history of sacrifice and self-denial.

The recompence is the bestowal of the highest blessings. Who has been faithful over a few things will be made ruler over many. Notice the contrast. The servant made ruler, faithful over a few things and made ruler over many, faithful over a few things for a time, ruler over many for all eternity. A few sacrifices will bring many glories.

Surely Unintentional.

The strangers were making their way westward from Michigan avenue.

"What a horribly dirty street!" exclaimed the tall, matronly personage stalking along at the head of the procession. "What is the name of it?"

"I asked the policeman just now," said the boy who was trying to carry a valise and two umbrellas, "and I understood him to say it was Rubbish avenue."—Chicago Tribune.

THE TILLER OF THE SOIL.

When afflicted with disease, the farmer, perhaps more than any other artisan, is obliged to suffer acutely, simply from the fact that relief is inconvenient. At the same time a man might live in a block surrounded by medical practitioners, and then obtain little or no relief from rheumatism, once the disease permeates the blood. It is the discovery of Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure that then proves a boon to the rheumatic sufferer. Mr. John Connell, Bedford Mills, Ont., had a bad attack of rheumatism from April till June, two years ago. He was so bad that he could not put his foot on the ground. He saw Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure advertised in the papers, bought two bottles and used them both. This so relieved him that he was able to walk around, and after using four bottles he was perfectly cured, and has not been troubled with rheumatism since.

BROTHER GARDNER SPRINGS AN ORATOR ON THE POSSUM PARTY.

The Honorable Sundown White of Louisville Electrifies His Auditors by a Speech Which Tells Them the Proper Way to Succeed.

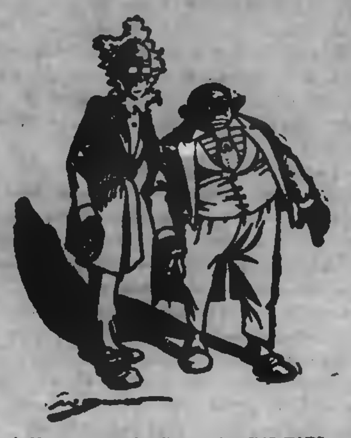
[Copyright, 1900, by C. B. Lewis.]

The Hon. Sundown White of Kentucky had scarcely appeared on the platform with Brother Gardner when the audience went whooping. He sized up as a short, chunky man with flapping ears, a large spread of mouth and a head as round as a cannon ball and as smooth as plate glass. He looked the man to grab hold at once and to hang on till death. He was introduced as the inventor of the double pointed wooden toothpick and as the man who discovered that the state line between Ohio and Indiana had slid down hill in 17 different places. He drew a long breath, smiled all around him and softly began:

"Dar may be some among yo' dis evenin who am 'spectin to hear me deliber a speech on de pyramids of Egypt, but if so dey will be disapp'inted. We hain't got nuffin to do wid pyramids. We hain't gwine ober to Egypt to kick up a row 'bout sunthin 50,000 y'ars old when we's got plenty to git mad at at home dat's happened widin de last 30 y'ars. [Applause.] Dat's one of de black man's faults. He'll git mad an kick de dawg an spank de chillen if anybody disputes dat de whale swallered Joner, but when yo' git him down to what's gwine on today he stands around wid his mouf open an seems to be helpless. [Laughter.] I'se awar' dat most political speakers ring in Christopher Columbus an de pilgrim fathers, but I shall hev nuffin to say 'bout 'em. I'se also gwine to skip George Washington, Patrick Henery an Gineral Jackson. [Agitation.] De fect am we has got de rabbit in a hole, an we's either got to dig him out right away or we don't git no potpie fur dinner. [Vociferous applause.] A few nights ago I had de pleasure of listenin to a speech by de Hon. State Rights Johnson. It was a mighty good speech, but he put in two hours tellin 'bout Noah an his ark an only five minits tellin 'bout de wants of de cull'd man. No use to walk all ober a hull county in order to step on a cat lyin on yo'r own doahstep. [Laughter.]

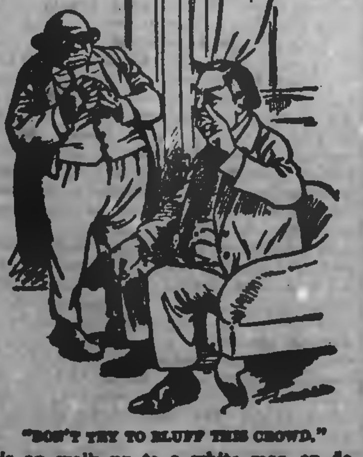
"Fustly, as I understand it, de cull'd man has arrove at de conclusion dat his weight am helpin to keep dis airth down an dat he orter be paid fur his services; secondly, he's finally got sense 'nuff in his head to jine hands wid his naybur. Now comes de question of what we want. [Ripples of agitation.] I take it dat most of yo' hev bin coon huntin wid a white man. Dat white man gits a comfortable seat on de fence, lights his pipe an says to de black man: 'Now, boy, take yo'r old dawg an go into de co'nfield. If ye' rouse up a coon, run him up a tree. Arter you've got a coon treed yell fur me, an I'll come an boss de job of cuttin it down. [Laughter.] De coon am treed, de tree am cut down, an de varmint am killed, an de black man finds dat he has got de tracks while de white man has got de coon. [Tremendous yells.] What we am arter is less tracks an mo' coon, but my advice am to go slow 'bout it. We am in de posishun of a boy who has growed up an got de big head an starts out to sass his ole pop fur de fust time. He wants to try his hand, but he can't jest tell whether de ole man will be skeered of him or tie him up in knots. [Cheers and laughter.].

"I want to see de people of dis kentry recognize de fact dat de black man am an American. If he hain't one, den what am he? I want to see him rewarded fur his industry as a workman, his obedience to de laws as a citizen an his zeal as a politician. [Prolonged applause.] But I hain't gwine to expect too much, an I hain't gwine to let go wid my hands till I git hold wid my toes. Yo' see, my fr'en's, de white man has bin boss of de roost a mighty long time. It's gwine to come hard fur him to let go. [Sighs and groans.] I know some of yo' argy dat de best way is to peel off our coats an jump into de ring wid boaf feet to once; don' ye' make no mistake 'bout dat white man. He's not only got de key to de padlock, but he's de padlock hisself. He hain't gwine to skeer very much fur any bluff we kin make. [Awful groans.] He's gwine to wait an see how big our crowd am befo' he begins to scratch his ear an wonder what he'd better let go of. As we stand today I might go down to Washington an say, 'Misser McKinley, de Possum party numbers 10,000 voters, an we hain't gwine to whoop 'er up widout we git a few offices.' I might say dat, but what would Misser McKinley say in reply? He'd look at me out of de corner of his left eye an lay his finger on his nose an say, 'Misser White, don't try to bluff dis crowd on jack high.' [Prolonged applause.] But if I could go to him an say dat de 3,000,000 black voters was lookin fur a part of de coon his answer would be different. He'd put a hand on my shoulder an say: 'Why, certainly, Misser White. Yo' jest pick out a thousand offices to be divided among de boys, an gin 'em my best wishes.' [Enthusiastic warwhoops.]



A CHUNKY MAN WITH FLAPPING EARS.

"Since de organization of de Possum party I'se heard quite a number of men express deir disapp'intment wid de platform. Deir hain't 'nuff planks in it to suit 'em. De fact am each one of us would like a plank fur hisself. [Laughter.] I'd like a plank dat would gib me fo'ty acres of land an a pair of mewls. Brudder Gardner would like a plank to raise de tariff on eggs an horse radish. Waydown Bebee am arter a plank which will gib him free rent. An so it goes all de way round. [Cheers and laughter.] But don't yo' go worryin 'bout planks. Ye's got plenty 'nuff to start on, an deir will be lots of time to put in others. De cull'd man has bin lookin fur mewls an land fur de last 30 y'ars, an he hates to gib up, but he might jest as well make up his mind dat he'll hev to work fur all he gits. [Groans of despair.] An dar's another thing I wants to menshun befo' I close. Don't git de big head jest bekase yo' hev bin told dat dar am 3,000,000 cul'd voters in de United States an we hev sot out to jine 'em all together an make 'em a power. If yo' go swellin around an steppin high an actin like yo' owned all de barbed wire fences in de kentry, yo'll git a powerful fall. [Sensation.] Yo' jest be humble an lay low. Dar am times when I hankers fur chicken potpie. Does I start out at noonday wid my hat on my ear an my feet in de air an walk up to a white man an demand dat he divides his chickens wid me? ["No, no!"] Of co'se not. I waits fur darkness. [Yells.] I keep my feet on de ground. [Whoops.] I walk about in a humble way an don't eben let de white man know I am on airth. ["Dat's de way!"] I demand nuffin. I raise no row. I use strategy an diplomacy, an de pullet goes home wid me. [Uproarious applause.]



"DON'T TRY TO BLUFF THIS CROWD."

"My fr'en's, I hadn't much to say, but I wanted yo' to know I was wid yo'. [Cheers.] Put me down as a Possumite from Possumville. [Yells.] I'se got a good thing in double p'inted toothpicks an kin lay asleep till 10 o'clock in de mawnin, but I'm promisin yo' dat I shall open de campaign de day I git back to Louisville an make it redhot to de end. [Terrific applause.] De Possum party hain't gwine to bluff de white man 'tall dis y'ar, kase he'll put it down as only a cake walk. Next y'ar, howeber, we'll gib him a sort of chill up his back, an a y'ar later I reckon he'll be comin around to Paradise hall to inquar' how many offices we'll take to stop de fruslot."

As the orator retired he was applauded with such vigor that nearly all the plaster on the ceiling fell off and the alley wall bulged out, but every one got out with his life, and over 60 new names were added to the roll of membership.

MOTH BALLS DANGEROUS.

A Warning to Those Using Them In Storing Away Winter Clothing.

Moth balls are in use in many dwellings as a disinfectant and preservative of clothing against the ravages of insects, but few realize that they are inflammable and when taken in any considerable bulk explosive.

A few evenings ago a Providence woman saw fire in the closet on the top floor and called help, who cared for the blaze with a few pails of water.

An examination revealed the cause in a quantity of moth balls that were in a basin for disinfectant. A lighted match or possibly cigar ashes had set them on fire, resulting in an explosion that wrecked the bowl, disjointed some plumbing and otherwise shook up the surroundings, incidentally starting quite a blaze.

The janitor of the building had noticed blackened porcelain several times before, but had always attributed it to some one throwing acid or a like substance on the material, but its occurring always where moth balls were used led to the connection of the two, and the experience of the other night confirmed the theory.

As an experiment a handful of moth balls were placed in a shovel and ignited. They burned slowly at first, but gradually gained headway as the stuff melted and ran like wax, giving off a smoke that in odor resembled the fumes of burning tar. Of course a larger quantity would ignite more quickly and undoubtedly cause some sort of explosion such as must have occurred in the bowl, where perhaps half a pint of the disinfectant lay in a heap.

The burning agent in the moth balls is naphtha, with a preparation of coal tar. They are a preparation of compressed naphthaline flakes, and their storage should be under the same precautions as are observed with such household supplies as naphtha, benzine and kerosene.—Hartford Times.

Myriads of Suns.

There is a quite evident conspiracy on the part of the telescope and camera to belittle this infinitesimal speck of cosmic dust on which we live, and they are succeeding. It was bad enough to knock the earth out of his position as the center of the universe, but now he is being relegated to a position that, astronomically, seems worthy of very little attention. Professor Wadsworth of the Alleghany observatory is now showing on a curved plate a photograph of the constellation Orion and adjacent region, covering 1,000 square degrees, or a little patch measuring less than 33 degrees on a side, or about one-eleventh of the great circle. And—what do you think—it shows 50,000 blazing suns! The professor says he has only been able to catch the light from the larger of the suns in that patch and that these planets are yet beyond the joint power of the two cyclops, the telescope and camera.

New Pest For Farmers.

Another farmers' pest has made its appearance in the world, this time beginning its career in Belgium. It is the form of the hamster, a small, ratlike creature. While the hamster has been hitherto by no means an unknown animal in Europe, it has only in recent years appeared in Belgium, and has there apparently developed a new and alarming appetite for all kinds of grain. It has increased so rapidly in numbers, and its ravages among the wheat and barley fields of Belgium have become so great, that the farmers and the government have united in measures of extermination. A large bounty has been offered for dead hamsters, and an energetic warfare is being waged against them.—Leslie's Weekly.

The Raw Silk Center.

In the report of the secretary of the Silk Association of America the following interesting passage occurs: "The United States of America has now become the greatest raw silk consuming country in the world (excepting, of course, China and perhaps Japan, where correct statistics of home consumption are not yet available). In other words, New York city, the only raw silk market in America, holds now the first place among all the raw silk markets of the world, Shanghai alone excepted. In New York city more raw silk is now sold than is consumed in France, which is still the largest raw silk consuming country of Europe."

Mr. F. Macmillan on Copyright.

Mr. Frederick Macmillan has suggested a plan by which valuable copyrights might be kept alive for the benefit of an author's descendants without resort to "perpetual copyright." His proposal is that when a copyright is near its expiration it shall be open to the "copyright owner" to renew it for ten years by payment of a fine of £10, such extension to be renewable on the same terms at the end of each succeeding period of ten years. This seems to meet the case, though it would afford little satisfaction to the public where the owner of the copyright was a publisher who renewed it purely for his own profit.—London Globe.

The President's Namesake.

Two William McKinleys are on Uncle Sam's pay roll. One draws a salary of $4,166 a month as president and the other $100 a month as engineer in the Louisville custom house. There are 48 Bryans, and three of them were christened William. There used to be two Grover Clevelands in the public service, but there is only one now. He is assistant farmer at the Fort Peck Indian agency and receives a salary of $150 a month.

A Real Grief.

She—It makes me so mad. Just think, I got caught out in all that rain!

Her Husband—Afraid you've caught your death o' cold, eh?

She—No, but I was carrying my new pink chiffon parasol.—Chicago Record.

How an Eclipse May Be Reported.

"The eclipse of the moon last night," remarked the Oldville Weekly Bugle in its column entitled "Local Shorts," "passed off quietly."—Chicago Tribune.

Dress slippers of both black and cream white leather are made with the broad Cromwell flaps rising in the instep, and the whole fronts of the shoes are inlaid with cabochon jewels. Black satin slippers with gilt heels are another fancy.—New York Sun.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

Red raspberries are sweetest. The plants increase by suckers or sprouts.

In orchard planting select with a view to good bearing, good quality and good marketing.

For rooting the best cutting of a plant is a shoot of new growth just before it grows woody or at all fibrous.

Care must be taken not to set shrubs or trees too deep or to give them too much rich manure in planting.

Old vines burned near a grapevine or pear tree will soon show in the increased health and vigor of the plant and better fruit.

Firming is often very beneficial in a loamy soil, especially if dry. But in stiff or clay soil, especially if a little wet, firming often proves hurtful.

As a general rule an old orchard should not be filled with young trees. The soil is too often exhausted by the growth of the former occupants. Better start a new orchard.

One of the best washes for fruit trees is made by taking two gallons of water and one of soft soap. Boil well and then add one gallon of crude carbolic acid, mixing thoroughly.

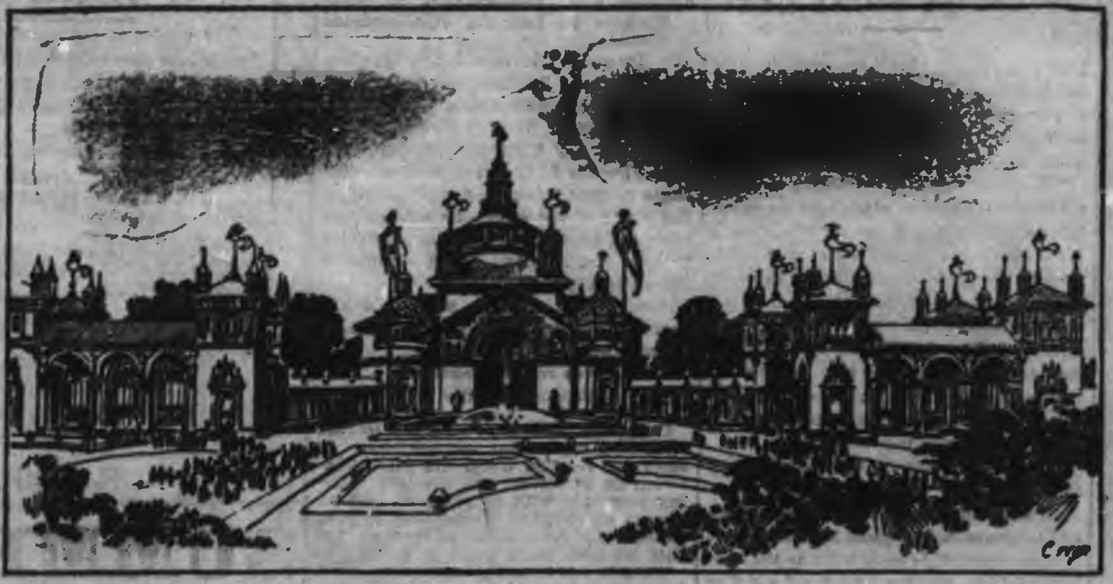
Almost a Victim of Nervous Prostration—Was Restored to Health and Strength by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mrs. D. W. Crossberry, 163 Richmond street west, Toronto, Ont., states:—"My daughter, who sews in a white goods manufactory, got completely run down by the steady confinement and close attention required at her work. Her nerves were so exhausted, and she was so weak and debilitated, that she had to give up work entirely, and was almost a victim of nervous prostration.

"Hearing of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, she began to use it, and was benefitted from the very first. It proved an excellent remedy in restoring her to health and strength. After having used four boxes she is now at work again, healthy and happy, and attributes her recovery to the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

As a blood builder and nerve restorative, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is of inestimable value. It makes the blood red, the nerves strong, and the whole system healthy and vigorous. 50c a box —at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

HORTICULTURAL, GRAPHIC ARTS, FORESTRY AND MINES BUILDINGS AT BUFFALO.



Copyright, 1900, by the Pan-American Exposition Co.

At the Pan-American Exposition, which is to be held in Buffalo from May 1 to Nov. 1, 1901, the Horticultural building, 220 feet square, is flanked on the south by the Forestry and Mines and on the north by the Graphic Arts buildings, each 150 feet square. The whole group is connected by arcades, forming a semicircular court, in which will stand the "Fountain of the Seasons." The Horticultural building will be about 240 feet high. The Graphic Arts and Forestry and Mines buildings are companion structures of the same size and style, having four corner towers. Two colored compositions above the eastern entrance of the Horticultural building will represent Ceres, goddess of the harvest, in a chariot drawn by three lions, led by Flora and Primavera.

IMPLEMENT WORKS DESTROYED,

Flames Consumed Cossitt Bros. Property Valued at About $200,000.

Brockville, Ont., July 3.—Fire was discovered in Cossitt Bros.' implement works about 11 o'clock Sunday morning, and in the space of four hours about $200,000 worth of property was destroyed. The fire started in the frame warehouse adjoining the main building, the contents of which were of a very inflammable nature, and in a short time the whole building was in flames.

British Revenue Returns.

London, July 3.—The revenue report of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, for quarterendingJ the quarter ending June 30, shows that the revenue decreases under different headings, total £1, 783,144, and that the increases total £580,000, leaving a net decrease of £1,203,144 when compared with the corresponding period of 1899, due to decreases in the customs and excise receipts, caused by withdrawals made in anticipation of the new budget.

THE DOMINION HOUSE.

Dominion Day Spent Principally in Discussing the Election Law Amendments—Other Subjects.

Ottawa, July 3.—The handful of weary members who assembled in the House yesterday morning to celebrate Dominion Day by working succeeded in cleaning off a few odds and ends from the order paper. The proceedings were very tame, and interest in the ordinary proceedings of the House is now reduced almost to the vanishing point.

Sent Back to the Senate.

Three private bills were sent up to the Senate, namely, the South Shore Line Railway bill, the Red Deer Valley Railway & Coal Company's bill and the Timagami Railway bill. The Senate's amendments to the latter bill were not concurred in, and the Senators were again asked to pass the bill as at first presented.

U.S. Workmen to Be Deported.

In reply to Mr. Puttee, the Premier stated that the Government had ordered the deportation of certain workmen who had come over to Welland, Ont., from the United States. Sir Wilfrid did not know if these workmen were United States citizens or not.

Election Law Again.

Then the House resumed its long and tedious struggle with the Solicitor-General's amendments to the election law.

Premier Emmerson a Visitor.

In the afternoon the House filled up a little. Premier Emmerson of Nova Scotia watched the proceedings from the Speaker's gallery for an hour.

When the clause defining the duties of the deputy-returning officer after the close of the poll was reached, Mr. Ingram moved an amendment, stating in detail just what was meant by spoiled ballots, and making more definite the procedure to be adopted. The Government agreed to adopt in the clause Mr. Ingram's suggestion that the deputy returning officer shall give to those present at the count an opportunity of seeing all spoiled ballots.

Fine for Tampering With Ballots.

The fine for tampering with ballots on the part of deputy returning officers was placed at not less than $800, and not more than $1,000. In default of payment five year's imprisonment is the limit. Other persons tampering with the ballots are liable to $500 fine or two year's imprisonment.

In connection with the section making provision for recounts, Mr. Ingram moved another amendment, striking out the clause which the applicant for a recount must put up $100 as security for costs. The Government declined to accept the amendment.

Promise of Office Is Bribery.

A new clause was added to the section defining bribery, making it an indictable offence on the part of a candidate to promise any office or employment in the case of his election.

On clause 147, referring to the polling subdivisions, Mr. Ingram asked that something be done to limit the increasing number of polling places. He thought that a lump sum should be given the returning officer to provide for such matters. However, the Government again declined his suggestion, and the law stands as heretofore.

At 6 o'clock the House rose, after a tedious afternoon's work.

After recess the members continued their struggle with the bill, taking up the consideration of the forms for oaths, etc.

The Ballot.

The form of the ballot was not discussed, Mr. Fitzpatrick explaining that the Government thought the ballot agreed upon could not be improved in any way. It will be all black with the exception of white spaces for the name and the mark of the voter.

The Solicitor-General stated that the Canadian volunteers now in South Africa who were on the lists when they sailed would not be struck off on account of absence.

Mr. Powell introduced a number of amendments suggested by the West Huron revelations. The consideration of amendments was postponed for the time being, however, and the committee reported progress at 9 p. m.

Supplementary Estimates.

The House then went into Committee of Supply on Mr. Blair's supplementary estimates for railways and canals.

These items were passed: $208,000for the widening of the north channel of the Galops Rapids.

The I.C.R. Estimates.

In connection with the I.C.R. estimates the Maritime members again started off on a talking match, which lasted for another hour, and ended just where it began. Items of $900,000 for the Intercolonial, $20,000 for the P.E.I. Railway, and $78,000 for sundries were passed before the committee raise at 1 o'clock.

The House finished its Dominion Day celebration at 1.05 afm.

Mr. Sifton Back Again.

Ottawa, July 3.—The Hon. Clifford Sifton returned to Ottawa yesterday morning after three months absence in Europe. He reports a most enjoyable trip and states that his hearing is somewhat improved as a result of his trip to Paris and Vienna.

Smashed by a Big Tree.

Brantford, July 3.—On Friday evening a large oak tree on the Mount Pleasant road was blown down and crashed across a buggy driven by two young men named Hartley and Kilgour. They were pinned down and seriously injured, especially Kilgour.

Kingston, Jamaica, July 3.—Pernicious fever is prevailing on the Isthmus of Panama among the victims reported, being the son of United States Consul Cobb and the prima donna of the Italian opera company.

SOLDIER BOYS' RETURN

The Battery and Cavalry Return From Annual Camp.

The soldiers returned home from camp on Saturday evening burned and browned and looking like veterans compared to the pale faces that they presented when they left.

The special carrying the infantry went through first, and Capt. Johnston's Co. of the 46th disembarked here.

Then came the special with the Battery boys, who have spent twelve days at Deseronto. They were all in first-class shape after their camp, and have made a good record for themselves. The Peterborough boys were all regretting the accident which befel their commanding officer, Col. McLean, who was thrown from his horse when leaving camp and suffered a slight concussion of the brain. His saddle rolled, causing the accident. Word from Port Hope says that the injuries are not as serious as feared.

About 6.30 the Dragoons arrived, and the soldierly, jolly cavalry boys made a stir at the station when disembarking. The men formed up and marched through the town to the drill shed in Ashburnham. Lt.-Col. H .C. Rogers, looking the veteran that he is, led the troop, with Capt. Johnston, adjutant, in khaki. Lt. Bradburn was in command of the troop, and with him was Lieut. Tate and Capt. Garvin, Quartermaster. The men and horses showed the good results of their camp and looked fine.

All the men report that they enjoyed camp, work, drill and all.

The Kingston Whig in its camp notes says: "The veteran of the camp is undoubtedly Lieut.-Col Rogers, brigadier of the cavalry brigade. He has been actively connected with the Canadian militia since 1855. Forty-five years of service devoted to one's country is a good record and one to be proud of. In 1866 he served in Kingston with a company of provisional rifles. While here he took a course in the infantry school. Upon the formation of the 57th Battalion his rifle company became absorbed in that corps. In 1872 the 3rd Dragoons came into existence, Col. Rogers being active in their formation. He has since been a member of the regiment. Last year he was gazetted to the reserve of officers and Major Greenwood promoted to the command, but when the latter went to South Africa, Col. Rogers was gazetted back to the command of the Dragoons. He has attended every camp in which the regiment has participated and is a very enthusiastic soldier; he is a model dragoon, standing over six feet tall and as straight as an arrow. He is very popular with his men."

handsome lodge at the head of Clear lake for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. East and family, of Toronto, went up on Saturday night and are at their island, near Eagle Mount, for the summer.

"Viamede" looks like a leading centre of a fashionable watering place, with its tastefully painted buildings, which are growing in numbers and extent each year. Mr. Graham has a most attractive and imposing looking resort at "Viamede" and from all that is heard of it there is no place where a more enjoyable holiday can be spent with all conveniences and the very best accommodation and attention. There are quite a number of visitors there already and this week will see many more there.

Mr and Mrs B Shortly spent the holiday at their island.

Mr John Crane is having his new possession improved and prepared for the season. A wide verandah is being built to the front of the cottage, and the "old flag" will float from a lofty flag pole which was landed yesterday and will be erected on the island.

Mr. R J Colville, of Toronto, is at his cottage.

Mr. Cole and family are occupying their house on Big Otter.

Mr. and Mrs. Nugent with some friends are in their cottage at Little Otter. Mr. Nugent's cottage looks snug and pretty in its new nest.

Mr and Mrs Wm Hale, of Orillia, who have been spending a week at Mr Guillet's island returned last evening. They were delighted with Stony lake and its beauties.

Mr J H Yelland is building a new cottage to replace the one destroyed by fire. The new one rises "Phoenix-like" from the ashes.

Mr Geo Guillet, M. P., came down last night and went through to Ottawa after spending Sunday and Monday at his island.

Mr C B Routley and his two boys and Mr Geo K Martin went up to Mr Routley's island on Saturday night and opened up the cottage for the summer.

Mr H P Lindsay's new cottage on Eagle Mount is going to be one of the pretty ones of the lake. At night it commands attention at once with its cupola of vari-colored lights shining as prominently as a light house on a rock bound coast.

"Juniper Island" store is doing business as usual, and Mr Robinson has a large and well selected stock. Mr J Walton is assisting him.

Mr C H Winch, of Montreal, went up and opened up the Winch cottage at the head of the lake yesterday.

Mr Alex McCallum and family were occupying their cottage near Burleigh. Mr R McWhinnie's and Mr Flex Brownscombe's families are also in their cottages. Mr McWhinnie and Mr Brownscombe were up for the holiday.

The fishing at the lake has been good but the recent storm seemed to drive the "finny" fellows away, for no one reported much luck yesterday although there was a great deal of fishing done.

The Dickson Co's big drive of logs is now running over the dam at Burleigh.

THEY SAID GOOD-BYE

Address and Presentation to Miss Erskine on Leaving Ashburnham School.

On Thursday afternoon, before the close of school, Miss Erskine, who is severing her connection with Ashburnham Public school to attend Toronto Normal school, was completely taken by surprise when Miss Florence Scott and Miss Jennie Gillespie stepped forward, and on behalf of the pupils of the school, an address was read and Miss Erskine was presented with a handsomely bound volume of Browning's poems.

Miss Erskine made a suitable reply, thanking the pupils for their expression of good-will.

The address read as follows:—

Ashburnham Public school,
June 28th, 1900.

Dear Miss Erskine,—We have learned with deep regret that you are about to sever the relation which has existed between us as teacher and scholars. During your stay with us you have been an earnest and faithful teacher, and by your patient and unwearied efforts we feel that we have made great progress.

We ask you to accept this volume as a token of our regard for you and as a memento of this occasion.

In your new duties upon which you are about to enter we all unite in wishing you every success.

Bidding you farewell, we are your affectionate pupils.

Signed on behalf of the school.

PHENIX SUMMER BEDROOM.

Arizona Contrivance to Increase Possibility of Getting Some Sleep.

The cottonwoods have shed their caterpillars, there has been a thunderstorm, mesquite wood has fallen in price, Indians are selling bows and arrows, the rose and the oleander have long put out, oranges are in bloom, the umbrella tree is putting out its leaves, last summer's suit has been cleaned and dressed, the small boy has gone swimming in the canal, the wise man stays up nights and steals irrigation water from his neighbors, alfalfa is most ready to cut, strawberries have been shipped, mulberries are nearly ripe, summer will soon be here and the Phenix summer bedroom will soon be a necessity.

Phenix sleeps out of doors in the summer, and the bedroom is born of that necessity. It is on stilts, is built of wire screen of fine mesh, for the Phenix mosquito is microscopic in size. It is furnished, according to the taste of the occupants, with interior curtains to keep out the morning sun, the gaze of the curious and the sandstorm.

The bed is a cot of canvas or woven wire, covered perhaps with a sheet, but even a sheet feels like a feather bed on a Phenix summer night. The bed covering is the roof of the bedroom.

Phenix is proud of its climate during eight months of the year, but it doesn't talk much in public about its midsummer. It is a right warm day when the government weather bureau doesn't know what the sun temperature is and is unable to determine it and that is how hot it gets in Phenix. I called on Observer Burns one day last July and asked him what the "official" temperature was in the sun. He said he did not know and that the government couldn't afford to experiment to that end. He said he had attempted to catch the sun temperature during the summer of 1896 and had broken a $3 thermometer in the attempt. To please my curiosity he hung a thermometer in the sun, watched it until it registered 136 degrees and then took it in, fearing it would break.

The dryness of the atmosphere relieves this great heat of any terrors to all living things except women and cats. There is a saying in Phenix that in summer women and cats are nervously prostrated, while men and dogs thrive and grow fat. There is a luxury in quenching one's thirst during the summer heat that is possible nowhere this side of the hereafter, and nothing will quench it so well as olla water. The average mortal can drink a gallon of water per day during the heated time, and apparently every drop of it comes through the pores of the skin.—Arizona Graphic.

Arsenic in the Human System.

The exact effect of arsenic on the complexion I have never seen satisfactorily explained, but Dr. Armand Gautier, professor of chemistry to the faculty of medicine at Paris, has lately communicated to the Academie that he has found this metal in perfectly appreciable quantities in the skin and hair of persons who have not taken it either internally or as a cosmetic, and he explains its presence as due to the gland in the neck known as the thyroid. How the thyroid gland contrives to attract arsenic from the atmosphere—for it is not to be supposed that the human body is alchemist enough to manufacture a metal—remains to be seen, but it is strange how there seems to be a sort of connection between metals of a particular group and the organs of respiration.

Arsenic is well known to be eaten in large quantities by the Styrian and Dalmatian peasants—from whom indeed the perfumers of the seventeenth century may have learned the secret of its preparation—to enable their lungs to support the rarefied air of the mountains, and now we hear of vanadium, an excessively rare metal, of somewhat similar properties, as being a sovereign remedy for consumption. Dr. Laran, who has studied the subject experimentally, holds that it has a similar effect on the blood to iron, to which, however, it is vastly superior. In large doses it acts as an irritant poison.—Pall Mall Gazette.

OVERALLS AND THOUGHT.

The Argument Was Good, but the Pie Was Not Forthcoming.

The man in overalls was partaking of his noonday lunch on the shady side of a high board fence, when a tramp sidled up and sat down on the end of a stick of timber about a dozen feet away. The tramp had nothing to say, but seemed to be absorbed in watching the workingman devour a huge wedge of pie, in which he almost hid the lower half of his face at every bite. It was evidently very good pie. Finally the tramp spoke.

"I was just thinking," he began.

"That never makes any callous places on your hands, does it?" laughed the man in overalls good naturedly, but the tramp paid no heed to the interruption.

"I was just thinking," he went on, "what a wonderful country this is of ours."

"Yes, and it'll be a heap sight wonderfuller when we get through expanding it," suggested the workingman.

"No doubt of that," admitted the tramp. "But think of its extent and wealth now. Why, did it ever strike you that we have under our star spangled fence, as it were, 2,000,000,000 acres of land, and our wealth is equal to $75,000,000,000? Think of those stupendous figures, sir, and we are only as yet in our infancy—the youngest nation of any importance on the globe."

"It's a looloo," was the strongest thing the workingman could say, but he said it fervently.

"Yes," continued the tramp, "and think that for those $75,000,000,000 there could be furnished to our people 1,500,000,000,000 pies as big as that one you have just got away with, and yet I haven't stuck a tooth into a piece of pie in six months. I haven't, so help me Dick Robinson!"

The man in overalls looked at him sympathetically.

"Well, you ought to be in better luck," he said. "I eat one like it every day. So long!" And he went back to work, leaving the tramp on the end of the stick of timber still thinking.—Washington Star.

What's a Man to Do?

"Confidentially," said the undertaker's wife, "Mr. Smith hasn't paid the bill for his wife's funeral yet."

"Isn't that scandalous?" exclaimed Mrs. Gabble. "I should think he'd be ashamed to let people see how little he thought of his wife."

"Yes, and his brother John, when his wife was buried, paid the very next day."

"Huh! 'Peared like he was glad to get rid of her, didn't it?"—Philadelphia

Slater Shoe Leathers

The output of "Slater Shoes" is so large that the makers are able to control their own tannage in most leathers.

"Canuck Calf," made from the best selected calfskins, in black, light and medium tan and seal brown.

"Kidduck" in black and seal brown, from selected Patna goatskins.

Both leathers are wear and water resisting, porous and therefore sanitary.

There are also "Best French Patent," "French Enamel," "Peerless Russia" and "American Wax Calf."

Slater Shoe Polish only should be used on these leathers, retains their elasticity and keeps them soft.

The sole leather is the best obtainable, and on every sole is the makers' name and price in a slate frame, when the finished shoe has passed its rigorous examination.

SHELLING THE LEGATIONS

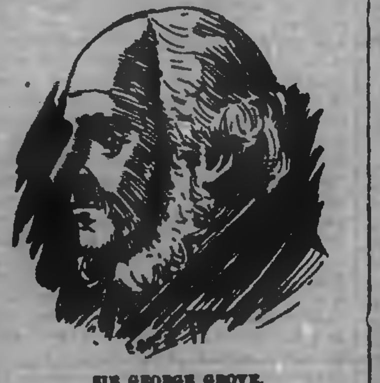
London, July 4—A despatch has been received from Sir Gerald Hart dated Pekin, June 25, in which the minister reiterates his previous statements regarding the seriousness of the situation. The Chinese, he says, are now shelling the British legation in which all of the foreign residents are gathered.

SIR GEORGE GROVE.

SKETCH OF THE LIFE OF ENGLAND'S FAMOUS SCHOLAR OF MUSIC.

Did Not in Early Life Give Evidence of Possessing the Talent in Musical Matters Which Distinguished the Latter Days of His Life—The Honors He Won and the Work He Did.

Sir George Grove, England's scholar of music, whose death occurred recently, was articled early in life to Alexander Gordon, a civil engineer. He gave little evidence then of possessing the talent in musical matters which distinguished the latter days of his life. Serving two years in Napier's factory at Glasgow, in 1840 and for some time thereafetr he was engaged in building iron light houses and bridge structures. During this period of mechanical work, though, he gave his leisure moments to the cultivation of the arts with such success that when he was 30 he was secretary of the society of Arts, and subsequently secretary to the Crystal Palace Company. The Prince of Wales appointed him director of the Royal College of Music in 1882 and Queen Victoria knighted him in 1883. For several years he was editor of Macmillan's Magazine. He also contributed to Smith's "Dictionary of the Bible." To music, however, he gave the best and most of his ability. He was an advocate of the higher music. To him belongs the honor of having discovered the hitherto unknown symphonies of Schubert. His knowledge of music was concentrated into the volume from his pen known as "The Dictionary of Music and Musicians." He was 70 years old at the time of his death.



SIR GEORGE GROVE.

DURATION OF A SOLAR ECLIPSE.

Results of a Calculation to Determine Its Greatest Possible Length.

Mr. C. T. Whitnell, president of the Leeds Astronomical Society, has made a calculation to determine what is the longest possible duration of a solar eclipse. To produce this effect, five conditions must be fulfilled. First, the moon must be at the time at or very near one of its nodes, that is it must be exactly in the sun's path; second, the moon must be at its nearest to the earth—in perigee—and the sun must be at its farthest from the earth—in apogee—which happens about the first of July; third, the track of the shadow should run along a parrellel of latitude, for then the observer's eastward movement, due to the earth's rotation, which prolongs the time of totality, will be wholly in the direction in which the shadow travels, and not slantwise across its path. Fourth, the sun and the moon should be directly over the observer's head—since he will then be nearly 4,000 miles—the length of the earth's half diameter—nearer to the moon than when he sees it rising or setting, and the size of the shadow will be increased correspondingly. Fifth, the observer should be stationed on the equator, where his eastward movement due to rotation will be at its greatest.

Only four of these five conditions, however, can be fulfilled with any single eclipse since an observer at the equator can never see the sun in his zenith in the month of July. Mr. Whitnell's problem consisted, therefore, in making with the four possible simultaneous favorable conditions the best combination. He finds that the maximum of totality will occur at noon in north latitude, about four degrees 52 minutes, and will last seven minutes, and 40 seconds—six minutes longer than the duration of totality at the most favored stations in the United States during the eclipse which has just taken place.

In the coming century there will be six eclipses of nearly the maximum duration. The eclipse of May 18, 1901, will be total at one point six minutes 41.6 seconds. The remaining five will all have a duration of over seven minutes, the longest being that of June 20, 1955, which in the vicinity of the Philippine Islands will have a duration of seven minutes 24.5 seconds.

London Plagued by Rats.

London is being troubled by a plague of rats. The infested quarter lies principally in the Strand, where some houses built a couple of hundred years ago have recently been pulled down. As the workmen demolished the walls rats came out from the crevices and holes by hundreds and fled in all directions. Some of the hotels have harbored them, it is said, to the disgust of visitors. I talked to an official of the London County Council on the subject yesterday "There is no fear," he said, "of any trouble taking place. The truth is the buildings in course of destruction at one time communicated with the river by a secret passage, which, of course, accounts for the rats. We are doing our best to exterminate them by means of traps and poison, and a large number are daily destroyed by a mixture of plaster of paris and meal. There always have been rats in London, and there always will be, for the food daily wasted in London is enough to feed an army of rats ten times as big as the present British army in South Africa."

THE HOBOKEN FIRE.

One Hundred and Two Bodies Recovered—Alleged Brutality.

New York, July 4.—One hundred and two bodies had been recovered from the waters of the North River up to 10 o'clock last night, this being the list of fatalities positively known. The list is growing hour by hour, and to-day when the tide is at its lowest, it is expected that a great many more bodies will be recovered.

All day long yesterday the work of searching the ruins was kept up incessantly. The officials of the North German Lloyd Line were doing everything they could to straighten out matters. They looked after the transportation to Germany of the survivors who were inclined to go. They also gave them clothing and fed them.

A sensation was created yesterday by an announcement from Mayor Fagan of Hoboken that he would prosecute all tug boat captains against whom charges of refusing to save life could be substantiated. The Mayor said he would apply at once for warrants charging two tug boat captains with murder, and that he had evidence to prove that these men used boat hooks to keep drowning men from climbing on their tugs because the unfortunates had no money. An effort would be made also to have the licenses of the offending captains revoked.

One day she overheard her telling, with a serious face, that "when mamma was a little girl one day I saw her making mud cakes, and when she got her nice clean dress all dirty her mamma called her in and spanked her."

"Why, Katharine," said her mother, "don't you know, dear, you couldn't see mamma when she was a little girl? That was a long time ago."

"Yes, I did, mamma. That's when I lived with God, and I just looked over the fence and watched you, and God said, 'Katharine, that naughty little girl is going to be your mamma some day.'"—Pittsburg Chronicle.

CHINESE BUTCHERY AT PEKIN

Heads of Legation Guards Borne Through the Streets.

The Zealots Who Follow Continually Cry—"Kill, Kill, Kills"—Prince Tuan, After the First Bloodshed, Ordered That no Other Foreigner Be Left Alive—The Story of a Courier—Emperor and Empress Prisoners.

London, July 4.—(4 a.m.)—Couriers who are arriving at the seats of government of the southern viceroys from their agents in Pekin, give vivid, but fragmentary, pictures of what is being enacted in the capital. These couriers seemingly left Pekin a day or two later than the messenger of Sir Robert Hart, the Inspector-General of Customs, who started on the night of June 24. They report that the heads of some of the captured legation guards were being borne through the streets at the top of spears, followed by zealots chanting "Tapi Yang Kuei Tse, Tapi, Tapi!" (Kill the foreign devils; kill, kill!)

The city's millions have been roused to patriotic fervor, breaking out into the wildest excesses, while over half the city could be heard yelling around the legations.

Were Making a Last Stand.

Sir Robert Hart's runner, who was interviewed by the correspondent of The Express at Shanghai, supplements the tragic sentences of the despatch he bore by a narrative of some things he saw. He says the foreigners were making a last stand in the extensive buildings and enclosures of the British legation. They had many dead and wounded. Among them were some women and children. All were short of food, even of the commonest necessaries.

The women were starving, as they gave a part of their small allowance to the children. The foreigners were holding out under a terrific fire, upheld by the hourly expectation of relief.

The messenger expressed the belief that it would be impossible for the foreigners to resist much longer, as the Chinese were preparing to batter down the walls of the courtyard and their ammunition was running low.

Tuan's Orders to Kill All.

Orders were given by Prince Tuan, the messenger says, that, since some had been killed, not one other foreigner should be left alive. The Chinese soldiers were exhorted to sacrifice their lives without hesitation if by so doing they could help exterminate the "Wang Kuei Tse." Extreme precautions have been taken to prevent the foreigners from communicating with any one outside the city, and a number of runners who had been sent out were killed by the Chinese. This messenger succeeded in getting through by smearing his face and clothes with blood, and joining in the outcrys joining in the out-cries against the "Devils."

Saw Seymour's Killed.

He passed the remains of foreigners of Admiral Seymour's force who had been killed between Lang Fang and Lo La. Their bodies had been cut to pieces, and their heads were carried at the ends of bamboos.

Severe Fighting Continues.

Severe fighting, according to vague reports, continues around Tien Tsin.

More Christians Murdered.

A despatch to The Daily Telegraph from its Shanghai correspondent, dated July 3, says that the Japanese pastor at the Moukden Mission has been killed, with a number of native Christians.

THE STOREY IS TOO TRUE.

Sir Robert Hart's Courier Brings News of the Death of the German Minister at Pekin.

Tien Tsin, June 29.—Via Che Foo, July 1, and Shanghai, July 3.—A courier from Sir Robert Hart, Inspector-General of Customs at Pekin, has just arrived. He left Pekin on Monday, June 25, and reports the situation desperate. He reports Baron Von Ketteler, the German Minister, and his secretary, attempted to visit the Tsung Li Yamen. The Minister was shot four times and died at the rooms of the Tsung Li Yamen. Hir secretary succeeded in making his escape. All of the legations except the British, German and Italian have been destroyed. The Diplomats and missionaries are in the British legation under rifle fire. Cannon command the legations, but they are not being used. It is impossible to start relief to Pekin at present. Captain McCalla, commander of the United States cruiser Newark, estimates that fifty thousand soldiers will be required for the rescue of the Ministers.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 4, 1900.

PROHIBITION IMPOSSIBLE

According to Sir Wilfrid—Quebec Will Not Vote for It.

Provincial Prohibition Would Never Answer the Purpose—Mr. Foster Shows Up the Want of Candor of the Laurier Government Before the Plebiscite—Parmalee's Amendment Was Carried by 99 to 41.

Ottawa, July 4.—The feature of yesterday's House was the debate on the prohibition resolution, moved on March 28 by Mr. Flint, and debated April 23.

Mr. Flint's motion is to the effect that prohibition should be enacted in those Provinces and Territories which voted for it at the plebiscite of 1898.

Mr. McClure's amendment declares prohibition should be legislated for the whole Dominion, and "that the House is prepared to promote such legislation, so far as the same is within the competency of the Parliament of Canada."

Mr. Parmalee's amendment to the amendment states that the results of the plebiscite show that "there is not an active prohibition sentiment sufficiently pronounced to justify the expectation that a prohibitory law could be successfully enforced, and that such a law should not be enacted at present."

Sir Wilfrid Opposed the Act.

At 3.15 Sir Wilfrid Laurier moved that Mr. Flint's motion should be presented.

Mr. Flint arose and spoke for the Dominion Alliance, and pressed upon the House the fact that the Alliance acted in this manner on the principle that half a loaf was better than no bread, though the Alliance aimed at a measure that would take in the whole of the Dominion. Mr. Flint said he would vote for Mr. McClure's amendment because it more fully embodied the desire of the Alliance. He concluded by hoping the House would vote down Mr. Parmalee's amendment to the amendment, and support Mr. McClure's amendment.

Wallace Advocates Compensation.

Hon. Clark Wallace characterized Mr. Flint as a milk-and-water prohibitionist and recalled the fact that he had termed the prohibition question in 1898 "one of vital interest to Canada," while to-day he glossed the topic over by calling it "an interesting question." Instead, the prohibition of the liquor traffic was a vital issue. He would, if he had a chance, move that "a fair and reasonable compensation should be made to wholesale dealers and hotel-keepers and others whose interests would be financially affected by prohibition." He declared a hotel-keeper went into the business, not only for the year in which his license held good, but also under an implied bargain that if he complied with the law, his license would be continued to him. His license gave him a right to sell whiskey, a gallon of which did not cost more than 80 cents, but, upon which the Dominion Government put a tax of $2.25. On the top of this, the Provincial Government imposed a license fee. Then the municipal organization put certain restrictions upon the seller. Hence, here was a case where a man put $12,000 or $15,000 into a business, all the capital, but the Government, not having a dollar invested, took the lion's share of the profits.

It Meant Confiscation.

When prohibition was suggested, and no compensation allowed the hotelkeeper, the matter practically meant the confiscation of the hotelkeeper's property. From these facts he concluded that the Governments, Dominion, Provincial and local, were partners with the hotelkeeper in the liquor traffic. In fact, every man who paid taxes could not escape partnership. It had been said that $20,000,000 were squandered yearly in liquor. He declared the hotelkeepers could be compensated for $250,000 a year. Here was a business proposition. He suggested that if a hotelkeeper's property cost $15,000, the Government should give him $7,500 as compensation, and take a mortgage on his business. If the hotelkeeper did not refrain from selling liquor, then the mortgage could be foreclosed. In this way all the hotelkeepers could be won to the side of the enforcers of the law. He thought this scheme, as a matter of investment and assistance to the Government in enforcing prohibition, would be an invaluable adjunct, without which prohibition would not be a success. The hotelkeeping interest aiding the customs and inland revenue officials would make prohibition a success. As to Mr. Flint's Provincial prohibition, Mr. Wallace said a more insane proposition was never made to a legislative body. It would result in Quebec becoming the centre of the liquor traffic, and no law could prevent Quebec sending liquor into the other provinces. Mr. Flint's motion was but a nail in the coffin of the Government, and the people who had been so long befooled and hoodwinked would march in the procession.

Public Opinion Not Ripe.

Mr. Macdonald did not think public opinion was ripe for prohibition. The temperance people wanted a sop, so he would move, if he could, a resolution on lines similar to Mr. Parmalee's. He declared he had the word of F. S. Spence and Dr. MacLalen that the Ontario temperance people did not expect legislation to follow the result of the plebiscite. In conclusion, he said he would move an amendment to whatever resolution was passed, to the effect that "because it was desirable to restrict the liquor traffic, it is expedient that the Canadian Temperance Act should be enlarged and perfected." This, he thought, would gain the end aimed at by Mr. Flint.

Mr. Craig as a Critic.

Mr. Craig said that what the temperance people wanted was prohibition for the whole Dominion. He then lectured the House upon its want of sincerity. He was afraid M.P.'s spoke more to please a section of their constituents than to be sincere. He believed that politics should be eliminated from the discussion of prohibition. He held that the country was not ripe for prohibition because Canada did not have a prohibition Government, a prohibition Parliament, nor a prohibition people. To pass prohibitory legislation in the face of these facts would throw the temperance sentiment back a quarter of a century.

Sir Wilfrid on Prohibition.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said he had promised the plebiscite. He had given the plebiscite, and from the result he took the position that public opinion had not spoken in so certain a voice as to make it advisable to pass prohibitory legislation. He maintained that this position had been strengthened by the discussion in the House to-day. There was no unanimity among the prohibitionist members. No two agreed upon the means of attaining a common end. Practically, the only proposition before the House was provincial prohibition. He believed that no more dangerous legislation could be put on the statute books. He doubted if it would be constitutional. But granted that Parliament could legislate in this way, would it be advisable to legislate on sectional lines, when National Aims were always to be kept in view. Parliamentary legislation should aim to unite divergent sections rather than to intensify the lines of cleavage. Quebec had voted against prohibition very strongly, and while the total vote had been in favor of it, yet to give provincial prohibition would centre the traffic in Quebec and would not be national. The question that had to be faced was: "Is the country ready for prohibition or not?" If ready, then the people could have it when they wanted it. The country is not ready for prohibition. If prohibition was legislated it would at the present time be a curse upon the people. Temperance, he declared, was largely a matter of education. He believed Quebec was as temperate as any other province, and that there was really more actual prohibition to the acre than in any other province. Yet the people would not restrict their liberty, and he would give no hope that the Province of Quebec would change its views. "I am not a prohibitionist. I am a temperance man, and as much a temperance man as if I were a prohibitionist," said the Premier. He concluded by declaring that if the temperance people wished it he would perfect the Scott Act and make it more workable. He thought this would be in harmony with the advancement of the temperance sentiment. The only method to obtain prohibition was by systematic education and legislation following in the advance of this education.

Foster Shows Up Trickery.

Mr. Foster said he would vote against Mr. Parmalee's amendment because the result of the plebiscite was not criterion of the strength of the prohibition and temperance element in Canada. So many plebiscites had made the people weary. The plebiscite of 1898 was merely a warming up of old porridge. A big vote had not been polled because a large body of sound prohibitionists refrained from voting, believing nothing would result from the vote. He declared Sir Wilfrid knew how Quebec would go on the plebiscite as far back as 1893. He knew when he promised the plebiscite that Quebec would help him out. That there could be no prohibitory law. But did he tell the electors so? There was a different tendency in Sir Wilfrid's speech of to-day from that present in his utterances prior to 1896. There was a complete contradiction. In the resolution of the party formed in 1893, not only was an opportunity of voting promised, but also the hope that prohibition would be obtained by the vote. If Sir Wilfrid had said then, as he did to-day, that there would be no law following upon the plebiscite, all hope would have gone from the prohibition movement. Sir Wilfrid had said the will of the electorate must rule, and the action of the Government would follow the expression of that will. Why didn't he say: "Get two-thirds of the votes, or a majority of the voters on the lists, then the expression of your will will be mandatory." What was his position to-day? Prohibition was too sacred to be imperilled by putting a law on the statute book not backed by public opinion. Sir Wilfrid was careful to say nothing of a majority vote. Why? because, forsooth, he had that implied agreement between the leaders of the party and the leaders of the temperance people, that unless there was a majority of the eligible voters there would be no mandate. This agreement was all right, had it been revealed. It was of this complete concealment that was wrong. All that Sir Wilfrid could promise was to re-enact the Scott Act and make some improvements. The plebiscite had resulted in worse than nothing, because it was ordered without the willing consent of the temperance people and would retard the cause of temperance and prohibition in Canada. Effective prohibitory legislation had to be backed by a strong and active sentiment. He had no faith in plebiscites as binding or indicative of force for legislation. His one principle was that Canadians should have just what they wanted, and the only way to get it was by the expression of the representatives sent to Parliament by the people. Prohibition, he believed, would be enacted when the conviction of the electorate would send members to Parliament to carry out a prohibitory law.

Imitations

of Dodd's Kidney Pills are legion. The box is imitated, the outside coating and shape of the pills are imitated and the name—Dodd's Kidney Pills is imitated. Imitations are dangerous. The original is safe. Dodd's Kidney Pills have a reputation. Imitators have none or they wouldn't imitate. So they trade on the reputation of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Do not be deceived. There is only one DODD'S. Dodd's is the original. Dodd's is the name to be careful about—

The debate lasted till 11.30, when a vote was taken on Mr. Parmalee's amendment, with the following result: Yeas, 98; nays, 41. Majority for, 57.

Mr. Russell said he would have voted nay. So the score is 99 to 41, as follows:

To Fix Up the Scott Act.

Mr. Douglas moved that the Scott Act should be perfected, and that his motion should be fastened to the amendment already passed.

After an hour's opposition, in which Mr. Foster said that it meant prohibition was dead, and this motion was to take its place, a vote was taken at 12.30 a.m. It was a mixed vote, and resulted: Yeas, 65; nays, 64. Majority, 1.

This was greeted with tumultuous laughter and cheers. It was declared carried.

The Drowning of Mr. Dickey.

Before the House adjourned Mr. W. S. Fielding, with a shaking voice, spoke of the drowning of Hon. A. R. Dickey yesterday afternoon. Mr. Fielding spoke of him in the warmest terms. No one would be more sincerely mourned and more deeply regretted.

Mr. Foster expressed the sense of loss that the Opposition felt at the untimely death of Mr. Dickey. He spoke of his personal friendship with the deceased, who was a man of high moral ideals and a fair opponent, as well as a staunch friend. The public life in Canada sustained a deep loss by the fatality that removed the deceased.

Hance Logan, Mr. Dickey's most recent political opponent, spoke feelingly of the noble qualities possessed by the deceased.

The House adjourned at 1 a.m.

HON. A. R. DICKEY DROWNED.

Ex-Minister of Justice Loses His Life While Bathing.

Halifax, N. S., July 4.—Hon. A. R. Dickey, ex-Member of Justice, was drowned yesterday while bathing near his home at Amherst. During the afternoon he started for Amherst shore, saying he was going for a bathe, and remarking that he seemed unable to swim as well as he used to do. He did not return, and at 7 o'clock friends went to look for him. His lifeless body was found in two feet of water, his clothes lying near by. He had evidently been taken with cramps.

Mr. Dickey's Career.

Arthur R. Dickey, Q. C., was the second son of Senator Dickey, born at Amherst, in August, 1854, educated at the Collegiate School at Windsor, N. S., and graduated B. A. at the University of Toronto in 1874. He married, August 21, 1878, Myra, youngest daughter of Richard B. Boggs. He was called to the bar of Nova Scotia in August, 1878, was appointed Q. C. by the Dominion Government, July 28, 1890, and was first returned to Parliament, July 13, 1888, on the resignation of Sir Charles Tupper. The election being declared void, a new election took place Dec. 26, 1888, and he was re-elected, being again returned at the general election of 1891. Mr. Dickey was a prohibitionist.

SORROW IN ST. CATHARINES.

Death of Corporal Irwin in South Africa—Flags Half-Masted.

St. Catharines, Ont., July 4.—The death of Corporal Robert Irwin of the 10th Regiment at Bloemfontein caused very sincere regret in this city. He was the son of Mr. Robert Irwin of the Great Western Hill, and it is only two or three weeks since a brother of young Irwin was drowned in the Twelve-Mile Creek. Robert was one of the first to volunteer for service in South Africa. This is the first death to occur among those of the contingent who went from here. The flags on all the public buildings are at half-mast to-day as a mark of respect.

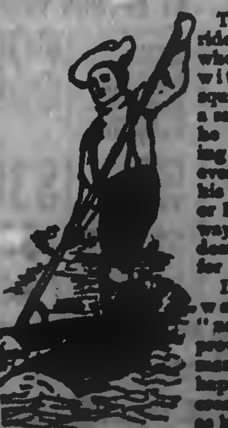
A Tragedy in Montcalm.

Montreal, July 4.—A terrible story has reached the city from St. Jacques Lachgan, County of Montcalm. It appears that on Saturday a man named Lehivre, aged 50, lately arrived from Gaspe, went to see a widow lady, a Madam Chouinard, and made an offer of marriage. She refused him, however, and Lehivre drew a revolver. Although not struck, the terrified woman fainted away, and the would-be murderer, believing that he had carried out his awful design, turned the revolver upon himself, and in a few seconds he was dead.

Barriefield Postmaster Dead.

Kingston, Ont., July 4.—John Ryan, postmaster at Barriefield, is dead, aged 87 years. He had been a resident of Barriefield since 1837. One son is Judge Ryan of Portage La Prairie, and one daughter is a medical doctor.



The real rough rider is the man who rides the river with a twisting, squirming log for a saddle, on which he stands, balancing himself to its every motion. If his coolness fails or his nerve gives way, disaster and death reach out for him.

It's the giving way of the "nerve" which proves fatal to so many a man. Perhaps he is simply crossing the street, as he has done ten thousand times. He hears a shout, stops, hesitates, gets "rattled" and is run over. When a man finds that his memory plays him false often, when he starts off to get something and forgets what he went for, when he knows he has locked the front door and yet an irritating uncertainty compels him to get up and verify his knowledge, then that man is in danger at any minute when confronted by a trifling danger. He is unnerved.

This condition can be perfectly cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It strengthens the stomach, nourishes the nerves, and purifies the blood. It contains no alcohol, whisky or other intoxicant.

"The reason I delayed writing was because I wanted to wait one year after I had taken the medicine before giving my statement, [illegible]," writes Chas. H. Sergeant, Esq., of Plain City, Madison Co., Ohio. "During the summer and fall of [illegible] I became all 'run down,' nerves were out of order and stomach out of order. I wrote to Dr. Pierce for advice. He said I had general debility, and advised Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and, thanks to you for your advice, I used six bottles; and since I stopped taking it, [illegible] I have not taken any medicine of any kind, and have been able to work every day. My appetite is good. [illegible] and my blood and nerves are in good shape."

DEEP SEA PRESSURE.

How It Changes a Corked Bottle of Wine Into Water.

"Speaking of deep sea pressure," said one of the officers of the training ship Prairie, "did you ever hear of the experiment of lowering a bottle of champagne and forcing in the cork? No? Well, it's very curious. I saw it done when I was on the Hero during its Pacific cruise, taking deep soundings. An officer on board offered to wager that if a bottle of champagne was let down to a certain depth it would come up tightly corked, but full of salt water. Somebody took him up, and the experiment was at once tried.

"A quart bottle of champagne was secured from the wardroom and attached to the cannon ball weight used on the deep sounding apparatus. They let it down, how far I don't remember, but it was several thousand feet, and when they began to hoist there was naturally a great deal of curiosity.

"All hands clustered about the rail, and when the bottle appeared it was eagerly examined. The cork was firmly in place, although it looked as if it had been badly crushed or jammed, and, miraculous as it may seem, the stuff inside was undeniably sea water. Everybody could testify that the bottle went down full of champagne, and how the transformation was effected was a first class mystery to most of those present.

"Yet the explanation was very simple. When the bottle reached a certain depth, the pressure drove the cork right down into the body of it. The champagne then escaped, water under compression took its place, and in returning to the surface the cork, which was floating in the neck, was pushed up into its former position. Nevertheless it was a very surpising thing to witness.

"They tried the same experiment with a bottle of beer, and when hauled back to the surface its cork was found sticking tightly in the neck, but turned bottom side up. It had evidently whirled around while the beer was going out and the sea water was going in and happened to be reversed when the upward pressure drew it back into position.

"The performance was of no special scientific value, but it gave us all a vivid realization of the tremendous weight of water in those submarine depths. After such an object lesson it is easy to understand why a diver can go only a limited distance below the surface. If he had followed the bottle, he would have been smashed like an eggshell under a trip hammer."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

THE WRONG COAT.

What Happened When the Man Who Took It Came Back.

"I'll carry it," said a young man at an up town barber shop as the boy vainly tried to help him on with the light overcoat he had plucked from the row. Throwing the coat over his arm he departed hastily.

"Always arouses my suspicions," said the wise guy, "when a man carries away his overcoat from a public place instead of putting it on."

The man sitting alongside the wise guy looked up uneasily, walked over to the rack, examined an overcoat, emitted a howl and dashed out of the door. In a few minutes he returned with the young man who had carried the coat, both somewhat flustered.

The barber shop was very much interested, and the barbers did not go on shaving. Malevolent glances were shot at the young man.

"I'm very sorry I took your coat," said he. "It looks very much like mine," as he indicated another coat hanging on the rack.

"Oh, yes," returned the other sarcastically. "Don't do it again, that's all."

The young man flushed deeply, but maintained his composure. "I shall ask you," he said, addressing the proprietor of the barber shop, "to put your hand in the inside breast pocket of my coat hanging there and show these gentlemen what you find."

The proprietor did so, while everybody rubbered. He produced a pocketbook. "You will find cards bearing my name," said the young man, mentioning the name. The cards were produced.

"What else is there?" continued the young man.

The proprietor fished into the pocketbook and displayed five $100 bills and some others, making something over $600.

"I may be very foolish to leave that money lying around in an overcoat," said the young man, "but I'd rather be thought a fool than a thief. I'm much obliged to you, sir" (bowing to the man who had brought him back), "for calling my attention so promptly. if rudely, to the mistake I made."

Asparagus and Cabbage.

Cabbage, strange to tell, once grew without a head. It is a native of Europe. Wild cabbage, or the cabbage without a head, is called "collards." Cultivation puts a head on collards. Cabbage comes down by transmission from "caput."

One of the oldest culinary vegetables is asparagus. Pliny and Cato ate it for rheumatic gout and praised it highly. We are growing it today in perfection, better than they ever had it. Certain folk in lower Europe use asparagus beans as a substitute for coffee, and in this country we have a patent medicine made of the juice of the root which is said to be an excellent [illegible]. Asparagus is bleached nowadays as we bleach celery, the stalks being of a pale cream color when harvested.

IN A BATTLE ON SUNDAY LAST

A Strathcona Trooper Was Killed —Capt. Cooper Missing.

Lord Roberts Seeking to Hem in Dewet's Forces—Kruger Again Says the Boers Will Fight on Unless Given Their Independence—Commander of Dewet's Scouts Captured by the British—"Bobs" Feeds His Enemies.

London, July 4.—Nothing decisive has yet been heard from the columns seeking to hem in General Dewet. All of Lord Roberts' field transport is engaged apparently in supplying these columns. Operations elsewhere are necessarily relaxed. One thousand Boers are hanging on Gen. Clery's right flank in his advance to Greylingstad.

One Strathcona Trooper Killed.

Strathcona's Horse on July 1 received its baptism of fire, in which one trooper was killed. Captain Cooper is reported as missing.

Kruger Will Fight on.

Mr. Kruger, replying to a correspondent at Machadodorp, who inquired if there was any truth in the report that he had opened peace negotiations, wrote:

"The President and people of the South African Republic most earnestly desire peace, but only on two conditions: The complete independence of the Republic, and amnesty for the colonial Boers who fought with us. If these conditions be not granted, we will fight to the bitter end."

CAPTURED DEWET'S SCOUT.

Andeles Wessels, the Head of the Afrikander Bund, Now a Prisoner of Methuen.

London, July 4.—The following despatch was received yesterday afternoon at the War Office from Lord Roberts:

"Pretoria, July 3.—Gen. Hunter reached Frankfort, July 1, without opposition, and Macdonald joined him there yesterday. He found two men of the Seaforths and 18 of the Derby Militia in the hospital. They had been well treated by the Boers.

Methuen Captures DeWet's Scout.

"Methuen reports from Paardekraal, on the Heilbron Kroonstad road, that he has captured the commander of Dewet's scouts, two other prisoners, and Andeles Wessels, the head of the Afrikander Bund."

Clery at Greylingstad.

The War Office has received the following despatch from Gen. Buller:

"Standerton, July 3.—Clery occupied Greylingstad yesterday night without opposition, but met with a good deal of sniping. There were four or five casualties."

ROBERTS FEEDS HIS ENEMIES.

Boer Families Whose Fathers Are Still in the Field Are Being Fed.

London, July 4.—The following despatch has been received at the War Office from Lord Roberts:

"Pretoria, July 2.—General Hunter's division has crossed the Vaal, and should be at Frankfort to-day, where he will be joined by Cal. Macdonald's brigade from Heilbron.

"Gen. Buller's leading brigade has left Standerton for Greylingstad.

Feeding Boer Families.

"Both here and at Johannesburg, several families of the men who have been fighting against us are being fed. Some are in a state of destitution. At Heilbron, where the food supplies ran out, groceries, meat and other supplies of food are being distributed among the inhabitants, under the supervision of the Relief Committee. Arrangements are being made for the distribution of oats for seed purposes to farmers actually in need of it, those who are unable to procure seed oats in any other manner."

Wounded Soldiers Reach England.

London, July 4. — The American hospital ship Maine has reached Southampton with another batch of wounded soldiers from South Africa. A distinguished party, including Princess Louise, Lady Randolph Churchill and Mesdames Blow, Ronalds, Adair and Chamberlain, met her in the Solent.

IN THE FIGHT AT SPRINGS.

The Canadians Behaved Splendidly and Were Congratulated by Lord Roberts.

Montreal, July [illegible] Star publishes the following special cable from Pretoria: June 29 (Delayed in transmission.)—The Royal Canadian Regiment, which is now stationed at Springs, was attacked on Thursday morning by a large force of the enemy, who tried to take a position commanding the coal mines. After a sharp engagement the enemy were forced to retire under heavy fire from the Canadians, who had two guns. The enemy numbered over 1,000, while the Canadians were only about 400. A great many of the enemy were killed, but there were no casualties among tho Canadians. WHEN DOCTORS DISAGREE

What Becomes of the Patient?

Doctors have their hobbies as well as other people and in the treatment of disease often carry them too far for the patient's good. For instance, in the treatment of indigestion or dyspepsia many doctors give bismuth and nothing else, others rely on pepsin to bring their patients through, still another doctor treats stomach troubles with the various vegetable essences and fruit salts.

Now, one or the other of these excellent remedies becomes a hobby with the doctor who has had most success with the particular one in question, because all of them are first class remedies for indigestion and dyspepsia, but not one of them alone is so good as a combination of all of them, such as is found in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which contain not only vegetable essences and fruit salts, but also the freshest, purest pepsin and bismuth, making altogether a remedy unsurpassed for every form of indigestion, sour stomach, nervous dyspepsia, belching of gas, distress after eating, sleeplessness, headaches, etc.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is not a secret patent nostrum, but you can see for yourself what it is, and knowing this, its success as a dyspepsia cure is not surprising. All druggists recommend and sell them at 50 cents.

detachment of German marines which sailed from Wilhelmshaven for China yesterday, the Emperor made a remarkable speech, during which he notified the world of Germany's intention to avenge the murder of Baron Von Ketteler, the late Minister of Germany at Pekin, and the missionaries, and to dictate terms to the Chinese from the palace at Pekin.

Were Two Others Murdered?

London, July 4.—A special despatch from Shanghai says Chinese reports are current that two other foreign Ministers were murdered the same day as Baron Von Ketteler.

Empress Dowager a Prisoner.

Washington, July 4.—Secretary Hay has received cablegrams from Consul Goodnow at Shanghai, dated yesterday, and United States Consul McWade at Canton. The one from Goodnow is as follows:

"On the 27th there were two legations standing. The Emperor and Empress are prisoners in the Palace. The city gates are closed. Prince Tuan and his force of Boxers are in control of everything. Complete condition of anarchy in streets."

The Situation Desperate.

Che Foo, July 2.—It is reported that all foreigners have been ordered out of Tien Tsin. The situation is considered desperate. The Chinese are pushing their entrenchments under the walls. The railway between Tien Tsin and Lutai is in the hands of the Chinese.

The Chinese Army.

Moscow, July 4.—A despatch from Col. Stoessels to Admiral Alexyeff at Port Arthur estimates the total of the Boxers' force at 50,000. According to the statement of the Chinese general staff, the imperial army can be raised to a war time strength of 1,752,000 men, but this is regarded by Russians as a considerable exaggeration. The Chinese legation is still at St. Petersburg.

Argonaut Sails for China.

London, July 4.—The British first-class cruiser Argonaut, with a crew of 687 men, left Sheerness for China yesterday.

The Oregon Floats Again.

Shanghai, July 4.—The battleship Oregon has been floated. She is expected to reach Port Arthur safely.

Was Seymour Wounded?

London, July 4.—Repeating the story of renewed severe fighting at Tien Tsin, a special despatch from Shanghai adds that reports are current that Vice-Admiral Seymour has been wounded.

Save the Legations First.

London, July 4.—The Parliamentary Secretary of the Foreign Office, Mr. William St. John Broderick, in the House of Commons yesterday, said he was able to add but little to the previous information about China. A telegram has been received from the British Consul at Tien Tsin, dated June 28, saying the allied forces had burned three arsenals with an immense quantity of stores, powder and ammunition. In conclusion, Mr. Brodrick informed the House that the Government could not discuss the future Government of China, its sole preoccupation at present being to save the legations.

PETERBOROUGH MAN REPORTED DROWNED

WAS CHARLIE M'MARTIN DROWNED AT MICHIPOCOTEN?

A Report That Causes Fear That Such is the Case—Direct News Has Not Been Received.

Friends here are fearing that Charles McMartin, son of Mr. Dennis McMartin, has been drowned at Michipicoten, on the north shore.

Fears are aroused by a letter dated July 2nd received from Mr. Chas. Wynn, in which he says he was told by a man who had just come from Michipicoten that a man named Petra, of Sault Ste. Marie, and one named Dennis McMartin, of Peterborough, had been drowned. This could not be Dennis McMartin, the well-known millwright. Mr. McMartin and his family are in Deseronto, to which place they moved a short time ago. But Mr. McMartin's son, Charles McMartin, was known to be in the Michipicoten district, and hence the fears that he is the victim of the accident.

The report received does not give any particulars of how the drowning occurred, but says that McMartin was supposed to have $400 on him when he was drowned. Parties had been searching for the bodies, and had found the men's coats and paddles on the shore and the canoe in pieces on the rocks.

More direct information will undoubtedly be had at once if the report is true.

Green Ceylon Tea, which is now being introduced into Canada in the well known packages of the "Salada" Tea Company, has got one great advantage over Japan tea, and that is, while it is of the same flavor and the same light coloring liquor, it is very much stronger and is absolutely free from adulteration, which practically no Japan Tea is. Ceylon Green Tea is sold in sealed lead packets of the "Salada" Tea Company, and is always fresh and fragrant, as well as healthful.

THE POLITICAL IDEAL OF CANADA

AS A PART OF THE GREAT BRITISH EMPIRE

Special Patriotic Discourse Preached by Rev. H. Symonds on Dominion Day—Democracy and Imperialism Combined in Canada's Ideal.

References to the national day were made in all the churches on Sunday, and in some special sermons suitable to the occasion were preached.

At St. Luke's Rev. Mr. Symonds delivered a patriotic discourse appropriate to the day and the occasion. His subject was "The Political Ideals of the British Empire and their Relation to Christianity." The preacher took for his text the 14th and 15th verses of the 48th Psalm:—

"Walk about Zion and go round about her, tell the towers thereof, mark ye well her bulwarks, consider her palaces, that ye may tell it to the generation following.

"For this God is our God for ever and ever; He will be our guide unto death."

After referring to the occasion upon which the psalm was composed, and pointing out its appropriateness for the present occasion, when we celebrated the building together of the various provinces of Canada into one Dominion, Mr. Symonds spoke of the special reasons for the celebration of Dominion Day of this year. The past year has been one of marked importance in our history. We knew that when we despatched our first contingent to South Africa a new bond was being woven to bind us more closely to the Empire, but we hardly anticipated either that so many of our volunteers would be sent, or that their term of service would be so long, or that they would occupy places of so much importance in the British army. They have accomplished great things for us, whereof we rejoice. They have suffered great things for us, whereat we grieve, but we feel that their sufferings have not been in vain. The law that growth and progress have their roots in sacrifice has been illustrated anew in the history of our Canadian

COL. GREENWOOD AT THE FRONT

HE WRITES AN INTERESTING LETTER FROM KROONSTADT AND TELLS OF EXPERIENCES

The Hard Life of the Soldiers – The Peterborough Contingent With the Mounted Rifles – Boers Destroying Bridges – Something About the Country.

The following letter received by a friend from Lt.-Col. H. S. Greenwood will be read with much interest in Peterborough:—

Kroonstadt,
May 19th, 1900.

My Dear,——Only a line or two to tell you we arrived here on the 12th, expecting to march next day. Next we were told we were to rest a day, and then our orders for next morning were "march at 4.30 a.m." That meant up at 3 a.m. At four when we were nearly ready the order of marching was cancelled, and here we are still, expecting each day to move. The Mounted Infantry which we are in are at the very front, and in our district always come in contact with the enemy first, and after we have found out his strength (as near as we can judge) we either attack or wait for the infantry and artillery to come up. It is a strange warfare, for when we are fired upon from a kopje it is most difficult to know where they are situated in that kopje, as you cannot see any smoke, only hear the crack of the rifle with its echoes, and then or knocks up the dust near you. At first one feels a little squeamish over them, but you soon get accustomed to them, so much so that you see men eating their lunch under fire, and when lying on the ground waiting often go to sleep. Our delay here is because the supplies to feed 25,000 men, which there are in this vicinity, cannot be got up until the railway is repaired, and this takes time, for they have blown up every bridge, culvert, and sometimes embankment as well, along the line. It seems sad that so much good work should be destroyed. They seem to have plenty of explosives and do not spare them. We have Free Staters coming in every day and giving up their arms, and the night before last a party of Mounted Infantry went but two hundred strong to capture three Boer commandants who were reported by scouts to be in the vicinity with 20 men trying to work up some Free Staters who had returned to their farms. We heard this morning that the capture had been made, which I hope is the case. I have a sore foot, caused by the stirrup, which prevents me riding for a few days. Had I been well I would have been in charge of the party (fifty) contributed from our battalion towards the two hundred which went out to make the capture. Lord Roberts and his staff are here, but a camp of this size covers a number of miles of country, and as one is generally busy one sees very little of the other camps. The first contingent, which went over 1,040 strong, and have since had 125 men sent out, making in all 1,165, now only muster on parade 507. They have had 250 cases of enteric fever and 197 killed and wounded, besides other casualties. Our people (Mounted Rifles) have only had two or three wounded, but we have had several deaths and one suicide.

A BULLET WHISTLES PAST YOU,

LIFE IS PRETTY HARD

at times for the men. Hard tack and bully beef in tins, long marches, sleeping on the ground with only one blanket (until last few days), getting into bivouac after dark and marching again before daylight day after day, drinking water from muddy ponds (very seldom find a well), all tends to pull a man down. Of course the officers have things a little better, but not very much. I have not been under a tent for six weeks, and during the day the sun's rays will cause sunstroke unless you wear a hat (a cap is no good), while there is frost every night. The country is like a billowy ocean. The hills have very long slopes from one to two and three miles long, all a bright brown color, which is dried grass and the color of our uniform. Occasionally one spots a little green at the crest of a hill or along a river bank. These are dark green, and on examination are thorn trees full of thorns two inches long and as sharp as needles. The Boer always builds his house at the head of a valley, where he also builds an earth dam to catch the water during the rainy season, and this water has to last him and his cattle over the dry season. He also fences in about from six to ten acres below the dam, which he cultivates and irrigates, and here he grows his vegetables and oats, etc., and irrigates from his dam. He has a few Kaffir huts near by. These are his "retainers" who work for him, and he gives them ground to grow their food, but they say they never get any pay. Mealies (Indian corn) will grow without irrigation, also vegetable marrow squash, and natives live on these a great deal.

Kroonstadt is considered the second largest town in the Free State. It is next to Bloemfontein. It is in a valley, and you could put two and a half such inside Peterborough. There are a few nice stone cottages owned by Englishmen, but all of the buildings are one story, and those of the Boers are made of soft bricks and have far from the sweetest of odors inside.

THE FREE STATE BOERS

fight us until we arrive abreast of their farms, then many turn up with rifles and say they were forced to fight, but now that their farm will be protected they want to go back to their farms and fight no more. Then the British General tells

PILGRIM JOE SCORED.

WON TEN DOLLARS EASILY, BUT HAD TO WORK TO GET IT.

However, the Worthy Man Had a Sure Method of Persuasion, Which He Used With Good Effect on His Reluctant Debtor.

[Copyright, 1900, by C. B. Lewis.]

As I left the town of Jericho, in which I had met the most eminent citizens and took their tintypes at 10 cents a take and made the world better fur my comin, I was in sich calm speerits that I gave the old hoss a lick and said to myself:

"Honesty don't allus lead to riches, but a clear conscience is never put to any expense fur hair dye."

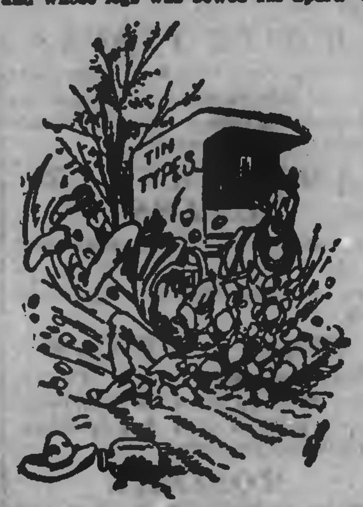
And also:

"It don't cost nothin to sympathize with misfortune, and if you talk fast enough they don't git no chance to ask fur a cash loan."

And again:

"Give your feller men all credit fur honesty, but look out fur coins with holes bored through 'em."

I was thus feelin content and happy and tryin to excuse Cain fur not hangin on to hisself in that affair with Abel, when I meets up with an old critter who's back was humped like a camel's and whose legs was bowed fur apart. I halted my outfit to give him greetin and mention the fact that integrity and a clean shirt hev never bin defeated as a combination, when he says:



I CLOSED WITH HIM.

"I don't keer fur no integrity bizness. I'm a man as can't be bluffed."

"As how?" I asks.

"As by no critter who is luggin a grasshopper around in a bottle. I've got suthin here as will chaw your hopper up in two minutes by the clock. Put up or shet up!"

And with that he shows me a quart bottle with a beetle in it and wants to bet me even up that he will do my hopper. I tried to explain to him that my inseck was a thing of peace and that I carried him about that I might study the ways of natur' and advertise my bizness at the same time, but he was wroth and called me names. He contended that I was carryin that hopper around to bluff the territory of Oklahoma and that it was fur him to call the bluff. When he had offered to bet me ten to two on his beetle, I felt a speerit of recklessness steal gently o'er me. It is a speerit which allus steals o'er the best of men when they are offered big odds. I obeyed the voice of the speerit and got down with my hopper, and a minute later we had them both in one bottle. As the insects begun to skirmish around I says to the old heathen, on whose face there was a smile of satisfaction:

"Art travelin about in hopes to make the world brighter and better fur them who sorrer and are heavy hearted?"

"Not by a durn sight!" he answers with all promptness. "I'm takin keer of No. 1 and lettin the sorrerful and heavy hearted comfort themselves as best they kin."

"But he who is without sympathy is without friends."

"I don't want any, and you git ready to hand over them $2. My beetle has got your hopper on his back and is thumpin the life out of him."

Fur a minit it looked as if my inseck would be overcome, and despair was tuggin at my heartstrings. But of a sudden he rallied and put forth his strength, and it was not long before the end came. That beetle was a licked inseck. He had met the hopper and was hisn. As the conflict was ended, I looked to see the old critter beside me pay up and remove the mangled remains, but he claimed a foul and hit me on my venerable chin. Without waitin to remark that man cometh up like a flower and is cut down, I closed with him, and we plowed up the earth. He was tough and full of ambition, but with the aid of justice I laid him low and made him pay up. His soul was too full fur utterance as I drove away, but mine wasn't. I wiped my bleedin nose with tender hand and remarked to myself:

"He who would undo his feller man let him beware that he is not laid low himself."

And also:

"Be not puffed up and vainglorious and be not overeager to look fur bluffs."

And likewise:

"The man of humility seeketh to avoid contention and would dwell in peace, but when aroused he goeth in with all his might to slay."

A Gump of a Poet.

SWEET BELLS IN TUNE.

But They Slightly Jarred the Hotel Clerk Just the Same.

Don't mention it in the presence of the clerk unless you are out in search of serious trouble. They arrived at the hotel, one of the best Detroit affords, late in the afternoon. The man who can pass at his election for 30, 50 or any point between stepped briskly to the register, proudly registered his name "and wife," confided to the clerk that they were just taking a little wedding tour and plainly indicated that the best the house afforded would not be a particle too rich for their blood.

"Pretty old brace of birds," the clerk soon confided to one of the hotel "setters," "but he's a jolly chap and feels like a 2-year-old. Strong way of moving he has. I'd bet right now he could knock our heads together and not rumple his clothes. Anyhow, they've got the bridal chamber, and I told the head waiter to make it pleasant for them."

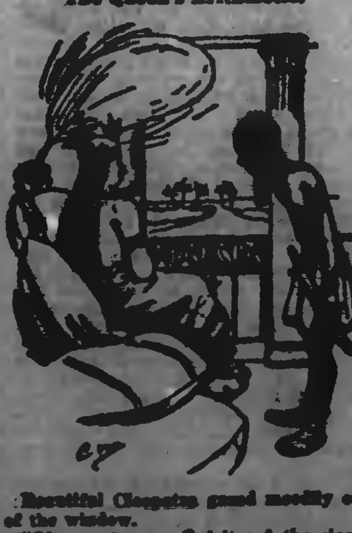
Inside of 18 hours they were the delight of the hotel. She had big black eyes that had a way of smiling in advance of her lips and bubbled over with good feeling. And she seemed to have him hypnotized. At the table she would whisper to him, and he would chuckle and tell her that she was just as big a deal as ever and then spread mustard on his bread, put Worcestershire sauce in his coffee or use cayenne pepper instead of black. She would leave the dining room hanging on his arm with both hands, those great eyes looking adoration at the side of his head.

"You're running it, Kit," the waiter heard him say at the table, "and they think we're the spooniest that ever came down the line."

"We are. Don't you dare say we're not," and then she'd prompt him to some act that delighted the younger guests and caused the older ones to predict that things would be very different in six months. There was a week of this, and then he made every one sorry by serving notice and paying his bill. The hotel had never entertained a more enjoyable couple.

"Don't say a word," whispered the husband to the clerk. "Wedding trip all right, but silver wedding. Yep, married in May, '75. Wife gets younger every year. You gave us a great time."—Detroit Free Press.

The Queen's Arithmetic.



Beautiful Cleopatra gazed moodily out of the window.

"Oh, great queen," faltered the slave, "knowest thou the number of days thou hast yet to spend here?"

"No," responded Cleopatra; "bring me an adder and let me figure it out."

Rudely Shattered.

"Chumleigh says his first love was his schoolteacher."

"Indeed?"

"Yes. But he says love's young dream was shattered the first time she took him on her lap."

"That seems funny."

"Not at all. He was face downward at the time."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

PERSPIRATION.

A Condition Practically Confined to Men, Monkeys and Horses.

Perspiration is almost peculiar to men, monkeys and horses. Horses sweat all over the body, and so do human beings, but monkeys, it is said, sweat only on the hands, feet and face. The use of perspiration is mainly to cool the body by its evaporation, although it is generally believed that waste materials are also excreted through the sweat glands when the action of the kidneys is interfered with. In animals that perspire but little the cooling of the body is effected by evaporation from the lungs, as we see in the case of a panting dog.

The amount of perspiration varies greatly, according to the temperature of the surrounding air, the condition of health, the degree of exercise taken, the amount of fluids imbibed, etc. The average amount of perspiration is thought to be about two pints a day, but this is of course much increased in hot weather.

In damp weather evaporation from the skin is lessened, and so one seems to perspire more profusely than in dry weather, but this is only apparent, for really transpiration is lessened when the atmosphere is charged with moisture.

Hyperhidrosis is the medical term used to denote an abnormal increase in perspiration. This increase may be general from the entire body or confined to some particular part, as the face, the hands or the feet. Profuse sweating is very common in cases of debility and in excessively stout persons. It occurs also in connection with various diseases, such as consumption (night sweats), pneumonia, inflammatory rheumatism and certain nervous disorders. Sudden emotion may cause increased perspiration.

The opposite condition, a great diminution or absence of sweating (anhidrosis), is much rarer and occurs usually in connection with some disease of the skin. Sometimes the character of the secretion is changed, and cases of black, blue, gray, yellow or red sweating have been described.

The treatment of profuse perspiration depends upon the cause. Tonics, cold or cool bathing, especially salt bathing, temperate exercise and rubbing of the skin are useful in cases dependent upon general debility or obesity. Spraying or sponging the body with brandy and water, vinegar and water or a solution of tannin or of boric acid is useful.

Certain drugs which have a tendency to diminish perspiration are sometimes employed to reduce the night sweats of consumption when these are so excessive as to weaken the already debilitated patient and to prevent much needed sleep.—Youth's Companion.

NOT MUCH OF A LIFT.

Story of a "Fresh" Young Man Who "Riled" a Farmer.

Farmers, even those who are considered "nigh" in other respects, are usually quite willing to give foot passengers a "lift," but they like to be asked for the favor politely. A native of Hillville was returning from the county fair at Brookby with an empty wagon, when he overtook a smartly dressed young man who was plodding along with the disgusted air of one unused to country roads and sandy soil.

"Hello, hayseed!" cried the foot passenger, turning round as he heard the rattle of wagon wheels and standing still until the farmer drove up. "Can a fellow get a lift to 'Sconset?" and without waiting for a reply he vaulted into the wagon. "I might as well ride with you as walk, I guess. Now, then, start up your nag."

The farmer looked at the young man a little sharply, but said nothing beyond a "Git up!" addressed to his horse.

After two or three miles had been traversed the young man paused for a moment in his inconsequent chatter and remarked:

"It's more of a distance to 'Sconset than I supposed."

"It is quite a distance," responded the farmer in a noncommittal tone.

Another 20 minutes passed, and then the young man inquired:

"About how far is it to 'Sconset?"

"Well," replied the farmer, "keepin straight ahead, the way we are goin naow, I sh'd say 'twould be a matter o' 25,000 miles or so, but ef so be you was faverable t' gettin aout o' my wagon an hoofin it back, it ain't much above eight miles."

The young man got out with great celerity and proceeded to "hoof it" in the opposite direction.

"I cal'clate," said the farmer, telling his wife the story afterward, "I cal'clate his mode of addressin the next man he meets will be some different."—Christian Observer.

Table Rock.

At the present time but little of the famous promontory known as Table Rock projects over the Niagara falls. It is at this point that the finest front view of the falls is obtained. Originally a great mass of rock overhung the cataract, but in 1850 a huge section of the ledge 200 feet in length and 100 feet thick broke off and crashed into the chasm, carrying with it an omnibus that was standing there.

Dickens wrote as follows of the view from Table Rock: "It was not until I came on Table Rock and looked—great heavens!—on what a fall of bright green water that it came upon me in its might and majesty. Then when I felt how near to my Creator I was standing the first effect and the enduring one, instant and lasting, of the tremendous spectacle was peace. Niagara was at once stamped upon my heart, an image of beauty, to remain there changeless and indelible until its pulses cease to beat forever."

A Quaint Epitaph.

The epitaph by its assumption of accuracy is often delightfully humorous. I always enjoy, for instance, this one, which is to be found, I understand, at Williamsport, Lycoming county, Pa. At the top of the gravestone there is a rude carving—indeed, how could it be anything but rude?—of a boy, innocent of clothing, being kicked by a horse, arranged for the purpose. Then the epitaph follows:

"Sacred to the Memory of Henry Harris, Born June 27th, 1831, of Henry and Jane Harris his wife. Died on the 6th of May, 1837, by the Kick of a Colt in his bowels peaceable and quiet a Friend to his Father and Mother and respected by all who knew him and went to the world where horses cant kick where sorrow and weeping is no more."—Rochester Post-Express.

WAS HOME EARLY.

So Waited Around Awhile to Save His Reputation.

A man was leaning against a tree box on upper Eighteenth street at about 11:30 the other night, when the cop on the beat came along. The cop stopped and looked the citizen over.

"Evenin," said the cop.

"The same," said the citizen.

"Waitin for some one?" inquired the policeman.

"Nope," replied the citizen.

"Just standin there, hey?" said the cop.

"Yep," said the man who was holding up the tree box.

"Live around here?" asked the officer.

"Right inside the house I'm standing in front of," said the man who was doing the leaning.

"Far be it from me to rubber," said the cop, "but what's your graft, Louie, anyhow?"

"Oh, none in particular, except hustling for a living," replied the man. "Far be it from me to let you croak right there where you stand from curiosity, and so I'll tell you. My wife said to me before I went down town this evening, 'If you're not home by midnight, I'm going to pack up and go right home to my mother's—so there, now.'"

"She did, hey?" said the cop, looking at his watch. "Well, what about it?"

"Well, I'm home ahead of time," said the citizen. "It's only 11:30. I'm just waiting. See?"

"Oh, that's it, is it?" said the cop, and he went down the street whistling "The Wise Guy Had His Chanst and Took It Quick."—Washington Post.

The Hard Part of It.

"I always hate," said Mrs. Blimleigh, "to see my husband fuss around setting out plants and putting in seeds, as he's been doing lately."

"Why," her neighbor answered, "I should think you would take just the opposite view of the matter. The flowers will look nice, and a man who works in an office all day as Mr. Blimleigh does must need the exercise."

"Oh, yes. The flowers will look nice enough, and he always is benefited by the exercise, but it's so expensive to hire a man to take out the things Henry plants in his enthusiasm during the first week."—Chicago Times-Herald.

Man's Contrary Nature.

"When John was younger, he always grumbled when I asked him to dig up the garden."

"Well?"

"Now he has rheumatism I simply can't keep him from getting out and digging it up before he ought to."—Indianapolis Journal.

Jim Was on the Crew.

"When I went to school, we never set on anything better'n wooden benches," said Farmer Beetroot, "but here's my boy Jim writin me from Harvard that the new slidin seats make him pretty sore. I writ an asked him what they wanted of slidin seats, an he answered back that it enabled them to git along faster. So I s'pose it's all right."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

What Made Her Doubt.

"I wonder why he didn't bring his wife with him," she said.

"He did," replied her husband. "That's his wife with him now. What made you think it wasn't?"

"He's so attentive to her."

And during all the rest of the evening he kept wondering whether there was anything personal in what she said.—Chicago Post.

Eczema on the Scalp

Would Itch and Burn until the Child Screamed with Agony—A Wonderful Cure Effected by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

The case recorded here is one of the worst ever brought to the attention of Toronto's best physicians, and when doctors gave up all hope of recovery, Dr. Chase's Ointment was successful in producing a perfect cure.

Mr. [illegible] Scott, 288 Wright avenue, Toronto, states:—"My boy, Tom, aged ten, was for nearly three years afflicted with a bad form of Eczema of the scalp, which was very unsightly and resisted all kinds of remedies and doctor's treatment. His head was in a terrible state. We had to keep him from school, and at times his head would bleed, and the child would scream with agony. For two and a half years we battled with it in vain, but at last found a cure in Dr. Chase's Ointment. About five boxes were used. The original sores dried up, leaving the skin in its normal condition. To say it is a pleasure to testify to the wonderful merits of Dr. Chase's Ointment is putting it very mildly."

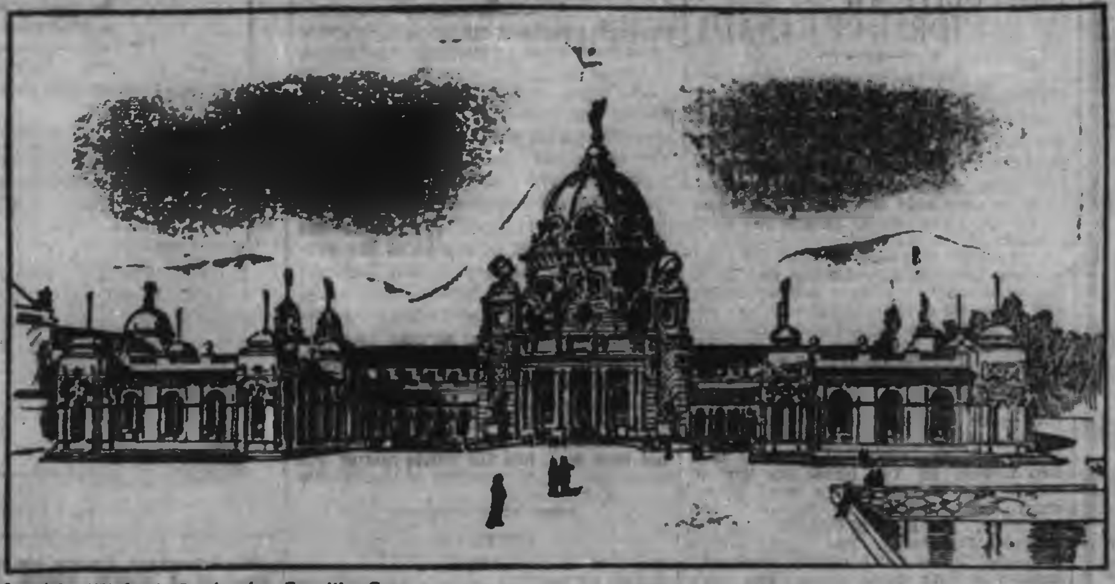
UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT BUILDING, PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.



Copyright, 1900, by the Pan-American Exposition Co.

So vast is the number of valuable and interesting objects for exhibition in the possession of the government that none but a building of great proportions could possibly contain them. Instead of one building, however, at the Pan-American Exposition, which is to be held in Buffalo from May 1 to Nov. 1, 1901, the Federal group will consist of three massive structures connected by colonnades. The main building will be 130 feet wide and 600 feet long. The others will each be 150 feet square. The government work is under the direction of James Knox Taylor, supervising architect of the treasury department. The group will be treated architecturally in a modified Spanish renaissance, and the color scheme, in marked contrast to that used at Chicago, will be rich and brilliant.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, July 4.—Cattle—The demand yesterday was better than on the close on Monday, but still it was not too brisk. Butcher cattle steady at Monday's closing figures. Sheep and lambs—Practically no quotable market. Spring lambs, nominally, choice to extra, $6 to $6.25; good to choice, $5.50 to $6; yearlings, $4.75 to $5; mixed sheep, $4 to $4.25; wethers, $4.80 to $4.65.

CHEESE MARKET.

Ingersoll, July 4.—Yesterday 1,380 boxes were offered; 280 sold at 9½c. Attendance very good, but market quiet.

A WARNING TO BACHELORS.

Signer Torrello was a tamer of lions—
His name in the Bible was Brown—
He could make the fierce brutes jump the rope, walk the wire
And turn somersaults and lie down.
Signer Torrello
Was quite a gay fellow
And rapidly winning renown.

Signer Torrello one day met a maiden
Who, charmed by his soul stirring art,
Stood in front of the cage and applauded the lions
As each played its wonderful part.
Signer Torrello,
In words that were mellow,
Laid siege to the fair maiden's heart.

Signer Torrello could look at a lion
And cause it to cower in fear,
But the look that gave Leo the chills had no terrors
For the lady who's figuring here.
Signer Torrello,
Alas, the poor fellow,
Was conducted around by the ear!

Signer Torrello no longer tames lions,
The beasts turned against him one day;
The look that once charmed them had ceased to be potent,
They roared and refused to obey!
Signer Torrello,
Unfortunate fellow,
All bloody, was hustled away!

Signer Torrello, subdued and discouraged,
Now works by the day with his hands
And is badgered for losing the look that made lions
In terror obey his commands.
Signer Torrello,
Alack, how he fell! Oh,
His case as its own moral stands!

Placing the Blame.

She looked at him scornfully, even indignantly.

"Would you let a woman stand while you occupy a seat?" she asked.

"Madam," he replied, "do not blame me. The fault primarily lies with your own sex."

"How so?" she demanded.

"I did not receive proper home training," he answered.—Chicago Post.

"You're next, sir. Don't go!" the boss barber cried.

"Onions!"—Philadelphia Press.

Another Odious Comparison.

She—Yes.

He—Why are you looking around in that way?

She—I'm looking for the dead lion that made the comparison pop into your mind.—Chicago Times-Herald.

ELECTRICITY'S WORK.

One of the Awful Results of Science's Recent Advances.

"I notice in the car there," said the old man to the conductor on the platform—"I notice a passenger with an emblem of mournin on his hat."

"Yes, I see," was the reply.

"Do you know who he is mournin for—father, mother, wife or child?"

"No, sir."

"Haven't asked him no questions nor extended a word of sympathy?"

"Of course not."

"And you don't appear to care a red cent what has happened him. He may have lost all he loved on earth at one fell stroke, and yet your heart isn't touched."

"I'm not in the touching business!" exclaimed the conductor as he rang for a stop. "I'm conducting this car for about $12 per week and getting a blow up on every trip, and it's all I can do to sympathize with myself."

"But was it that way when they used to use hosses on the cars?" asked the old man.

"Mebbe not."

"No; I don't think it was. Hoss car conductors used to be touched and sympathize, but electricity has hardened everybody up, and the fountains of pity and sorrow have been closed. I feel the change in myself, and I'm sayin that I'll drop off at the next corner and get a glass of beer, and the mournin man inside can continue to mourn and be hanged to him!"

DISCONTINUED TRADING STAMPS

The Brockville Grocers Decide to Discontinue Stamps.

A Brockville despatch says:—The grocers of Brockville have organized what will be known as the Retail Grocers' Association of Brockville. The members have unanimously adopted a resolution agreeing to discontinue the giving of trading stamps or discounts after July 15th.

In an editorial article headed "The Trading Stamp Nuisance," the Toronto World says:—"The trading stamp gentry are non-essentials in the business world. They serve no useful purpose in the distribution of goods to customers. In reality they are parasites on the community. They have grafted themselves on the retailers of this and other cities. Who foots the bill for their profits and their expenses? The public, of course. Instead of benefitting the people, the trading stamp concerns are a barnacle upon trade. The trading stamp business is put forward on an insincere and deceptive basis. The idea sought to be conveyed is that the purchaser at the grocery, butcher or dry goods store gets the stamps for nothing. Ostensibly he does, but let him make no mistake. No one in these days gets something for nothing. The thing can't be done, and the individual who says he can do the trick is a fraud. The people who follow the trading stamp fad pay for their folly through the nose. The retail dealers have come to see that trading stamps serve no legitimate purpose in business, and they have about made up their minds to discontinue their use. Some of them have already agreed to do so, and others are only waiting for some concerted action in which they are ready to co-operate. The trading stamp will not help the retailer to meet the competition of the departmental stores. It further acts as an impediment to his doing so, for, in addition to wanting his goods as cheap as they can be had elsewhere, the purchaser expects to get the promised something for nothing. It is impossible for the retailer who gives trading stamps to play the game successfully for any length of time. He is simply playing into the hands of his competitors who do not pay tribute to the stamp company. Like all other public nuisances, the trading stamp must go."

him to go and sin no more. Time will tell if he (the Boer) will remain on his farm. Before we marched from Bloemfontein north our squadron went with an expedition east to suppress a lot of Free State Boers who had been on their farms for nearly a month and had passes, then suddenly joined a commando which arrived from the north. We had two or three fights with them, and they cleared out and went north, but in that case all their cattle and sheep were taken and houses destroyed. It was the hardest work we have had to do, but fortunately the destroying of nearly all the houses were left to the South Africa Colonials to do, while we collected cattle and sheep, also "Cape carts," which, by the way, look quite swagger, white top, two seats, lamps and brown harness. Each battalion is allowed to take a certain number, and they draw officers' luggage or act temporarily as Red Cross waggons when ambulance is not to be had. On that expedition east of Bloemfontein we had several little engagements, two of which we took part in, and it was there we secured our Cape cart, and it has proved very satisfactory.

Half of the men who left Peterborough with me are scattered pretty well along the line from Cape Town. Those left on service are Sergt. Willoughby, Sergt. Hilliard, Corp. Price, Ptes. Spence, Terrill, Flemming, Watson, Thompson, Turner and Cameron. Price and Turner are very well.

Sick List:—Sergt. Trussler, at Bloemfontein, suffering from rheumatism, probably invalided to England.

In Field hospital, not serious:—Sergt. Hayward, Ptes. Hall, Hampton and Johnston.

May 19th—We have just got our orders to continue the forward movement to-morrow. Our fifty men and their officers have returned from the expedition with the flying column, and they succeeded in capturing 37 prisoners, riding 60 miles in 17 hours in heavy marching order. It is hard to say when we will be able to send letters again, and we have not received any letters for weeks, which is very disheartening. I forgot to say that when the bridges are blown down we do not try to repair them. When the road was first built they crossed all the rivers by a deviation leading down to river and up again. Now the engineers are building up the old lines where banks have been washed away in places, but the piers for the low level bridge are still there in places and can be made use of. Thompson is well and happy.

Yours sincerely,
H. S. GREENWOOD.

P.S.—Our squadrons were originally 160 strong, while we are now down to 120 strong.

THE POLITICAL IDEAL OF CANADA

contingents in South Africa.

Great anniversaries of great events are not only times for rejoicing, but also for reflexion. There are many topics upon which one might speak, but he proposed to touch upon only one, viz., "The Political Ideals of the British Empire and their relation to Christianity."

Every one cherishes ideals. In our business life, our domestic life, our social life, some ends or objects are before us, and these we seek with more or less devotion to achieve. There are also such things as and no more important task is laid upon the teacher than the fashioning and setting forth of high ideals. What, then, is the political ideal of Canada as a part of the British Empire? I think it is a combination of two ideas, the first of which is expressed in the word Democracy, and the second in the word Imperialism. The ideal of Canada to-day is Imperial Democracy. The speaker then proceeded to set forth clearly what was implied in both these terms. The word empire used to be an indication of tyranny or by absolute rule. That was why some men who were great historical students, such as Mr. Goldwin Smith and Mr. John Morley disliked it. But the meaning of the word Empire has to-day been modified by the other half of our ideal, viz., the fact of democaracy. The democratic ideal is government of the people, for the people, by the people. Empire means vast territory embracing different parts of the world and including within its wide sway many self-governing States. Democracy means the government of the people of the Empire by themselves. The combination of these two things gives us the ideal of to-day, Imperial Democracy.

The question now to be answered is, ought we to cherish this ideal? Is it the highest ideal of which we can under the present circumstances conceive? My answer to this question is an emphatic yes.

The circumstances of our times clearly point to the fact that the smaller and less vigorous states of the world are steadily being absorbed by the larger states. This which in other times might have been a hardship, is not so to-day, owing to the prevalence of the democratic ideals. The intention of the conquering state is not to enslave the conquered, but rather to make them free, and to give them larger opportunities of living than they enjoyed before. Only in Imperial affairs is liberty conditioned, but those very conditions make for strength. The great powers are to-day ceasing to be nations and becoming vast federations of self-governing states. This is true of Great Britain, the United States, Germany, and in a lesser degree of Russia. All other powers are declining. The result is something new in the world's history, vast Empires which combine

UNITY AND LIBERTY.

And it is here that the political comes into contact with the religious ideal. These two things, unity and liberty, are two of the leading ideas of the Gospel. The Gospel proclaims as the necessary deduction from its cardinal doctrine of the unity and Fatherhood of God the unity and brotherhood of man. The Gospel, however, in its treatment of the individual man treats him as a free man, because he is a son of God. It brings to each man the right of free and immediate access to God. The Spirit beareth witness with our spirits. And so Christ could say, "If the Son set you free ye shall be free indeed," and again, "Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall set you free." And St. Paul, the very apostle of liberty, cried, "Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ has made you free." Our hearts swell with emotion as we contemplate the ideals of liberty, self-government, of equal rights and justice for all. But remember there are no privileges without responsibilities, no rights without duties. Every man because he has the right to vote owes it to his country to study the politics, that is the needs of his country, and the way in which they can be supplied. Men and women, too, should attend political meetings. But your responsibility is not limited to politics. In a sense your whole manhood belongs to your country. When you degrade yourself in any way you are lowering the standard of your country's honor and reputation. And on the other hand, every one who respects and honors his own man or womanhood confers honors upon his country. All must set before them a high ideal. Let us strive to lift up within us, and to raise even higher and higher within ourselves the standard of our country's purity, honesty, sobriety and truth. Reverence God, reverence man, reverence yourself, reverence and support goodness and truth wherever you see them fighting their great battle against the world, the flesh and the devil. Brethren, the lot is fallen to us in a fair ground, yea, we have a goodly heritage. Let us in our homes, in our offices, in our politics, prove our worthiness of it. So shall we with ever increasing pride and thankfulness walk about our Zion and go round about her, and mark well her bulwarks, that we may tell it to the generation following, for this God is our God for ever and ever; He shall be our guide unto death.

A Family Necessity

Mr. J. Wright, of 136 McPherson-ave., Toronto, says:—"I am always glad to say a good word for Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It has been in use in our family for two years, and we have never found it fail to cure coughs, colds and chest troubles. It is our regular stand-by." Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is a family necessity in the homes of Canada and the United States. 25 cents a bottle. Family size 60 cents.

POLICE HAD AN ORGAN

Through a Series of Mistakes on the Part of its Owner it Reached the Police Station.

An "organ in the parlor to give the place a tone" was the condition of things at police headquarters this morning. The organ was brought up on a search warrant issued because Andrew Larocque had not appeared in police court as he agreed to meet the obligations resting upon him in regard to the payments on the said organ. But Larocque had made a mistake, he said, and thought he had until five o'clock to make the payments. The trouble arose over Larocque buying the organ from Mr. A. Turner & Co. under a lien note, and the latter understanding that he had sold the instrument before the payments were made laid a charge of theft. But the organ had not been sold, and the whole matter will be settled on the payment of the balance due and the costs.

OBITUARY

Death of Mrs. J. Hillard Carnegie at Coboconk.

The death at Indian Point, Coboconk, of Mrs J Hilliard Carnegie will be a sad shock to her many friends in Peterborough. Young, bright and estimable in high degree, her death is a sad one, and will be a severe and sorrowful affliction for Mr Carnegie and two small children.

Deceased was Miss Elizabeth Janet Laurie, of Toronto. The deepest sympathy will be felt for the bereaved relatives.

Honor to a Canadian Woman.

We are so accustomed in Canada to inviting speakers from the United States to present to us different phases of moral reform that the pride in our own country in that respect at least has been largely stifled. At the same time we are convinced that they speak to us of general principles and of vices they are wide of the mark when dealing with purely Canadian matters. It is a cause for great joy and satisfaction therefore that in Canada we have men and women who are now in the fore front of speakers on moral reform. Among women no one takes so prominent a position as Miss Charlotte L Wiggins, and no one is held in higher esteem by all who have heard her whether on temperance or on Endeavor work. The Christian people and especially the mothers of Peterborough do not want to miss the opportunity of hearing Miss Wiggins on Thursday afternoon when she will speak on "Humanities' Battle." In these days of warfare against the evil and impure it is earnestly hoped that Christian men and women will "rally round the banner."

Slater Shoe Leathers

The output of "Slater Shoes" is so large that the makers are able to control their own tannage in most leathers.

"Canuck Calf," made from the best selected calfskins, in black, light and medium tan and seal brown.

"Kidduck" in black and seal brown, from selected Patna goatskins.

Both leathers are wear and water resisting, porous and therefore sanitary.

There are also "Best French Patent," "French Enamel," "Peerless Russia" and "American Wax Calf."

Slater Shoe Polish only should be used on these leathers, retains their elasticity and keeps them soft.

The sole leather is the best obtainable, and on every sole is the makers' name and price in a slate frame, when the finished shoe has passed its rigorous examination.

LEFT FOR ENGLAND

And Was Given a Farewell Word and Gift by the C. M. B. A.

Mr Geo Ball left to-day on a trip to his old home, England, and the members of the local branch of the C.M.B.A., of which Mr Ball is president, took advantage of the opportunity offered by his departure to express their appreciation of his services to the Association and give him a slight token of their esteem to carry with him on his trip. Accordingly last evening at a meeting of the Branch, Mr Ball was presented with an address, accompanied by a handsome watch charm. The address was read by Mr W F Morrow and the presentation made by Mr W J Devlin. The address read as follows:

Peterborough, July 3th, 1900

To George Ball, Esq.,
President Branch No. 30, C. M. B. A.

Dear Brother.—It is with much pleasure that we, your fellow members of Branch Number 30 of the Catholic Mutual Benevolent Association, take this opportunity to express to you our appreciation of your energetic and valuable services on behalf of our society both as a member and in your capacity as president, realizing that both your time and talents have been given unsparingly and unselfishly for the good of all the members.

Permit us also to assure you of the high personal esteem in which you are held by all your brother members. In all our associations you have won the warm regard and sincere respect of those with whom you have been connected and who have, therefore, been in a position to appreciate your many sterling qualities.

We hope and are confident that the same pleasant relations will continue to exist between us in the future as in the past. On the eve of your departure for the old land we desire to extend to you our cordial wishes for a pleasant voyage and a safe return.

As a mark of our esteem and a token of our good wishes we ask you to accept this watch charm from the members of Branch Number 30.

Signed on behalf of the members;

A J GOUGH, Chancellor
W F MORROW, Secretary

Mr Ball made a lengthy reply, acknowledging the kind and valuable gift of the members, and expressing his feelings of love for Canada and his associations here.

Short speeches were also made by Messrs A J Gough, M O'Brien, W Redkins, T Henry and P J [illegible].

New Uses for the Camera.

The Bank of France has an ingenious arrangement by which suspicious visitors can be photographed without their knowledge. Behind the desk of the cashier is a hidden photographic studio, and at a signal from any of the employes of the bank a picture of the suspected customer is instantly taken. The camera is also useful for detecting frauds, an erasure on a check, which may not be visible to the eye, being clearly perceptible in a photograph.

A Noted Noble Oarsman.

For his years, Sir Charles Dilke is probably as fine an oarsman as could be found. One of Sir Charles' favorite recreations is sculling. When at his riverside retreat at Shepperton he is often to be seen in a pair-oared boat in company with some famous rowing man, pulling away with as much energy as an athlete half his age.

POULTRY POINTERS.

Fowls half fed are never in good condition for market.

Too much linseed meal given to the hens will make them fat.

If chickens are allowed to go on the roosts too young, their breasts often get crooked, and their appearance is spoiled.

Ducks are so much clumsier than chickens that they should not be reared in the same apartment. Give them a place to themselves.

Grease closes the pores of eggshells, which prevents their hatching. For this reason do not grease the sitting hens or the nests they occupy.

The water troughs of fountains need thorough cleansing occasionally. The better plan is to scald them thoroughly with strong soapsuds. A filthy drinking fountain will breed disease sooner than anything else.

In sending poultry to market at this time feed and water them well before putting into the coops. Send the hens in coops separate from the roosters. Have the coops sufficiently high so that the fowls can readily stand up. Be careful not to crowd too many into a coop.—St. Louis Republic.

IMPERTINENT PERSONALS.

Mr. Gates of the Steel and Wire company is not afraid of earthquakes. It is said that he can stand quite a jar.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

When Kitchener was last heard from, he was trying to think of some way in which he could get his name past the censor again.—Denver Post.

A lady up in Vermont wants to be nominated for vice president on the same ticket as Admiral Dewey. But Mrs. Dewey has her eye on that position.—Mexican Herald.

Julian Ralph threatens to return and lecture against Webster Davis, and the worst is yet to come. Richard Harding Davis hasn't declared what he will lecture on when he takes to shirt waists again.—St. Paul Dispatch.

If the persons to whom is intrusted the selection of a profile to adorn the new half cent coins have an eye to harmony and the eternal fitness of things, they will give Uncle Russell Sage's face their careful consideration.

Filled the Bill.

Young Obed Perkins—It wasn't right for you to go to see Cynthy while I was goin with her, Seth. She won't keep company with me at all now.

Young Seth Wheatly—Well, it wasn't jist adzactly right, Obed, I'll admit. But, you see, it were this way: While yer jist as good a-lookin feller as I am, you know Cynthy's a gal what's got a all fired good eddication, an she's such darned pa'ticler that she gits a feller what uses good grammar. That's my strong p'int, Obed, an naturally she took to me.—Indianapolis Sun.

THE BOER WAR.

De Wet's Roving Ground Is Daily Becoming More and More Contracted—His Finish Near.

London, July 5, 4.25 a. m.—The various telegrams received from Pretoria and elsewhere in South Africa while not giving an account of fighting represent the converging columns as making De Wet's roving ground more and more contrasted and the possibility of his defeat and capture near.

FOREIGNERS ALL KILLED.

Held on in British Legation Till Ammunition Gave Out.

British Legation Finally Was Burned and all the Foreigners, 1,000 in Number, Including 400 Soldiers, 100 Members of the Chinese Customs Staff and a Number of Women and Children Were Killed.

Shanghai, July 4, 5 p. m.—Three Chinese servants of foreigners have, it is rumored, from a good source, escaped from Pekin. They report that all the foreigners, 1,000 in number, including 400 soldiers, 100 members of the Chinese Customs staff and a number of women and children, held out till their ammunition was exhausted in the British Legation. The legation was finally burned and all the foreigners were killed.

It is reported that Kwang Hsu and the Dowager Empress have been poisoned.

SUICIDAL TO REACH PEKIN.

Commanders of the Allies Practically Abandon the Legations.

London, July 5.—(2.30 a.m.)—The commanders of the allies in Tien Tsin inform the correspondents that it would be suicidal to reach Pekin with the troops now available, in the face of the force of Imperial troops and Boxers occupying the country between Tien Tsin and Pekin. So far from taking the offensive, the 12,000 troops at Tien Tsin and the 8,000 others at Taku and intermediate points can barely keep up communication, fighting incessantly with overwhelming numbers, using far more artillery pieces than the allies.

This telegram has been received: "Shanghai, July 4.—(11.10 a.m., via Che Foo.)—Tien Tsin city fell between 7 and 8 o'clock on the morning of June 30."

BOXERS ARE IN CONTROL.

The Imperial Prince Has Erected an Altar Where Boxers Rites Are Performed.

London, July 5.—The Times Shanghai correspondent, telegraphing under date of July 4, [illegible] p.m., says:

"The following information has been communicated to me by a trustworthy quarter. It was brought by a special courier, who left Pekin, July [illegible]. He states that Tung Fuh Siang's and Chinese troops attacked the legations on that day. They were repulsed with loss. One gate of the inner palace only is open daily for a few hours. The Emperor and the Empress-Dowager are there, surrounded by their personal attendants, all Boxers. The Imperial Princes have erected an altar in the palace, where Boxer rites are performed.

"The attack of the allied froces upon the native city of Tien Tsin began at 3 a.m., June 30, and the city was taken at 2 p.m. The main object is the destruction of the city fort, from which the foreign settlement is shelled.

"I am informed that the total of the Japanese troops embarked is 15,000, and that a further force of 30,000 has been mobilized, and is ready for embarkation."

THE IMPERIAL DECREE.

Dated at Pekin, June 25, Calls on People to Rise Against Foreigners.

Shanghai, July 3.—The Imperial decree, dated Pekin, June 25, has been sent by courier to Pao Ting Fu, and thence telegraphed broadcast:

"We are now warring with the foreigners. Boxers, patriots and people, combined with the Government troops, have been repeatedly victorious in battles with our foreign enemies. We have already sent imperial commissioners to transmit the imperial praise and exhortations to repeat the successes.

"There must be men of similar patriotism and bravery in all the provinces of the empire. We therefore command all viceroys and governors to enlist such and organize them into troops.

"Let this decree be sent to all the high officials in the empire at the rate of two hundred miles per day."

The Fate of the Legations.

High Chinese officials here stated to-day that they had received a message from Pekin saying that 24 hours would decide the fate of the remaining foreign legations.

Severe fighting continues around Tien Tsin. Admiral Seymour is reported to have been wounded in a pitched battle.

A MESSAGE FROM SEYMOUR.

Europeans Have Gathered in British Legation—Ammunition Scarce.

London, July 5.—The Admiralty has received a despatch from Vice-Admiral Seymour, dated Tien Tsin, Saturday, June 30. After repeating the news from Pekin of the destruction of all the legations except the British, French, German and part of the Russian he adds:

"The Europeans have gathered in the British legation. They have provisions, but the ammunition is scarce. One gate of the city near the legation is held [illegible] Europeans with guns captured from the Chinese. Five of the marine guards have been killed and an officer wounded."

A question of great interest for intending insurers is which Canadian Life Company is in highest favor with the insuring Canadian public? The following table is a good indicator:

Name of Company.	Commenced Business.	Canadian Business Written in 1899
North American	1881	$4,834,505
Sun Life	1871	3,996,865
Ontario Mutual	1870	3,965,509

Canada Life	1847	3,800,917

The above are the five leading Canadian Companies and although the North American is much the youngest in years, she is outstripping all her rivals in the Canadian field.

Philadelphia, July 5. — Seven children were killed by an explosion of fireworks in the heart of the Italian quarter of this city yesterday. Prominent Railroaders Met a Horrible Death at Parkersburg, W. Va.

Parkersburg, W. Va., July 5.—Six prominent railway men were instantly killed, and between 25 and 35 persons terribly injured by the explosion of several gasoline tank cars in the yards of the Ohio River Railroad here yesterday.

At 7.30 o'clock a yard engine was passing down with a train, running at a good rate of speed towards the lower end of the yard. On nearing the shops a switch was discovered open. Before the train could be stopped the engine struck a train of gasoline tanks. Several officials of the road happened to be here, and, as is usual in an accident of the kind, they fired a cannon shot at the remaining tank of oil, in order to let the fluid out.

Instantly, after the shot had hit the tank, it exploded. The dead are: J. H. Hamilton, general superintendent; Blakeley Reeves, engineer; Edward Shannon, telegrapher; Yardmaster Carr, Master Mechanic Lalime, Conductor Bradford.

It was impossible to state the exact number of injured, as many had been carried to their homes. At the hospital it was thought that several more deaths would result.

COMMONS PROCEEDINGS.

The Election Act Amendments Bill Passed Through Committee and Stands for Third Reading—Other Matters.

Ottawa, July 5.—In the House of Commons yesterday morning Mr. Sutherland introduced the Yukon game reservation Act. In explanation, Mr. Sutherland stated that from the report of the Yukon Council it appeared the game preservation act of the Northwest Territories did not apply to the Yukon, and this bill gave power to make regulations.

The Election Bill.

The House again went into committee upon the bill respecting the election of members of the House of Commons. Mr. Sutherland stated that he had prepared a clause providing that absence from Canada on service in South Africa connected with the contingents in any capacity shall not disqualify any qualified elector who is on the list. Under this anyone who is now on the list will, he explained, be entitled to vote within the district in which he was qualified. Mr. Fitzpatrick said he proposed to go further and insert a clause which provides that by taking the special form of oath prescribed in the clause any person now serving in South Africa, whose name would otherwise have been placed upon the voters' list if he had remained at home, will be entitled to vote. This, he explained, would cover the men actually serving in the contingents and all serving in any capacity in connection with the military service, including the war correspondents.

The clause was unanimously adopted.

The form of ballot was then passed, and the bill was reported at 1.10 p.m., and stands for third reading.

Hon. Dr. Borden, in reply to Mr. Taylor, said he would make a statement of the case of Corp. Courtenay of A Battery, Kingston, who refused on the 24th of May to march a squad to drink the Queen's health in beer, within 24 hours.

Sir Louis Davies said the case of the Canadian named Harris, arrested for alleged smuggling in Newfoundland, had been dropped at the request of the Colonial Secretary.

Dr. Montague asked if, in view of the treaty negotiations between Trinidad and the United States having failed, negotiations with Trinidad had been renewed by Canada.

Sir Richard Cartwright replied that he had no official knowledge of the failure of the Trinidad-United States negotiations, although he believed the report to be true.

More Judges for Quebec.

The afternoon session was devoted to a discussion of the bill to amend the act re judges of provincial courts. The bill refers to Quebec and aims to increase the number of judges from 31 to 34, by increasing the number in Montreal district from 14 to 17. It would mean an increase of $15,000 yearly in salaries. Messrs. Casgrain and Bergeron opposed the bill, because they thought there were already enough judges.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. C. Fitzpatrick said that as the administration of justice was in the hands of the province the Dominion could not remedy it. The French-Canadians were wedded to the system that persisted in having a Superior Court judge try cases that could be as well disposed of by a magistrate.

Dr. Sproule, who complained of the wretched system of justice administration in Quebec, moved the six months hoist.

Mr. Foster seconded this, and declared the present was an inopportune time to bring in the bill, because, with the business already before the House, only a cursory scrutiny could be given it. He objected to being hurried.

The six months' hoist was put and lost on division.

The bill passed through committee.

The first clause refers to Quebec. The second raises the salaries of Northwest Territory judges. The chief justice gets $5,000 and the four puisne judges $4,000 each.

The third clause appoints a new judge in the Yukon, making two in all, each receiving $4,000.

The third reading was laid over.

The Copyright Act was next. It went through with a rush, and was read a third time.

Abrogation of Coasting Laws.

On a motion to go into supply, Mr. Bennett announced his intention to move a resolution respecting the abrogation of the coasting laws last year in favor of the U.S. vessels. He traced the history of the abrogation from Oct. 16, 1899, and said that consternation had fallen upon the Canadian shipping interests. He thought the Government should not have interfered with the coasting laws. He moved that the action of the Government was prejudicial to the transportation and shipping interests of Canada, was unjustifiable from a constitutional point of view and merited the condemnation of the House.

The Opportunist Government.

Mr. Fielding replied for the Government, and declared the case was an exceptional one, and had been undertaken on the solicitation of the grain producers of the west, who feared that Canadian bottoms could not handle the trade in 1899. He thought the action would not be repeated, though he would not say it would never be. Every case would have to be viewed on its merits.

Many speakers on both sides joined in the debate.

The sum of the Opposition members' arguments was that the abrogation of the coasting laws was made without proper precautions being taken to find out that the Canadian vessels could not handle the trade. Further, it was illegal and un-Canadian.

The Government's position was: "We, perhaps, did wrong, but if you do not make a row we won't do it again." No one claimed that proper precautions had been taken. The Government acted on the advice of a Mr. Smith from Winnipeg, who claimed he represented the western grain men.

The vote was taken at 12. Mr. Bennett's motion was voted down by 51 to 32.

The House then considered the railway supplementary estimates of next year.

The House adjourned at 1.25.

FRENCH, BUT LOYAL.

Hon. Mr. Tarte States His View of the Position of the French-Canadians.

Montreal, July 5.—La Patrie publishes the following despatch, which Hon. J. Israel Tarte sent to the St. James Gazette of London, about the position of French-Canadians in Canada:

"Paris, June 30, 1900.—I regret to see that some English journals reproach me for having pronounced what they call pro-French speeches. It is of the greatest importance that the position of the French-Canadians should be well understood by our friends the English in England and in Canada. We are French, but loyal subjects of the Queen. Sir Charles Dilke has shown that in a clear and admirable way when he said in his last book, "The British Empire': 'If those of English origin alone are to be recognized as British subjects, the unity of the Empire would not last long. In other words, if we wish to live together in harmony and concord, it is necessary that all the nationalities enjoying the protection of the British flag have the right of preserving their homogeneity. Speaking in my own name, I do not hesitate to say that the British institutions are the best in the world.

(Signed) "J. Israel Tarte."

The Fury of a Woman.

Granby, Que., July 5.—What is thought to have been an attempted murder and suicide took place at West Granby about 1.30 o'clock yesterday. The victims are Joseph Bolio, 26 years old, and Annie Holcomb, aged 25. It is supposed the woman first shot Bolio and then attempted to take her own life. At 2 o'clock it was said by a physician who had seen both the injured persons that neither probably would live through the day. The cause of the shooting is thought to have been jealousy.

Canadian Officer for Sierra Leone.

Belleville, Ont., July 5.—W. J. W. Carstairs of the 56th Lisgar Rifles, has received an appointment as officer in the Sierra Leone Mounted Police.

When a Chinaman becomes a criminal, the law punishes his parents and even the grandparents. This is only the extreme logical application of the doctrine of heredity. In this country, we leave natural law to deal with its own offenses, and many a mother is punished through the physical weakness and peevish temper of puny offspring.

Women mainly err through ignorance. They enter the marriage state already disordered by irregularity of the periods. The delicate and sensitive organs, peculiarly feminine, are in no condition for the shock which is consequent on the great change. Drains that are offensive and debilitating are set up, inflammation and ulceration with female trouble are added in time, and when motherhood comes the strength of body is inadequate, and the condition of mind unfit, for the responsibility. The natural result is a child that is unhealthy and unhappy.

Happy wifehood, healthy motherhood, beautiful children, all follow the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It stops the drains, allays inflammation, heals ulceration, cures female trouble, soothes the nerves, and puts the delicate female organs in a condition of perfect health.

Mrs. Annie Blacker, of 609 Catherine Street, Syracuse, N. Y., writes: "Your medicines have done wonders for me. For years my health was very poor; I had four miscarriages, but since taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Favorite Prescription,' I have much better health, and now I have a fine, healthy baby. I have recommended your medicines to several of my friends and they have been benefited by them."

Women find valuable help in Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. Sent free on receipt of stamps to pay cost of customs and mailing only. Send 31 one-cent stamps for paper binding, or 50 stamps for cloth binding. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

TYPHOID FEVER.

Some Rules For the Prevention of This Disease.

This is the beginning of the season of typhoid fever, and here are some rules for its prevention:

The disease is usually contracted by way of the mouth, eating impure or poorly prepared food or drinking impure drinks. The mistress of every home should take double her usual care to see that the food is thoroughly cooked and the drinkables are thoroughly purified.

The most common vehicle for the transmission of typhoid fever germs is milk. Extra care should be taken to insure the purity of the family supply. Learn where the milk comes from and, unless you know that it is handled properly, seek another dairyman. Unless you know that the milk is all right be sure to boil all that goes on the table. Milk should never be kept in an open vessel in the refrigerator, because it absorbs all kinds of poison with remarkable rapidity, and is one of the best natural culture media for disease germs.

Being assured that everything you eat and drink is pure and wholesome, the next step is to watch your general health and see that you do not "run down." Every one takes into his system an untold number of active disease germs every year, and the reason that he does not become ill is because he is in a condition to throw off the poisons. No man or woman in perfect health will contract typhoid fever, except under the most unfavorable circumstances, and even then the disease will not get a firm hold on the constitution. On the other hand, if one becomes debilitated, he is liable to contract the disease no matter how careful he may be.

Don't overstimulate. Drink sparingly of alcoholics and don't take things to increase your energy. Keep cool. Don't rush.

Drink plenty of water (only be sure of its purity), but avoid ice water in large quantities or when overheated.

If possible, take a cold sponge—not plunge—bath every morning. This will give tone to the system throughout the day. In order to keep the pores open take one or two warm plunge baths a week.

Let the housewife see that every sink, drain, tub—in fact, everything about the kitchen and the yard—is clean. Don't rely on antiseptics, which destroy odors, but do not kill germs, as is generally supposed.

See that nothing is allowed to accumulate on the premises that will breed germs, and there will be none. Have the cellar whitewashed throughout and sprinkle lime in all damp corners and around the back yard.

Eat any kind of wholesome food that your taste dictates and in such quantities as you know by experience that you can digest.

If you are afraid of the city water, get some other kind. Whatever water you drink, don't be sparing with it. It is hard to drink too much water, especially in hot weather.

Remember that nine-tenths of the precautionary measures are simply the application of the law "Cleanliness is next to godliness" and keep clean and keep everything clean.—Exchange.

Spectacles For the Blind.

From Russia comes the news that Professor Norshewski has invented an instrument the principle of which is the sensitiveness to light of selenium and tellurium, both of which change their quality as conductors of electricity with a variation in the light to which they are exposed. In stating that the blind can see by this instrument a relative meaning only is indicated. While their actual vision will be unaffected, they will feel the various effects of changing light by its action. It is claimed that a totally blind man has been enabled to find the windows in a room, and after some practice to distinguish approaching objects. The inventor hopes to make the instrument so efficient that the blind will be able to tell almost certainly when they are approaching an opaque or transparent substance.—London Family Doctor.

Buried With $500 In His Pocket.

It is not often that a man is buried with $500 in his pocket. His relatives generally look to that. But such a case has actually happened in this city.

A few days ago Don Sabino Trujillo died and was buried in Dolores. After the funeral the niece of the deceased informed the relatives of the dead man that he had at the time of his death the sum of $500 in one of his pockets; for he was buried in his ordinary clothes. She had seen him pay the doctor, a short time before his death, some money and put the remainder, $500, in his breast pocket. As no one had thought of looking for the money and as the young lady was prostrate with grief at the death of her uncle and so did not remember anything about the matter until after the funeral, the money was buried with the corpse.—City of Mexico Two Republics.

BOTH HANDS SEALED.

A PECULIAR CLIMAX IN A GAME OF DRAW POKER.

The Tangle That Ensued Was Grimly Complicated, and Its Unraveling Was Decidedly Unsatisfactory to Those Interested.

"While I was in Louisville recently," said a New Orleans sporting man the other night, "I had my attention called to a massive old fashioned poker table which stands in one corner of the lounging room at a club much frequented by horsemen. On the green baize cloth, at opposite sides, are a number of curious little stains, in which minute fragments of red sealing wax can be seen on close inspection. The table is never used for card playing at present, and the story told in connection with it is really remarkable.

"One afternoon several years ago a party of four turfmen, all at that time pretty well known in sporting circles, started a game of poker in one of the little back rooms of the club. They rocked along for several hours without doing much damage, one way or the other, when suddenly an exciting tussle began over a jack pot.

"In a few moments the man who opened it dropped out, followed by one of the others, leaving the remaining two players to fight for the spoils. One of them was a bookmaker from Chicago, and the other was a man from Syracuse who used to be a partner in a famous 'art gallery' bar. I don't care to identify them any closer than that. The Chicago man began the trouble by betting $100, which the New Yorker saw and raised $250. The bookmaker came back with $1,000, and when he counted out the money he noticed that he had about exhausted his roll.

"'That oversizes me,' said the Syracuse man. 'I haven't got $1,000, or a quarter of it, in my leather, but if you'll give me half an hour to go out and rustle I'll stay with you till the cows come home.'

"Well, the proposition, as the story goes, was accepted, and the question then arose as to what should be done in the meantime with the two hands. It was finally suggested to lay them face down on the table and fasten them there with sealing wax. The idea seemed good and was adopted. A dab of melted wax was dropped at the corners of each of the pasteboards, and both players stamped the seals with private marks. The New Yorker used a cameo ring, the other simply making an impression with his thumb. The money on the table was locked in the safe, and both men thereupon rushed out to replenish, agreeing on an hour's limit.

"Now comes the queer part of the story. The bookmaker went straight to a personal friend who was proprietor of a certain big gambling house and borrowed $2,500. He started back on a dead run with the money in his hand and while crossing the street was knocked down by a cab. One of the front wheels passed over his shoulder, and he was picked up unconscious and taken to a hospital.

"Meanwhile the other player had hunted up a wealthy distiller of his acquaintance, told him in strict confidence what he had and was on the point of securing a loan when a constable walked up and arrested him on a charge of swindling. The case had grown out of some race track transaction, and there was really nothing to it, but it was enough to give him considerable annoyance, and it was late at night before he succeeded in fixing up a bond.

"Next day the condition of the bookmaker was still very serious, and as neither man had returned within the hour his friends insisted that the poker affair should stand just as it was until he got better. The Syracuse man wanted the stakes taken down, but the others would not agree, and a week or so later he was obliged to go home on some business. Meanwhile the table was locked in the cardroom, and nobody was allowed to go near it.

"When the bookmaker was able to talk, he protested vehemently against any division of the money. 'Let that game stand until I can go and play my hand out,' he said. But he was never able to do it, and, after lingering nearly half a year, he suddenly got pneumonia and died. Less than a week afterward the Syracuse man was accidentally drowned while out boating with some friends off Long Island. That left things in a very peculiar situation.

"The manager of the club wanted to divide the money in the safe between the two estates, but the bookmaker's brother, who was his executor, objected vigorously, insisting that the last bet had never been called, and consequently the New Yorker had lost. Then the distiller, who had agreed to back his Syracuse friend, offered to make the call good, and the two original players who had dropped out and who were still in the city began to clamor for the return of their money, amounting to about $50 apiece, on the ground that everything should be declared off on general principles. Altogether it was the worst mixed up affair that ever happened.

"Finally the matter was left by agreement to a prominent Louisville business man who knew nothing about cards, but had a high reputation for honesty and common sense. He declared that the two players who had dropped out had no claim on the pot, and, as nobody could remember exactly how the preliminary betting had stood, that two-thirds of the lump sum should go to the representatives of the bookmaker and one-third to the estate of the New Yorker. To prevent endless debates and squabbles in future he also directed that the cards should be removed from the cloth, face down, and destroyed without exposure.

"These instructions were carried out to the letter, although it nearly broke the hearts of numerous friends of both parties not to get a look at the two hands. The cards were carefully detached one by one and burned in the grate without being turned over. After such an experience nobody cared to play on the old table again, and it was relegated to a corner as a curiosity. I'm told there was a good deal of wax on the cloth originally, and, although most of it has been dusted away, enough still remains to indicate the position of every card."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Mrs. Leland Stanford on the anniversary of her son's birth delivered over to Bishop Grace the deed of the old Stanford mansion, which is henceforth to be known as the Stanford-Lathrop Children's home. Countess Gabrielle von Wartensleben is the first woman to obtain the degree of doctor of philosophy from the University of Vienna. She is 30 years of age and the divorced wife of Count Konrad von Wartensleben, by whom she had a son, now 9 years of age. She was a Baroness von Andrian Kerburg before marriage, and her mother was the daughter of Meyerbeer, the composer.

While Mlle. de Stael, daughter of the Russian embassador to Great Britain, was being married to Count Alexis Orloff-Davidoff in London according to the Russian rite, with the Prince of Wales, Lord Rosebery and a church full of notables looking on, her bridal veil caught fire from the lighted taper she held in her hand and blazed up. She kept still while the bridegroom put out the fire with his hands and others pulled off the veil, and the ceremony went on.

INSPECTION BEGUN

Col. Montizambert Arrives and Begins the Inspection of the 57th.

Col. Montizambert arrived in town last evening and commenced the inspection of the 57th Regiment, when D, E and F Companies were inspected at the drill shed.

Capt. Ritchie was in charge of D Co., Capt. Bennett of E Co., and Lieut. McPherson, in the absence of Capt. Hayes, of F Co.

The three companies acquitted themselves well, both officers and men being complimented by Col. Montizambert, who gave E Co. a special word on the excellence of its organization and work.

To-night A, B and C Companies will be inspected, and to-morrow the Regimental inspection will take place, the parade being called for 4.30 p.m.

Statute Labor Delinquents.

Three statute labor delinquents were in police court this morning. One man was over age, and another was a soldier and so escaped a fine. The third, however, was guilty and was fined $2 and costs. This was last year's statute labor tax.

Injured at Roseneath.

Last week Mr. J. Gray, of Peterborough, who is in the employ of J. Braithwaite, Roseneath, met with a serious accident. He was drawing gravel from a pit to use in doing statute labor, and in attempting to turn his waggon in the proper position for loading, the horses turned too short and threw him out. Both wheels passed over his body, breaking four ribs, and he was also severely bruised, as the runaway team dragged him some distance. Dr. Lagg, of Roseneath, attended to his injuries, and he is progressing favorably.—Star.

THE FIELD OF GENERAL SPORT

LACROSSE.

Speaking of the Toronto-Tecumseh lacrosse match the Telegram says:—"For Tecumsehs, it might be said, the stars were the entire defence. Kelly played a tremendous game till he was hurt, but after that the home did not shine particularly. When they got the ball they did not appear to know what to do with it. Wilkinson did some good work, and Soules was brilliant in flashes that died in the pan. But it was at and behind the line that the Indians shone. Tommy O'Connor at centre had a great struggle with Fred. Moran and finished just a trifle in the lead. Angus played a hard, strong game all afternoon, and in addition to giving a deal of attention to Frank Moran covered an immense amount of ground. Hogan played clean, fast lacrosse, and showed that he has speed and skill to burn. Grimes' long reach and long legs averted many a catastrophe. Davis was careful, at work always with heart and hands. But if any two men on either team particularly deserve mention they are Dowling and Dobbin. The number of shots they took care of and the way they handled them nearly put them in the wonder class." Fred is evidently keeping up his reputation in goal.

GOLF.

THE LADIES AT PORT HOPE.

The Port Hope Guide says:—"While others were enjoying themselves in various ways last Monday, the members of the Golf club were deeply interested in a game played between the ladies of Peterborough, under the captaincy of Miss Halliday, and the home team by Mrs Burton. Shortly after ten the game began on our beautiful "links." Much interest was taken; hard and furious were the drives. Excitement in some instances ran high, and many magnificent shots were witnessed. Miss Daisy Hamilton is to be congratulated on her game, as she was the only one who won for Peterborough. Mrs. Davidson, too, played a very fine game and prevented Mrs. Edgar from being a winner. This contest ended in a tie, in fact they kept even all the time. When all the returns were handed in, it was found the home team was 14 ahead.

The lunch provided reflected great credit to the reception committee, and was indeed thoroughly relished.

The Peterboroughs have gone home determined to turn the tables when our club give them the return match, which will take place at an early date.

Third Annual Camp.

The third annual boys' camp under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association will be held at Clear lake from July 18th to 31st. It will be in charge of the secretary and physicial director, assisted by several senior members of the association. Parents who are wondering how and where they can send their boys for a two weeks' pleasant and profitable vacation would do well to read the circular giving particulars of the arrangements, terms, etc. Last evening a gentleman called at the building and asked for the privilege of paying the camp fee for some boy who could not otherwise go. One was soon suggested—and there are others. This example is a good one and others interested in boys would do well to follow it.

SELWYN SIFTINGS

Mr J C Manning has returned from his trip to Preston sulpher springs much improved in health.

The funeral of the late Thos McIlmoyl took place on Tuesday, 26th June, from the home of his brother, Mr Nathan McIlmoyl, to the Lakefield cemetery. The remains were followed to their last resting place by a large concourse of friends. The deceased gentleman was the father of Messrs W J and Chas McIlmoyl and brother of Messrs Nathan, Wm and Hugh McIlmoyl, all of Selwyn.

The lawn social held at the residence of J M Roberts, in the interest of Selwyn Baptist church, was a decided success in every respect. It is understood the receipts were in the neighborhood of $60.

The football match between Zion and Bridgenorth resulted in a tie, each side scoring one goal.

The schools closed on Friday afternoon for the midsummer vacation.

AT CHEMONG PARK

St. John's Sunday School Picnicked There and Enjoyed the Day.

St. John's Sunday school picnicked at Chemong Park yesterday, and a great crowd of children, parents and friends went out on the 'bus lines to enjoy the day at the park. And it was enjoyed thoroughly. The park is looking its prettiest at present and the greatest kindness was shown by the park authorities.

The children enjoyed immensely a sail on the lake kindly given by the new steamer Ogemah. Then, through the kindness of Messrs. W. E. Conway and Macfarlane Wilson, a band of musicians accompanied the picnic, and, besides giving music during the day, led a concert in the pavillion in the evening.

The usual programme of sports and games was run off under the direction of Messrs. W. H. Walkey, Macfarlane Wilson, F. D. Kerr and Rev. W. L. Armitage.

The whole day was a success and the picnickers pronounced the outing most enjoyable.

WENT UNDER THE WHEELS

Stephen O'Reilly Suffers Injuries in a Runaway.

Stephen O'Reilly, of Ennismore, was conveyed to St. Joseph's hospital yesterday suffering from injuries, the extent of which cannot yet be stated.

Mr. O'Reilly had delivered some hogs at the Kennedy cattle yards yesterday afternoon and had a boy holding his team. Just as the boy was handing the lines back to Mr. O'Reilly the horses suddenly started, and swinging to one side struck him and knocked him to the ground beneath their feet. They then ran away and the heavy waggon went over the prostrate man.

Medical aid was summoned and O'Reilly was conveyed to the hospital. His injuries are internal and their extent is not yet known.

ST. PAUL'S SUNDAY SCHOOL

Have Their Annual Outing at Jackson Park.

The children of St. Paul's Sunday school had their annual outing yesterday at Jackson Park, and there was a large turnout of the children and of the parents and friends. 'Busses conveyed the children from the church to the park, and the afternoon was enjoyably spent in play and games around the park.

A programme of sports and races was run off under the direction of Mr. MacLeod and Mr. R. F. McWilliams, and furnished capital fun for the little ones, and, in fact, for some of the older ones, too.

'Busses conveyed the picnickers back to town about eight o'clock.

Oak Leaf, Union, Gordon and Selwyn lodges were also represented. One candidate was initiated and several propositions were reported favorably on.

Miss E. L. Powell, representing Auburn Lodge; Mr. T. E. Cunningham, City Lodge, and Miss Buntin, District Lodge, No. 16, gave their reports of the proceedings at the Ottawa session of the Grand Lodge, held on Wednesday and Thursday of last week. The reports were interesting and gave a full account of the proceedings of the session. At the conclusion a hearty vote of thanks was tendered the delegates for their services.

BURLEIGH FALLS

Sudden Death of a Much Esteemed Resident of Burleigh.

We regret to announce the death of Mrs. Amasa Bronson, of Burleigh, which occurred suddenly at the family residence on June 26th, at the age of sixty. Apoplexy was the cause of death.

The deceased, whose maiden name was Francis Thornton, was of a bright, sunny disposition, one of those rare ones who always find a silver lining to every cloud. Consequently she was held in high esteem by all who knew her. Besides a sorrowing husband she leaves six children to mourn her loss. The children are:—Messrs. Clarke, Harrison and Ephriam, of Burleigh; Mrs. J. Draper and Mrs. Robert Morrison, of Brimley, Michigan, and Welton, of Alberta. Interment took place Friday to the Lakefield cemetery. The community extends their heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family.

BROKE OUT OF COOMASSIE.

Sir Frederick M. Hodgson and His Garrison Cut Their Way Through the Investing Lines.

London, July 5.—A telegram has been received at the Colonial Office from Col. Wilcocks, dated Fumsu, July 3, saying native messengers from Pekki, who have arrived at Bekwai, announce that the Governor of Ashantee, Sir Frederick Mitchell Hodgson, with several officers and their wives and families, have left Coomassie and arrived at Ekwanta, twenty miles southeast of Coomassie, and was proceeding through Denkern on his way to Cape Coast. The messengers added that many were killed in breaking out of Coomassie.

The rumor appears to be well founded, although Col. Willcocks fails to understand why he has not received news from the Governor. The Colonel intends to proceed to Coomassie and retake the place if it is evacuated.

The record of Hood's Sarsaparilla is literally written in the blood of millions of people to whom it has given good health. It is the best medicine money can buy.

NEW MARKET SCALES.

The Big Scale on the Market now Placed in Position.

The new market scale has been placed in position and will be ready for business in a day or so. It has many improvements on the antiquated affair lately in use, being much more modern in construction, of greater capacity and a ready reckoner remarkably easy to handle. It was made by the Gurney Scale Co., of Hamilton. The cost to the town of the scale and setting it up will be about $225. The approaches to the weighing platform have been improved and the platform itself has been fenced in to give better satisfaction in the weighing of stock and hogs. Farmers are requested by the clerk to build their loads of hay which are to be weighed on the market scales not more than 10 feet wide.

Shortly, the National Cycle and Automobile Company, Ltd., has at Montreal a clever representative, combining the necessary qualities of energy, enterprise, a thorough knowledge of the bicycle business, and a pleasant and cordial personality, with the more valuable attainment of consistent conservatism acquired by years of successful merchandising. As manager of the Province of Quebec branch Mr. Shortly has made a most favorable impression upon the Montreal people, who are always quick to the appreciation of such desirable traits as are embodied in the personality of the N. C. & A. Co's. talented representative."

Mr. Percy Earle, of the Actuary department of the North American Life Assurance Co., and son of Mr. Barton Earle, of town, has received word from England that he has been successful in passing the second examination of the Institute of Actuaries, and, needless to say, he has since been receiving the warm congratulations of his friends. Mr. Earle is the youngest candidate from Canada who ever passed this examination, and he is probably the youngest man in the world who has taken the degree. He is now entitled to the degree of A.I.A., but cannot accept it until he is twenty-one years of age. Besides being a most flattering evidence of his ability and mental gifts, Percy's success reflects credit on the Peterborough Collegiate, where he received his earlier training. He is one of the Institute's bright boys who promise to make a success in life.

We Are Nearer Aerial Flight.

Notwithstanding the pessimistic opinions of some scientists there is at least one sound reason for now believing that man will eventually navigate the air. This proceeds from the fact that within the past ten years artificial motors have been produced which approach closely in relative lightness the proportions which obtain in the motor muscles of birds. The weight of the latter is about in the ratio of 6 to 20 pounds per horsepower developed, while the most powerful locomotives weigh some 200 pounds per horsepower. Since 1890 steam engines of special design have been produced which weigh less than ten pounds per horsepower.—Octave Chanute in Independent.

THE WATER DID IT.

THERE is an old adage recorded which teaches that lightning never strikes twice in the same place. The same can be said of rheumatism, which usually attacks employees of all bottling works, in the hands and arms, on account of them having to handle cold substances and dabble in cold water all the year round. Mr. Oscar Perry, formerly employed at J. R. Hinds' bottling works, Kingston, Ont., was a sufferer in this respect. Rheumatism affected him in the arms and shoulders, and besides the pain experienced he suffered pecuniary loss. After having tried various treatments without obtaining relief, he was induced to give Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure a trial. Less than half a bottle gave him relief, and before the entire contents of the first bottle were used he was freed from rheumatism, and it has not since troubled him. He did not look for such rapid results, and would have been satisfied with obtaining relief, whereas the medicine has effected a cure.

Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure is put up in 50 cent bottles, containing ten days' treatment. For sale by all druggists and dealers in medicine. The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

HIS BLUFF WAS CALLED.

And Incidentally a Very Deserving Church Was Aided.

"Know old Bonds, of course," said Smith with a grin. "He has the reputation of being one of the most liberal and public spirited men in the city, and it has never cost him very much to be so considered. He has money to burn, but he knows how to hold on to it and still create the impression that his pocketbook is always open to any good cause. He has a way of rising in public and agreeing to aid financially for a large amount the cause that is being considered at the time and getting cheered to the echo for his liberality. But when the hurrah is over it is always discovered that Bonds has his money and the credit of being liberal too.

"But his scheme failed to work the other day, and now he gets red in the face whenever the matter is mentioned. He paid the little town where he was born a visit the other day and attended service in the little church. It so happened that the church was badly in debt at the time, and the day had been set apart to take up subscriptions to pay it. After the minister's earnest plea for funds to save the church every one turned expectantly to Bonds to head the list. He arose and in his smooth and oily way said:

"'I will be most happy to contribute to such a good cause. I am informed that the debt is $2,000. Now, I will be one of two to pay the entire debt, thus leaving what may be subscribed outside of that to furnish the church.'

"Bonds sat down and beamed as the congregation cheered him. He knew full well that there was no one else in the town able to put up the other half and that after a frantic effort to find such a man the thing would die a natural death.

"But for once in his life he was fooled. As soon as the applause had died away a stranger arose and said he would be most happy to subscribe the other half.

"Bonds' face was a study. The stranger came forward and said as he was leaving on the first train out they might as well settle the matter right there by drawing checks for the amount that they had agreed to give. Bonds was carried off his feet and left without the shadow of an excuse, so he made out his check for the amount.

"His check was, of course, on his bank here, and the church soon had the money, and one-half of the debt was paid off at once. The stranger's check was on a distant bank and finally came back marked 'No funds.'

"It was discovered later that the stranger was a drummer who in a spirit of fun had called Bonds' bluff. As the church had paid out the money that Bonds gave, I am afraid that he will have to grin and bear it."—Detroit Free Press.

More Humane Plan.

"Georgie, you'd better take that worthless little sore eyed pup somewhere and drown him."

"I can do better with him than that, paw. I'll put him in a last year's peach basket, take him down town, get two or three kids to stand at the edge of the sidewalk and look at him, and I'll sell him to some jay for $2."—Chicago Tribune.

Its Claim to Fame.

"No; I don't think much of that college," asserted the man in the Prince Albert.

"Don't think much of it!" exclaimed the one with the figured vest. "Why, great Scott, it turned out the best baseball pitcher in the country last year, and it has a man who broke the record putting the shot!"—Chicago Times-Herald.

On General Principles.

"A Philadelphia woman has been awarded $25,000 for the alienation of her husband's affections."

"They'll promptly set that verdict aside."

"Why so?"

"Because there never was a Philadelphia man whose affections could be worth that much."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

AN ANGEL UNAWARES.

Suppose for every act of love and duty
An angel in the path of life should lay
A lovely rose of sweet perfume and beauty—
Ah, even then how bare would be the way!

Suppose for every kindly word unspoken,
For every fault which careless hands had done,
For every resolution made and broken,
A thorn beneath our erring feet had grown—

Ah, then the way would be one stretch of anguish,
With only here and there a flower to cheer;
Our feet would falter and our spirits languish,
And life would be a burden hard to bear.

But seldom are we outwardly rewarded
According to the deeds which we have done;
"The pure in heart" are by the world discarded,
The wicked harvest where the good have sown

And yet to every heart in darkness hidden
There comes an angel, whom we cannot see,
Who strives to keep us from the paths forbidden
And in the narrow way where faith may be.

His name is Conscience, and he brings us roses—
Sweet roses, borrowed from the brow of peace—
Or thorns on which remorseful thought reposes
Regrets whose sharp tormentings never cease.

Then let us strive temptation's storm to weather;
Let every thought and every deed improve
Till Conscience finds no cruel thorns to gather,
But crowns the soul with joy and peace and love.

WARS WAGED FOR CENTURIES.

The Dutch and Achinese Have Been Fighting Since 1449.

Since the first foreigner, in the person of a Dutchman, landed on the island of Sumatra in 1449 the native Achinese have combated the usurping of their land foot by foot.

Although when the Dutch get the Achinese out in the open they invariable beat them, the war continues in a desultory manner today and will only end when the last native of Sumatra has been killed in action. The number of Achinese killed has never been known, but the war has been a very serious drain on the manhood of Holland, and many of her best soldiers were killed between the years 1873 and 1879, when the struggle was very bitter.

Since 1604, when the Persians surrendered Armenia to Turkey, the numerous sultans of Turkey have never sheathed their swords in regard to the former country save in the flesh of the inhabitants.

At the beginning of the nineteenth century Algiers finally passed into the hands of France. From that time till the present the French nation has always kept an army corps of not less than 54,000 French troops garrisoned there to fight the Arabs who infest the hinterland and raid the French possessions at least once a year.

Chief among these are the Touaregs, who fight with one-half of their faces masked and fight always to the death or victory. Never once has a Touareg been taken alive. France cannot subdue them, for, if beaten, they flee to the desert, where no trained army can follow them.

The Riffians, who are the scourge of Morocco, resemble the Touaregs in that they also take and give no quarter; but, instead of living in the heart of the Sahara, they fight from their mountain fortresses and keep the sultan of Morocco in continual dread.

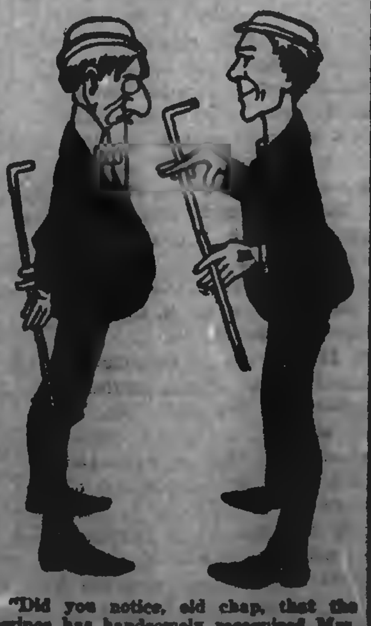
To keep his soldiers in good fettle the sultan every year gives at least three months' fighting to them by picking a quarrel with one of the feudal holders of the numerous semibrigand strongholds.

No one knows when the first blood feud began in Corsica or when the first brigand set up shop. Nor can any one tell when the last will put up his shutters.

Even in the time of the Romans the inhabitants were too busy fighting one another to care whether a foreign garrison was left on the island or not.

Not a day goes by without several lives being sacrificed in the cause of some vendetta, and as each life means the sacrifice in atonement of at least two more there is hardly one Corsican whose life is not wanted by a fellow countryman and who in running away is not also chasing some other person.

An Indorsement.



"Did you notice, old chap, that the pwince has handsomely recognized Mrs. Leslie Carter?"

"Has he? Won't that make the fellows who twied to suppwess her play feel deuced cheap, don't you know?"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Evidently Lacked Nerve.

"Why do you speak of him as a man who lacks nerve?"

"Well, he has been calling on one girl for five years, and their engagement is not yet announced."—Chicago Post.

TROUBLE IN JERICHO

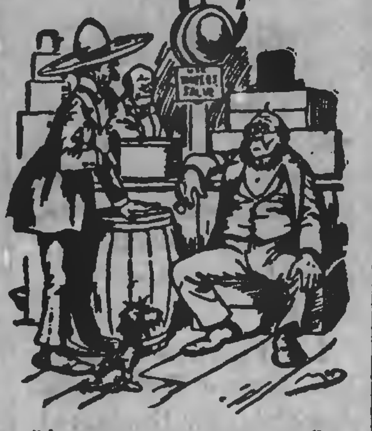
WHY THE TOWN WON'T CELEBRATE THE FOURTH.

There Was Altogether Too Zealous a Desire on the Part of Everybody In the Town to Get Up a Real Celebration of the Day.

[Copyright, 1900, by C. B. Lewis.]

It has bin decided that the town of Jericho won't celebrate this year. The public feelin was in favor of it, and the Jericho Gazette come out strong for a whoopin old time, but things happened the other evenin to knock 1776 and 13 states and George Washington sky high. There was a sort of public meetin at the postoffice to talk over things. Squar' Joslyn took the chair without bein called and opened the case. He called the crowd feller patriots, and he made a ringin speech about the pilgrim fathers, Valley Forge and the glorious old flag. When his collar begun to git limp, he set down, and Deacon Spooner tunked his cane on the floor and shouted:

"Heroes of Jericho, but the squar' had made no less'n five strong p'ints in his speech—mighty strong! We ought to be glad and proud that he didn't break his neck when he fell over that cider bar'l last year."



"I'VE RENTED A POSTOFFICE BOX."

The squar' was follered by Lish Billings, Jonas Bebee, Ebenezer White and others. Some begun with the landin of the pilgrims and ended up with Yorktown, and some started in at Bunker Hill and come out with Gineral Jackson at New Orleans. In the course of an hour everybody's enthusiasm was worked up to the b'ilin p'int, and it was an affectin thing to see Moses Plumber and Aaron Bradshaw, who had bin mad at each other fur 14 years, fall upon each other's neck and shed tears. There was handshakin all around, with emotion all along the counters, when Squar' Joslyn took the floor ag'in. He meant bizness this time. He said he wanted to see Jericho spread herself on a celebration which should go down in history as the most enthusiastic on record, and in pursuance of that desire he would sacrifice himself—that is, he would act as marshal of the day and boss the procession and other things.

"It's a strong p'int, gentlemen—a strong p'int!" said the deacon after the squar' had become breathless, "but it appears to me that I've got a stronger one. Squar' Joslyn is a good natured man and weighs 200 pounds, but he hasn't got the look of a hero. Fur 'leven consecutive years, when I was livin in Indiana, I was marshal of the day on the Fourth of July. Sons of the glorious Revolution, I am in your hands."

There was a painful silence fur a minit, and then Lish Billings took the floor. He said he wasn't thar to condemn the tax on whisky or approve of lowerin the tariff on nursin bottles. What he desired was to hear the American eagle scream from end to end of Jericho on the glorious Fourth. Havin bin acquainted with the eagle fur 50 years and bein the only man in town who knew how to form a procession fur the march, he'd act as marshal and pay fur all the lemonade he drunk.

"Gentlemen, I must say that's a strong p'int!" said Deacon Spooner as Lish resumed his seat on the cracker bar'l, "but I'm offerin to sacrifice myself jest the same. It may be that you kin have a procession without me, but I don't see how you'll do it."

There was more painful silence, with everybody lookin at his toes, when Abner Jones sort of unlinked hisself and observed that his grandfather was killed at the battle of Monmouth. He had never asked to be elected to the board of trustees on that account nor made a handle of it to git trusted at the stores, but he felt to say that his claims should be recognized in some manner. He owned a spotted horse and a sword, and he had read up on war and visited the Brooklyn navy yard. He was no hypocrite or dissembler. He wanted to be marshal of the day. He would never brag of it afterward, but he felt that it would make the skeleton of his grandfather rest easier. In the interest of peace, harmony and his dead ancestor he hoped all others would stand aside. I believe that Deacon Spooner looked upon Abner's remarks as a strong p'int, as he applauded with his cane, but he didn't say a word. It looked as if the meetin was goin to break up when Alvin Bidwell heaved a long sigh and said he would take up the valuable time of the meetin fur a few minits. He was fur Jericho as ag'in the world. He could p'int to seven rods of new picket fence and 100 feet of sidewalk as evidences of his public spirit. Whenever Jericho had had a celebration he had contributed from 2 to 6 shillin's, accordin to the price of wool, and it had been remarked that his cheers throughout the day and his three Chinese lanterns at night had somewhat assisted to make the day memorable. He didn't covet the honor of bein marshal of the day, but the honor seemed to have bin forced upon him, and it was his patriotic duty to accept it.

"That's a strong p'int, Alvin—mighty strong!" exclaimed the deacon as he whacked the counter. "I never heard Henry Clay nor Daniel Webster, but I don't believe they ever made stronger p'ints. However, I'm standin right whar I was before. I don't want to seem captious nor obstinate, but when the very life of Jericho is at stake I can't take no chances. 'Pears to me it would be a graceful thing and a true test of patriotism fur you fellers to sink your sordid ambitions fur the good of America."

"I'll be hanged if I do!" replied Squar' Joslyn.

"And so'll I!" added the rest in chorus.

The crowd was ready to scatter when Enos Williams come to the front. Enos has allus bought hides and pelts fur the Boston market and bin willin to let others have the honors, and it was sort of felt that he would pour ile on the troubled waters and bring about an enthusiastic understandin.

"Feller citizens," he began, "I've lived in this town of Jericho ever since lightnin struck the meetin house, and that was 20 years ago. I was movin into town when the storm come up. I've paid taxes, shoveled snow, rented a postoffice box and worked out my poll tax on the road, and if I hain't yelled fur Jericho as loud as some folks it's because I've had quinsy about ten months out of the year. I think you'll all agree, however, that I've done my full duty as a citizen."

"We will, Enos," said the deacon. "And, by the way, that snow shovelin and postoffice box are strong p'ints—mighty strong! It was helpin Jericho and the United States at the same time."

"Have I ever asked anything of Jericho?" inquired Enos as he looked around. "Have I wanted to run camp meetin's or boss Sunday school picnics? Have I sought political honors or sent in petitions to the village board? Fur from it. I've stood back and said nuthin and minded my own bizness. I'd keep right on that way only that the welfare of Jericho demands a change. She's callin fur some one to sacrifice hisself that she may not be wiped off the face of the airth. She wants a marshal of the day fur the Fourth of July. Nobody wants to take the place. Whoever does take it has got to pour out his lifeblood by the bar'l and buy porous plasters fur his backache fur the next six months to come, but within the last ten minits I have made up my mind, and nuthin kin change it. Patriots and freemen, I accept the position and will yield up my life if it becomes necessary."

"Who's offered you the position?" shouted Squar' Joslyn as he got red in the face and waved his arms.

"Who wants your blood?" yelled Lish Billings as he danced around.

"He's made a strong p'int, gentlemen, a might strong p'int, on that backache!" says Deacon Spooner, "but I'll either boss the procession or old Jericho won't hold no Fourth of July!"

"That's me!" yelled everybody in chorus, and the meeting was busted up in a minit. Everybody said everybody was selfish and mean spirited and orter be ashamed of hisself, and Moses Plumber and Aaron Bradshaw shook their fists under each other's nose and declared they'd stay mad this time all the rest of their lives. In wavin his cane around and hollerin fur liberty or death the deacon poked some one in the eye, and when the row was over most every one had his coat collar torn off and his vest ripped open. It is understood all over town that Jericho won't celebrate. Here and there one of her patriots may swing his hat and yell and ache to die fur freedom, but the rest will stand ready to throw clubs at him and keep the hired man and the boys hoein corn all day to spite the American eagle. M. QUAD.

Dr. Chase Cures Piles

Without the Danger, Pain or Expense of an operation—The Only Guaranteed Cure.

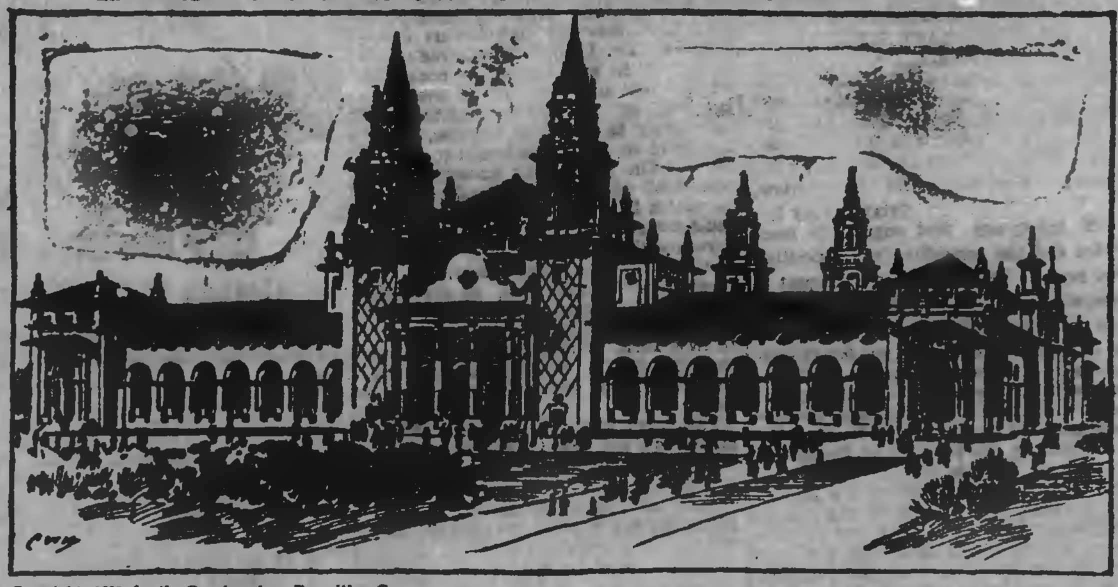
From nearly every town and village in Canada come letters from persons who have been rescued from the miseries of piles by using Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mr. F. Stokes, 116 Dunlop street, Barrie, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled with blind, itching piles for years, and could get nothing to stop the constant itching. I was always in pain until a friend of mine told me of the wonderful cures Dr. Chase's Ointment had made among his acquaintances.

"I only used one box and am entirely cured. In gratitude for this marvellous cure and for the benefit of others suffering as I did, I send you this record of my case."

When operations and every other means have failed to cure you, you can begin the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment with perfect confidence that it will cure you. It has never failed to cure piles and will not fail you; 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates and Co., Toronto.

MACHINERY AND TRANSPORTATION BUILDING, PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.



Copyright, 1900, by the Pan-American Exposition Co.

This big structure is 500 by 350 feet, with a central court 100 by 175 feet. Its type of architecture is the Spanish renaissance, modified to suit the conditions of the Exposition. The roofs are laid with red tile and the cemented walls are brilliant with color. The colors are to be reds and yellows in light tints. The facades will present an arcaded effect, with broad, overhanging eaves, in imitation of the old mission buildings in California and Mexico. The Central Court will be a veritable tropical garden, with a long, narrow pool, containing interesting specimens of aquatic life, and will have seats, where the weary visitor may rest a moment. The Exposition is to be held in Buffalo in 1901 from May 1 to Nov. 1.

Fruit Crops Will Be Good.

Toronto, July 5.—Mr. Wolverton, who is secretary of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association, says we are going to have a grand peach crop. He was at the Parliament buildings yesterday, talking to the Minister of Agriculture about arrangements for experimental shipment of grapes to England under Government control, and for which there is an appropriation. Plums and grapes promise well, and pears are fair and of good quality, he says.

Gen. Alger's Son Badly Hurt.

Montreal, July 5.—Word was received in Montreal last night that Mr. Russell A. Alger, son of Gen. Alger of Michigan, and general manager of the Laurentide Pulp Mills, had been seriously injured by a fireworks' explosion at Grand Mere, Que., last evening. It is reported that Mr. Alger will lose the use of his right hand and arm.

Fish Warehouses Burned.

CROOKED WORK SHOWN UP

Greenway Government's Campaign Literature Was Charged Up to the Deaf and Dumb Asylum.

Winnipeg, July 5.—The report of the Public Accounts Committee has been presented to the Legislature. It shows that it has been the practise of the Government to print campaign literature and charge it up to the cost of running the Deaf and Dumb Asylum. It has been the custom to pay large sums for champagne glasses and other similar ware for Government House, and for fear of the temperance vote, to charge the expenditure under the heading "Light and Fuel."

Province Done Out of $100,000.

One of the other matters brought to light by the Public Accounts Committee is the manner in which Chairman Rogers says the Province was done out of over $100,000 by the Manitoba-Northwestern land deal, rushed through by the Greenway Government in the dying days of last session. It is charged that the late Provincial Treasurer deliberately deceived the Legislature and Province.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Greenway agreed that the printing of campaign literature at the Deaf and Dumb Institution was a stupid and reprehensible thing.

Mr. Stratton Is Very Sanguine.

Hon. J. R. Stratton arrived from the east yesterday. Speaking politically, he said that the Ross Government is stronger in Ontario to-day than ever they were. They carried the last seat by acclamation, and the people are perfectly satisfied with them. As to the Laurier Government, he said that when the next Dominion election comes off, they will make a much better showing in Ontario than they did in the '96 election. Mr. Stratton will proceed west to-day.

Prohibition Bill Passed the Third.

The Prohibition Bill passed the third reading in the Legislature.

Crops Are Looking Better.

Winnipeg, July 5.—Most of the members of the local legislature have returned from their homes and upon being questioned as to the appearance of the wheat gave a uniformly favorable report. The recent rains have been general all over the Province, and the wheat crop is experiencing a thorough reviving, which promises to make the yield fully double of what was expected by the most hopeful a week ago. The other cereals have benefited even more than wheat and the oat, barley and root crops will be fairly good. The grass has sprung up and the wells lief of the live stock.
and streams which were drying up have again filled up much to the relief of the live stock. Altogether the rains of the past week have saved millions of dollars to the province.

"Yes, I caught a beautiful string," said the sun blistered banker. "Many of 'em weighed four pounds."

"Not over ten," replied the unabashed banker.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Troops for China via Canada.

Montreal, July 5.—The big London dailies are already sending correspondents to China. Yesterday's Imperial limited took Mr. George Lynch of The Daily Express who was with Sir George White at Ladysmith. Being seen here Mr. Lynch said that in the event of war being declared there was a strong probability of troops being sent via Canada. Mr. Tower, who is going out as secretary to the British legation at Pekin, was also a passenger on the "Imperial limited."

Ottawa, July 5. — Correspondent Lynch of The London Express and an Imperial officer went west yesterday en route for China. The Imperial military officer has been sent out to report upon the Canadian route as to the advisability of sending troops over it.

His Motive.

"I will ask you now," the attorney for the prosecution said to the witness, "if the defendant in this case confessed to you his motive in shooting the deceased."

"Hold on!" interposed the attorney for the defense. "I object."

"I only want to find out whether"—

"I object!" Legal wrangle of half an hour.

"The witness may answer," ruled the judge.

"Now, then, sir, I will ask you again. Did or did not the prisoner confess to you his motive in shooting the deceased?"

"He did."

"What was it?"

"He wanted to kill him."—Chicago Tribune.

THE INHERITANCE TAX.

Taxes imposed with reference to the ability of the person taxed have been levied since the foundation of the government. That a principle so consonant with natural justice should be declared sound in law is gratifying.—Brooklyn Citizen.

An inheritance tax differs from an income tax. It is not a direct tax on property or on earnings. It is an excise on the privilege to take property by will or other forms of succession. The legacy is not taxed. The right to accept it is taxed.—Chicago Chronicle.

The decision rendered by the United States supreme court on the constitutionality of the inheritance tax provisions of the war revenue law covers many points of great interest, but by far the greatest significance attaches to that portion of it which concerns the validity of laws imposing "progressive" rates of taxation.

The new dark red rose, a hybrid tea rose, called "Liberty," is likely to prove a decided acquisition in rose culture.

Sunflowers make a very effective screen if properly managed. To shut off an unsightly building they are very useful, since they grow very tall in good soil, and, by planting the tallest sorts, with dwarf varieties in line before them, you can hide the stalks that are apt to get naked as they lengthen.

"Isn't that nice!"

"No, it's not at all nice. It means long, gloomy suspense. When a man is mentioned for office, he's got to be careful. He may start right there and soar to fame. And then again he may get so busy with politics that don't pay that he forgets all about business, and the first thing you know they even neglect to put his name in the directory."—Washington Star.

OUR SPECIAL OTTAWA LETTER

WHAT WAS PROMINENT AT THE CAPITAL LAST WEEK

The Emergency Reports—Four Members Well Satisfied—The Other Three Condemn the Transaction—Eleven Millions More Than 1896—The Chinese, the Labor Bill, and the Yukon.

Special Correspondence of the Review.

Ottawa, July 3.

The emergency food enquiry is completed and the committee has submitted two reports. Only the majority report is recognized by Parliamentary procedure. The minority statement will come in as an amendment to the motion for the adoption of the report. The majority report administers a large application of whitewash to Dr. Borden and his department and to contractor Devlin. Notwithstanding the evidence of the manufacturer of the food tested at Kingston, the majority reports that the Devlin food is the same as Hatch's protose. Notwithstanding the report of the Government analyist, who said that the food bought was not a concentrated food, and was not entitled to its name as a proteid food, and was not worth the price paid, the majority decides that the food and the price was all right. Notwithstanding the fact that the department has lost or destroyed every sample that had been kept of the food sent to Kingston by Mr. Hatch, and though the committee refused to obtain an analysis of the genuine samples which Mr. Hatch produced as part of a day's supply, the majority reaches a conclusion that the food tested at Kingston contained no more than 16 per cent of proteids. The majority excuses the payment of two dollars per pound for the food that the seller himself valued at thirty cents by saying that the food was a trade secret. It condemns no one but Mr. Monk, who made the charges.

THE OTHER REPORT.

The minority report is a much more detailed statement, supported by quotations from the evidence. Mr. Monk, Mr. Casgrain and Mr. Clarke find that the test at Kingston was made with "Protose," which was known to be made by Henri Hatch. When the department was fitting out the contingent it was offered this food by the manufacturer, and the Minister refused to buy, declaring that the home Government was feeding the men. Having made this statement Dr. Borden ordered the purchase of 2,333 pounds of Vitallin from Dr. Devlin, paying two dollars per pound. This food, professed to be made by the Vitallin Company, Montreal, though there is no such company in existence, and the food was imported from the United States. It was admitted that the food bought contained only 17 per cent. of protein, and it was shown by every analyst examined that the ration was insufficient to sustain life.

WHAT IT COST.

The minority found that the utmost cost of this food to the contractor, including travelling expenses and incidentals, and taking Dr. Devlin's own statements, was $1,350. It is made up as follows:—

2,333 pounds imported at 30 cents per pound...... ....$	699 90
Grinding......	23 00
Tin cans ($25 per 1,000)......	175 00
Labelling......	13 00
Customs dues (for which unaccepted cheques were given)	140 00
	$1,049 90

The minority allows $300 for other expenses, making $1,349.90. The Government paid $4,666 for this food, leaving a profit of $3,316.

THE CONCLUSIONS.

The minority in summing up reports the following statements and conclusions:—

1. That under the circumstances disclosed by the evidence, the contract of 4th January last for the supply of emergency rations to the Canadian contingents was entered into with undue and unnecessary haste by the Minister of Militia and Defence.

Tenderers were excluded, sufficient enquiry was not made and the sample offered by the contractor was not properly examined.

The Committee recommend that in the matter of purchase of concentrated food for troops on active service, samples be secured and analyzed before contract, and full security required.

2. The emergency food supplied by the contractor was totally unfit for the purposes intended, and an imposition was practiced upon the Department. The contractor is certainly civilly liable to the Government. He seems furthermore to have committed an infraction of section 14 of the Adulteration Act. He violated section 448 of the Criminal Code, 1892, by offering for sale an article bearing a false trade description as defined by sub-section C of article 448 of said Code.

3. After the warning contained in the letter of 26th January last, quoted in the reference, and the report of the 13th of February, 1900, by Chief Analyst MacFarlane, the Department of Militia should have disallowed payment of the $4,666 which was made on the 14th February. The Minister should have immediately communicated with the Canadian contingent.

On the whole your Committee find that the Minister of Militia and Defence and the Department of Militia were guilty of culpable negligence in purchasing and providing the Canadian soldiers with an article totally unfit for the purposes for which it was intended.

In this connection the committee recommend that the military authorities in South Africa be given immediately by cable the benefit of the report of the Chief Analyst."

A CASE OF ELOPEMENT.

The reports will be discussed this week. In the meantime it is interesting to mention a case of mysterious disappearance. Dr. Devlin, the contractor, attended all the meetings of the committee but the last one. He hovered over the quartette of Liberal committee men, whispering to one after another, coaching them in this examination of witnesses. Dr. Devlin was himself a most competent witness, as he had much information in regard to this contract that could not be obtained from others. It was arranged that he should be a witness on the last evening. The contractor was present in the afternoon. In the evening he had disappeared, leaving a letter stating that he had been suddenly called to New York. It only remains to be seen that Dr. Devlin was heard from next day in Montreal and never went to New York.

The report of the majority of the committee does not surprise any one. It was apparent to any one that if Dr. Devlin had delivered corn meal and charged ten dollars per pound the majority would have commended the transaction as a piece of high statesmanship.

PAY, PAY, PAY.

A notable event of last week was the production of the supplementary estimates for the coming year. This interesting document asks for a larger sum than was ever before seen in a supplementary. Mr. Fielding wants the House to vote him seven and a quarter millions, of which more than three millions belong to current account. The total expenditure now estimated for the year 1900-1901 is over fifty-six millions, as follows:—

Main estimates......	$49,068,391
Supplementary......	7,244,136
Total......	$56,312,527

But this is not the whole story. The sum voted last session for the current year included main and supplementary estimates, but before the fiscal year was out this session began, and a further sum of four millions was voted to help the Government through. The same thing happened the year before and will happen next year. The total amount that will be voted this session, exclusive of railway subsidies, will certainly not be less than sixty millions. Of this sum more than $48,000,000 is demanded on regular or current account. This is a clear $11,000,000 in excess of the expenditure at the time of the change of Government. At that date the statesmen now in office "viewed with alarm" the annual expenditure. It will be admitted that the Ministers have pretty well recovered from their timidity.

SOME ITEMS.

This wonderful Paris Exposition, which under Mr. Tarte's tricolored management seems to have an unlimited capacity for absorbing funds, wants still another $10,000. Mr. Blair asks for $1,960,000 for capital expenditure on the Intercolonial. It may be remarked here that the Minister of Railways made a three and a half hour speech this week, in which he claimed that the Intercolonial was now earning $100,000 a year more than the working expenses. This $1,,900,000 a year is not included in working expenses. Mr. Blair charges it to construction, though it includes $400,000 for rolling stock, $420,000 to replace light rails with heavier ones, and $80,000 for strengthening the bridges.

Mr. Powell showed in the course of his review of Mr. Blair's speech that if the Minister had charged the same expenditure to current account as his predecessors he would have had a deficit of $200,000 instead of a surplus of $62,000.

EMERGENCY ESTIMATES.

The supplementary estimates brought down last week are evidently election estimates. If we take one province alone, and one class of expenditure alone, we find votes for no less than 96 wharves and breakwaters in the province of Nova Scotia. This is in the supplementary estimates, to which may be added nineteen such votes, in the main estimates, making one hundred and fifteen votes in all. Last year when the House was in session the Government expected to go to the country before the next meeting. So a big list of votes was brought down. The election did not come off and the money was not spent. Thus it happened that a score or more of the sums to be voted in Nova Scotia are repetitions of estimates voted last year and not used. A still larger number of revotes appear in the Ontario lists.

THE YUKON STILL.

In the main estimates Mr Fielding asked for no less than $1.042,500.00 for the Yukon. This is a healthy demand but apparently it left something to be desired. The Finance Minister in the supplementary estimates begs parliament to give him $380,000.00 more for the Yukon, of which Mr Tarte will spend all but $25,000. Most of Mr Tarte's expenditure in the Yukon, for roads, buildings, bridges, etc, have been under the financial control of Mr Charleson, who was trained under Mr Mercier, and who has given out his contracts on private terms.

TROUBLE WITH TARTE.

Speaking of Mr Tarte, the gentleman continues to have a great time in France. He seems to have given unmeasured delight to all who hate England, and there are many such in Paris, when he insisted that President Loubet should not pass through the Canadian exhibit as he did those of Australia, but should make a formal entrance and be received with special formalities, in order that Canada might appear as an independent nation and not as a colony of the British Empire. When Mr. Tarte told the British Commissioner that he would close the Canadian show if Canada were not allowed an independent status, as a nation all by herself, he won the applause of the whole anti English fraternity. And when he said at Rouen that the French Canadians were more French than they were ten years ago, or one year ago, he added to that applause. But in this country the English speaking supporters of the Government, are growing uneasy. Even the stalwart Montreal Herald, one of the most devoted of the Government organs, puts in a protest. Twice this week the matter was brought up in the house. The Premier showed on both occasions that he was getting nervous over the matter, and fell back on the plea that perhaps Mr, Tarte had been misrepresented.

THE CHINEE.

The Chinese immigration bill, providing that Chinese immigrants must now pay $100 to get in instead of $50, does not satisfy the people of British Columbia. They want the Celestials kept out altogether, and remind the Premier of his pledge made by telegram to one of the British Columbia leaders in the middle of the Federal campaign of 1896. Sir Wilfrid was as usual in a promising mood. He wired to Mr. McLagan that the Chinese question was a local matter and that if he became Premier he would carry out the wish of the people of British Columbia. This is not what the Premier does. No one on the coast is satisfied with the proposed legislation. They want something stronger. On the other hand the venerable Dr. Christie for once departed from his attitude of submission to the Premier, and protested against anti-Chinese legislation of any kind. Mr. Edwards, another Liberal, said the same, but the dissenters did not force a vote.

ABOUT LABOR.

On Tuesday Mr. Mulock introduced the measure known as the Conciliation Bill. It follows the British statute in providing boards to settle amicably disputes between employers and employees. It also provides for the collection of information and the issue of a monthly publication the character of which is not very clearly set forth. Mr. Mulock closed his brief explanation by a somewhat grandiloquent passage about the importance of the proposed legislation. Members on the other side of the house, including Sir Charles Tupper and Mr. Foster, suggested that the government need not have kept back this important and far reaching measure until the 108th day of session, after half of the members had gone away. There will be no opposition to the principle of the bill.

AN ENQUIRY AGAIN REFUSED.

On Thursday, Mr. Bell, of Pictou, made a motion in favor of investigating certain transactions in the Yukon which the Ogilvie commission failed to reach. The motion included among other matters a letter from a resident of the Yukon, giving a graphic account of the condition of Dawson in the matter of gambling houses, liquor saloons, and immoral places of resort. The charge is made that the Yukon government derives income from all kinds of vice, and practically licenses many kinds. Mr. Bell did not ask for a verdict of guilty. He only asked for an enquiry. But he was refused it by a party majority of 36.

THE CHIEF DEPARTS.

Sir Charles Tupper has sailed for England. Thursday was his last day in the house and on that morning the building rang with cheers which came from room number six. The Opposition leader had gathered his supporters together to thank them for their loyal service during the session, and to take his leave from them for the time. He is expected to get back in six weeks, when he proposes to start out on a campaign tour. Mr. Foster is now, of course, the leader of the Opposition in the house.

BOERS ATTEMPT TO RE-CAPTURE FICKSBURG

But they Were Repulsed after a Short but Fierce Engagement.

BOERS WERE REPULSED

Maseru, Basutoland, Thursday July 5—The Boers made a determined attempt to retake Ficksburg (Orange River Colony) yesterday. They attacked the place at midnight. The fighting was short, but fierce, lasting an hour, and the Federals were repulsed.

ALL REPORTS TELL OF TERRIBLE MASSACRES

The Streets of Pekin Ran with Blood and the Rebellion is Said to be Spreading.

TERRIBLE SLAUGHTER REPORTED

London, July 6.—There is a mass of wild rumor from the far east. Though contradictory on most points it continues unaminous as to the consummation of the tragedy at Pekin. To persistent reports of the massacre of the whites is now added the additional horrors that savage soldiery butchered 5,000 native Roman Catholic converts. This comes in a Shanghai despatch of July 5 which only adds to the Chian Fu despatch which describes Pekin as in inferno, the streets literally running with blood. They confirm numerous stories of executions and untold tortures of the isolated foreigners and European soldiers captured by the mob. The authority of Gen. Yung Lu, the Chinese imperial treasurer who advocated moderation, was completely effaced by Prince Tuan Yi and Tung Fuh Sian, who issued fresh edicts ordering the merciless execution of all foreigners in the empire.

AMERICAN MISSIONARIES

Chicago, July 9.—Officers of the American missionary board in this city state that probably 17 or more of their representatives are victims of the Pekin massacre if the reports from Shanghai be correct.

REBELLION IS SPREADING

Brem, July 6—The firm of Malchers & Co., of Shanghai, telegraphs under date of July 6—"We have reason to believe that all foreigners in Pekin have perished. The rebellion is spreading in North China. The foreigners at Tien Tsin must quit that city as fresh Chinese attacks are expected. The disturbances are increasing in Shan Tung. We see at present no occasion for apprehension in the Yang Ste Territory or at Shanghai, as the viceroys of Wu Chang and Nankin do not recognize the present holders of power in Pekin."

Over Ten Thousand Cases of Enteric Fever at One Time—De Wet Not Yet Cornered.

London, July 6.—(4.05 a.m.)—The cordon around General Dewet appears still to be wide. At least he has not yet been cornered.

Despatches from the front, except official ones, deal with trifles or vague probabilities.

Kruger Not Talking.

The Daily Telegraph's Lorenzo Marques correspondent attempted, on July 4, to interview President Kruger at Watervalonder. Herr Kruger was there, but he deputed State Secretary Reitz to talk. The Secretary said:

"We do not need to discuss peace. President Kruger wishes, thru me, to repeat what he has said over and over again. The South African Republic will fight for independence as long as 500 burghers remain alive, and even then will continue to fight. Such is our decision."

The Terrible Enteric Fever.

Dr. Conan Doyle, writing to The British Medical Journal, says he thinks that there were 10,000 to 12,000 cases of enteric fever at one time. Six hundred patients died at Bloemfontein in one month. Dr. Doyle declares that the physicians did all they could.

Probably a Fake Report.

London, July 5.—A despatch from Lorenzo Marques, dated July 5, says the Transvaal consul there announces that 100 fresh British prisoners have arrived at Nooitgedacht.

The Hospital Scandals.

London, July 5.—The Government leader, A. J. Balfour, announced in the House of Commons to-day the names of the members of the commission appointed to investigate the South African hospital scandal, as follows: Prof. D. J. Cunningham, Lord Justice Romer and Dr. Church, President of the Royal College of Physicians.

BOERS GIVING UP ARMS.

2,631 Stands of Arms Have Been Handed to General Barton.

London, July 6.—Lord Roberts reports from Pretoria, under date of July 5, that Lieutenant Rundle of the Carbineers and a patrol were captured by the Boers near Pretoria on July 4. He also says trains are running to Greylingstad from Natal; that several respectable Boers have surrendered recently; that a soldiers home had been opened at Heidelberg, the inhabitants subscribing the initial expenses, and that a total of 2,631 stands of arms have been delivered to General Barton at Klerksdorp, Krugersdorp and Potchefstroom (all in the Transvaal).

British Join Hands.

The War Office has received the following despatch from General Buller:

"Standerton, July 5.—Clery, from Greylingstad, joined hands yesterday at Zuikersbosch, Rand River, with Hart, from Heidelberg (all in the Transvaal). Met with but slight opposition during the march."

HOPE DOMINATED BY FEAR.

Unrevealed Untold Horrors Give the World Pause.

Story of the Murders by Pekinese Cannot Be Traced to Southern Viceroys and There May Yet Be Hope — Emperor Forced to Suicide by Prince Tuan —Dowager Empress Said to Be Still Alive.

London, July 6.—(2.30 a.m.)—The story that all foreigners in Pekin were murdered on June 30 or July 1 appears to be circulating simultaneously at Che Foo, Shanghai and Tien Tsin, Yet, as it is not confirmed by official despatches, and is not traceable to the southern Viceroys, who are still in communication with Pekin, there is a basis for the hope that it is untrue.

Rushed the British Legation.

Correspondents of The Express at Shanghai gather details from Chinese sources, which, pieced together, relate that when the foreigners' ammunition was exhausted the Boxers and Imperial troops rushed the British legation and poured into the courtyard with fanatical fury. The foreign troops were so hopelessly outnumbered that their fate was certain. The moment the mob broke the court-yard was converted into shambles. Others of the invaders spread into the interior of the building.

Suspicions of Untold Horrors.

The correspondent adds: "It is only left to hope that in the final rush of the murderous hordes the men of the legations had time to slay with their own hands their womenkind and children. The Chinese are whispering the story under their breaths. Their attitude toword foreigners in the streets has undergone a strange change. The demeanor of the better class of Chinese is one of pity, rather than of triumph. Even the rabble in the native quarter are silent."

The Emperor is Dead.

Two Manchus, who arrived at Shanghai, certify to the truth of the statement that Prince Tuan visited the Palace and offered the Emperor and Dowager-Empress the alternative of poison or the sword. The Emperor, they say, took poison and died within an hour.

Dowager Empress is Crafty.

The Dowager-Empress also chose poison, but carefully swallowed only a portion of what was offered to her, and survived.

Horrible Details Expected.

The correspondent of The Daily Mail at Shanghai, telegraphing under date of July 5, 12.10 p.m., says he believes that when official information comes regarding Pekin, it may include news of the outraging of English women and the torture of children. It may almost be taken for granted, he asserts, that all the foreigners in Pekin have been wiped out.

Taotai Yu admitted to the correspondent that the case of Europeans in Pekin is utterly hopeless in his opinion. He believes that if they have not yet been massacred, it is only a matter of hours before they will be.

"Triods" Are Threatening.

Despatches from Hong Kong say the Triods, a secret society, are assuming a threatening demeanor on the mainland.

Nervousness is cured by making the blood rich and pure with Hood's Sarsaparilla. It gives the sweet refreshing sleep of childhood.

CHINESE HAVE PEI HO BRIDGE.

Securing Retreat of the Allies From Tien Tsin to Taku

Berlin, July 5.—The Deutache Tage Zeitung prints a Che Foo despatch, which says that the Chinese trops seized on Monday night the Pei Ho bridge, securing the line of retreat of the international troops to Saku, after repeated fierce attacks, in which the Chinese lost hundreds. They next drove off the Russians from their station outside Tien Tsin, after a two days desperate resistance, and encircled the Cobossion, which their artillery is now dominating.

Chinese Minister in Ignorance.

The Chinese Minister is still here. He told a reporter of the Associated Press today that he did not know where the Empress, the Emperor and Tsung Li Yamen are. He thinks it likely that Prince Tuan has seized the throne, and especially as the Prince has legitimate claims thereto, his father having been appointed Emperor.

Impossible if Not Suppressed Now.

Bishop Anzer, before leaving Berlin, declared it probable that the powers would master the present revolt, if they acted harmoniously thruout. Otherwise he believed the revolt would spread thruout China, and then the task would prove to be an impossible one.

Must Wait for Some Time.

London, July 6.—The Shanghai correspondent of The Times telegraphs under date of July 4 as follows:

The commanders of the allies recognize the fact that they must wait for reinforcements some time before advancing. The worst is rumored and feared.

Viceroy Liu Kun Yi wires to the British Consul that he will be able, with the Hunan troops, to preserve order.

Foreign Warships Warned.

London, July 5.—A despatch to The Express from Shanghai says: Taoti Sheng of Shanghai issued a proclamation on Wednesday, which practically forbids foreign warships approaching the Yangtsekiang, saying that if they do so the Chinese authorities will not hold themselves responsible for the consequences. It is considered that the Chinese officials are preparing a way to evade responsibility if an outbreak occurs. Even Li Hung Chang is suspected. The foreigners are simply aghast at the extent of Chinese armaments which have been systematically accumulated.

FIXING THE RESPONSIBILITY.

Great Britain Will Hold the Authorities at Pekin Responsible.

London, July 6.—In the House of Commons yesterday the Parliamentary Secretary of the Foreign Office, Mr. William St. John Broderick, said the Government had no information to the effect that Rear-Admiral Kempff opposed the attack on the Taku forts, on the ground that it would force the Chinese regulars into an alliance with the Boxers.

Mr. Broderick later announced that the Government was hourly expecting a reply to a communication addressed to Japan, and said the Chinese Minister in London had been informed that the authorities at Pekin would be held personally guilty of any injuries sustained by the Europeans, and he had been requested to convey this information, so as to have it reach without fail the authorities at Pekin.

LIFE..

A question of great interest for intending insurers is which Canadian Life Company is in highest favor with the insuring Canadian public? The following table is a good indicator :

Name of Company.	Commenced Business.	Canadian Business Written in 1899
North American	1881	$4,834,505
Sun Life	1871	3,996,865
Ontario Mutual	1870	3,965,509

The above are the five leading Canadian Companies and although the North American is much the youngest in years, she is outstripping all her rivals in the Canadian field.

ONE THAT WAS MISSED.

The Examiner is fond of quoting the Toronto Telegram, but here is a reference by that independent journal that our contemporary evidently overlooked. As it will be recognized as a condemnation of the disgraceful emergency ration whitewash the reader will understand why it was passed over by the organ that has endeavored to whitewash the discredited combination at Toronto. The Telegram says:—

"The finding of Chairman Belcourt, Messrs. Britton, Russell and Campbell is, if possible, worse than their behavior throughout the alleged enquiry into the emergency rations scandal.

"It was the duty of patriots to expose the truth in the interests of the country. The Belcourt-Britton-Russell-Campbell majority labored to suppress the truth in the interest of party.

"The majority report is in keeping with the tactics which were a disgrace of every member of the majority. There is an appeal in this emergency rations case from Philip Drunk to Philip Sober. Thank God, the wretched, contemptible behavior of Napoleon Belcourt, B. M. Britton, Benjamin Russell and Archibald Campbell, or their backers in the House of Commons, does not spell the last word in this case. No matter what the general result may be in its effect upon the fortunes of the Government or Opposition, it is to be hoped that not one subscriber to the truth-suppressing, fact distorting majority report will ever again occupy a seat in the Canadian House of Commons."

The debate on prohibition in the House of Commons was the usual farce, with a little more emphasis given to the farcical character of the wholething by the expensive plebiscite which the Laurier Government had taken.

It is a simple matter for the Liberal press to show a balance on the right side of the Intercolonial accounts when Hon. Mr. Blair does not charge nearly two million dollars of expenses to the current account as was done by his predecessor. Mr. Blair's good record is not one made in the actual management of the road, but is simply a trick in bookkeeping. Yet the Liberal editors would make a great case out for Mr. Blair.

Canadians generally will regret the sad death of Hon. A. R. Dickey, and especially among his own political party will his loss be mourned sincerely and deeply. A young man of more than ordinary force and mental power, he had during his short term of office as Minister of Justice demonstrated what great possibilities for usefulness and valuable service were his, while his uniform fairness and courtesy won him the respect and esteem of all. His death causes a loss that Canada may well deplore.

Our evening contemporary has discovered that Hon. Mr. Blair made a great saving in the item of oil used by the Intercolonial railway. If he did make such a saving for the Government railway he made the Standard Oil Company monopoly possible in Canada, and has made the Canadians pay dearly for their oil since he gave privileges to the great oil octopus. Mr. Blair's friends should not mention oil in the same sentence with his name, for the people who use coal oil, crude oil or oil of any kind are paying dearly for Mr. Blair's "kindness" to the American monopoly.

WHITEWASHED BY ONLY 14.

Government Majority Cut Down on Emergency Ration Vote.

Liberal Members Called the Sale to Minister Borden by Dr. Devlin of His Food as an Emergency Ration a Swindle, and Ten of Them Voted Against the Majority Report Exonerating the Minister of Militia.

Ottawa, July 6.—When the House opened yesterday morning Hon. Mr. Sifton was conspicuous by his presence in his old seat, in his characteristic attitude of right hand shelled to the ear. He looked well, and was greeted warmly by his followers.

Emergency Rations' Enquiry.

Mr. Belcourt moved the adoption of the report of the Emergency Rations Committee. He refuted the accusations that he had played the despot as chairman of the committee. The prosecution showed its inability to make out a case. The committee would have been nothing more than an advertising medium for certain goods had he not kept the inquiry within reasonable grounds. He justified his rulings as chairmman. He summarized the evidence taken by the committee. His whole argumnet was that Hon. Dr. Borden had nothing to do with the emergency rations other than to recommend the sending of the food tested at Kingston All the responsibility was laid upon Col. Neilson, Director-General of Medical Affairs. The letter written by Hatch, complaining of the food, he declared was foundationless. The food purchased was similar to that tested so successfully at Kingston. He characterised the minority report as false, unfair and deliberately malicious. He could not see that $2 a pound was an excessive price for the rations. In concluding, he declared Mr. Monk had signally, completely and wholly failed to substantiate his charges against Mr. Borden. They had been brought merely to gain political capital, and, to satisfy a morbid desire to throw mud at the Liberal party. He had no doubt the majority report would carry.

Mr. Monk's Reply.

Mr. Monk, of Jacques Cartier, then moved the amendment of the report by striking out the body of the motion and inserting the report formulated by the minority on the committee. He criticized the conduct of Chairman Belcourt, insisting that any member of the committee had a right to ask whatsoever questions he chose. The committee might have been composed of laymen, he argued, in which case it was absurd to suggest that they would be bound by legal rules in taking evidence. Hatch's food had been criticized, but it had only to be analyzed to prove its worth. The defence feared to give the food an analyses, and their refusal to adopt this course proved the weakness of their contention that it was no better than Dr. Devlin's. Sufficient care was not taken by the Militia Department in connection with the Kingston test. The public would not look upon Hatch's letter of warning as merely the complaint of a disappointed contractor. It was the duty of Hatch to write that letter and the Department of Militia should have taken hold of it. After reviewing the evidence, he did not press his charge against Dr. Borden as strongly as he pressed upon the House the necessity of not whitewashing Devlin. No matter what they thought of Dr. Borden, Devlin's condemnation would have no political significance. He had violated the dispositions of the Adulteration Act. He (the speaker) declared that if he did not believe the charges he had made, he would resign his seat, but he believed that the contractor had, under circumstances of great meanness, perpetrated a great fraud on the Militia Department, and had dealt in an unscrupulous manner, and without a proper sense of what was due this country.

Dr. Russell, another of the majority members of the committee, reviewed the evidence, and held there was no charge proven against Dr. Borden or Dr. Devlin. He considered that the Minister of Militia was justified in depending upon Dr. Neilson. Regarding R. S. White's connection with Dr. Devlin, he said that while he was not an enemy of R. S. White, if the Government did not discipline him for his unwarrantable conduct, then the Government would be more lenient than previous Governments.

Hon. T. C. Casgrain followed, and declared Dr. Devlin had skipped out because he feared his evidence would prejudice his friends, the Government. He, too, reviewed the evidence, and arrived at the conclusion that Dr. Borden was guilty of culpable negligence because he did not see that proper rations had been sent to South Africa.

Dr. Britton spoke at some length, but said nothing new.

Mr. Clarke, a member of the minority on the committee, reviewed the entire evidence. He summed up his conclusion thus: Dr. Borden put the responsibility for the transaction upon Dr. Neilson, but Dr. Neilson relied upon Dr. Devlin solely. Dr. Neilson's personal knowledge of the food tested at Kingston was nothing, and he was certainly a weak shield to protect Dr. Borden, who could not escape the responsibility. The whole transaction was discreditable to the business ability of Dr. Borden. A fraud of the grossest, meanest kind had been perpetrated on the Government.

Liberals Stampede.

Mr. Monet said he believed Dr. Neilson was guilty of the charges imputed to Dr. Borden. He believed that Dr. Devlin had criminally deceived the Government. He believed Collector White had been an accomplice of Dr. Devlin to defraud the Government. He believed the food supplied the soldiers was a very ordinary food, unworthy of the name of a concentrated food. He could not totally exonerate Dr. Borden, because he had bought a poor brand of food for the soldiers. He did not think Dr. Borden was culpably negligent, but he feared that the electors at large would believe that Dr. Borden's bargain with Devlin was made because Devlin was a friend of the Government.

Mr. Oliver regretted that he would have to take sides against Dr. Borden. There was no question that a swindle had been perpetrated by Dr. Devlin on the country, through the Department of Militia, and it must have been in the knowledge, to a certain degree, of Dr. Borden. There was enough in Mr. Macfarlane's analysis to demand an enquiry into the transaction, which could have been made before the goods were shipped, because they did not get away till nine days after Mr. Macfarlane had said that Devlin's food was not worth $2 a pound, and was not a concentrated food. If Dr. Devlin was not yet criminally prosecuted and Dr. Neilson not yet dismissed, then Dr. Borden could not be rid of the responsibility.

Minister Must Share.

Mr. Richardson sided with Mr. Oliver. The Minister had to share in the responsibility of the swindle. The majority report was wrong when it said the food was a good food. Its purchase resulted in the Government being defrauded. He quoted evidence to show that Dr. Devlin's can of 4 ounces could not sustain a soldier for one day. Devlin's food was an insufficient ration. But it was bought as an emergency ration, which it was not. He thought the chain of evidence to show that Dr. Devlin's food was one and the same as that tested at Kingston was weak. He repudiated the idea that R. S. White was an accomplice of Dr. Devlin. He could have no object.

Mr. Campbell—Why did he let five months pass?

The Swindle Endorsed.

A vote was taken at 12.20. It was on the minority report as an amendment.

Dr. Borden was not in the House.

Besides the Conservative members, Messrs. Richardson, Oliver, Rogers, Puttee, Ellis and Graham voted for the amendment.

Messrs. Monet, Bourassa and Pettit voted with the Government.

Messrs. Stubbs and McCarthy were absent, though they must have known the vote was to be taken. The vote was: Yeas 50, nays 78.

Bourassa's Amendment.

Mr. Bourassa proposed an amendment, and declared his position was similar to that taken by Mr. Monet. He thought no money should have been spent on food by the Canadian Government, because the Imperial Government had that in charge. Dr. Borden's sudden change of mind in reagrd to this matter was not justified by the evidence. When Dr. Borden heard that Canadian soldiers were suffering for want of food, he should have wired the Imperial War Office. To buy Devlin's food was to slap the War Office in the face. Mr. Bourassa saw in Dr. Borden's act another step towards militarism. His amendment was to the effect that, as the feeding and keeping of Canadian troops in South Africa was in the hands of the Imperial Government, Dr. Borden should not have spent money in supplying food for the second contingent.

Speaker Bain said the amendment was not relevant to the matter under discussion. He declared it out of order.

On the majority report being moved for adoption, a vote was taken. Some Liberal members voted against the Government. They were Messrs. Monet, Bourassa, Puttee, Richardson, Oliver, Pettit, Rogers, Ethier, Ellis and Graham—10.

The total vote was: Yeas, 66, nays 52; majority for the report 14.

This was received with Opposition cheers.

The House then adjourned at 1.03.

Embargo on Chinese.

Ottawa, July 6. — In the Senate yesterday the increase in the preferential tariff was discussed. The bill amending the customs tariff of 1897 went through committee, and was read a third time. The argument adduced in the House of Commons were repeated. The bill re Chinese immigration was read a third time.

PROROGATION IN MANITOBA.

The New Liquor Act Is to Be Submitted to the Courts.

Winnipeg, July 5.—(Special.)—The Legislature was prorogued to-day with the usual ceremonies. Premier Macdonald, in response to an enquiry made by Mr. Myers, said that the Liquor Act would be submitted to the courts in order to ascertain whether its provisions were intra vires of the Legislature under Chap. 25 of the Revised Statutes. The portion of the Act to be submitted is the question of the rights of the Hudson Bay Company, under the deed of surrender, but he could give no further answer, as the Government has not yet decided what further portions of the Act it will submit.

This is the last occasion on which Lieutenant-Governor Patterson officiates at prorogation, his term expiring in September.

Brussels, July 5.—The Assize Court today returned a verdict of guilty of attempt to kill the Prince of Wales against Jean Baptiste Sipido, who fired at the Prince on April 4, as the train bearing His Royal Highness was leaving the Northern Station in this city for Copenhagen. The court considered that Sipido acted without discernment, and sentenced him to a reformatory until he shall have attained his majority. Mert, Peuchot and Meire, the instigators of the attack upon the Prince, were acquitted, as they considered the plot a joke.

Achilles was invulnerable in every part of the body save his heel. The myth runs that he was rendered invulnerable by being dipped in the river Styx in infancy, the heel by which he was held being the only part not submerged and therefore retaining its mortal weakness.

Everyone has some weak spot in his physical organism, and that weak spot is the invariable attacking point of disease. No man is stronger than that weakest spot in him. We see great robust looking men go down like ninepins, at a touch of disease, and wonder at it. It is simply the wound in the weak spot, the vulnerable heel of Achilles.

It is the office of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery to build up the weak places, to strengthen the weak organs of the body. It does this on Nature's own plan of nourishment. Proper food properly assimilated makes a weak man strong. But the man is only an aggregation of parts, so that the strong man means strength of all parts, heart, lungs, liver, nerves, etc. "Golden Medical Discovery" puts into Nature's hands the material by which the stomach is strengthened, the blood purified, the nerves nourished, the lungs vitalized. It makes the weak strong and the sick well. It contains no alcohol or other intoxicant.

A FINNY TIDAL WAVE

AN ALEWIFE RUSH AS SEEN ON THE DAMARISCOTTA RIVER.

A Sweeping, Leaping, Flashing Mass of Fish That Annually Try to Crowd Up a Little Stream Only a Few Rods Across.

No one has ever discovered just why all the alewives on the New England coast assemble and force themselves up the Damariscotta river to spawn. But so they do and so have done for years and years and years. There are other streams and rivers along the coast that offer as good advantages to the fishy visitors, but the alewives have a regular spring engagement in the Damariscotta river.

When one considers that all the spawning alewives along the 300 miles of coast come to Damariscotta and try to crowd up a little river only a few rods across, the scenes that occur here are more readily understood and more easily believed by those who have never seen such a marvelous sight.

"An alewife rush" is the most interesting event in the Damariscotta during the season. All at once down the river the calm surface commences to be broken by little glints of silver in the sunshine, little flirtings of the water and quivers, as though something of broad extent were moving below. Then, with startling suddenness, a queer sort of tidal wave seems to form. It moves rapidly up stream, extending from bank to bank. The wave rolls a foot high. And it is a wave of fish—alewives! It comes sweeping on, one fish leaping over another and falling, only to leap again.

And thus, flashing and splattering and leaping till the surface is afoam and the air is full of the queer, rushing noise, the fish come till they break at the foot of the falls. During these rushes, which happen frequently during the day, alewives are forced, flapping and floundering, out on the banks of the river and may be picked up and put in baskets.

The laws of Maine permit the capture of these alewives under somewhat peculiar provisions. From the pond above the village the river descends by successive leaps the face of a rather steep bluff. There are two branches of the stream flowing down the bluff. The law provides that all the alewives which turn to the right at the foot of the falls and ascend the right hand stream shall be allowed to pursue their way undisturbed. They are permitted to hop from pool to pool, flop out on the bank and then flop back again and thus make their difficult way to the lake. The journey up the side of the cliff occupies a hearty and active alewife at least two days, and his fins must be pretty weary when he gets there.

The fish that select the left hand stream, which is wider and more easy of ascent, are caught in a weir, or, rather, a lock. Not one escapes. At certain intervals as soon as the lock is full the water is drained off and men with great dip nets ladle the struggling fishes into a sluice that slopes to a packing house. A thin stream of water is running down the sluice and the fish are borne away. As they come out of the end of the sluice there stand men with barrels. As soon as one barrel is full another is substituted at the end of the runway. During the season thousands of barrels are secured.

Practically all the fish are pickled in strong brine. Few of them are sold in this form in the United States. The Damariscotta packers say that nine-tenths of the fish they catch are shipped direct to the West Indies and are readily sold there to the natives. The call is for plenty of salt and fat fish. Both are provided. The alewives that run up the river are in fine condition, fat as butter, and the females are full of roe that makes good eating in itself.

The packers to whom the towns of Damariscotta and Newcastle sell out the entire right of fishing dispose of some of the alewives to parties who smoke them, and for a time all New England eats freshly smoked alewives, or herring, as these fish are sometimes mistakenly called. The red herring is "another sort of bird" from the big, fat alewife. All the profit resulting from the sale of the fish to the packers goes to the citizens of the two towns that have been mentioned. The sum realized is so considerable that taxes in the municipalities are very low.

By an ancient provision every widow in the towns is allowed to come to the side of the stream and receive 100 pounds of fresh fish from the hands of the selectmen, who are on duty during the whole of the season. Persons of a certain age are also entitled to their quota of fish.

Each night armed guards patrol the banks of the stream, especially the right hand stream, where the fish that are allowed to pass are struggling bravely. Poachers have in the past been able to capture hundreds of pounds out of the pools in a few hours. In the old days it used to be a favorite but risky practice to descend on the Damariscotta fish pools by night and haul away enough fish to peddle around the country for a few weeks. But the guards in these days are instructed to shoot, and the poachers know that fact. The average catch in the packing house is 50,000 barrels for a season lasting only a few weeks.

Notwithstanding the fact that the ascent of the fish is so spectacular no one knows when they depart from the lake. Occasionally the fry are seen in the lake, traveling in belts many feet across. Sometimes a person sitting on the shore of the lake will see this procession of little shavers passing in apparently interminable parade hour after hour.—New York Tribune.

W.J. BRYAN WAS NOMINATED

Unanimous Vote Followed by a Frenzied Demonstration.

The Platform Denounces Imperialism, Militarism and Trusts, and Declares for Free Coinage of Silver in a Ratio of 16 to 1—The Vice-Presidential Candidate Not Yet Selected — Two of the Planks.

Kansas City, July 5.—William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska was to-night unanimously placed in nomination as the Democratic candidate for President, on a platform opposing Imperialism, militarism and trusts, and specifically declaring for the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. The nomination came as the culmination of a frenzied demonstration in honor of the party leader, lasting 27 minutes and giving utterance to all the pent-up emotion of the multitudes. It followed also a fierce struggle throut the last 36 hours, concerning the platform declaration on silver and on the relative position which the silver question maintains to the other great issues of the day.

Delayed for the Platform.

It was late this afternoon when the convention was at last face to face with the Presidential nomination. Earlier in the day there had been tedious delays, due to the inability of the Platform Committee to reconcile their differences and present a report.

Nebraska Got the Preference.

When the call of States began, for the purpose of placing candidates in nomination, Alabama yielded its place at the head of the list to Nebraska, and Oldham of that State made his way to the platform for the initial speech, placing Mr. Bryan in nomination for the Presidency. The orator was strong voiced and entertaining, yet, to the waiting delegates and spectators, there was but one point to his speech, and that was the stirring peroration which closed with the name of William Jennings Bryan. This was the signal for the demonstration of the day, and in a common purpose the great concourse joined in a tribute of enthusiastic devotion to the party leader.

Hill Spoke for Unity.

When the demonstration had spent itself the speech seconding the nomination of Mr. Bryan was in order. Senator White spoke for California, giving the tribute of the Pacific Coast to the Nebraska candidate. When Colorado was reached that state yielded to Senator Hill of New York. The audience had anxiously awaited the appearance of the distinguished New Yorker, and as he took the platform he was accorded a splendid reception, the entire audience rising and cheering wildly with the single exception of the little groups of Tammany men, who sat silent throut the cheers for their New York associate. Mr. Hill was in fine voice, and his tribute to the Nebraskan touched a sympathetic chord in the hearts of the audience. He pictured Bryan as the champion of the plain people and of the workingman, strong with the masses, with the farmer and with the artisan. When Mr. Hill declared, with dramatic emphasis, that the candidate would have the support of his party—a united party—there was tremendous applause at the suggestion of Democratic unity. Aside from the brilliant eulogy of Bryan, the speech of the New York leader was chiefly significant and attractive in its strong plea for unity.

A Unanimous Vote.

Then came the voting. State after State recorded its vote in behalf of the Nebraska candidate, giving him the unanimous vote of all the States and Territories. The convention managers had already agreed that this was sufficient work for the day, and the Vice-Presidential nomination was allowed to go over until tomorrow.

Two of the Planks.

In the platform, which was adopted by acclamation, it is stated that "the declaration of independence is the spirit of our government," that all governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed, "that any government not based upon the consent of the governed is a tyranny, and that to impose upon any people a government of force is to substitute the methods of Imperialism for those of a republic. We hold that the constitution follows the flag, and denounce the doctrine that an executive or congress deriving their existence and their powers from the constitution can exercise lawful authority beyond it, or in violation of it. We assert that no nation can long endure half republic and half empire, and we warn the American people that Imperialism abroad will lead quickly and inevitably to despotism at home."

The Silver Plank.

"We endorse the National Democratic platform adopted at Chicago in 1896, and reiterate the demand of that platform for an American financial system made by the American people themselves, which shall restore and maintain a bimetallic price level, and as part of such system the immediate restoration of the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold at the present legal ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the consent of any other nation.

A Slap at John Bull.

"Believing in self government and rejecting, as did our forefathers, the claim of monarchy, we view with indignation the purpose of England to overwhelm with force the South African Republics. Speaking as we do for the entire American nation, except its Republican office holders, and for all free men everywhere, we extend our sympathies to the heroic burghers in their unequal struggle to maintain their liberty and independence."

"GOD BLESS THE PREMIER!"

Message Wired to Hon. Hugh John Macdonald by the W.C.T.U.

Portage la Prairie, July 5.—(Special.)—The president of the W.C.T.U. opened the Convention by reading the announcement of the passing of the third reading of the Liquor bill in the Legislature, after which the Convention arose and sang "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow." The following telegram was then sent to the Premier:

To Hon. H. J. Macdonald, Winnipeg: The Provincial W.C.T.U., in convention assembled, congratulate you on your courageous stand for the right, re Liquor Act, and add "God Bless the Premier!" Mrs. E. E. Gallagher, corresponding secretary.

Had Both Legs Crushed.

New Hamburg, Ont., July 5.—Yesterday a young man, aged about 19 years, named Fisher, of Lakewood, Ont., met with a serious accident, which may prove fatal. It appears that he and a companion were stealing rides on Grand Trunk freight trains. While attempting to board one going west between Petersburg and Baden, he fell under the train and had both legs badly smashed. He was brought here for medical attention. Dr. Walters said amputation was necessary. Fisher was taken to Berlin Hospital.

Fisher died shortly after reaching Berlin hospital.

WHEN DOCTORS DISAGREE

What Becomes of the Patient?

Doctors have their hobbies as well as other people and in the treatment of disease often carry them too far for the patient's good. For instance, in the treatment of indigestion or dyspepsia many doctors give bismuth and nothing else, others rely on pepsin to bring their patients through, still another doctor treats stomach troubles with the various vegetable essences and fruit salts.

Now, one or the other of these excellent remedies becomes a hobby with the doctor who has had most success with the particular one in question, because all of them are first class remedies for indigestion and dyspepsia, but not one of them alone is so good as a combination of all of them, such as is found in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which contain not only vegetable essences and fruit salts, but also the freshest, purest pepsin and bismuth, making altogether a remedy unsurpassed for every form of indigestion, sour stomach, nervous dyspepsia, belching of gas, distress after eating, sleeplessness, headaches, etc.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is not a secret patent nostrum, but you can see for yourself what it is, and knowing this, its success as a dyspepsia cure is not surprising. All druggists recommend and sell them at 50 cents.

Itching Piles

Mr. O. P. St. John, Dominion Inspector of Steamboats, 246 Shaw-st., Toronto, writes:—"I suffered for nine years with itching piles. After trying many remedies in vain, I began to use Dr. Chase's Ointment and it has entirely cured me." More people have been cured of piles by using Dr. Chase's Ointment than by all other treatments combined. It never fails to cure piles.

THE COOKBOOK.

Serve salad whenever possible. It is always acceptable and refreshing.

Green sweet peppers finely chopped and sprinkled over stuffed tomatoes just before they go into the oven improves them.

In putting cakes on the griddle be careful to form them a regular round shape, and put on only one at each dip, so as not to spill between the cakes.

If you want to powder parsley to sprinkle over new potatoes or any other dish, dip it first quickly into boiling water. Shake the water off and put it on a plate or paper in a quick oven for a few minutes. When quite dry, rub either between your hands or through a wire sieve.

The juice from a can of fruit if not needed when the fruit is served may be used later as a foundation for a jelly. If the sirup is as rich as it should be, it will stand an equal amount of water. When thus diluted, it is sweetened to taste and used with dissolved gelatin in the proportion of little over a half a box to every quart.

BEE BUZZES.

The body of the drone bee is hardly so long as that of the queen, but it is much thicker.

It is bad management to place and replace frames, using the full set in the hive at the same time.

Peacocks.

Peacocks of the familiar ordinary variety are raised by the breeders of fancy fowls of one sort or another, and they are not very costly nor is there much demand for them. A pair of such peacocks might cost from $12 to $20. They might be sold for collections or for public parks, but not often for private parks or grounds, where the white peacock would be preferred.

White peacocks are rarer and more costly than those of the ordinary kind, ranging in price from $100 to $225 a pair. Some of these birds are raised in this country, but the greater number are imported from Europe. White peacocks are like ordinary peacocks in their general characteristics, but instead of having plumage of the familiar blue and green and black, their plumage is white. Sometimes the "eyes" in the white peacock's tail are of a creamy tint, giving to the tail when spread the effect of lace, from which such birds are called white lace peacocks.

The demand for peacocks of any variety is small, and no dealer in birds and animals keeps them in stock, supplying them only on order.

A Family Necessity

Mr. J. Wright, of 126 McPherson-ave., Toronto, says:—"I am always glad to say a good word for Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is a family necessity in the houses of Canada and the United States. 25 cents a bottle. Family size 60 cents.

W. C. T. U. RE-ORGANIZED.

Well Attended and Earnest Meeting of Temperance Workers.

There was a very large attendance at the meeting in the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. Rev. J. G. Potter presided and Dr. Torrance assisted in the devotional exercises. Miss Wiggins, the organizer of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, gave an address, showing the need of greater interest in the temperance reform, and the special opportunities that women have in the home, when intelligently informed, of helping on the work. An appeal was made to re-organize the W. C. T. U. of Peterborough, and a very hearty response was made by the ladies. Thirty-six of the ladies of Peterborough banded themselves together for aggressive service, and elected the following officers :—

President—Mrs S D McPherson.
Corresponding Sec'y—Mrs John Manning.
Recording Sec'y—Miss S J Robertson.
Treasurer—Mrs G E Whiten.

There will be another meeting this afternoon to complete organization and lay some plans for future work.

Y.M.C.A. WORK FOR VOLUNTEERS

APPRECIATION OF THE WORK DONE IN THE MILITIA CAMPS.

One of the Soldier Boys Expresses His Opinion—Y.M.C.A. Officers in South Africa.

For twenty-nine successive years the Provincial Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association have conducted work among the volunteers at the military camp at Niagara, and in recent years at other points.

This year the work was carried on at Niagara, Kingston, and La Prarie, Que., with a large staff of experienced workers and attended by most encouraging results.

Mr. Thos. J. Wilkie, one of the oldest Y.M.C.A. Secretaries on the continent, had charge of the work at Niagara and Kingston, and Mr. H. H. Distin, of Quebec, at the La Prarie camp.

The work at Niagara in many respects surpassed the work of previous years. As an example some 700 letters were written on one of the first days of the camp. Good results were seen in the crowded gospel meetings held nightly. Twenty-nine men professed conversion.

The following letter written by a volunteer to one of the Toronto papers will give a good idea of the work.

To the Editor.

As one who is in camp here, I wish to express on behalf of all who are here our warm thanks to the Y.M.C.A. for what they have done for us. I have watched the work closely and cannot speak too highly about it. It has been headquarters for hundreds, where at all times they have received a warm welcome from Mr. T. J. Wilkie, and where many conveniences have been provided. Many a mother has been kept in touch with her boy through the letters written and received in the tent.

Perhaps the most practical part has been the evening services, with their far-reaching results. The tent has been packed to its utmost capacity, the after meetings largely attended, and many have professed to have commenced a new life. In justice to the Y.M.C.A. I trust you will publish these few facts.

OBSERVER.

Niagara, June 22.

Similar testimonies have been given in reference to the work at Kingston, although through a misunderstanding with the Minister of Militia in reference to the date, the Y.M.C.A. tent was not on the ground until the last week of the camp. The tent was well patronized and meetings largely attended. 25 men professed conversion.

The officers in charge of the tents were pleased with the good order in the camp, due to the absence of the canteen. They also appreciated the sympathy and co-operation of the officers of the camp. The tent was visited by Commander Montizambert, Divisional Quartermaster McPherson, Brigade Majors Edwards, of the 5th, and Mathieson and Helmere, of the 6th Brigades. Each manifested a deep interest in what was being done for the men.

In connection with the work among the volunteers in South Africa cheering reports continue to come in from Dr. Barrie, and Messrs. Best and McKellar. A few days ago the Provincial Committee forwarded three thousand dollars to the army secretaries, this amount to be expended in providing comforts for the contingents. When the story has been told of what has been accomplished among the men in the face of such obstacles as have appeared in the way, it will be clear to all that the Provincial Committee were wise in undertaking so vast a work.

Money is still needed by the committee, and any contributions will be gladly received by the local secretary.

HAD THEIR OUTING.

Scholars of the Murray-st. and Charlotte-st. Schools Have a Day Out.

Yesterday the scholars of the Charlotte-st Methodist Sunday school were treated to a picnic at Crawford's grove. The trip was free for the children. The Eclipse and barge took down the excursionists, of whom there were about 250, many of the parents and teachers attending. Despite a couple of showers in the afternoon the outing was a most pleasant and satisfactory one.

The picnic of the Murray-st. Baptist Sunday school was held yesterday at Chemong Park. Busses ran between 8 and 11 o'clock and the gathering at the grounds was a large one. The outing was a pleasant one in every respect. A programme of sports for the children was run off.

Church Parade on Sunday.

It was proposed at a meeting of the officers of the 57th Regiment a few weeks ago to drop the second church parade, but considerable disappointment was evinced in the ranks, and at a meeting of the non-commissioned officers a petition was drawn up to the commanding officer asking for a church parade. The opinion of the men of the regiment being taken it was found in favor, and the commanding officer has been pleased to call a final church parade for Sunday afternoon. The service will be held at St. John's church at 4 o'clock.

About fifty of the parents and friends were present and were delighted with the high degree of skill displayed by the performers, all of whom acquitted themselves with the greatest credit. The Bell Telephone Employees Make a Presentation to Mr. J. S. Knapman.

To-day Mr. J. S. Knapman, who has just severed his connection with the Bell Telephone Co. to accept the position of inspector with the Sun Life Assurance Co., was given a pleasant surprise when he was made the recipient of a handsome travelling bag, presented by the local employees of the Bell Telephone Co. as a parting gift, evidencing their feelings of esteem and respect for their late manager.

Mr. Knapman appreciates this evidence of good will of those who were employed under him most highly.

REGIMENTAL INSPECTION.

Sketch of the Life of Lt. Col. Montizambert, the Inspecting Officer.

The annual inspection of the 57th Regiment is in progress, "A," "B" and "C" Companies having been inspected last evening. The regiment will be inspected this afternoon, falling in at the drill shed at four o'clock. Lt.-Col. Montizambert, District Officer Commanding, Kingston, is inspecting officer. The following is a sketch of his life taken from the Kingston Whig:—

Lieut.-Col. Montizambert is the district officer commanding No. 3 military district, with headquarters at artillery park barracks, Kingston. He was commanding officer at the volunteers' training camp, which has just closed at Barriefield. He is very approachable, of a cordial disposition and obliging nature, and this has won for him the esteem of both officers and men quite as well as of civilians.

Col. Montizambert comes of a fighting race. He was born in Quebec on Jan. 27th, 1841, his father being Edward Louis Montizambert, late law clerk of the Senate, and his mother Lucy Irwin Bowen, daughter of the late Chief Justice Bowen. He is descended from an old French-Canadian family of note, the first of their ancestors who came to this country being Pierre Boucher, first Governor of Three Rivers, in 1663. The family name is Boucher de Montizambert. On the maternal side two of the colonel's grandmother's brothers were English officers in the 7th Fusiliers. One of them was killed at the taking of Martinique. An uncle, Major Montizambert, of the 10th Foot, was killed while leading his men at the storming of Moultan, in India. So that the subject of our sketch, as will be seen, descends from a family of soldiers.

Col. Montizambert was educated at Upper Canada College, Toronto. He early showed a decided taste for military pursuits, and entered with great zest into the volunteer movement in 1860, being subsequently appointed captain and adjutant of the Quebec volunteer garrison artillery, in which corps he served until 1871. When "A" and "B" batteries schools of gunnery were raised in that year he was transferred to the command of "B" Battery, permanent artillery, which he raised under Major-General Strange, R. A. He attained the rank of Major in 1872, and Lt.-Col. in 1877.

In 1873 Col. Montizambert was made commandant of the school of artillery, consisting of "B" Battery, then stationed in this city. He was second in command of the Wimbledon team on one occasion, and was subsequently attached to the Royal Artillery at Aldershot for the autumn manoeuvres, and afterwards at Woolwich for instruction. He commanded under Col. Strange on several occasions during riots in Quebec in the seventies. In the Northwest rebellion, 1885, he had the first corps that made the passage ("A" and "B" batteries with their guns) through the ice and snow on the then unfinished portion of the C.P.R., around the north shore of Lake Superior, joining General Sir Frederick Middleton's column on the trail north of Fort Qu'Appelle. He was in action at the battles of Fish Creek and Batoche, received a medal, was mentioned in despatches, and recommended for the C.M.G. He is the author of a prize essay for the medal presented by the Dominion Artillery Association on "The Supply, Care and Repair of Artillery Material for Canadian Militia," (1878). In 1897 he was transferred to Kingston as D.O.C. military districts No. 3 and 4, and inspector of artillery for districts Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 4. In 1867, the colonel married Miss Alice Lawson, youngest daughter of the late James Gibb, merchant, Que. Both Mr. and Mrs. Montizambert are very popular in Kingston.

DIED FROM HIS INJURIES

A Young Man Named Fisher, From Lakefield, Fell Under a Train.

A despatch from New Hamburg, Ont., dated yesterday, says:—About 4 p.m. to-day, a young man, aged about 19, named Fisher, of Lakefield, Ont., met with a fatal accident. It appears that he and a companion were stealing rides on Grand Trunk freight trains. While attempting to board one going west, between Petersburg and Baden, he fell underneath the train and had both legs badly smashed. He was brought here for medical attention. Dr. Walters was quickly on hand and said amputation was necessary. Fisher was taken to the Berlin hospital on the 4.40 p.m. train, but died shortly after reaching the hospital.

THE CUBAN SCANDAL.

The boodler is another of the things that follow the flag.—Detroit Tribune.

Having shown the Cubans how to run a postal service, let Uncle Sam now show them how to punish thieves and plunderers.—Rochester Democrat.

The Americans who disgraced their country by frauds in the Cuban postal service have made the United States ridiculous before the Cuban people, and they surely deserve condign punishment because of the farreaching effects of their crimes.

THE WATER DID IT.

HERE is an old adage recorded which teaches that lightning never strikes twice in the same place. The same can be said of rheumatism, which usually attacks employees of all bottling works, in the hands and arms, on account of them having to handle cold substances and dabble in cold water all the year round. Mr. Oscar Perry, formerly employed at J. R. Hinds' bottling works, Kingston, Ont., was a sufferer in this respect. Rheumatism affected him in the arms and shoulders, and besides the pain experienced he suffered pecuniary loss. After having tried various treatments without obtaining relief, he was induced to give Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure a trial. Less than half a bottle gave him relief, and before the entire contents of the first bottle were used he was freed from rheumatism, and it has not since troubled him. He did not look for such rapid results, and would have been satisfied with obtaining relief, whereas the medicine has effected a cure.

Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure is put up in 50 cent bottles, containing ten days' treatment. For sale by all druggists and dealers in medicine. The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

FORCED RESTITUTION

PILGRIM JOE SUCCEEDS IN DOING A KINDLY ACT.

Whereby He Compels Some Avaricious Citizens of Juba Hill to Restore to a Too Confiding Tenderfoot the Pelf He Had Lost.

[Copyright, 1900, by C. B. Lewis.]

While travelin toward Juba Hill I came to a shack, with a woman sittin at the door. She was smokin a corncob pipe and weepin, and her attitude and her loneliness appealed to my sympathies.

"Into each life a little rain must fall," says I as I got down and stood beside her.

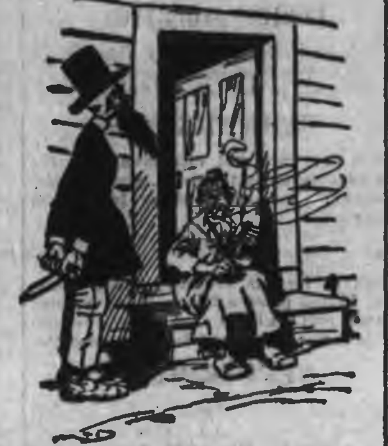
"Yes; bar'ls and bar'ls of rain," she answers as she wipes her eyes anew.

"Has the dog died or the old man run away that this is a house of sorrer?"

"It's on account of the old man, but he didn't run away. He went over to Rose Hill the other day and got drownded in the mill dam."

"And in your bereavement and loneliness your heart yearns fur consolation. Widder, believe that in this your hour of darkness and despair the undersigned"—

"Oh, you shet!" she says as she begun to smoke harder and weep less. "The old man was no great shakes, and I kin do a heap better, but what I'm sorrerin over is that they hain't found his body, and he has $17 in his pocket!"



SHE WAS SMOKING A CORNCOB PIPE.

I stood there fur a minit and looked down upon her grief stricken form and tried to find some sayin appropriate to the occasion. Not bein able to hit one, I went back and climbed up on my wagon and drove off. The town of Juba Hill was almost in sight, and I was gradually recoverin my usual speerits when I come upon a feller man seated under a tree by the roadside. He was not weepin, but his countenance expressed grief and sorrer, and I knew that all was not well with him.

"Hath found the world cold and heartless?" I asks as I look him over and smiles at him in a brotherly way.

"You might call it that way," he answers after a long time.

"How hath man wronged you and brung heaviness to your heart?"

"It was done at poker, and Juba Hill was the place. Two days ago I entered the town with a song on my lips and $200 in cash in my pocket, and I am now dead broke, and my speerits are low. I sat in a game with the mayor himself, and he was my undoin."

"Was it bluff?" I asked.

"Never a once. It was that he held the better hands. My straights and flushes and full houses went fur nought. Even when I held four aces he raked in the pot with a royal flush."

Then I knew that he was a tenderfoot from beyond the river and that the ways of the woolly west were too wily fur him. It was my duty as a consoler of the unfortunate and a friend of sorrer to do what I could fur him, and I sat down beside him and entered into a game which was without a pot. In an hour he was prepared to unhorse the enemy who had brung him low, and, mountin to my side, we drove into the town of Juba Hill together. With the $10 I lent him as a stake, the refreshed pilgrim hunted up the mayor and scooped him in as fish are landed from the sea. He held nuthin lower than three kings, and fours were his whenever he desired. With tears of gratitude in his eyes, he restored my own to me, and the size of his boodle was that of a horse's leg. When he had silently departed from the sleepin town that he might not be toyed with by the satellites of the mayor on the morrow, I retired to my couch to indulge in that refreshin slumber which a clear conscience allus brings, and as I pulled off my boots I found myself hummin a song of peace and good will.

AT THE RANCH.

From every point they gayly come; the bronchos' unshod feet
Pat at the green sod of the range with quick, emphatic beat.
The tresses of the buxom girls as banners stream behind,
Like silken castigating whips cut at the sweeping wind.
The dashing cowboys, brown of face, sit in their saddle thrones
And sing the wild songs of the range in free, uncultured tones
Or ride beside the pretty girls, like gallant cavaliers,
And pour the usual fairy tales into their listening ears.

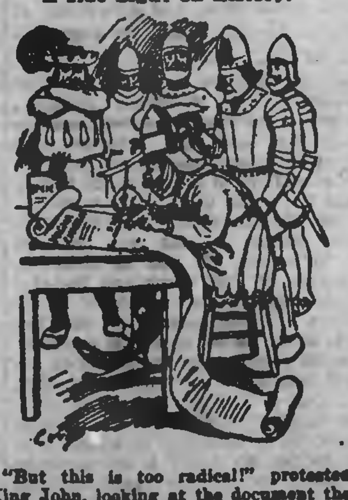
Within the "best room" of the ranch the jolly gathered throng
Buzz like a swarm of human bees and lade the air with song;
The maidens tap their sweetest smiles and give their tongues full rein
In efforts to entrap the boys in admiration's chain.
The fiddler tunes the strings with pick of thumb and scrape of bow,
Finds one string keyed a note too high, another keyed too low,
Then rosins up the tight drawn hairs, the young folks in a fret,
Until their ears are greeted with the warning words, "All set!"

Salute yer pardners! Let 'er go!
Balance all an do-se-do!
Swing yer girls an run away!
Right an left an gents sashay!
Gents to right an swing or cheat!
On to next gal an repeat!
Balance next, an don't be shy!
Swing yer pard an swing 'er high!
Bunch the gals an circle round!
Whack yer feet until they bound!
Form a basket! Break away!
Swing an kiss an all git gay!
Al'man left an balance all!
Lift yer hoofs an let 'em fall!
Swing yer op'sites! Swin ag'in!
Kiss the sage hens if ye kin!
Back to pardners, do-se-do!
All jine hands, an off ye go!
Gents salute yer little sweets!
Hitch an promenade to seats!

And thus the merry dance goes on till morning's struggling light
In lengthening streaks of gray breaks down the barriers of night
And broncs are mounted in the glow of early morning skies
By weary limbed young revelers with drooping, sleeping eyes.
The cowboys to the ranges speed to "work" the lowing herds,
The girls within their chambers hide to sleep like weary birds,
And for a week the young folks talk of what a jolly spree
They had that night at Jackson's ranch down on the Owyhee.

—Denver Post.

A Side Light on History.



"But this is too radical!" protested King John, looking at the document the barons wanted him to sign. "It subverts my whole kingdom, gentlemen. I can countenance no such change as that."

"We will change your countenance if you don't!" sternly answered the barons.

"That puts a new face on the matter," rejoined King John, affixing his signature with an effort at sprightliness.

Popular British Song.

The British general was humming to himself as he walked along.

"Wot's that 'e's singin'?" asked Tommy Atkins.

The correspondent shook his head.

"I don't recognize it," he said, "but very likely it's 'There's one more river to cross.'"—Chicago Times-Herald.

Method In Their Greed.

"They are awfully grasping fellows, those British collectors of death duties. When a man falls sick over there, they send him the proper notification with a copy of the law, and then sit around and wait for developments."

"Yes, they need the money."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Tommy's Aversion.

"Tommy, let me help you to some of this new dish. It's called"—

"Never mind what it's called, auntie. Is it a health food?"

"No."

"Then I'll take some."—Chicago Tribune.

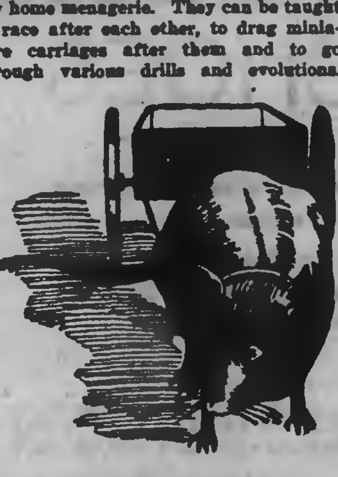
CHILDREN'S COLUMN.

How to Train a Mouse.

Ordinary house mice can be trained to perform little tricks if caught when very young. They grow up then with no more fear of their enemies than a cat or dog. Trained mice should be a feature of every home menagerie. They can be taught to race after each other, to drag miniature carriages after them and to go through various drills and evolutions.



MOUSE DRAWING A CART.

They need to be treated with the same kindness and care as the others. Cages with revolving wheels come for performing mice, and it is always amusing to see them turn the wheel, their bright little eyes shining like beads. With the agility of monkeys they can be taught to run up sticks and poles, jump from them through small circles and to chase each other back and forth over a table or in and out of holes formed with papers and cloth wrinkled up for the purpose.

A Brick Hearted Elm.

In New Brunswick, N. J., is an elm tree that literally has a heart of stone, if flintlike bricks and mortar may so be classified. A long time ago the elm was one of three large trees planted around the grave of a famous Indian chief, but with the growth of the town two of the trees were cut down to give place to a street. The remaining elm at once began to die at the heart, and in a few years the trunk was honeycombed by insects. Then at a Fourth of July celebration the punklike heart caught fire and burned out. Supported by a thin shell of a trunk, the tree threatened to fall in any high wind. Then it occurred to its owner, Mrs. Elmendorf, to have the inside filled with brick and mortar. This was done, and for years the big tree has rested on its stony support, getting its nourishment through the bark and shading the home of its benefactor.

Gave Her His Birthday.

Robert Louis Stevenson was visiting a friend in California and speedily became a great confidant of his host's little daughter. One day the subject of birthdays was being discussed, and then the young lady bewailed her hard fate. She had been born on the 29th day of February and therefore had enjoyed only two birthdays in all her 11 years. The kind hearted writer sympathised with her. He meditated a few minutes, then went to the writing desk and drew up the following document: "I, Robert Louis Stevenson, in a sound state of mind and body, having arrived at an age when I no longer have any use for birthdays, do give and bequeath my birthday, on the 13th day of November, to Miss Adelaide Ide, to be hers from this year as long as she wishes it. Robert Louis Stevenson."

A City Farmer.

Oh, I'm a reg'ler farmer, for I got a hoe an spade
An a bag of roasted peanuts, which I'm goin to plant, you bet,
'Cause when they gets to sproutin an has all their bushes made
They'll be loaded down with peanuts just the best was ever et!

I got a new wheelbarrer, with a wheel all painted red,
An a pair of new jean britches made up just like any man's,
An ma says I'm a farmer sure enough—'at's what she said—
An purt' soon I'll be raisin Cain an ripe tomato cans.

Wy, I planted lots of orange seeds just yeste'day afternoon
An a whole barr'l of raisins what had worms inside their skin;
I'm goin to dig 'em up unless they come up mighty soon,
For I'm gettin scared fur fear they ain't skid where I put 'em in.

Oh, I like to be a farmer an to work out in the sun;
I'm goin to buy a farm some day an plant what I love best.
Of dates an figs an licorish I'll raise a million ton,
An with oranges an sugar plums I guess I'll plant the rest.

Course now I'm in the city, where there ain't a bit of land
'Cept what's in our back yard, an that is where I have to play,
But we're goin to the country, an, oh, won't it be grand?
You bet I'll be a farmer then an plant most ever' day!

—John Pengrave in Chicago Record.

THE DRESS MODEL.

Thus far among the short jackets of silk, satin and brocade black is the chief color.

Many of the handsome designs in lace are copied among elaborately embroidered cream whits and ecru batistes.

Cool and pretty are the waists of pink, blue or cream white liberty silk or satin made in regular shirt waist style, with yoke back and slightly full fronts, fastened with small gilt or mock opal buttons.

Among the imported gowns of foulard summer silk, veiling, india mull, etc., are models, showing silk petticoats en suite, which are finished around the bottom with flounces made of fabric matching the gown.

"Celery" is a new color among French tints. It is much admired in the list of summer textiles. It compines ivory, the faintest shade of yellow and pale green without expressing either, but delicately suggestive of all three.

Short boleros are made of cut work and of embroidery and lined with thin, delicately tinted silk. These are considered very stylish with any sort of wash gown, giving it a pretty finish that is both smart and becoming.

It is becoming more and more popular to cut the sleeve of the waist or jacket to flare in leaf or bell shape a few inches below the elbow and to add full gathered undersleeves which reach to the wrist, the shirring ending in a narrow band covered with ribbon, lace insertion or embroidery.

Beautiful summer evening toilets are made of white india silk mull or white Italian crape, elaborately decorated with black applique patterns and both wide and narrow insertions of black venetian or chantilly lace. Rows of finest lingerie tucking alternate with these trimmings on both skirt and bodice.—New York Post.

CURTAIN RAISERS.

A project is under way to build a new theater in St. Louis to seat 3,500.

The representation of Rostand's "L'Aiglon" may be forbidden in Austria.

Shakespeare was introduced as the hero of a play lately produced at Budapest.

Marie Wainwright announces that next season she will play Hamlet in vaudeville.

Burr McIntosh has been engaged to play Philemon in the production of "Janice Meredith" next season.

The gross receipts of Mrs. Fiske's season of 34 weeks in "Becky Sharp" are said to have been over $300,000.

It is reported from London that E. H. Sothern has secured the rights to Justin Huntley McCarthy's new play, "The Startled Fawn."

Maude Adams owns and engineers a farm at the extreme eastern end of Long Island, taking special interest in the raising of Shetland ponies and collies.

Mrs. Leslie Carter is to appear next year in a piece entitled "The Queen's Drawing Room." David Belasco is named as author, but little is known about the play.

Tolstoi's latest book, "The Dominion of Darkness," is being translated into English for use in this country. The play has already been produced at the Royal theater in Copenhagen.

The Actors' society of New York offers a prize of $100, to be awarded by a vote of traveling companies, to the theater, outside of the large cities, which gives the best accommodation back of the curtain.

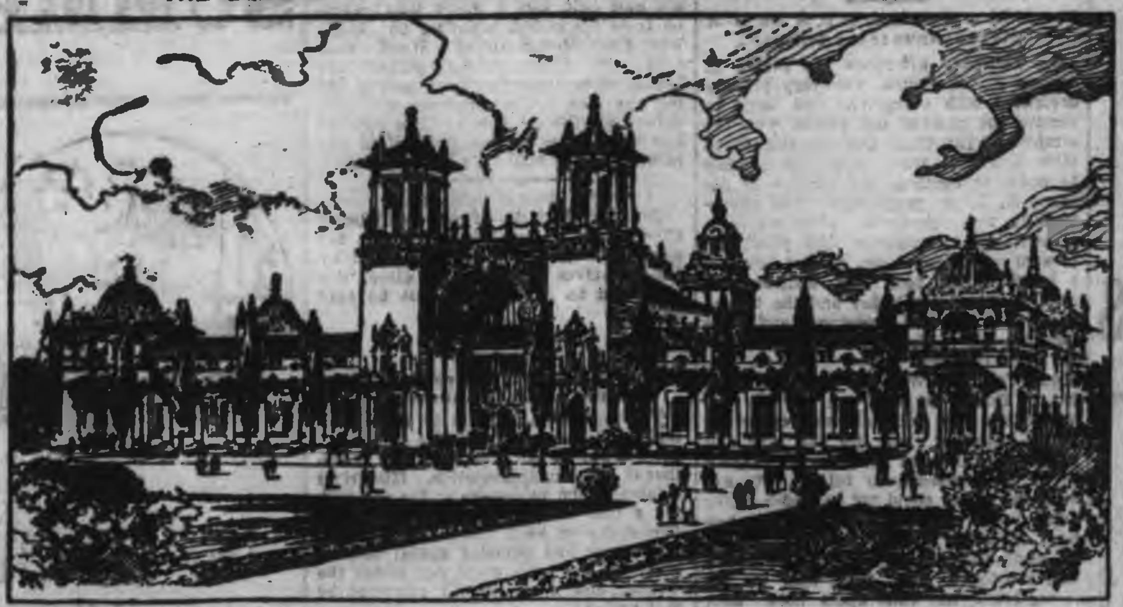
THE ELECTRICITY BUILDING AT THE PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.



Copyright, 1900, by the Pan-American Exposition Co.

Elaborate designs have recently been completed for the Electricity building for the Pan-American Exposition, to be held in Buffalo May 1 to Nov. 1, 1901. Displays of all kinds in the practical and artistic uses of electricity, together with complete exhibits of electrical machinery and appliances, are to be conspicuous features of the great Exposition. The designs contemplate a very handsome and commodious building. The structure is to be 500 feet from east to west and 150 feet wide, giving an exhibition space of 75,000 square feet. The South Facade fronts the Mall, and the north fronts the Midway. The east end is toward the massive Electric Tower, while the west faces the Grand Canal. The general ornamentation of the structure is to be frescoes in a mixture of reds, greens and yellows.

Two Little Tots Drowned.

Brighton, Ont., July 6.—The two little daughters of William Brown, aged 5 and 7, were drowned in the Murray Canal, near here, yesterday afternoon. The children went out after dinner, and not returning, search was made for them. By the actions of a dog which had been with the children, quest was made in the direction of the canal, in which the body of one was found. As yet the other one has not been found. Mrs. Brown had gone to Trenton and left Mr. Brown, whose house is near the canal, with the children.

Weak, Sickly Children

Are Restored to Health and Vigour by Using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Many children are pale, weak, and bloodless from their birth. Many others have their blood and nerves exhausted, and their systems broken down by the ravages of disease, or as the result of over-study at school.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is the ideal treatment for children. It supplies the very elements which are lacking in the pale, weak, and nervous. It restores the colour and richness to the blood, invigorates the nerves, and builds up the system. As a restorative after the exhausting and debilitating effects of measles, scarlet fever, and such ailments, it is of incalculable worth.

Mrs. Stephen Dempsey, Albury, P. E. county, Ont., writes:—"My little granddaughter, nine years old, was very pale and weak, and had no appetite. She had a tired, worn-out appearance, and was delicate and sickly. I got some of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for her, and it has helped her very much. She is [illegible] in weight and [illegible] healthy."

THE SCISSORS PUZZLE.

It Requires Time, Patience and Ingenuity to Work It Out.

Here's a new kind of puzzle, one that will afford many hours of amusement, and at the same time tax the ingenuity of those who make it or guess it. Draw the picture of a pair of shears, putting the numerals from 1 to 5 at the points shown in the diagram. Divide the blades and handles into sections, as shown there, and the plan of the puzzle is ready. There should be 37 spaces in all. Each one of the spaces is to be filled with a letter, so that words can be spelled from the numbers. The two words from 1-3 and 2-3 will, of course, end with the same letter, which is the first letter of the two words running from 3-4 to 3-5. The way to offer the puzzle is this: There are 2a, 2b, 2c, 8e, 1f, 2g, 2h, 3i, 1k, 4n, 1o, 1p, 1r, 3t, 1u, 1v, 1x, 2y in the spaces. Arrange them so that 1-3 is used in weighing; 2-3 is necessary for religion 3-5, is necessary to success in all undertakings; 3-4 is another word for hope; 5-5 is the age of greatest promise; 4-4 is the part of intelligent men. If the letters have been arranged correctly, you will read 1-3, balance; 2-3, believe; 3-5, energy; 3-4, expect; 5-5, youthful; 4-4, thinking. To make new puzzles for your friends, work backward from words with the proper number of letters to fill the spaces, and describe them so that they are guessable. The necessity for having two words end with the same letter that begins two others, of the proper number of letters, will afford endless enjoyment.

TIDAL WAVES.

Interesting Information About These Mysterious Movements of the Earth's Waters—A Wave at sea.

What of the tidal wave, that mysterious indispensable swelling of the waters that, following the "pull" of the moon, rolls round this globe of ours twice in each twenty-four hours, stemming the outflow of mighty rivers, penetrating far inland wherever access is available, and doing within its short lease of life an amount of beneficial work freely that would beggar the wealthiest monarchy of the world to undertake if it must needs be paid for? Mysterious it may well be called, since, though the passage from zone to zone be so swift, it is, like all other waves, but an undulatory movement of that portion of the sea momentarily influenced by the suasion of the planet—not, as is vulgarly supposed the same mass of water vehemently carried onward for thousands of miles.

To meet a tidal wave at sea is in some parts of the world a grim and unforgettable experience. Floating upon the shining blue plain, with an indolent swelling of the surface just giving a cosy roll to your ship now and then, you suddenly see in the distance a ridge, a knoll of water that advances vast, silent, menacing. Nearer and nearer it comes, rearing its apparently endless curve higher and higher. There is no place to flee from before its face. Neither is there much suspense. For its pace is swift, although it appears so deliberate from the illimitable grandeur of its extent. It is upon the ship. She behaves in accordance with the way she has been caught, and her innate peculiarities. In any case, whatever her bulk, she is hurled forward, upward, backward, downward, as if never again could she regain an even keel, while her crew cling desperately to whatever holding place they may have reached.

Some will have it that these marvelous upliftings of the sea bosom are not tidal waves at all—that they do not belong to that normal ebb and flow of the ocean that owns the sway of the moon. If so they would be met with more frequently than they are at sea, and far more disasters would be placed to their account. This contention seems reasonable, because it is well known that lonely islets, such as St. Helena, Tristan d'Acunha, and Ascension, are visited at irregular intervals by a succession of appaling waves (rollers), that deal havoc among the smaller shipping, and look as if they would overwhelm the land. The suggestion is that these stupendous waves are due to cosmic disturbance, to submarine earthquakes upheaving the ocean bed and causing so vast a displacement of the ocean that its undulations extend for several thousands of miles.—London Spectator.

Crossed Fishes.

Before a recent meeting of the Zoological Club of the University of Chicago a paper was read of the hybrid development of fishes. In some 20 odd cases of hybrids, made by the speaker, between our common marine and fresh water fishes, there was not a single failure of impregnation. This is a new and startling departure of biological investigation, and some important results are expected.

Clearing Vessels of Rats.

Dr. F. Apeny, a Constantinople scientist, says ships and warehouses can be cleared of rats by using carbonic acid gas, which being heavier than air, will sink to the bottom and suffocate them.

ANGLICAN CLERGYMEN

To Gather Next Week at Headlands, Their Resort at Stony Lake.

"Headlands" will be occupied for the first time this season on Monday of next week, when a number of the clergy of the Rural Deanery of Northumberland will gather there for the combined purposes of consultation and diversion. In conjunction with the Rural Deanery the Archdeacon of Peterborough, the Ven T W Allen, of Millbrook, will hold council to arrange for the next Archidiaconal Conference. We learn also that Rev G H Webb, of Colborne, proposes to resign the office of Rural Dean, which he has held with marked ability for upwards of three years, and that the Deanery will be called upon to recommend one of their number to the Bishop for appointment in his place. The Rev. H. Symonds, of Ashburnham, will in all probability be asked to accept the position. The subjects appointed for discussion are:—"The present position of Protestantism," "The Athanasian Creed," "The Week-day Services of the Church," and "Sunday Recreations." Divine services, to which the public generally are invited, will be held at "Headlands" at 8 p.m. on Monday; at 8 a.m. and 5.30 p.m. on Tuesday, and at 8 a.m. on Wednesday. The laymen of the church will be welcome to attend the discussion on Tuesday at 10 a.m. and 2.30 p.m. Besides the Ven T W Allen already mentioned, the clergy expected are: Revs W E Cooper, S T B, Campbellford; W L Armitage, Peterborough; J Gibson, Thornhill; G Scott, Warkworth; W J Creighton, Bobcaygeon; H Symonds, Ashburnham; Rural Dean Webb, Colborne; G Warren, Lakefield. The clergy, during their three days' stay, will be glad to receive callers at any time.—Lakefield News.

DOURO

The Closing Exercises of S. S. No. 8—A Vote of Thanks to the Teacher.

On Thursday afternoon the school of section No. 8, Douro, was very prettily decorated with evergreens and ferns to receive the parents and pupils, who assembled to pay their farewell address to Miss Helen G. Buck, who was leaving in order to continue her studies in Albany, N. Y. A programme was exceptionally well rendered, after which a presentation and address took place. The present was a toilet set, a glove box and a handkerchief box. The address was read by Anastasia Moher and the tokens presented by Willie Armstrong and Josie Condon. The address was as follows:—

To Helen G. Buck:

Dear Teacher,—We, the pupils of S. S. No. 8, Douro, on this the eve of our separation from you, take this opportunity of thanking you for the kind and painstaking interest you have ever shown in us while under your tuition. We are sure the school could not be under better supervision, as your work with us has been faithfully and practically performed, and your manner has ever been kind and courteous. Each pupil has, we believe, found the time spent here both pleasand and profitable, and we sincerely trust that every one will go forward feeling helped and encouraged by the valuable assistance you have given. As a tangible expression of the high esteem in which we hold you, permit us to present you with this token of remembrance. We hope you may sometimes let a stray thought steal back to the short time we passed together as teacher and pupils. Hoping that God may ever guide and protect you in the future as in the past, and wishing you every earthly blessing, we shall now say good-bye—but not forever, we hope.

Signed on behalf of the pupils.

BELLA B. MOHER,
MICHAEL WHIBBS,
MARY FARLEY,
LORETTA MOLONEY.

Miss Buck in reply said:—My dear pupils—Soon the ties which bound us so closely together must be severed. I am indeed very grateful for this tender mark of your affection, and I shall ever carry with me pleasant memories of the time spent in this school. Having happily spent together the past three years and a half of our lives, I feel sorry that these pleasant relations must cease. Although separated from you, the remembrance of you will always occupy a warm place in my affections. The greatest recompense that a teacher can have is to enjoy the affection and esteem of her pupils. I therefore trust to be so remembered by you. During the past three years and a half you have endeared yourselves to me and made teaching enjoyable. The section also, as a whole, have nobly co-operated with me in my work and for such I must express my hearty thanks. Therefore, in conclusion, I wish you all dear pupils, success with your studies and success and honor in life.

Mr Wm Moher, on behalf of the trustees, made a few remarks suitable to the occasion. He referred to the good work performed by Miss Buck during the time she had charge of the school. The school had progressed rapidly and perfect harmony had existed not only between teacher and pupils, but throughout the whole section.

Canadians Sailed for Home.

London, July 5.—A number of members of the first Canadian contingent sent to South Africa sailed for home on the Allan Line steamer Parisian to-day. They complained greatly of the treatment they were subjected to in the field hospitals. Of 1150 Canadian troops, 800 were stricken down with enteric fever, mostly due to the putrid water of Paardeberg.

International League Breaking Up.

Port Huron, July 6.—The International Baseball League is again but a memory. The question now has been definitely settled as far as Port Huron is concerned that baseball cannot exist here in professional form. Last night news was received that Saginaw had quit, and a query was received from Hamilton wanting to know how Port Huron stood. Word was sent back that, though game, the locals were about to pass away, being the last of the American cities to throw up the sponge. The venture has been a losing one, but all of the present series will be played in full.

MULE SENSE.

Liable to Develop Strongly When the Animal Is Abused.

The mule is thought to be an exceedingly dull and unappreciative beast, but there is one on the West Side that is neither dull nor unappreciative. His driver belabored him unmercifully for not pulling a load that was heavy enough for two mules to haul. The man pounded and swore and pounded again; but, do his best, the mule could not budge the wagon, and after several attempts he quit trying.

That exasperated the driver more than ever, for he thought the mule was "playing off," and he fell to beating him harder than ever. Meanwhile the mule would turn his head toward the driver as if trying to see what the next form of punishment would be, but subsequent events showed that his mulish mind was figuring on revenge against the driver.

Doubtless he got the idea of what he would do from the careless way in which the driver fooled about his hind legs. But anyway his muleship seemed very much pleased when he found he was to be released from the wagon, even if it was to give the driver a freer hand with his club. In a few minutes the mule found himself tied to one of the wheels of the wagon and felt the heavy blows of the club, but he took things philosophically and kept one eye on the driver. Presently the driver got in the position the mule was waiting for, when, like a flash of lightning, two heels struck the driver, and when they picked him up it was found an ambulance would be needed to take him home.

The mule seemed to glory in his work, or kick, rather, and perhaps the bystander who laughed to see the driver punished for his brutal treatment of the mule only imagined it, but he felt sure the mule joined in the laugh, for his eyes seemed to say that he was immensely pleased over the play he had made with his heels. But, be that as it may, when the bystander approached the mule he was met with marked demonstrations of friendship, the mule going so far as to try to rub his nose against the bystander's face. When the ambulance came, the mule watched them put his driver into it, and as it drove away he raised his voice in a deafening bray and pranced about as if too happy to enjoy even a good meal of oats, corn and hay. The bystander went away firmly of the belief that mules know a whole lot.—Chicago Chronicle.

IN CONSTANTINOPLE.

Coffee and Kebab Sellers, Bootblacks and Barbers.

The Turkish cafe ji, or coffee seller, is an omnipresent feature of oriental life, and one has but to cry out "Cafe ji!" without even taking the trouble to turn his head, and in a trice a tiny cup of Turkish coffee, black and full of sediment, is, smoking hot, before him. At noon business is particularly brisk, for every clerk and every wayfarer desires to supplement his luncheon of bread and cheese or bread and lettuce or garlic with the beloved beverage.

If at any time you desire to supplement your coffee with a morsel of delicious fish or a tender, juicy kebab, strung on a spit and broiled over a charcoal brasier in the open air, give but the word, and the wandering kebab ji will be only too glad to turn an honest penny and cook your dinner in the sight of all men.

The shoeblacks are perhaps the most persistent of all the street criers. If one has a stationary position, he contents himself with beating a perpetual tattoo on his ornate brass stand, calling lustily meanwhile, "Lustrad ji, lustrad ji!" But if he is a rover he follows a prospective customer for streets, imploring the public to look at those shoes so sadly in need of his attention.

Lastly, but not least in this kaleidoscopic procession of business men, comes the Turkish barber, whose repertory includes also the offices of chiropodist, dentist and leech. Setting up his umbrella in the shade of some friendly tree, he is soon ready to attend to the needs of his patrons. Surrounded by an interested crowd of street gamins, he pulls teeth vi et armis, applies the wily leech with an enthusiasm beautiful to see or rubs, lathers and scrapes his customer, who sits humbly on a stool, holding a brass bowl by both hands under his chin. If the latter is a Turk and wishes his head shaved, the barber is careful to leave a tuft of hair unmolested on the top of his pate long enough for the death angel to grasp him by on his ascent to paradise, while if he is to be shaved or have his nails cut the clippings are carefully preserved to be sent to friends as talismans.—Self Culture Magazine.

Old Fashioned Dinners the Best.

Many people who are constantly trying to concoct new and tempting dishes overstep the mark. People who eat large quantities of the various preserved foods are not always the strongest. The old fashioned meal of roasted or boiled beef served with its own juices, with two plain vegetables and a pudding, was far more wholesome than the eight course dinner which is served nowadays. Few people know the true flavor of potatoes or rice. In this country seasoning too often means salt and pepper only. People in the eastern countries, especially the Turks, make most delightful stews and soups by using a combination of vegetables, cooking them slowly enough to draw out the flavor. Extracts and sauces prepared chemically and mustard and horse radish may be taken now and then, perhaps to advantage; but, as a rule, things of this kind should be avoided or used sparingly.—Ladies' Home Journal.

How Ladies Wrote Long Ago.

There was a time ladies were taught the Italian school of penmanship. They wrote on very thin note paper with a pen not entirely under control and seemingly apt to jib and shy at any word of more than two syllables. This was the age of crossing unexpected parts of the country, so that the trail left at page 3 was was sometimes resumed longitudinally on page 1, again taken up on page 4 and the run finished in various unexpected corners. In those days it must have been a wary and astute reader who could boast never to have missed a postscript. One likes to think that they still exist—these old, old letters—tied up very carefully in the desks of aged bachelors, and that the sight gives memories. The ink fades to yellow, the thin note paper gives way to the piece of red tape which acts as waist belt, but thoughts of this kind remain clear and perfect till the end. There was, too, an early Victorian habit of using colored inks, and a pathetic violet was the only wear for a sentimental pen.

SPLENDID WORK BY THE MOUNTED RIFLES

ROBERTS ON THE CANADIANS

Ottawa, July 7.—Lord Roberts cables Lord Minto as follows: Pretoria, July 6.—I have much pleasure in bringing to your attention the good work done by the first and second Battalions Canadian Mounted Rifles, who have repeatedly been conspicuous for their gallant conduct and soldier like instincts. During the attack by the Boers on Kal Bosch on 22nd June a small party of Pencha Creek men of the 2nd Battalion displayed greatest gallantry and devotion to duty, holding in check a force of Boers by whom they were largely outnumbered. Corp. Morden and Pte. Kerr continued fighting till mortally wounded, Lance-Corp. Mills and Pte. Mills, wounded, continued to fire and hold their ground. On 18th June a part of 1st Battalion under Lieut. Young, when operating with a force under Gen. Hutton to northwest of Pretoria, succeeded in capturing two of the enemies' guns and brought in a herd of cattle and several prisoners without losing a man. Signed, Roberts.

JAPAN IS READY TO SEND A LARGE FORCE

So Replies to Great Britain's Question.

THE BAD NEWS CONFIRMED

London, July 7—A Shanghai despatch received to-day confirms the news of the massacre of the foreign ministers, the women and the children and the European guards after eighteen days of hopeless resistance. In London it is hardly doubted that the worst has happened, though the friends of those who were besieged at Pekin cling to the last slender hope that Sir Robt. Hart, the Inspector General of Customs, who was thoroughly trusted by the Chinese may have managed by the promise of bribes to induce the Boxer leaders to protect the women and children from the violence of the mobs. The taotai or officers in charge of several departments at Shanghai and vicinity now admit that no legation exists in Pekin. They are said to have been exterminated and it is admitted that no foreigners have been left alive. Reports of the atrocities committed by Prince Tuan upon the Chinese are appaling. He had four thousand leading Chinese butchered, it is said, for merely daring to petition him to control the orgie of blood and restrain his followers. The despatch concludes with the announcement that the Ex-Viceroy Chi Li Wing Wen Cho has been killed by the Boxers. Reports from natives who left Pekin on June 24 continue to be received, but they are to a large extent merely variations of the stories already published. A despatch from Taku says that the last message from Edwin H. Conger, the United States Minister at Pekin, brought there by runners, reads as follows: "We are besieged, the provisions are being exhausted and the situation is desperate, the relief force should advance and give us notice by signal." Runners also confirm the reports of the burning of the native city of Pekin.

THE REPORT COMES AGAIN

London, July 7—Jardine Matheson & Co., of Shanghai, have telegraphed to their London house as follows: Shanghai, July 6—The massacre of the foreign ministers, the women, the children and the European guards at Pekin after 13 days of hopeless resistance is confirmed. When the ammunition and food were exhausted the Chinese fiends closed in upon the legation and butchered all those that remained alive. Afterwards they set the legation buildings on fire and the remains of the victims were consumed in the horrible holocaust. The despatch does not state the sources from which the news of this confirmation was received.

RE-ASSURING REPORTS

Shanghai, July 7.—The British legation was standing July 2nd. There are re-assuring reports regarding the lives of the Europeans.

WERE STANDING ON THE THIRD

Washington, July 7.—A cablegram was received at the State Department, dated July 7, saying that the legations were standing on the third instant, and that the recent attack of the Boxers had been slight. They seemed disposed to adopt starvation methods.

JAPAN READY TO SEND FORCES

London, July 7—The Japanese Minister, Kato Takaski, receiced a cable despatch from Tokio this morning giving his Government's reply to Great Britian's question as to whether, with the consent of the other powers, Japan was willing to send large reinforcements to China. Japan replied that she was prepared to carry out the suggestion and that one division would be despatched immediately.

PAGET WHIPPED THE BOERS

He Engaged Dewet and Drove Him From Strong Position.

Steyn and His Officials Fled to the Mountains—Buller Has Now Restored the Railway Line Between Pretoria and Natal—British Force Within 40 Miles of Koomatipoort — Invalided Canadians Coming Home.

London, July 7.—Gen. Paget is moving toward the heart of the country held by De Wet.

Lord Roberts telegraphed to the War Office, under date of Pretoria, July 6, 2.25 p. m., as follows:

"Paget engaged the enemy on July 3 successfully at Pleisirfontein. He drove them out of a very strong position across Leeuwkop to Broncifontein, where he bivouacked for the night. He followed up the enemy, and on the afternoon of July 4 was at Blaauwkopje 15 miles northwest of Bethlehem. He reports that all of Steyn's Government officials except the Treasurer-General, who has gone to Vrede, are at Bethlehem, which has been proclaimed the capital. Steyn himself is reported to have taken flight to the mountains. Buller reports the line to Heidelberg restored, thus completing railway communication between Pretoria and Natal.

Lorenzo Marquez on Friday learned that the Boers are showing fresh activity. A British force is reported within 40 miles of Koomatiport.

BOERS WERE DEFEATED.

Made a Determined Attempt to Retake Ficksburg and Were Whipped.

Maseru, Basutoland, Thursday, July 5.—The Boers made a dtermined attempt to retake Ficksburg (Orange River Colony) yesterday. They attacked the place at midnight. The fighting was short, but fierce, lasting an hour, and the Federals were repulsed.

Fighting for Boer Cattle.

London, July 7.—A special despatch from Pretoria says that an intertribal fight, in which more than 1,000 natives were engaged, is taking place on the plains north of the Boer position. The fight, it is added, is for possession of Boer cattle.

THE INVALIDED CANADIANS.

Some Defend Hospitals, Others Say Some Nurses Robbed Them.

London, July 7.—Thirty Canadian invalids from South Africa, who have been in English hospitals under treatment for wounds and disease, sailed yesterday by the steamship Parisian for Canada. They were all glad to set sail for their native land.

Pte. A. H. Taylor of the 43rd Ottawa and Carleton Rifles, one of the party, in an interview, speaking for his comrades, declared that a wholesale exaggeration had been made in reference to the supposed hospital scandal in South Africa. Pte. Taylor then referred the interviewer to his comrades for confirmation of his statement, and in conversation with several of them confirmatory replies were given.

Another one of the party, however, when interviewed, declared that the patients were robbed by dirty, unprincipled orderlies, acting as nurses. Another said that he had been robbed of curios, money and khaki uniform. He also saw enteric fever patients flung from stretchers in which they were confined and left for hours absolutely unattended.

Of 1,150 Canadians who arrived at Cape Town with the first contingent, only 850 remain on active service. The majority of the remaining 800 had been stricken with enteric fever. This was due to drinking the putrid water at Paardeberg, where they fought so brilliantly.

At Standerton, on July 5, the Strathcona's Horse gave a brilliant account of themselves. In the fighting at Vlaklaagte they killed five of the enemy and captured a number of horses.

Eleven Invalids En Route.

Ottawa, July 7.—A cable was received at the Militia Department last night stating that eleven invalided Canadian soldiers from South Africa left yesterday by the Parisian from Liverpool for home.

STEVENSON FOR VICE-PRESIDENT.

The Democratic National Ticket Completed At Kansas City.

Kansas City, Mo., July 7.—The Democratic National ticket was completed yesterday by the nomination of Adlai E. Stevenson for Vice-President. The nomination was made on the first ballot, State after State joining in the wild scramble to record their support of the winning candidate. It was not accompanied by any such frantic demonstration of approval as had marked the proceedings at previous stages, although the result followed a spirited and at times highly dramatic contest between the advocates of Stevenson, Towne, Hill and the lesser candidates.

Kansas City, Mo., July 7.—The Silver Republican Convention yesterday nominated W. J. Bryan for President by acclamation.

Miss Nixon May Recover.

Orangeville, July 7.—An operation will be performed to-day upon Gertie Nixon, the young lady who was shot by Ottaway Hunter on Dominion Day. Miss Nixon is slightly improved, and as it is thought the spinal cord is not so dangerously injured as at first anticipated there is some hope that her life may be saved.

LIFE..

A question of great interest for intending insurers is which Canadian Life Company is in highest favor with the insuring Canadian public? The following table is a good indicator :

Name of Company.	Commenced Business.	Canadian Business Written in 1899
North American	1881	$4,834,505
Sun Life	1871	3,996,865
Ontario Mutual	1870	3,965,509

Suffered Much—Was Unable to Work or Sleep—Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills Made Him Well.

Too many endure the misery of backache without knowing that it is the unmistakable symptom of kidney disease. As you value your life do not neglect a backache. It tells of the beginning of the most fatal of diseases—Bright's Disease of the kidneys.

Mr. D. C. Simmons, Mabee, Ont., writes :—"My kidneys and back were so bad that I was unable to sleep or work. My urine had sediment like brickdust, and I had to get up three or four times every night.

"I saw Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills advertised, and decided to give them a trial. I have only used one box, and am a well man again. I can saw wood or do any kind of work, and am not bothered with backache or kidney troubles. I also enjoy good rest and sleep, which is a great relief after suffering for eighteen years."

TWO OF THE DEAD MEN.

Events, the independent journal published at Ottawa, has this reference to the "dead men" in the Laurier Cabinet:—

"Mr. Tarte talked too much and too recklessly. His conduct in Paris, where he should never have been sent, has been such as to intensify the feelings of resentment which he raised by his course on the sending of the contingents to South Africa. He has never been recognized by the old Liberals as a good Liberal, and his appointment was resented by them from the very hour when it was announced. The appointment of Mr. Bernier to succeed Sir Henri Joly in the Ministry, lends color to the rumored retirement of Mr. Tarte. It is no secret that Mr. Bernier was long ago spoken of for Cabinet honors, but that he refused to serve in a Ministry of which Mr. Tarte was a member. Either one of two things must, therefore, have taken place. Either Mr. Bernier has changed his mind, or Mr. Tarte is going out. Which one it is will be known shortly, no doubt.

"As for Mr. Sifton, whether he is retired from the Ministry or remains, it is the same thing with him—he is politically dead, and all there is now to be done is to bury him. If his leader does not do so for the good of the party, it is certainthat the people of Manitoba will when the chance comes their way. Months ago, I said that if the Liberals hoped to win at the next election there would have to be a reorganization of the Cabinet, with Sifton and Tarte left out."

Mrs. John Newhall, Peterborough, has been home visiting her sister, the Misses Clark, Yeovil-st.—Port Hope Guide.

Mrs. A. H. Micks returned to-day from a visit to relatives in Warkworth.

"Laurier, a united Canada and a united Empire," is a campaign cry that is used by the Toronto Globe. Let us see. Tarte and Bourassa are Laurier's fast friends. Well, they do not promise a very united Canada or a very united Empire.

Hon. Mr. Stratton, according to a despatch, has been telling the Winnipeg people of the strength the Ross combination has developed. It is stronger than ever, he says. Well, it was never very strong, but with the machine men scattered in the United States the machine-made combination cannot be as strong as it was in that particular line, which was its main source of strength. How strong the Ross Government really is will be demonstrated when it has faced the people and heard the verdict of the province. It has not done that yet, and it will be time enough for the Ministers to boast of its strength when it has.

The Borden whitewash represented in the majority report on the emergency rations scandal was too much for ten of the Liberal members in the House and they voted for the minority report which presented the facts as brought out in evidence and condemned the negligence and mismanagement that made such a scandal possible. The people will be the next to pass judgment on the two reports, and there will be desire on their part to whitewash the men who wasted the people's money on a practically worthless article, and, what is more serious, sent our soldiers away with an emergency food which was not an emergency ration as that term is understood.

FUNERAL OF HON. A.R. DICKIE.

Great Crowd Turned Out to Honor the Departed Statesman.

Amherst, July 7.—The sun shone brightly on the large and solemn assemblage which met yesterday from all parts of the country, from Halifax and the neighboring province, to pay their last tribute of respect to the memory of Hon. A. R. Dickey, one of Cumberland's noblest sons, a man of whom his country was justly proud, and whose loss the people mourn. At 2.30 in the afternoon the large and imposing procession started from the late residence of the deceased to the Church of England, where the body was taken. The streets were lined with people anxious to pay their last respects to the memory of the deceased, while flags at half-mast floated in the breeze and business was suspended.

Arriving at the church, the remains were met by the rector, Rev. V. E. Harris, and the beautiful service of the Church of England read. The remains were subsequently buried in the Highland Cemetery.

It is not saying too much to add that this was the largest and most representative as well as the saddest funeral procession that was ever seen on the streets of Amherst.

DUBE WAS HANGED.

Urgent Petitions Sent to the Premier, Asking for Commutation.

Quebec, July 7.—Strong efforts were put forth by Quebec people to save Dube, who was hanged yesterday from the scaffold. Thursday at a special meeting of the journalists of Quebec, the following resolution was adopted and wired to Sir Wilfrid Laurier: "We hope that the Government will reconsider the case of the condemned man Dube, and grant a commutation of sentence." A large number of prominent citizens also signed and telegraphed a petition to the Premier, to the following effect: "It is the general feeling here that the sentence of David Dube should be commuted. His execution will be very badly felt in Quebec. Save him."

To these petitions Sir Wilfrid replied by wire: "I regret that you have requested me to act arbitrarily and upon sympathy. All revisions of capital sentences are decided upon the merits of each case and upon the rules of justice."

The Electrical Storm.

Hamilton, July 7.—The electrical storm Thursday night did considerable damage. Lightning struck the barns of Mr. George Millen, ex-Reeve of Saltfleet, which are situated on his farm near Harton street. They were burned down, and over 100 tons of hay and some farm implements were destroyed. It also struck the R.H.Y.C. house, foot of Macnab street, and set the place on fire. John Campbell, the caretaker, was severely shocked. Reginald Kennedy's barn was struck and the roof shattered.

Hespeler Is Progressing.

Hespeler, Ont., July 7.—The by-law authorizing the Council of Hespeler to issue debentures for $10,000 to take over the present electric light plant and instal a more extensive system was voted on by the property owners here yesterday, and carried by a vote of 117 to 84. An advisory vote as to town incorporation was also taken and carried by 151 to 75.

Danger of a Rupture.

Kingston, Ont., July 7.—The Electric Street Railway Company, in declining to recognize the union of its employes, has run foul of the Trades and Labor Union. The company is asked to recognize the union, and, if not, other measures will follow.

SUICIDAL DYSPEPSIA

Positively Averted by Using Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Does Dyspepsia kill?

Yes! In thousands of instances Dyspepsia has given the invitation to death.

This may be a startling statement. But it is a true one.

Dyspepsia unchecked causes a melancholy, hopeless feeling. Soon this merges into dark and dreary despondency. Than follows insanity—which is the second stage of despondency.

The invariable tendency of all who suffer from melancholy insanity is to commit suicide. In nine cases out of ten they succeed.

Thus Dyspepsia leads to death.

Now, there's not the least necessity for this. It need not be so, and can be prevented as easily as you fall asleep. There's no secret about how it is done. Simply use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets—one or two after each meal—for a couple of weeks, and the thing is done.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets are a perfectly perfect digestive. They digest the food themselves. They don't need help.

Sometimes Constipation accompanies dyspepsia and indigestion. In each box of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets is a supply of smaller Tablets that are the most perfect bowel regulators ever made. Taken with Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets they fit the bowels to perform their duty which is supplementary to the digestive process.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets have never failed, never will fail, cannot fail to cure any case of Indigestion, Dyspepsia or other stomach trouble. They digest the food, strengthen the stomach, and banish dyspepsia and indigestion, naturally and rapidly.

Imitations

of Dodd's Kidney Pills are legion. The box is imitated, the outside coating and shape of the pills are imitated and the name—Dodd's Kidney Pills is imitated. Imitations are dangerous. The original is safe. Dodd's Kidney Pills have a reputation. Imitators have none or they wouldn't imitate. So they trade on the reputation of Dodd's Kidney Pills. Do not be deceived. There is only one DODD'S. Dodd's is the original. Dodd's is the name to be careful about—

JAPAN TO SUPPRESS CHINESE

Russian Government Agrees to Great Britain's Proposition.

The Eastern Mistress of the Sea to Have a Free Hand in Applying Military Force in China — Ten Days Will Be Required in Which to Land Troops—News of Further Horrors in Pekin From China Sources.

London, July 7.—(2.40 a. m.)—The Russian Government announces that it will give Japan a free hand to apply military force in China. The terms of this consent are summarized in the subjoined despatch from St. Petersburg, under date of July 6: In reply to an inquiry from the Japanese Cabinet regarding the despatch of Japanese troops to China to render aid to the foreigners in Pekin, the Russian Government declared on May 24 that it left the Japanese Government full liberty of action in this connection, and the Tokio Cabinet expressed its readiness to act in full agreement with the other powers. It is in consequence, no doubt, that Japan is preparing to embark 20,000 more troops.

Ten Days Necessary.

Baron Hayashi, the new Japanese Minister, who arrived in London on Friday, said that ten days would probably be required for the carrying of troops to China. His dictated statements contained these sentences:

"If all the conditions Japan asked were conceded, I see no reason why Japan should not undertake the task of suppressing the trouble. The powers are all willing to put down the rebels, but it does not seem that they are agreed on the means."

From these authoritative utterances, it is inferred that Japan does not dominate conditions, and that the concert of the powers is a little tangled.

Further Horrors in Pekin.

Recitals of further horrors in Pekin are gathered by correspondents at Shanghai from Chinese sources, especially of the slaughter in the Chinese and Tartar city of thousands of native Christians, so that the capital reeks with carnage. The ruthless thirst for blood is spreading in all the northern provinces, and wherever there are native Christians, the scenes enacted at the capital are reproduced in miniature.

Legations Are All Dead.

From these stories nothing further comes regarding the legation forces, except a repetition that they are all dead. The correspondents aver that if the Chinese officials at Shanghai wished to throw light on the real state of affairs in the capital, they could do so, and, therefore, the worst stories are accepted as true.

Tuan's Coup.

Prince Tuan's coup d'etat is described by the Shanghai correspondent of The Daily Mail as a sequence to the grand Council of Ministers, at which Yung Lu advocated the suppression of the Boxers promptly.

The Empress gave her whole support to Yung Lu, and a scene of disorder ensued. Prince Tuan passionately intervened, backed by Kang Yi. They rushed from the Council, and their partisans raised the cry, "Down with the foreigners!"

The effect was electrical. The eunuchs, palace officials of all sorts and most of the populace took up the cause of Prince Tuan, and his agents immediately put the Emperor and the Dowager Empress under restraint.

Disaster to Russian Force.

The Che Foo correspondent of The Express, telegraphing on Thursday, says there is no longer any doubt that disaster has overtaken the Russian force of 3,000 that left Tien Tsin for Pekin on June 11. The Russians had a full field gun complement, and carried their own transport. As nothing has been heard from them for 24 days, it is assumed that they have been overwhelmed. Trustworthy news is received to the effect that all the country to the northeast of Pekin is covered with the corpses of men and horses of the western garrison. Fighting of a desperate character took place in the immediate neighborhood of Tien Tsin on June 30.

A despatch from Shanghai to The Daily Telegraph, July 5, says the losses of the allies up to June 29 totalled 600.

Li After the Boxers.

According to The Daily Telegraph's correspondent, in a despatch dated Thursday, United States Consul McWade has great influence with Li Hung Chang, and has persuaded him to issue a proclamation containing detailed instructions to prefects, subprefects and magistrates. It orders them to detect, behead and otherwise severely punish Boxers.

Responsible for Christians.

These officials, the proclamation says, will be held responsible for the safety of the missionaries and native Christians. The Governors of two Quoungs join in the proclamation. Another proclamation issued by Li Hung Chang directs that persons starting any uprising shall be at once beheaded, and that those spreading false rumors shall be severely punished. This latter phrase, in a Chinese sense, means, slow strangulation by means of a wooden collar. Wholesale executions are expected to follow these proclamations.

BRITAIN AND JAPAN.

Prompt Despatch of Japanese Force to Taku Would Be Welcomed.

London, July 7.—In the House of Commons yesterday, the Parliamentary Secretary of the Foreign Office, Mr. William St. John Broderick, announced that the Government of Japan had received assurances that the prompt despatch of a large force to Taku would be welcomed by Her Majesty's Government. No objection, Mr. Broderick added, had been raised by any European power. As the negotiations continued he was unable to say more, but he assured the House that the Government was fully alive to the exigencies of the situation.

To Replace the Legations.

London, July 7.—In connection with the Cabinet meeting a story is current that several foreign officers, officials and other Government representatives will start for China via Vancouver immediately circumstances permit. It is persumed in some quarters they are intended to constitute a diplomatic bureau, which will temporarily take the place of the Pekin legation.

The Insurrection Extending.

Washington, July 7.—A despatch has been received at the State Department from Consul-General Goodnow at Shanghai, dated July 5, in which he says that the situation is serious, and the insurrectionary movement is extending.

Montreal, July 7.—Sir William Hingston, who sails to-day by the Vancouver, will, during his stay in London, receive the honory fellowship of the Royal College of Surgeons of England, an honor never previously accorded to a Canadian.

Baptist Congress Opened.

Winnipeg, July 7.—The Baptist Congress was formally opened yesterday afternoon, when Rev. Dr. Stewart of Toronto preached. The reception of delegates took place last evening.

The Boer delegates, Messrs. Wessels, Fischer and Wolmarans, who have been touring the United States, arrived at Havre, France, on Friday, from New York. They were met by a committee of the propaganda in favor of the independence of the Boer republics.

THE VACANT CHAIR.

When the little family circle is broken and we sit sadly looking upon the vacant chair, we think of the things that perhaps we might have done to keep the loved one with us. Why not think of these things now before it is too late? Is it a kind, loving and hard-working mother who is giving all her strength and efforts for the family well-being and happiness? Is it a delicate, fragile sister; or a weak and ailing wife? Try to give her the tender care she needs. Do not let her fade away for want of earnest effort to preserve and restore her.

An Ohio lady, Mrs. [illegible], living in [illegible], Shelby Co., in a thoughtful letter to Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., says: "My mother had an ovarian tumor which we thought would result in her death, but we commenced using your 'Favorite Prescription,' and before she had taken three bottles she began to improve; she is living to-day and we have given your medicine the credit. My mother was sixty-six years old when the tumor commenced to grow; she is seventy-six now and the tumor is all gone. She had gotten awful large, and her limbs began to swell before she began to use your medicine. I value it so much that I am hardly ever out of it in my house."

This is but one of many thousands of instances in which this matchless "Prescription" has restored such complete health and purification to the distinctly feminine organism as to dispel every possible trace of abnormal or dangerous conditions without resort to surgery or similar objectionable methods. For every form of female weakness and disease it is the supreme specific designed for this one purpose and no other by an educated skilled physician of extraordinary experience in this particular field of practice.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. At all medicine stores.

MR. BLAIR'S RAILWAY BILL

Amendments by Mr. Casey and Mr. McMillan Voted Down.

Hon. Mr. Mulock's Conciliation Bill Passed—It Will Institute No New Branch of the Public Service—The Author of the Bill Has an Editor for the Gazette Who Will Be Acceptable to Both Parties in View.

Ottawa, July 7.—When the House opened this morning but four French-Canadian Liberals were present. Messrs. Bourassa and Monet were seen in close communion with Sir Wilfrid and Whip Taylor, and had something serious in their minds. The something serious was a resolution asking for increased indemnity. But Sir Wilfrid and Speaker Bain queered that cause, for they saw that the orders of the day were not called.

The business of the House passed from the introduction of bills into the consideration of bills, and glided over the orders much to the disgust of Messrs. Bourassa and Monet, who left the House.

The Postoffice Act.

Mr. Mulock introduced his bill to amend the Postoffice Act, and it was read a first time. He explained that it contained but one clause. That clause reads:

The section substituted by section 3 of chapter 20 of the statutes of 1898, for section 26 of the Postoffice Act is amended by inserting after the word "weight" in the twenty-second line, the following words: "For transmission beyond the province or territory wherein they are published, and at the rate of one-eighth of one cent for each pound weight, or any fraction of a pound weight, for transmission within such province or territory."

This means that the postage tax on newspapers as described, is reduced from one-half cent a pound to one-eighth cent a pound.

New Quebec Judges.

When the bill respecting the salaries of Quebec judges came up, Mr. Casgrain moved that it be referred back. This was lost on division, and the bill read a third time.

The Railway Bill.

Mr. Blair's Railway Bill occupied the rest of the morning. The bill as amended by the Railway Committee was not objected to, but Mr. Blair moved two amendments concerning the drainage of lands across railroads that were opposed by a score of members, on the ground that they did not go far enough. Amendments were prompted by Mr. Casey's bill re drainage, and provided that when an application was made by the land owner for a drain across a railroad the Railway Committee of the Privy Council might order the construction of the drain, and might assess the cost, if any, upon the land owner. Further, when the application was made, the Railway Committee could direct an inquiry into the condition of affairs by a civil engineer, and could act on his report without appeal.

Messrs. Casey, McMillan, Sproule, Clancy and others thought the amendments were not strong enough. The opinions of the discontents were embodied in an amendment by Mr. Casey, and a second one by Mr. McMillan.

Mr. Casey's amendment aimed to give every land owner the same right to run a drain across the land of a railway company as he had to drain across the land of another land owner. It was lost on a vote of 65 to 35.

Mr. McMillan's amendment provided that if a railway company or a land owner wished to appeal from the decision of the Railway Committee, the company or the owner could do so to a board of arbitrators, consisting of three, one supplied by the company, one by the owner, and one by the committee. This was lost by a vote of 78 to 29.

Mr. Blair's bill was then given a third reading and passed on to the Senate.

Mr. Bernier's Election.

The election of Hon. M. E. Bernier for St. Hyacinthe was announced.

Mulock's Conciliation Bill.

The whole of the afternoon was devoted to a discussion of Mr. Mulock's conciliation bill. Mr. Mulock, in explaining his bill, said it aimed to aid in the prevention and settlement of trade disputes, and to provide for the publication of statistical information. He declared the New Zealand act was the most coercive one he had ever heard of. It provided that a dispute between employes and employers had to be arbitrated, and the decision of the arbitration was final. By it wages were determined, and employers were forbidden to lock out their men. The New Zealand bill affected civic rights and therefore could not apply to Canada. His own bill was modelled on the conciliation bill of Great Britain, passed in 1896, which had been productive of great good.

Used a Limited Degree.

In June he had cabled Lord Strathcona, asking how the act worked. Lord Strathcona had replied that though the act was used, but in a limited degree, still its general effects were good. The aim of his bill was to have a conciliator appointed by the Minister to settle possible disputes and strikes. The appointment of a conciliator would not be obligatory, but would be made only with the consent of the parties to the dispute. When an arbitration was agreed to, then the Government could authorize the taking of evidence on oath, for the object of getting at the true facts of the dispute. The whole measure presumed consent and was entirely advisory.

No New Branch of Any Service.

As to the labor bureau to be established, Mr. Mulock said it would be attached to some department, and that no new or separate branch of service would be formed. This bureau would issue a monthly gazette of labor statistics dealing with the state of the labor market, accidents to laborers, conciliation cases, pauperism, etc. The gazette would be conducted by an experienced editor on lines similar to those upon which the labor gazette of England was run. The editor would be assisted by a corps of correspondents throughout the country, who would receive a slight remuneration.

A Timely Measure.

Major Beattie thought the bill was a timely measure, and if it did no good it would do no harm. He did not put much faith in Conciliation Committees, after their repeated failures in the London street car strike. Yet the bill meant well, and he would support it.

Says It Is Non-Effective.

Mr. Puttee declared the measure was non-contentious and non-effective. While he was prepared to accept the bill, yet he thought more serious attention should have been given to the matter. The bill enunciated no new principle, and Canada had been the last country to embark on the principle at all. He favored the New Zealand act, because it was the only effective act in existence. The New Zealand act reached down to remove the tiniest industrial irritant. Mr. Mulock's act would remove no irritant.

Difficulty of Conciliation.

It was all right to talk of conciliation in time of peace, but when a dispute was on, the great difficulty was to get men ready to conciliate. He instanced the case of Roger Clute, Q.C., applied conciliation in the Kootenay strike, and had effected a patched-up arrangement that might last for a few months, at the expense of $7,000. But he pointed out that conciliation operated in that case only when both sides were tired out after a eight months' strike.

Mr. Ingram considered the bill a step in the right direction.

Mr. Clarke is Skeptical.

Mr. Clarke twitted Mr. Mulock with unreasoning delay in not bringing this bill down for five and one-half months, and he said he had little faith in the good it would do.

An Editor in View.

Asked by Mr. Ingram who would edit The Gazette, Mr. Mulock said that he had a man in view who had not taken an active part in party politics in Canada, and would be acceptable to both parties.

The bill was passed through committee and read a third time. Its name will be The Conciliation Act of 1900.

After Recess.

After recess the House went into supply, and passed an item of $5,000, providing for the carrying out of regulations concerning the health of employes on public works. These regulations will necessitate the appointment of a new official at a salary of $2,500. Mr. Blair's estimates on the I. C. R. and Quebec projects then engaged the attention of the House.

The House adjourned at 1.40 a.m.

The Senate.

Ottawa, July 7.—In the Senate yesterday Senator Ferguson brought up a scandal in regard to oil contracts let by Mr. Blair for the I.C.R. He declared the tender system had been violated by giving a contract in 1896 to the Galena Oil Co.

Mr. Mills' answer was that the late Government entered into the contracts, and if anything was wrong it was not Mr. Blair's fault. As to the charge that Mr. Blair had not got the 15 per cent. reduction in the price of oil over the prices paid the previous year. Mr. Mills said Mr. Blair claimed he had.

Senator Ferguson said he would move for an inquiry next year, and the matter dropped.

The Senate will sit to-day.

Date of Prorogation.

Ottawa, July 7. — Opinions as to the time when the House will prorogue are rife. There is little business left to be done. Some estimates, the railway subsidies and a few minor bills have yet to be reviewed, and then home, and next Thursday is named for closing, but next Saturday looks a better guess.

DEATH OF FRANKLIN McLEAY.

Eminent Canadian Actor and Athlete Taken off by Brain Fever.

London, July 7.—Franklin McLeay, the Canadian actor, died yesterday morning of brain fever.

The above despatch caused genuine regret in Toronto and in many sections of Ontario where the brilliant young actor was well known. Deceased was of Scotch parentage, born at Watford, Ont. He was educated at Woodstock Baptist College and afterward took a course at Toronto University, obtaining a scholarship. Before graduating he accepted the mastership of modern languages in the Woodstock Collegiate Institute, but during a vacation tour he met the veteran actor, James E. Murdoch, and this meeting changed his whole future career. Murdoch induced him to attend the School of Oratory in Boston, and on leaving there he adopted the stage as a profession. He first joined Wilson Barrett's company, taking small parts, but soon worked himself up to the front rank. Mr. McLeay made a special study of English literature, and was a Shakespearean scholar of some authority. He had played altogether in over forty roles, the most conspicuous of them being Iago, the Bishop and the Deemster; in "Ben-Machree"; the Tetrarch in "Claudian;" Dealatus and Claudius in "Virginius;" Father Christmas in "Silver King;" and Nero and the Bat in "Pharaoh." Mr. McLeay had written for The Forum and other magazines. His last visit to Toronto was two years ago, when he appeared in Wilson Barrett's company. Recently he was playing with Beerbohm Tree in London, and on the occasion of the Ottawa fire Mr. McLeay organized a benefit performance in London, a number of the most noted members of the theatrical profession tendering their service for the event.

Got His Money Back.

Toronto, July 7.—Ernest Gumper, an 11-year-old lad, was brought to the General Hospital yesterday morning from his home in Gilmour, Ont., suffering from a Canadian half-dollar which he had swallowed on Sunday. The coin was located by means of the X-rays about four inches above the entrance to the stomach. An operation was performed and the coin removed. Last night the lad was able to return to his home.

WHEN DOCTORS DISAGREE

What Becomes of the Patient?

Doctors have their hobbies as well as other people and in the treatment of disease often carry them too far for the patient's good. For instance, in the treatment of indigestion or dyspepsia many doctors give bismuth and nothing else, others rely on pepsin to bring their patients through, still another doctor treats stomach troubles with the various vegetable essences and fruit salts.

Now, one or the other of these excellent remedies becomes a hobby with the doctor who has had most success with the particular one in question, because all of them are first class remedies for indigestion and dyspepsia, but not one of them alone is so good as a combination of all of them, such as is found in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, which contain not only vegetable essences and fruit salts, but also the freshest, purest pepsin and bismuth, making altogether a remedy unsurpassed for every form of indigestion, sour stomach, nervous dyspepsia, belching of gas, distress after eating, sleeplessness, headaches, etc.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is not a secret patent nostrum, but you can see for yourself what it is, and knowing this, its success as a dyspepsia cure is not surprising. All druggists recommend and sell them at 50 cents.

Church Parade on Sunday.

It was proposed at a meeting of the officers of the 57th Regiment a few weeks ago to drop the second church parade, but considerable disappointment was evinced in the ranks, and at a meeting of the non-commissioned officers a petition was drawn up to the commanding officer asking for a church parade. The opinion of the men of the regiment being taken it was found in favor, and the commanding officer has been pleased to call a final church parade for Sunday afternoon. The service will be held at St. John's church at 4 o'clock.

—The collector's roll for 1900 has been completed and handed over and the notices are now being served.

THE 57TH OFFICERS AT ANNUAL DINNER

THEY SAY FAREWELL AND MAKE PRESENTATIONS TO OFFICERS RETIRING FROM ACTIVE DUTY

Lt.-Col. Bell and Major Langford Retiring—The D. O. C. Expresses Pleasure With the Regiment — Toasts and Speeches Which Marked a Pleasant Social Gathering.

The annual dinner ofg the officers of the 57th following the inspection of the regiment was held last evening and was a much enjoyed and pleasant affair. It was marked this year by several special features. It was the first social gathering of the officers since Lt. Col. Edwards assumed command of the corps, and it was, also, the one at which Lt.-Col. R. W. Bell and Major Langford, two officers who have been identified with the 57th for a great many years, formally severed their offical connection with it.

The guests of the evening were Lt.-Col. Montizambert, D.O.C., Lt.-Col. R. W. Bell and Major Langford. The other guests were only the officers of sister corps, Mr. Ryerson Ritchie and the press representatives. The visiting officers included Lt.-Col. H. C. Rogers, Surgeon Major Young, Lieut. W. H. Bradburn, Lieut. W. Hall, of the Third Dragoons, Lieut. O. Bradburn and Lieut. W. Ackerman, of the Durham Field Battery, and Lieut. Complin, of the Queen's Own, Toronto.

A most tempting and seasonable menu was served by Mr. H. Long, and after the arduous duties of the afternoon the officers were ready to enjoy the spread. Surgeon Major Halliday, President of the Mess, presided, with Capt. Ritchie, Vice-President, in the vice chair. The toast list was not long, and it was pleasantly punctuated throughout by capital songs and recitations.

"The Queen" was honored as it can only be honored at an officers' mess, and then Lt.-Col Edwards in a few appropriate words, in which he paid a tribute to the abilities of Lt.-Col. Montizambert, offered the health of "the D. O. C.," which was drank with much enthusiasm.

Lt.-Col. Montizanbert, in acknowledging the honor, said he was simply overwhelmed by what had been said, and he could only express his pleasure at being with them once more. He had never got a warmer reception, not only from Col. Edwards, but from the weather. He could say, however, that he had been pleased at everything that he had seen about the 57th, and he hoped they would go on and prosper. He expressed his pleasure at having Lt-Col. Bell present, and said he knew the regiment would not go backward under Lieut.-Col. Edwards. He remarked that if he was called upon to take a command in China—which was most unlikely—he would not ask for any better men to take with him than those who were in the late camp at Kingston. Speaking of the camp, he could tell them without flattering that the Brigade Major (Lt.-Col. Edwards) was most faithful and contributed largely to the success of the camp.

The Adjutant, Capt. Morrow, presented the next toast, that of "The Sister Corps," and this was replied to by Lieut.-Col. H. C. Rogers, of the Dragoons, Lieut. Complin, of the Queen's Own, and Lieut. Bradburn, of the Durham Field Battery.

Major Miller offered the health of Lt.-Col. Bell in a neat speech, in which he referred to that officer's long and honorable connection with the 57th, and the regret that was felt among the officers at the severance of ties which had always been pleasant. Major Miller said he could look back to the old days of Cobourg camps, when Col. Bell was Adjutant and also did a great deal of work as surgeon. Many faces are gone, said Major Miller, and we are only compensated and inspired for the future by the young and energetic officers who are coming in to fill the vacant places.

Before the toast was drank Lt.-Col. Edwards added a few words to what Major Miller had said and presented Lt.-Col. Bell with a handsome marble clock, which as he explained, is the regimental gift in order that everything might be on time. He spoke of the care and fidelity that had marked Lt.-Col. Bell's services in the regiment, and said that the officers felt that he should not retire without something to remind him of his associations with them. He, therefore, asked him to accept from his old brother officers this time piece as a slight token of the good-will they held towards him and of the regret felt at his leaving.

The toast was then drank with three cheers and a tiger.

Lt.-Col Bell said he scarcely knew how to express his gratitude for such kindness. What had been done was more than he expected, but he accepted their handsome gift in the spirit in which he knew it was given. He would ever look to it with [illegible] and as a reminder of happy [illegible] during his twenty-three

QUEENS BIRTHDAY AT BLOEMFONTEIN

BOERS JOINED WITH THE BRITISH IN CELEBRATING THE 24TH

Adam J. Hall Tells of the Celebration of the Queen's Birthday at Bloemfontein —It Was Enthusiastically Entered Into by All.

The following is an extract from a letter received by Mrs. Adam J. Hall from her husband, who is with the Canadian Mounted Rifles. As mentioned, a programme of sports held at Bloemfontein on the 24th of May was enclosed. The programme is quite a novel affair, the style of the card and the typographical work is first class. The prize list for the seventeen events is quite a heavy one, the prizes running from £1 to £5 for first place. The extract tells of the celebration:—

Queen's Birthday, Bloemfontein, May 24th, 1900.

It is nearly a week since I wrote you. I am going into the city this afternoon though for a short time to see what is going on. On the plains here this morning there were about 8,000 men on parade. A review and march past, infantry, mounted infantry, and artillery taking part. Hundreds of people from the city and surrounding country came in to take part in the celebration. To-day, for the first time in nearly fifty years, the 24th has been celebrated by all citizens—Free Staters and British. To-day when three cheers were called for the Queen all men took off their hats and cheered. A big Boer after three cheers had been given, took off his hat and called for three more for the Queen. For nearly ten minutes scenes of wildest enthusiasm were seen on all sides. Then all joined in singing the National Anthem. They are all quite well pleased at being under English rule, and every

THE RANGERS WERE UNDER INSPECTION

THE ANNUAL INSPECTION OF THE 57TH REGIMENT

Lt.-Col. Montizambert, D. O. C., Was the Inspecting Officer—Officers and Men Acquitted Themselves Most Creditably But it Was Hot Work.

The annual inspection of the 57th Regiment took place yesterday afternoon, and Old Sol decided to give the boys a practical demonstration of the heat of the African veldt, or what it really means to have a hot time in the old town. The heat was terrific, but the officers and men were equal to the occasion, and only one or two dropped out through being overcome by the heat. Fortunately the parade was not called early, but it was a scorcher that the soldiers will not soon forget. They have the satisfaction of knowing, however, that they acquitted themselves well, and maintained the good impression that had been made by the excellent work in the company inspections.

The regiment mustered at the drill shed at 4.30, and about five o'clock marched out, headed by the pioneer corps and both bands. George-st. was lined by a great crowd to see the Rangers. The regiment marched well and looked well. Everything was spick and span, and the men showed a spirit and a swing on the march that was soldierly and businesslike. Lt.-Col. Edwards was in command, and the field and staff officers on parade were Major W. J. Miller, Captain Morrow, Adjutant, Major Dennistoun, Paymaster, Surgeon Major Halliday and Chaplain Rev. J. C. Davidson.

Arrived at the inspecting grounds, Howden's field, near the locks, the regiment was formed up in line to receive the inspecting officer. Lt.-Col. Montizambert, attended by Lt. W. H. Bradburn, of the Third Dragoons, as aide-de-camp, rode on the field and was received with the general salute. Then Lieut.-Col. Montizambert passed along the lines and inspected the men. The regiment afterwards marched past in fine style, and were then put through several movements, the attack being especially well executed. The whole inspection was most creditable, and was witnessed by quite a gathering of spectators.

It was about eight o'clock when the regiment reached the drill shed, and after a few remarks by the commanding officer was dismissed.

NOTES OF THE PARADE.

Lt.-Col. Edwards can well feel gratified with the record made on the first inspection under his command.

The regiment was hardly up to strength, but the quality was of the first water.

A herd of steers that had possession of the field when the regiment reached the inspecting grounds threatened on several occasions to attack the invaders, the red coats proving a disturbing object to their vision. However, the quantity of men they saw made them cautious, and they did no more than hover on the flank.

Mr. Gliddon turned out a fine band, and several selections were rendered while the regiment was "standing easy."

Lt.-Col. Bell thinks that the 57th band is not second to any of the regimental bands in Toronto.

The men standing in the sweltering heat of the field could see a small boy sporting himself in the cool waters of the river, and there was an involuntary "Ugh! Ugh!" passed along the ranks, indicative of deep-seated envy.

INSPECTION OF THE 57TH.

The Commanding Officer Acknowledges the Goodwill and Public Spirit of the Manufacturers.

To the Editor of the Review.

Sir,—I desire through your columns to acknowledge the public spirit and goodwill shown by the Canadian General Electric Company, the Wm. Hamilton and the Peter Hamilton Companies, the Lock Works and other manufacturing establishments and employers whom I cannot name in detail, in allowing their men off for the annual inspection of the Regiment, and to thank all those who have, by their courtesy and co-operation in this way, given practical assistance and encouragement to our volunteers. The general recognition of the part that our citizen soldiery are taking in the building up of their country and of the Empire as a whole, puts the service on a better footing than ever before, and helps to stimulate both officers and men to do their part in a worthy way.

Yours truly,

S. B. EDWARDS, Lt.-Col.,
Commanding 57th Reg., P.R.

An Explanation

We have during the last month advertised a Special Sale of the well known Slater Shoes.

We were enabled to do so having bought from the Slater Shoe Company regular lines of shoes stamped to sell at $3.50 and $5.00.

In order to clear out these lines and induce rapid sale we returned a quantity of these shoes to the Slater Shoe Co., and had the price mark removed, otherwise we could not have sold them at other than the stamped prices.

The balance of this line of unstamped Slater Shoes are most excellent value at the price we are asking for them. They deserve an early inspection from buyers.

Money Making Modeling.

Many of the art students who are specializing in clay modeling pay much attention to the commercial end of the work. Greek statues and renaissance friezes may be more inspiring forms of art and necessary for training and cultivation, but a model of a pair of andirons or candlesticks, a section of a mantel or any other bit of house furnishing or finishing that will attract the attention of the manufacturer is more profitable from a money viewpoint.

Such models are usually shown at the public exhibitions of the art schools, and manufacturers on the lookout for new and original designs are willing to pay well for anything that appeals to their liking and that, in their judgment, would sell well. Besides the money that this transaction puts into the pocket and hope that it inspires in the student, it often leads to more orders and establishes a connection which is highly profitable, if making immediate money is a necessity at the end of the course.—New York Press.

A NOTEWORTHY INCIDENT

An incident that attracted more than passing interest was the remarkable cure of Mr. William Boyd, a most honored resident of Wolfe Island, Ont. Mr. Boyd's health had suffered from frailty, which led to an acute attack of rheumatism.

Throughout the autumn and winter of 1897 he suffered most distressingly from rheumatic pains. His constitution became so weakened and the affected parts so painful that he was rendered perfectly helpless. His appetite became impaired and sleep forsook him. To move unaided was an impossibility and the help of an attendant was constantly necessary. A friend whom the treatment had benefited advised Mr. Boyd to give Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure a trial and the advice was acted upon, and to Mr. Boyd's great surprise and joy, a cure was effected after all other treatments had failed. "I used the contents of five bottles," he writes, "and the pains left me entirely. I am now enjoying the very best of health."

Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure is put up in 50 cent bottles, containing ten days' treatment. For sale by all druggists and dealers in medicine. The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

MISS M. H. KINGSLEY.

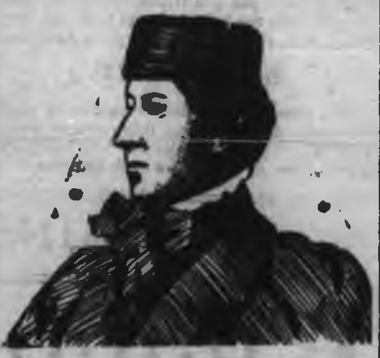
DEATH OF FAMOUS WOMAN SCIENTIST AS A TRANSVAAL NURSE.

The Niece of the Famous Canon Kingsley Was Born With a Love of Travel and Adventure, and Won Fame as an Explorer in the Continent in Which She Died.

Miss Mary H. Kingsley, whose death while serving the British soldiers as a nurse in South Africa was announced with the official news of the fall of Pretoria, was one of the most distinguished women in England and an explorer and scientist of note. While she is not precisely the kind of woman Belot describes in his "Black Venus," her travels in Africa are in many respects comparable with those attributed to the fictional heroine of the French author's romances.

Miss Kingsley is the daughter of Dr. G. H. Kingsley and the niece of the late famous Canon Kingsley. She was born with the love of travel and adventure in her soul, and as a child she took naturally to the study of botany and zoology, finding her laboratory in the fields and in the woods. For one or another reason she did not indulge her passion for penetrating unknown lands and visiting strange peoples until 1893, and in that year she made her first journey to Africa.

Going to St. Paul de Loanda for the primary purpose of studying the flora of Africa, she was soon tempted out of the civilized zone and pushed her way into regions which had never before been traversed by Europeans. In cutting her way through thick brush, conquering primeval forests, camping in swamps and setting up her tents now and then in delightful meadows near sweet streams, this tenderly reared woman found great delight, which was intensified by her discoveries of valuable botanical specimens. With these she returned to England, and they are now the prized possessions of the museums.



MISS KINGSLEY.

It is said that one journey through unknown Africa forever binds the traveller to the desire to return. The rule operated perfectly in the case of Miss Kingsley, for after three years of life in tame and civilized Europe she began to long for the jungle once more. In 1896 she returned to the dark continent, this time to visit Old Calabar and the river of the Niger Coast Protectorate. Thence she made a journey into the country of the elephant and the gorilla, making her way into parts of Africa in which no other explorer had set foot. After several hairbreadth escapes from raging floods and from wild beasts the intrepid traveller managed to reach her friends of the French Protestant mission at Talaguga. Here she spent some weeks in rest with these hospitable Europeans, and then Miss Kingsley undertook a courageous journey across the country to Ogongou on the Remwe River. There, too, she explored regions into which she was the first white person to penetrate.

The results of these journeys and investigations Miss Kingsley has incorporated in her two books, "Travels in West Africa" and "West African Studies." These may be counted among the most interesting contributions to the literature of African exploration. It is now only three years since Miss Kingsley left Africa, and, when she returned thither in the capacity of a nurse, it was surmised at the time that her innate love of the wilds and of adventurous action had much to do with her determination. The work she had planned to do after the war was over in respect to the remarkable botany of that region will now have to be done by other hands than hers.

STERILIZED WINE.

An Electrical Invention of Considerable Commercial Value.

Until recently the experiments made to sterilize liquids by means of electricity have failed, says The Electrical Engineer of London, because the application of continuous current decomposes the liquid and thus renders it useless, while alternating currents of the frequency usually employed are not sufficient to destroy the microbes which are the cause of the fermentation, against which a remedy is sought. "From a note in El Telegrafista Espanol we gather," continues the English journal, "that according to Meritens, all microbes in wine can be killed in a few seconds by the alternating currents of high frequency and low potential, which, at the same time conduces to conserve the wines. Mr. Meritens has made an apparatus which consists of a narrow glass tube through which the wine to be treated passes. Inside the tube there is a series of metal disks. These are insulated, and each is in communication with one of the terminals of an alternating-current dynamo. The speed of the liquid is regulated by a valve, so that it can be subjected to the action of the current for any given time. It is said that the invention has proved of considerable commercial value."

MEMORIAL TO BYRON.

Bronze Bust to Mark the Poet's Birth House.

On Monday 16th May, a memorial to Lord Byron was uncovered in Holles street, London, to mark the site of the house No. 24 in which the poet was born. The memorial is the work of Mr. Taylerson, and is a bronze bust, designed after the family picture at Newstead Abbey, the masonry being executed in Portland stone. The memorial is erected by Mr. John Lewis, of Holles street and Oxford street—a great admirer of the poet's works.

MEMORIAL TO LORD BYRON.

Care of Cage Birds.

How and where will you keep your bird?

That cleanliness is obviously of the first importance and that it is hard to keep fanciful cages free from dirt and parasites is enough to condemn them. Swiss cottages, pagodas and the like, hung with pendants and sparkling with metallic ornaments, are both tasteless and dangerous. The bird will pick at the bright points and dangling spangles until it poisons or chokes itself, and the corners and crinkles are so many lodgings for dirt and vermin. Wooden cages are to be avoided because subject to impurity and brass ones on account of the great danger from verdigris, for the gilding soon wears off; the gleaming wires are also harmful to the bird's eyes, and they offer no contrast with its yellow plumage. If you must have a cage of the popular bell shape, get a painted one, and repaint it as often as seems desirable, says Harper's Bazar.

Where you shall place your canary or other bird to good advantage is a matter to consider carefully. In summer weather he enjoys being out of doors or in an open window, but not in the direct hot sunshine, nor exposed to a shower, nor where dogs or cats, hawks or shrikes can seize him or perhaps frighten him to death. Remember that these little creatures may easily be frightened into illness or even death.

THE WOMAN CRITIC.

SHE IS SOMETIMES A JOY, AND THEN AGAIN SHE ISN'T.

Her Services Lose Their Worth When "Reproof Becomes Reproach"—There Is a Blessing In the Cheery "Critic on the Hearth."

The woman critic invited the confidence. Of course she did not say in so many words, "Do tell me all the story of your life; show me all that is veiled in your heart," but there was that in her manner that led the one with the confidence to bestow to make his confession. There was assurance in the interest that she seemed to feel that she would allow the shadow to show only more plainly the fair. But, ah, welladay, she was just a woman critic! It was not in the least that she meant to be harsh when she assumed the part of the tenderly interested one. It was afterward—afterward, when it occurred to her that it has always been expected of womankind to look down from a high place, removed from the contaminating touch of the world, and frown upon all that did not conform to her ideals.

Now, a gentle woman critic is a very dear thing. But when "reproof becomes reproach" just then, at that very moment, her best efforts begin to lose something of their worth. And then at the end of it all it is sad to know that this may be a truth: Too late we learn—a man must hold his friend, unjudged, accepted, trusted to the end.

Have you ever known the woman who prides herself upon being a "just critic?" She is, too, many times just what she claims to be, but the tempering of justice sometimes with mercy is a very happy thing for this gray old world of ours.

The woman critic is usually a person with very high ideals. It is well to fix one's ideals high, and neither you nor I would ask her to relinquish one of them or put it aside to fix a lesser one in its place. We would only suggest to her that when some one—it may even be one of her children—falls short of all that she expects, she will very gently and tenderly reprove, but not reproach.

Do you chance to know a woman critic who is feared—yes, actually feared—in her own household? No doubt she fancies that she is performing a very worthy mission when she recognizes the fact that, being known as a "just critic" among those that are nearest and dearest to her, they make evident efforts to come up to her expectations. But right here I want to tell the "just critic" a secret. It is possible, you know, for those who are trying to live up to the family critic's demands to resort to deception sometimes. Better, far better, is it for the family critic to be known as generous rather than just.

Women stand beside the wounded and fallen on battlefields, and their strength and courage give, if not life, hope to the unfortunate. In the home there is need of just this same beautiful and delicate strength and— Oh, well, it is quite, quite often looked for in vain. It isn't only the men who have tried on the battlefield and failed who may be counted heroes, even in spite of their failures.

I know a woman critic who has very little patience with those who have failed. She has never failed herself. "He jests at scars that never felt a wound," you know.

Most women are critical. This being a natural bent, it is well to take the propensity in hand quite early and see to it that it does not come to be rather a habit than otherwise to look at things with a critical eye.

The woman who has fallen into the habit of criticising is very apt to see the worst rather than the best in her neighbors. It is so easy to forget the "diamond in the flaw." It is rather a strange thing that when we may draw so much happiness from the good that we may see, just by overlooking the shortcomings, we still persist in keeping our gaze fixed on the flaws. Somehow we so persistently remember the evil that we hear rather than the good and many times make it impossible for folks to reinstate themselves in our eyes by holding ourselves aloof because as critics we are certain we have reached just conclusions.

It has been told so many times I do not need to tell it again, that love will blind even the most critical woman. And this is a power, or a failure of love, if you please to call it the latter, that I am quite sure none of us would take away from love.

There is a sort of criticism that works wonders, but it is of the kind that, though it is honest, is given with the greatest of tact and is prompted only by kindness. The criticism that comes with this preface, "I will tell you for your own good," is usually of the sort that will make one wince under the fire of its dreadful candor.

The "critic on the hearth" is a blessing to the ambitious man. Dear little critic! Her chirp is usually as cheering as is the chirp of the proverbial cricket on the hearth. The chirp of the cricket on the hearth brings good luck, says fairy lore, and good luck brings the chirp of the critic on the hearth say I, for I know one—yes, I am glad to say that I know more than one—cheery hearthstone critic.

Can you think of any more beautiful tribute to a wife than this that has been paid by a number of great men, "My wife has always been my most valued critic?" I am sorry for the man who toils on and on, with the hope in his heart of going up—even if he never does—who cannot look to some bright woman, some woman who is interested in his welfare and has faith in his ability, for a criticism of his work and endeavors.—Margaret Hannis in St. Louis Republic.

Merely Reminiscent.

"Mr. Bush, how long have you been coming to see me?"

"About six years, Miss Julie. Why?"

"Nothing, only I had a little argument with mamma about it this morning. She thought it was seven or eight. Isn't it a beautiful evening?"—Chicago Tribune.

Saving Steps.

It is not always the hardest worker that accomplishes the most; it is the one who plans judiciously and executes with the least waste of energy.

There is a homely proverb that says, "Make your head do the work of your heels." There is a deal of sound sense in it, and comfort, too, if one will but follow it up, for it doesn't hurt the head, and it does rest the heels.

Train the family to save your steps. A too unselfish mother makes selfish children. One who habitually picks up after her household fritters away her energy and does a positive harm to those she would help. Each child should be required to keep his or her things put away in their proper places. Orderliness saves labor. The assistance of the father may well come in at this point to reenforce the mother's authority. When he says, "Do this to save your mother," and practices what he preaches, it begins to be the law of that household to be thoughtful of the overtaxed one.

Little Conveniences.

To misplace a kitchen fork or spoon may burn to a cinder the most carefully prepared dish. The convenient holder lost from its nail may burn the cake or ruin the pie and incense the cook. A cook table full of drawers, where flour, spices, rolling pins end cake cutters are kept, with bake pans hanging over it, will save you miles of travel and hours of time. A small shelf near the stove, kept for extra salt and pepper, will save you 50 miles of travel in ten years. Only for one day count how many times you go from cook table to stove, seasoning various dishes, and you will see what this means. In finding places for kitchen utensils study every time to place them where it will take the fewest steps to reach them.

She Looked the Same.

Mrs. Margaret E. Sangster tells a story of an old time acquaintance who had begun life at the foot of the ladder and had made a good deal of money, but found little time to acquire culture. When his first child was still small, he had a picture of his wife and the baby painted. With each of the eight successors the reigning baby's face was painted over its predecessor's, while the mother's face remained the same. Mrs. Sangster once asked the man why he did not have a new picture of his wife made, as she had changed somewhat with the years. "Oh, she looks just the same to me as sha did then," he replied, pointing to the old time portrait, "and I cannot be having her painted with every baby that comes."

To Clean Sponges.

Don't throw a sponge away because it appears to be good for nothing. Very often old sponges can be cleaned to be as good as new.

Make a strong suds with hot water and soap, dissolving in it a small handful of washing soda. Plunge the sponge into this and allow it to soak for some time. Then knead and rub it until perfectly clean. Rinse in very hot water, then in tepid water until every particle of soap has disappeared. Lay on a clean cloth in the sun to dry.

Care of Shoes.

To alternate in wearing shoes and to keep those not on the feet on wooden lasts helps to keep away those unpleasant creases which will spoil the appearance of shoes which are not treated with this care. The lasts are not expensive. As much care as possible in regard to the change of temperature for patent leather shoes and occasional milk baths help to keep them in good condition. With these shoes, more than the others, the use of the last and the giving of an occasional rest are valuable.

Cleaning Fine Lace.

Occasionally a piece of fancy work on the lace order does not show soil enough to justify sacrificing its lacy newness to the process of washing. If such work is laid away for a week in a heavy book between blue tissue paper, having had rubbed into the soiled places calcined magnesia or pipe clay, it will come out cleaned and brightened by the process. This is a good way to treat Battenberg and point lace work which has become dingy or yellow.—Woman's Home Companion.

A Gloomy
Future

Made Bright, and Health and Vigour Restored by the Use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Headache, backache, sleeplessness, despondency, and irregularities are the result of an exhausted condition of the body and nervous system.

No treatment was ever so efficacious in restoring health, strength, vigour, and vitality as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the great blood builder.

Mrs. J. M. Bradley, 190 Jane street, Ottawa, states:—"For several years I have been gradually running down in health. I became nervous and weak, and worried greatly over my future.

"Hearing of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and the wonderful results it has accomplished in others, I obtained a box and began using it as directed. I began to improve immediately, and am now restored to full health and vigour.

"Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is an excellent remedy, and I can recommend it to all who are weak, nervous, or run down in health."

Copyright, 1900, by the Pan-American Exposition Co.

Standing at the great Electric Tower and looking north, the visitor to the Pan-American Exposition, to be held in Buffalo from May 1 to Nov. 1, 1901, will have before him the Plaza, or square, a beautiful open space 350 by 500 feet. On the opposite, or north, side of the Plaza will be the Propylæa, or monumental, entrances, connected by a curved colonnade 280 feet long. A large building at the left, 341 feet long and 52 feet wide, with towers 164 feet high, will be used for restaurant purposes. This forms also the eastern entrance to the Midway, or pleasure ground, where the visitor may find a collection of novel entertainments that will astonish the most cosmopolitan traveler. Directly across the Plaza from the Restaurant building is a companion structure, forming the entrance to the Stadium, or athletic field, where 25,000 people may be seated to enjoy the high class athletic sports.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Toronto, July 7.—The run of live stock at the stock yards yesterday was fairly large, 69 carloads, composed of 767 cattle, 2,769 hogs, 713 sheep and 80 calves. The quality of fat cattle was fair. The principla feature of the market was the scarcity of good butchers' cattle, of which class there was not enough to supply the demand, that is, steers weighing from 1,025 to 1,100 pounds each. Trade was generally good, much better than on Thursday, with prices firm for all the best grades of butchers and exporters, especially for stable fed, and stable fed finished on grass, and fed on meal while on grass. Our quotations in the table below are for meal fed, that is, choice picked lots, loads of good and medium mixed, while those quoted as common and inferior are for grass fed cattle generally.

AN OPEN LETTER

TO ALL SUFFERERS FROM ANAEMIA AND KINDRED TROUBLES.

Mr. Wm. Wilson, of Sarnia, Tells How He Regained Health After an Illness of Over Two Years.

Mr. William Wilson, who is well known to the citizens of Sarnia, Ont., writes: "It affords me much pleasure to be able to add my testimony to the great benefit that I have derived from your famous Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. It is now a little more than two years since I became afflicted with anaemia. During that time I have received almost continuous treatment from medical men of the highest rank in their profession, yet apparently deriving no benefit. Indeed I continued to grow worse until I became unable to walk. I came to the conclusion that I was deriving no benefit from the treatment and decided to give it up. It then was the question, what shall I try? Having read the testimony of so many who had suffered in a similar manner and who had received great benefit from your Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, I decided to give them a fair trial.

It is now about three months since I commenced to take your pills and to-day I feel almost completely restored. Two weeks after I began to take the pills I felt a decided improvement. Three months ago when I began to take your pills my flesh looked like wax, and my face, feet and legs were badly swollen. These conditions have all disappeared, and to-day my color is natural and my blood vessels full of good, rich blood. It will afford me pleasure to recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to any one suffering from anaemia or kindred ailments."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are praised amongst the highest in the land, as a strengthening and tonic medicine, whether for men, women or children. They are not like other medicines, nor can they be imitated, as is sometimes dishonestly pretended by dealers who offer substitutes. See that the package bears the full name, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, and in case of doubt send direct to Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., who will supply the pills post paid at 50c. per box or $2.50 for six boxes. These pills cure all disorders which arise from impoverished blood, such as muscular weakness, loss of appetite, shortness of breath, pains in the back, nervous headache, early decay, all forms of female weakness, hysteria, paralysis, locomotor ataxia, rheumatism and sciatica.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

A piece of heavy unbleached muslin neatly hemmed should be placed over the flour barrel under the lid to keep out insects and dust.

A few grains of alum in tepid water will relieve those whose hands perspire very much. Wash the hands in tepid water and then place in the alum solution for a few minutes.

In selecting a chair for the hall avoid upholstery or any gilt trimmings. A little flat leather trimming is permissible if the style of the chair demands it, but preferable even to this is the chair or bench all of wood in a simple, severe style.

Students of Bradford College, England, Are to Give the "Agamemnon" of Aeschylus in the Original Greek.

Students of Bradford College, England, are to give the "Agamemnon" of Aeschylus in the original Greek during the last week in June. The play will be performed in an open-air theatre carved out of a chalk pit close to the college grounds, and constructed on the model of ancient Greek theatres. The auditorium and stage buildings were designed and erected by the warden of the college, to whom they belong, in 1890. All the essential features of Greek tragedy will be reproduced except the masks and the high cothurni, which are considered unsuitable to the conditions of modern art.

MONEY IN FROG FARMING.

An Industry Which Promises to Become Profitable in This Country.

Of the forty species of frogs known in the world, America possesses a goodly variety, according to a recent U.S. Government publication, which does not acknowledge that Canada produces finer frogs than does our own country, but contends that in the marshes along the Potomac, the swamps of Louisiana and the marshes and swamps of Pennsylvania and New York are to be found some of the finest and largest frogs. It is confessed, however, says The Philadelphia Record, that our Canadian neighbors understand the art of preparing frogs legs for market in a manner superior to ourselves, and that this has brought the frogs of Canada into popular favor. The Canadians have the best of us in thoroughly understanding the art of skinning and preparing for market, while our frogs are superior both in size and flavor.

It is the belief of those who have given the matter consideration and study that frog farming is sure to become one of the most profitable of all our small industries, and already quite a large number are engaged in raising the "jumpers" for market.

Of the forty known species, the largest is the gigantic "bellower," found in the swamps of Louisiana. This frog grows to four pounds weight, and is one of the choicest for table use. Next to the "bellower" comes the Potomac and New York frogs, both large and of superior flavor. It is, however, true that there is scarcely a State in the Union in which good table frogs cannot be found in abundance.

one says the country will prosper now as never before. That is the view taken by nearly all the people here. The city is very nicely decorated with flags, bunting and numerous other things. To-night a big concert was a grand success. The hall was crowded to the doors. Am sending you programme of sports. On our way up to Springfontein we passed through a country where, but a few months ago, many a brave man lost his life—Naauwpoort Junction, Colesburg, Arundel, Reinsburg Plains. We passed close to the house of a rebel leader named Reinsburg, who is now a captive at Magersfontein Station. I saw the grave and flag of the gallant General Wauchope, who fell with so many of his brave men early in the war. We crossed the Orange River at Norval's Pont, where some time ago the Boers blew up a splendid steel bridge, but its nearly completed. It's a fine structure indeed.

GUESSING AT SHOE VALUES

In what way do you know the values of a shoe?

Every wide awake man, be his a profession or trade, knows the value of his stock in trade.

A broker doesn't offer $100 shares for $50, if they're worth $100, nor does a banker offer a pound sterling for $2 when he knows it to be worth $4.85.

A "SLATER SHOE" when stamped on the sole $5.00 is worth precisely that amount when offered. If it were not worth $5.00 it would not bear such a stamp.

Shoes, even "Slater Shoes," sometimes depreciate in value, perhaps they've been a little too long in the shelves, or are slightly out of date in style or color.

But with a "Slater Shoe" the moment depreciation sets in they are discounted at the factory. A "Slater $5.00 Shoe" is stamped down to $3.50, or a "Slater $3.50 Shoe" is cancelled altogether.

This is done without any parade or cheap sale tactics, and once the stamp is erased from the sole of the shoe, we will no longer RECOGNIZE it. We would NOT GUARANTEE it for a minute.

A "Slater Shoe" must be worth the price stamped on the sole or it would kill the brand.

If it be stamped $5.00 we guarantee $5.00 worth of shoe value in it, and a "Slater $3.50 Shoe" is guaranteed accordingly.

Furthermore a "Slater Shoe" cannot be sold for less than the price stamped on the sole in a SLATE FRAME.

We only sell our goods to one dealer in every town. We give him the exclusive control and in return he gives us HIS BOND not to sell them for less than the STAMPED PRICE.

In this way are our patrons protected by our guarantee and ensured full value for their money.

Mr. R. Neill has the exclusive control of our goods for Peterborough. He has never had any authority to cut the price of the goods, and we are satisfied that he is not cutting the price on genuine "Slater Shoes" as he has given us his bond to sell "Slater Shoes" at only the price STAMPED ON THE SOLE.

To ensure getting a genuine "Slater Shoe," IDENTIFY it by looking at the sole.

years of service in the 57th. He made reference to his long connection with the regiment, and said he had always endeavored to fill his duties, whether as captain, adjutant, major or commanding officer, faithfully and to the best of his ability. He would be only too glad to remain an honorary member of the 57th mess. Speaking of the regiment he said they had admirable material, and with their new commanding officer, their new bandmaster and their magnificent band, which was second to none, with the exception, perhaps, of the 13th of Hamilton, with their new Sergeant-Major and the military spirit which had been aroused, there would be no difficulty in maintaining the regiment in a foremost place among the militia of Canada. He asked for his successor the same hearty co-operation and loyal service that had been given to him.

Surgeon-Major Halliday introduced "The Babies of the Regiment," who were toasted. Lieuts. Cameron and McWilliams, promising looking 'babies," responded.

Major Dennistoun then in a happy vein proposed the health of Major Langford, to whose long and faithful services in the 57th he paid high compliment. His references were enthusiastically endorsed by his brother officers. Major Dennistoun referred to his first entry into the 57th some seventeen years ago, when Captain Langford, as he was then, was the second man to extend to him the hand of welcome, and since then Major Langford and he had been chums. After referring to Major Langford's services as Captain and as Quartermaster, he said Major Langford had been one of the pillars of the 57th. The speaker talked of seventeen years, but Major Langford had been in the regiment since the Fenian raid, and now when the time [illegible] that he must step aside, owing to regulations that had been referred to, it caused sincere regret among his brother officers. But there was one consoling thought and that was that he was not leaving town, and they would have him with them at all their gatherings as an honorary member.

Lieut.-Col. Edwards then rose and also bore testimony to the services Major Langford had given the regiment, and also presented him with an elegant clock. Col. Edwards said Major Dennistown spoke of the old days, and he, too, could go back with a great deal of pleasure to those days, for his associations with Major Langford had ever been pleasant. He felt that, like Col. Bell, Major Langford had given his life in the service of the force. He was glad that Major Langford would continue to be in town and hoped they would always have him with them. He then presented the clock as a mark of the good-will of the officers.

The toast was then honored in royal style, and followed by three rousing cheers and a tiger.

Major Langford thanked them for their kind words and their gift. He had been a member of the regiment longer than any other officer. He had joined when 17 years of age, which was 37 years ago. In 1863 he had joined Kennedy's Infantry Company, and in 1867 when the Battalion was formed he went into the Battalion. In 1869 he became an officer. He said it did not seem long since he had responded to the toast of the "Babies of the Regiment," but now he felt like the grandfather. He could look back with pleasure to the many years he had spent in the regiment, where he had always tried to have the best company. In concluding he again thanked them for their gift, which he supposed he might call his long service medal.

"Our Guest" was drank and briefly acknowledged by Mr. Ryerson Ritchie, President of the Cleveland Board of Trade, who said 35 years ago he had been a private in the Peterborough regiment and had always been interested in it ever since.

"The Press" was honored and acknowledged and then Lt.-Col. Bell proposed the health of Lt.-Col. Edwards, the new commanding officer. This was most enthusiastically received, and Lt.-Col. Edwards made a short reply. He thanked Col. Bell for his kind words, and said he would try to do his duty, having always the incentive that he was backed up by officers who were a credit to the regiment and would be a credit to any regiment in any town or in any country. He remarked with pleasure on the large number of young men who were in the ranks and spoke of the desirability of making an effort to keep a record of all men passing through the regiment so that an effective reserve might be established in case of need.

"Auld Lang Syne" and "God save the Queen" brought the pleasant gathering to a close.

Songs and recitations were given during the evening by Major Dennistown, Capt. Hayes, Rev. J. C. Davidson, Capt. Stevenson, Lieut. McWilliams and Major Miller.

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is a family necessity in the houses of Canada and the United States. 25 cents a bottle. Family size 60 cents.

On Wednesday the International League died a natural death, the holiday games being the last day of a most successful season. The Hams are still enjoying the landscape around Manistee, while the Cockneys are playing exhibition games. The best cities in the league, Hamilton and London, are contented to finish the season in order to keep their strong teams intact. With this aim in view it is likely that a series of games will be arranged between the Hamilton and London teams to determine the Canadian championship. For the edification of local fans exhibition games will be arranged with strong teams in order to keep baseball alive in the Ambitious City. The standing of the clubs at the "wind up" follows:

CANADIANS WITHDRAWN FROM 19TH BRIGADE

REPORT FROM OTTER

Ottawa, July 9—A cable has just been received from Lt. Col. Otter, dated Johanesburg, July 9, reporting that his Battalion has been taken from the 19th Brigade and detailed for duty at Spring. He also reports the following officers and men of the 1st Battalion, Canadian Mounted Rifles, as being wounded in action on the 7th: mortally, Pte. H. B. White, Waterville. N.S.; slightly, Capt. C. M. Nelles, Royal Canadian Dragoons; Pte. T. H. Marriott, Manitoba Dragoons; Pte. H. P. Palmer, R. C. D.; Pte. S. J. McGregor, Brandon Infantry Co.; Pte. R. B. Armstrong, 3rd Reg. C. A. No. 258, Lord, is also included in the casualties. There is no man by the name of Lord in the first Battalion C. M. R., and the name of the man whose Regimental No. is 258 is L. A. Rea who enlisted at Winnipeg.

WOUNDED ON SATURDAY

London, July 9—In the fighting with the Boers east of Broenker Spruit on Saturday, July 7th, two officers, including Capt. Nelles of the Canadian Mounted Regiment, were slightly wounded and 26 men (corps not stated) were wounded.

PRINCE CHING'S MOVE AGAINST THE BOXERS

Inspires Hope that the Foreigners in Pekin Will Escape With Their Lives

FIGHTING AT TIEN TSIN

Tien Tsin, July 9—The Chinese attacked the foreigners today. The allied forces numbered 8,000. Afterwards a force of 10,000 marched to attack the Chinese. The Chinese were compelled to retire. The fire of the Chinese was accurate.

HOPE FOR THE FOREIGNERS

London, July 9—The more hopeful feeling engendered by Saturday's news from Pekin was further strengthened this morning by Rear Admiral Bruce's endorsement of the previous rumors that Prince Ching, who is said to be heading a counter revolution at Pekin and is fighting in behalf of the legations against the usurper, Prince Tuan. If the Admiral's hopes turn out to be well founded this turn of events is of the utmost importance, as it is felt here that in some such division among the Chinese themselves lies the best hope of the safety of the foreigners.

PRINCE CHING ARRIVED AT PEKIN

Brussels, July 9.—A Shanghai despatch received here says a Chinese newspaper asserts that Prince Ching's troops have arrived at Pekin to re-victual the' Europeans and to defend them against the rebels.

SAFE ON THE EIGHTH

Washington, July 9.—The following telegram was received last night by the Minister frgm Shank, Director General of the Imperial Telegraph at Shanghai, dated yesterday, July 8th.—Two legations in Pekin still peeserved; all Ministers safe; Rebellious troops and rioters make attacks but suffer many losses; Imperial troops are protecting but meet with difficulty in doing so. It is feared that food and ammunition are exhausted.

ACCOUNT OF HARD FIGHTING

London, July 9.—The latest news from Tien Tsin is contained in a news agency message dated Friday, July 6, reporting a renewed Chinese attack that morning with 12 guns. The allied forces replied with the guns landed from the British first-class cruiser Terrible, and a mixed force of 10,000 men made a sortie under Casier, of the Naval Brigade, and attacked the Chinese after seven hours fighting. Earlier despatches record severe fighting, notably on July 2nd and 3rd, when the Chinese developed unexpected strength and did considerable damage with artillery. At the bridge near the French settlement there was hard fighting at close quarters, Russians with a Gatling gun eventually compelling the Chinese to retire, though the Russians suffered heavily. The operations, however, were in no way decisive. A later message says the Chinese were full of fight.

MISSIONS LOOTED

Berlin, July 9—The German Consul at Che Foo cables under to-day's date that the American mission at Tsing Li, and the Catholic mission at Ching Cu have been looted. He adds, the Boxers continue their endeavors to incite the population of Che Foo to revolt.

PROTECTING THE LEGATIONS

London, July 9—Rear Admiral Bruce cables that there are grounds for hoping that Prince Ching with his army is at Pekin protecting the Legations against Prince Tuan's army and the Boxers.

GOOD WORDS FROM ROBERTS

Splendid Tribute to the Gallant Conduct of Canadians.

Wounded Yet They Fought On—Two Men Continued the Fighting at Great Odds Till Mortally Wounded—Gen. Buller Has Arrived at Pretoria and Is Looking Well—800 Yeomanry and Derbyshires Prisoners Set Free.

Ottawa, July 9.—Just before 1 o'clock on Saturday Dr. Borden read in the House of Commons the following despatch from Lord Roberts:

"Pretoria, July 6.—I have much pleasure in bringing to Your Excellency's notice the good work done by the First and Second Battalions, Canadian Mounted Rifles, who have been repeatedly conspicuous for their gallant conduct and soldierlike instincts. During the attack by the Boers on Katbosch on the 22nd of June, a small party of Pincher's Creek men of the 1nd Battalion displayed the greatest gallantry and devotion to duty, holding in check a force of Boers by whom they were largely outnumbered. Corporal Morden and Private Kerr continued fighting till mortally wounded. Lance-Corporal Miles and Private Miles, wounded, continued to fire and hold their ground.

"On the 18th of June a party of the First Battalion, under Lieutenant Young, when operating with a force under Gen. Hutton, to the Northwest of Pretoria, succeeded in capturing two of the enemy's guns and brought in a herd of cattle and several prisoners without losing a man. (Signed) Roberts."

BULLER AT PRETORIA.

The Boers Set 800 Prisoners Free—Attack on a Convoy Repulsed.

London, July 9.—The War Office has issued the following despatch from Lord Roberts:

"Pretoria, July 7.—Gen. Buller arrived this morning. He looked very well, and is apparently none the worse for the hard work he has gone through during the past eight months."

Boers Set 800 Prisoners Free.

Another despatch has been received by the War Office, from Lord Roberts, as follows:

"Pretoria, July 7.—The general commanding Ladysmith telegraphs that 800 British prisoners, belonging to the Yeomanry and the Derbyshires have been put over the Natal border, from Secretary Reitz's advance party, and have reached Acton Homes, en route for Ladysmith. No officers accompany the men."

Attack on a Convoy Repulsed.

Lord Roberts also transmits the following:

"Vlakenfontein, July 7.—A convoy passed Greylingstad to-day. Before reaching a defile in the hills the Boers shelled the advancing columns. Col. Thorneycroft's men occupied the hills to the right of the narrow pass, keeping the Boers back on a ridge to the left, while the infantry deployed in plain sight, and the artillery occupied a position under the ridge. The Boers worked their guns rapidly, but the howitzers replied with effect, and drove back the Boers over the ridge. The convoy passed safely, and when the force began to retire the Boers again advanced with a gun on the ridge. The British left field battery replied. The first shell forced the gun to retire."

ATTACK ON BULLER.

Part of Hutton's Force Also Had a Hot Fight and a Section of Strathcona's Were Attacked.

London, July 9.—Late news from South Africa reports that the Boers ineffectually attacked General Buller's escort between Standerton and Heidelberg on Saturday, as he was returning from a visit to Lord Roberts.

The Boers attacked Fickburg garrison at midnight on Tuesday, but were driven off after 45 minutes' fighting.

Gen. Brabant on July 5 occupied Dornberg, between Senekal and Winburg, which served as a base for bands assailing convoys.

Hutton's Troops in a Fight.

Col. Mahon of General Hutton's mounted troops on July 6 and 7 engaged 3,000 Boers east of Bronkerspruit and drove them off. The British casualties number 33.

Commandant Limmer tried to recapture Rustenburg on July 5, but was driven back.

Strathcona's Attacked.

Thirty-four of Strathcona's Horse, under Lieut. Anderson, were attacked by [illegible] Boers east of Standerton on July 6. The British soon took possession of a kopje on which they [illegible] the attack of the [illegible]

A little borax water boiled in the coffeepot twice a week for 15 minutes sweetens and purifies it.

In making bread rub a little sweet lard or butter over the top as often as it is kneaded, and it will not only rise more quickly, but will have a soft, delicious crust when baked.

Rhubarb jam is particularly nice if a little ginger be added to the preserve. A half portion of chopped pineapple also makes a delicious confection, giving its own flavor to the rhubarb. But rhubarb jam tart—as natural, as it were—is superlatively good eating served with cream.

Whipped cream makes a dainty fish sauce appealing to the eye and the palate. Whip the cream, which should be cold and 24 hours old, to a thick substance, far beyond froth, yet not turned to butter, remembering that it doubles in bulk by this operation, add a few drops of anchovy sauce and serve cold.

A NOTEWORTHY INCIDENT
An incident that attracted more than passing interest was the remarkable cure of Mr. William Boyd, a most honored resident of Wolfe Island, Ont. Mr. Boyd's health had suffered from frailty, which led to an acute attack of rheumatism.
Throughout the autumn and winter of 1897 he suffered most distressingly from rheumatic pains. His constitution became so weakened and the affected parts so painful that he was rendered perfectly helpless. His appetite became impaired and sleep forsook him. To move unaided was an impossibility and the help of an attendant was constantly necessary. A friend whom the treatment had benefited advised Mr. Boyd to give Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure a trial and the advice was acted upon, and to Mr. Boyd's great surprise and joy, a cure was effected after all other treatments had failed. "I used the contents of five bottles," he writes, "and the pains left me entirely. I am now enjoying the very best of health."
Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure is put up in 50 cent bottles, containing ten days' treatment. For sale by all druggists and dealers in medicine. The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

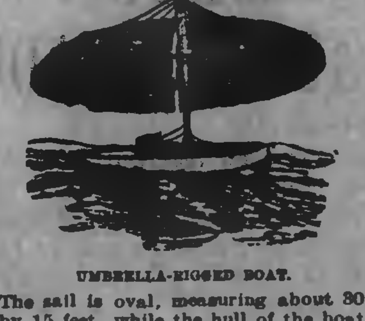
UMBRELLA-RIGGED BOAT.

Queer Craft Constructed by an English Inventor Who Claims Great Things For It.

The queer rig of a boat which has appeared in the harbors of Southampton and Cowes is exciting a good deal of attention. The sail has the general appearance of an umbrella, of which the mast is the handle. It does not open and shut like an umbrella, however, but like two fans, extending fore and aft from the mast.



UMBRELLA-RIGGED BOAT.

The sail is oval, measuring about 30 by 15 feet, while the hull of the boat is only 17 feet long. With ordinary rig a boat of this size would carry 20 square yards of canvas, but this sail measures nearly twice as much.

The boat is very swift, partly because the wind has a tendency to lift it instead of careening it to leeward and so skin friction is diminished. The sail is not movable about the mast, but the mast itself rotates.

The rig is the invention of Messrs. Perry and Pilcher, of London, and Wilson, of Dublin. Its success has induced Mr. Selwyn Edwards to order from Thornycroft, the shipbuilder, a 400-foot vessel on the same plan.

Shakespeare's House.

The house in which the master bard was born is located in Henley street, Stratford-upon-Avon, England. Washington Irving said of this famous abode of genius: "It is a small, mean looking edifice of wood and plaster, a true nestling place of genius, which seems to delight in hatching its offspring in by corners. The walls of its squalid chambers are covered with names and inscriptions in every language, by pilgrims of all nations, ranks and conditions, from the prince to the peasant, and present a simple but striking instance of the spontaneous and universal homage of mankind to the great poet of nature."

Several years ago the house was purchased by subscription with a view to the careful preservation of it and of its contents for the inspection of future generations.

Not In Love.

The cashier of a French bank enters the private office of the president, nervous and agitated.

"Sir," he says, "I have something on my mind which I feel myself compelled to disclose, though for months I have striven to conceal it." The president turns pale. "The fact is, I—love your daughter!"

The president breathes more freely.

"Ah, you love my daughter! Do you ever make any errors in your books or in counting your cash—find yourself abstracted, eh?"

"Never, sir," with pride.

"Then, sir, I must decline to encourage your suit. You are not really in love."—Paris Galois.

SIBERIAN PRODUCE.

THE GETTING OF CHINESE MARKET FOR IT RUSSIA'S AIM.

Will "The Bear" Get the Northern Provinces of China Out of the Present Troubles—His Objects Are Certainly Different From Those of His International Neighbors, the Great Powers.

What is to be the ending of the present troubles in China? It is a question that is taxing the ingenuity of the statesmen of all the great powers of the world to answer, and will in all probability tax their powers of diplomacy to the utmost to settle, if, indeed, it is settled without recourse to international war.

Every nation, with the possible exception of Russian allies, is looking with distrust upon Russia. Eastern representatives of the great powers are straining their ears to catch the meaning of every disjointed sentence that comes from behind the closed doors of the Dowager-Empress' pavilion at Pekin, for the Dowager-Empress is known to favor Russia of all the powers that are interested in China.

England, Germany and Japan would seemingly prefer to have China remain the great populous empire that she is to-day, with open ports to the trade of all nations, rather than that she be divided between the different nations. Such, too, is the position of the United States, though the foreign policy of that government will probably prevent any direct interference with a division of the empire.

England, America, Germany, Russia and Japan are to-day the five great and growing commercial nations of the world. England seeks a market in which she can both buy and sell to advantage, while America, Germany, Russia and Japan are seeking purchasers for surplus products. All five have found in China in recent years a worthy field for their best commercial efforts, and the results have been a rapidly-increasing trade with China from each of these nations.

France is to be considered more as an ally of Russia than otherwise. While that republic has much at stake it has but little to fear from Russian influence as long as the friendship between her and Russia remains unbroken. In fact, with French interests lying as they do in the southern portion of the empire, and with as strong an ally as Russia in favor at Pekin, if not in actual control, France would be in a position to expect much more than she could get if the empire remains undivided. Then, too, French capitalists are heavily interested in Siberia and Russia, and any extension of Russian power and influence in the far east will be to their benefit. At the present time the returns on these investments have been but meagre because of a lack of profitable markets, but with an increased demand from China, such as would be sure to follow an increase in Russian influence, these French capitalists would find greatly increased dividends.

DOWAGER EMPRESS' PAVILION IN PEKIN PALACE.

Russia, great and powerful as she is, has never shown an inclination to enter into commercial competition with the outside world to any great extent. Siberia is a growing colony, capable of vast production, and for these a market must be found. If that market can be made an inclusive one so much the better for Russia, and, despite all guarantees to the contrary, such the northern provinces of China would practically become if they once fell under the influence of the Czar's Government.

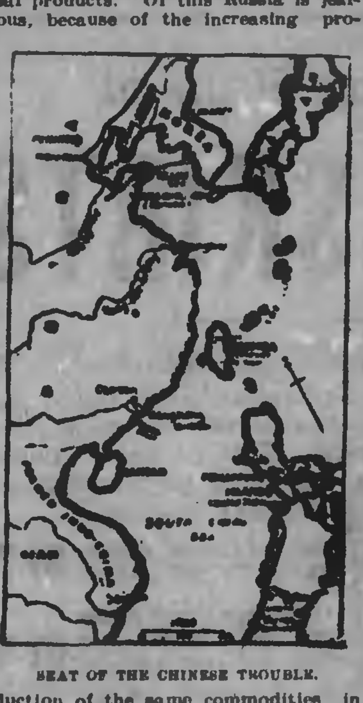
Two hundred thousand farmers are annually arriving in Siberia to increase a population that already numbers more than 8,000,000. This immigration to the east is being encouraged by the Government at St. Petersburg by giving to these emigrants free transportation and the use of some 40 acres of land for a stated period.

The present population of Siberia is producing 2,000,000 metric tons of cereals, of which from one-third to one-half is exported. The same population can produce some five times the amount of cereals that is now being produced, the increase being practically all for export. But this is only the beginning. Figuring on the basis of the population of Russia in Europe Siberia is capable of sustaining a population of 80,000,000 people, while the Government has still at its disposal 184,000,000,000 acres of cereal-producing lands for the use of emigrant farmers.

There are in Russia at the present time an excess of 1,500,000 births over deaths annually, and Siberia is the outlet for this overflow. If Siberia is to continue to afford sustenance for this rapidly-increasing population she must have a market for her products, and the Russian policy has been to seek only such markets as are free from competition. In fact, in the competitive markets of the world Russia has never made great progress. Where she has sold to advantage have been places where natural or artificial causes have given her a practical monopoly.

Northern China is naturally the market for Siberian products. With the completion of the Siberian Railway the natural conditions will be but supplemented by powerful artificial assistance. If, added to these, Russian influence becomes supreme in north China it would in all probability mean the practical closing of what are now profitable and growing markets for America, England, Germany and Japan.

America has found in China a profitable market for her manufactured cotton. Of this market Russia is jealous, because the manufacture of cotton goods is a rapidly-growing industry in the land of the Czar, and the raising of cotton a growing industry in Russian Central Asia, trans-Caucasia and Turkestan. America has enjoyed a growing trade in petroleum. Of this Russia is jealous, because she is producing an ever-increasing quantity of petroleum, although of an acknowledged inferior quality. America has enjoyed an increasing trade in flour and other cereal products. Of this Russia is jealous, because of the increasing production of the same commodities in Siberia for which a market is necessary.



SEAT OF THE CHINESE TROUBLE.

At the present time China is buying about $150,000,000 worth of imports each year. Of this amount but one-third comes from Asiatic countries. Of the remaining $100,000,000 America is supplying about $15,000,000; Great Britain about $25,000,000; all the Russias, including Siberia, $9,000,000. Of the Asiatic imports Japan, including Formosa, supplied about $15,000,000; India about $13,000,000. In addition to this Hong Kong has supplied China with vast quantities of goods that are accounted for in both the Asiatic and non-Asiatic totals. Nearly $70,000,000 worth of merchandise flow through this great clearing house each year for different ports of entry in China. As Hong Kong has no custom house it is impossible to determine where this vast quantity of merchandise comes from, but England supplies by far the greater percentage of it, with America in second place.

It is a leading place in this vast trade that Russia is working for. It is to assist in securing this that the diplomats of the Czar have studied the intrigues of eastern diplomacy. They have patronized those in power in Pekin, and where patronage would not suffice they have used force, but with a hand so cleverly gloved as to permit of no seeming harshness. The full realization of their plans may bring about war, but if it is to be a war with little Japan only the Czar's Government are seemingly fearless of the result, but if it is to be war with England as an ally of Japan the bear may hesitate, even though England is at present engaged in South Africa. But the Chinese porridge is boiling rapidly, and will soon be ready for serving to those able to demand a share in the division.

In order to enforce order, if they have no ulterior objects, or to look after their own share if need be, the powers mentioned have an enormous strength in Chinese waters. Within a few days they could have the following number of men and guns at the very gates of the Chinese capital:

THE INFINITIES.

Time and Space and Number flow
Ever onward; none shall know
Whence they come or where they go.

None shall know; they will not bend
Their majestic course nor blend,
Infinite, with things that end.

None shall know; the mind may sound
Dreaming voids and find no bound
To the wall-less prison round.

Winding sheet of woven shade,
None shall e'er thy word evade;
None shall know; 'tis thou hast said.

None, unless man, too, may climb
Clear of bounds till Thought sublime
Conquer Number, Space and Time.

AN AFFABLE HIGHWAYMAN.

A Traveling Man's Story of a Night Ride In Louisiana.

"I once saved $1,800 and my gold watch by giving a highwayman two drinks of whisky at just the proper time," said Bassell Howell of Rochester at the Coates House.

"It happened several years ago, when I was selling office furniture in Louisiana, and one night I missed a ferryboat on the Mississippi river and had to take a 20 mile drive in the dead of night through St. Landry parish. I went to the livery stable in a great rush just before midnight. I had to be in Opelousas, La., by early morning, and I was anxious to get started. The keeper of the livery stable said to me in reply to my demand for a rig:

"'Yes, you can have the horse and buggy, but I don't know who you'll get to drive you over there. It's a pretty rough country.'

"After much difficulty I found a negro who was willing to make the drive. There was no doubt about the roughness of the road. There were lumps of rock and other kinds of lumps, and part of the way lay through a heavily wooded country. The night was black as pitch. My driver carried on a cheerful conversation about men who had been waylaid, robbed and murdered along this very road, and I hid my $1,800 in an inside pocket.

"Suddenly there were a shout and a curse, and our horse was stopped by a rough hand at the bridle. I remember that I shivered and that the driver grew limp and dropped the reins. But I had been dealing with country politicians, and I put on my jollying clothes from force of habit.

"'See here, old man,' I said in my heartiest manner, 'let's have a drink!'

"I pulled out my whisky bottle and held it up where the light of his lantern shone on it. He recognized the red color of the real stuff, and he stepped up to the wagon and took the bottle from my hand. The long pull which he took worked a change in the man. He seemed to be a pretty good fellow. He accepted my invitation to climb up into the buggy, and he rode along with me. I kept him busy with conversation.

"The sky in the east began to grow gray, and we were nearing the town of Opelousas. The highwayman realized this, and he made a demand for my money. I pulled $8 out of my pocket.

"'Here, take it,' I said; 'it's all I have, but you'd better have another drink before you go.'

"He looked at me, and I looked back at him frankly. During our short ride I had established a quick friendship. He seemed to think that it was unfair to take the last cent from a friend. So he took another drink, handed me back the bottle and jumped from the buggy.

"'You're a good fellow, friend,' he shouted. 'Goodby.'

"And he disappeared in the woods."—Kansas City Journal.

BUILDING UP A MAN.

THE ARTIFICIAL THINGS THAT COULD BE USED ON HIM.

To Make a Human Being That Would Be as Nearly Artificial as It Could Be and Live Would Cost About $1,000.

"What is the cost of an artificial man—that is, a man who is as nearly artificial as he can be and live?"

"Well," answered the maker of artificial limbs, "that would depend upon how much he could pay for reconstruction. Assuming that you were the man and that you had come to me from the hands of the surgeon all ready to be trimmed up, I would begin by putting you on your feet—or, rather, putting your feet on you. If you were satisfied to go stumping about the world on pin legs, I could fit you a pair for any price from $15 to $50.

"But if you wanted a really artistic pair of legs, with knee joint, ankle joint, rubber buffers and a springy and elastic foot, they would cost you from $150 to $300. But you could stand and walk with these so as to deceive a drillmaster, and you could wear the two easily. Dancing and riding would not be too difficult for you after a little practice. If you had lost only a foot, I could replace it for from $25 to $50, made to measure.

"Then you would want a pair of useful arms, with hands and various necessary implements. I am supposing that you had lost your arms above the elbow and wanted them replaced with working members. Both of them would cost you from $125 to $225. They would have flexible hands and wrists and elbow joints. With these hands you could hold a pen or pick up small objects and shake hands with a person without his knowing what he was grasping.

"But you could not do any hard work with them. You would therefore need several instruments which you could screw into the arm after having removed the hand. There would be a fork, which would cost $3; a knife at the same price; a spoon, same price; a hook at $2.50 and a vise at $2.50. If you wanted to play cards you could have a card holder at $2, or a cue holder for billiard playing for $1.50, and a rein holder for driving at $1.50.

"I could furnish you with a hammer, saw, clothes brush and many other useful things—call it $50 for the lot. This would make a good sized total for the arms complete, but when you consider that a single finger of the first grade would cost you $15 the whole paraphernalia for from $150 to $250 is not so dear.

"Of course your head would need a lot of repairing. Your hair would be torn off, and I would have to fit you with a wig. This I could do well for about $30, but if you wanted a really first class article that would not be detached as a wig I would be obliged to charge you from $100 to $150 for it.

"Then there are your teeth. You would not have one left, according to the specifications, and your palate would be smashed. I could replace the palate for from $5 to $15. The teeth I could do for $10, but you would take no comfort with them. They would never be really easy in your mouth and you would lose flesh worrying about breaking them. Better give me $40 for them, and then you would have no fear of their falling out or breaking.

"Then there's your nose. Of course that is shaved off. The nose, as I need not remind you, is an important feature and requires great care to be made to fit the rest of the face. It is possible for me to make a nose for you for $10, but it would pay you better to give me $100 and have a nasal organ that would do you proud and last as long as you lived, a really artistic production.

"Both eyes have been gouged out. I have ready made eyes for almost any figure you might wish to name. But if you have the money to spare and want a particular shade or color I would be obliged to charge you from $20 to $25 for the pair. They would be the best the market affords, however, and an exact reproduction of the eyes you lost and made of the best material.

"Then you would want a pair of ears. I would build these up of aluminium and wax, paint them like flesh and fasten them with mastic for a fee of from $40 to $100, according to your order.

"Your ear drums having been destroyed, I would have to replace them. This would cost you from $5 to $15. They are perishable and would have to be renewed frequently.

"That is about all I could do for you unless you wanted a silver tube put in your windpipe. This would cost you $1.50 if you could not afford more and from that up to $35.

"Make a list of the parts, and you see they will foot up something like this:

Two legs and feet................................	$300
Two arms and hands............................	225
Set of instruments...............................	50
Wig	150
Thirty-two teeth	40
Palate	15
Nose	100
Pair of eyes	25
Pair of ears...	100
Ear drums	15
Tube for windpipe................................	35
Total renovation	$1,055

"Then you would be a work of art."—New York Press.

Not Bloodhounds.

"We have for many years past," says the New Orleans States, "been protesting against the practice not only of the northern, but even of the southern, press, whose editors should know better, of speaking of the dogs used in pursuing criminals—or runaway slaves before the war—as 'bloodhounds.' It is extremely doubtful if any of them whatever ever saw a bloodhound, for the term is no [illegible] you have. The dogs used for this purpose are the common fox or deer hound, probably the most timid of all dogs, and are [illegible] for their keenness of scent. Their owner or trainer simply follows their cry and thus comes up with the fugitive. The latter when overtaken has no difficulty in keeping off the dogs, which bay around him, but keep at a safe distance from knife or stick until the hunter comes up."

The Prophets.

Teddy—Say, Ned, what do you have that Bible over your desk for?

Ned—Oh, principally for reference.

Teddy—Why, does it say anything about this particular business?

Ned—Certainly; not only gives general rules, but tells all about the profits.—New York Tribune.

RENAN AS A REPORTER.

His Views on Women Criticised by Gaston Deschamps.

"Write an article, sir, upon Abou-Mohammed-al-Cassem ben Ali ben Mohammed ben Othman."

That was the assignment given in 1855 to a young man who was looking for a place on a Paris newspaper.

"In short, sir," said he, smiling, "you want an article on Hariri?"

"Precisely," said the editor. "Go ahead."

So he went ahead and wrote a splendid story on the great sheik who flourished in the eleventh century. But in order not to discourage the bank clerks and blacksmiths who "dream of glory in the domain of journalism" it may be well to whisper the fact in strict confidence that the young man in question was Ernest Renan and that the newspaper was the Journal des Debats.

Renan's next assignment was the Paris exposition of 1855. He treated the great fair with severity and even heaped ridicule upon it. He despised expositions. For him they were the height of frivolity, tending toward degeneracy. And, holy Susan, he blamed the women for them all! "There is no doubt whatever," said he, "that at the present time feminine instincts occupy more space in the general physiognomy of the world than they did formerly. The world is more exclusively preoccupied just now with frivolities that formerly were looked upon as the exclusive property of women. Instead of asking men for great achievements, bold enterprises and heroic labors the women ask them for riches only, to satisfy a vulgar taste. The general movement of the world has put itself at the service of the instincts of woman, not those splendid instincts through which they display, more clearly than men can perhaps, the divine ideal of our nature, but the lower instincts, which form the least noble portion of her vocation."

Gaston Deschamps of the Figaro, commenting upon Renan's remarks, recently charged the woman of the present day with doing her utmost "to gather the apples, all the apples, that Eve the blond left hanging on the branches of the forbidden tree."

BEFORE AND AFTER.

The Change a Year May Show In a Married Man.

This is a year before marriage. He is making her a call. He is at the front door ringing for her. He has been thinking all day of her. These are his boots newly blacked, collar spotless, his form ditto outside, his gloves drawn on for the first time, his hair newly parted and oiled, his face newly shaven. His heart palpitates for her. His nerves are nervous for her. He fears she may be out or that her parents may object or, worse than that, some other fellow may be there with her. The door opens. She is there and alone. He is happy.

This is a year after marriage. He is ringing at the door. His face is unshaven, his collar much worn, his boots unblacked, his hair unbrushed. He rings again in exactly ten seconds. He gives the bell a short, petulant pull. He is thinking of her. He is grumbling that she doesn't answer it sooner. He has not all day been thinking of her. He has gone further maybe and fared worse. Now she opens it. He pushes past her and remarks, "Takes you forever to answer that bell."

His unbrushed boots sound sullen as he ascends the stairs. She follows meekly after. He dashes into the room and around the house and sings out, "Isn't dinner ready yet?" She bids him to be patient for a moment, but he won't—because dinner isn't ready within one minute after he gets home; because this is the one year after marriage; because the bloom is off the rye, the down rubbed off the peach and various other considerations; because it's the way of the world, of man, of matrimony. O tempora! O Moses! O matrimony!—Pearson's Weekly.

The Cultivated Rubber Tree.

Native Indian gatherers, intent only upon present gain, cannot be expected to be more thoughtful of the future of a tree than they are of their own, and they either cut so deep as to injure the woody fiber of the tree or leave it with great gaping wounds that cannot heal. It is inadvisable to draw too heavily from the tree for other reasons than the direct injury that results from the loss of its life sustaining fluid. Owing to the soft nature of the tree a clean incision made in it will drain but a comparatively small area before the swelling wood closes the wound and stops the flow. In order to drain the trees more completely, the shortsighted natives do not stop at making a cut, but chop out a piece of the bark to prevent the wound filling up. Such an injury soon renders the strongest tree a prey to water, fermentation, ants and beetles that enter the wound and get under the bark.

Teeth in the Bible.

A Kensington dentist, who is likewise a pillar of the church, consulted the Scriptures some time ago in search of a suitable passage to advertise his business, says the Philadelphia Record, and came across the following from the Song of Solomon vi, 6: "Thy teeth are as a flock of sheep that go up from the washing, whereof every one beareth twins, and there is not one barren among them."

This quotation he emblazoned on his sign, and when his pastor remonstrated with him the dentist explained that the lines were applicable, as the teeth he referred to were "sheep teeth," or the first teeth that grow in a child's mouth, every one of which is succeeded by two other teeth of the second growth. The dentist is authority for the statement that there are only two other references to teeth in the Bible.

Discouraged.

"Did you ask old Spiggot for his daughter?"

"No. The first thing I saw when I stepped into his office was a big placard over the phone with these words in large letters: 'Call main 6161 for ambulance.' It seemed like an omen, and I went out."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Fair Exchange.

Angry Poet (rushing into the office)—See here, sir, that check you sent me for my poem is no good!

Editor (coldly)—Neither was the poem. Shut the door, please.

Reassuring.

Vicar's Wife—I haven't seen you at church for some time.

Rustic—Noa, I ain't been lately. But I don't go nowheres else, I assure ye.—Punch.

For Over Fifty Years.

An Old and Well-tried Remedy.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Is pleasant to the taste. Sold by druggists in every part of the world. Twenty-five cents. Its value is incalculable. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup and take no other kind.

The Religion of Sovereigns.

Kings are rarely pious, though they are still more rarely unbelievers. There have been plenty of bad men upon European thrones, and the lives of few kings will bear study through an ethical microscope, but we can recall only one, King Frederick the Great of Prussia, who was a scoffing unbeliever. He even sneered at the British embassador for saying that he would do something or other by "the help of God," and asked, with his nose in the air, whether the English counted God among their allies. "Yes, your majesty," was the crushing reply, "and the only ally who asks no subsidy from us." The temper displayed in Frederick's jest is, however, most unusual among sovereigns, and, though when they win victories they are often accused of hypocrisy for publicly professing their belief that God rules all, it is more probable in spite of their usual conduct, that the profession has been sincere.—Spectator.

Her Magnanimity.

"That was the most heartless thing I ever heard of."

"What was?"

"When Nell Gaddsley heard that Willie Budge, instead of shooting himself as he said he would when she broke her engagement, had gone and got Fannie Willings to promise to be his wife, she sent back his ring with a note in which she said she gave it up because she knew he couldn't afford to buy another, and she had found that there was a flaw in the stone, anyway."—Chicago Times-Herald.

CLOSE OF THE SEASON'S DRILL

57TH REGIMENT ATTENDS SERVICE AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

A Pleasing Turnout of the Regiment—Large Congregation—Address by the Chaplain.

The 57th regiment closed its season yesterday afternoon by a church parade to St. John's, where they were addressed by the Chaplain, Rev. J. C. Davidson. The parade was a most creditable one, the regiment turning out in full strength and the men marching exceedingly well. The streets were lined with spectators and a large crowd had gathered at the church grounds. The service was largely attended by the public generally. A number of officers from the other local corps attended the parade. The Chaplain's sermon was a brief and expressive one.

Rev. Mr. Davidson in a few brief preliminary remarks expressed pleasure at the attendance of the regiment at the church, which, it was his desire, could be made to stand for the welfare of every man. No attempt would be made to change their spiritual allegiance, but any help that could be rendered to any of them and was within the power of the clergy would be gladly given. The officers of the 57th wished to express appreciation of the presence at the service of officers from the 3rd Dragoons and other corps.

The Chaplain took as his text "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course." Peaceful, restful, refreshing is that satisfaction which comes to a man in the evening hours after a good day's done. Peaceful and refreshing is that rest which comes to a soldier after battles won. So was this satisfaction which came to the great warrior and worker, St. Paul. If ever a man had a hard, dangerous, toilsome life he had that life. All his sufferings were inflicted because he manfully persisted to the end. It was all over now. He had the knowledge that his main work was ended and he was in God's keeping, and just before he put down the pen for the last time in this great crisis of his life he wrote the words of the text.

It did not lessen St. Paul's satisfaction that his goal was not quite reached at that moment. He stood ready for what the future might bring forth. The main path had been travelled and that great old Christian warrior stood ready to receive the order to stand at ease

It may seem a far cry to come from the consideration of that great life to our own lives. But we may apply those words to the situation in which we stand at the end of the season's drill. Looking back over that course we may all reasonably feel within ourselves some small satisfaction at what we have honestly, and in some cases, laboriously attempted to do or done. We may now obey the order to stand at ease. Deeply proud and deeply thankful was the speaker that the evident temper of the regiment was to face the future. "Ever ready," according to the motto of the the regiment, was every man looking forward to the still better things of the future.

You are not only loyal soldiers but, I believe, loyal soldiers to the King of Kings. I want to help you to do your duty to your God and however hard it may be I do not believe you will shrink from it if you have the right stuff in you, and when that last day comes when all the struggle will be over in the peace, pure light and holiness of that life to which you will go if you are worthy. Your service will be continued in the white uniform, made white by the blood of the Lamb, Lord Jesus Christ.

Mr. G. W. Milligan sang a splendid baritone solo and the service was closed with the National Anthem.

The men entered into the service with great heartiness.

A SLIGHT DISAGREEMENT

Regarding the Wearing of Uniform by the Band in Last Night's Parade.

There was a commotion in the ranks of the 57th regimental band and those of the Orangemen regarding the wearing of uniform by the bandsmen for the Orange parade. The bandsmen were out in uniform in the afternoon, and some of them wanted to wear the uniform for the night parade, and were quite indignant when reminded of the Government order which provides that no regimental band can appear in military uniform for any such party parade. However, they saw that it was best to obey the Government regulation and they appeared in civilian clothes. A knowledge of the existence and nature of the regulation would have prevented any displeasure either among the bandsmen or the Orangemen. The band will have new coats and caps for the 12th.

Dental Announcement.

Drs. Wightman and Scott wish to announce that they are now established in partnership in their office at 140 1-2 Hunter-st., over [illegible]'s drug store. We have made additions to office equipment which enable us to keep abreast with all the most modern and latest methods of preserving the natural teeth or for replacing lost ones. Bridge work or teeth without plates is the greatest and most successful invention that has been made in dental science of late years. Many roots and broken down teeth that are often considered useless can be utilized for bridges, which not only does away with the wearing of objectionable plates, but are also much better for the proper mastication of the food. We are fully prepared to perform all kinds of operations or give advice in this line of work. The proper eruption of the permanent teeth will receive our careful attention where entrusted to us, and all irregularities and overcrowding of the teeth can be corrected. For painless extraction of teeth we have the very latest and best methods. We have secured a new outfit for the administration of gas, which totally removes any unpleasantness or danger from this, the best of anaesthetics. We also use a preparation for benumbing the gums, than which there is none better and from which there are no injurious after effects. Where we insert plates the patient is given choice of anaesthetic for extracting the teeth free of charge. All our work is carefully performed and will be found thoroughly satisfactory. THE POSSESSION OF AN ISLAND

JUDGMENT IN THE TOWN'S SUIT AGAINST THE C.P.R.

Action and Counter Claim Dismissed—Town Could Seek Remedy Under Railway Act.

At Osgoode Hall, Toronto, Trial Court, before Street, J.—Town of Peterborough vs. C.P.R. Co.—Judgment in action tried without a jury at Peterborough. In 1882 the plaintiffs were the owners in fee of Island No. 1, in the Otonabee river, opposite the town. On the 4th June, 1883, the Town Council passed a resolution recommending that authority be given to defendants to construct a siding connecting the mills and factories in the Dickson raceway with the main line, upon certain conditions, etc. On 24th October, 1883, a further resolution was passed by the Town Council permitting defendants "to take gravel and soil from the island in the River Otonabee at Peterborough for a roadbed without charge, for their railway, at or near that point ....but that nothing in this resolution shall be understood or construed as giving the said railway company any right or interest in the said island, beyond the right-of-way." On the 1st September, 1883, the defendants obtained the authority of the Privy Council to construct the siding or branch line referred to in the above resolutions, and, having procured and paid for the right of way, proceeded to construct it in 1883-4, and expended upwards of $12,000 in so doing. No claim was made by the plaintiffs upon them of any kind until shortly before this action, which was begun on August 17th, 1898. The plaintiffs asked that their title to the lands covered by the right-of-way might be established, and that it might be declared that defendants' only title was as tenants at will to plaintiffs, and that in default of defendants executing an acknowledgement of plaintiffs' title, the plaintiffs might be declared entitled to possession. The defendants set up that their occupation was by a license from

CHURCH PARADE OF THE ORANGE MEN

LARGE GATHERING OF LODGE MEMBERS AT DIVINE SERVICE.

Procession Witnessed by Large Crowds—Address of Rev. Mr. Thompson at Mark-st Church.

The annual church parade of the Orangemen was held last evening to Mark-st. church, where the brethren were addressed by the new pastor, Rev. Mr. Thomson. The attendance was large and the procession was an imposing one. The brethren assembled at their hall, George-st., and headed by the 57th regimental band, marched over to Ashburnham. Many spectators viewed the parade on the streets.

The pastor took as his text St. John 13, 34:

"A new commandment I give unto you, that ye love one another."

Rev. Mr. Thompson remarked that he had read the constitution of the Orange Order and knew that many there were who misunderstood the Order. It was not an aggressive society. It was simply one which stood for which were the property of every man, woman and child as children of God.

Rev. Mr. Thompson touched upon the history of the religious troubles in Great Britain, referring first to the persecution of the Scottish Covenanters, and then to the landing of William of Orange over 200 years ago. The question of religious liberties was settled at the battle of the Boyne.

ONCE AND FOR ALL

The text he had chosen he believed to be a suitable one on which to address an Orange Order, for the society was one standing for equal rights. The command of Christ is for a brotherhood of mankind which breaks down all differences of race or color. This command was new to the world then, and is, alas, new even now. He described the Roman civilization and contrasted it with the present condition of things and system of thought. Christ said, "As I have loved you." They were to love in the same manner, even if not to the same degree. What was this love? They were to be ready to sacrifice themselves.

The world had not made much progress 200 years ago. There was a body of men who still believe in Divine Right. While we feel honor and affection for our own Queen, it is because she is loyal to the rights of her subjects and is in every sense of the word a noble woman.

One great epoch was that which led to the drafting of the Orange organization. The voice throughout Scotland and Ireland at that time was like the notes of a mighty organ, proclaiming that were henceforth to be their own rulers. We are glad that there was then instilled the principle of the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of Man, and the determination to hold to equal rights against royalty or any other force.

Mankind are children of god, not Caucasian alone; we spread that abroad and we say every nation, every people, every kindred, every tribe. We ought to try to do good to all men; this also is apart of your constitution. The great brotherhood of mankind is our care, for we are one family in Him.

Character is Christ's measure stick. The Bible is your law, your constitution. It is recognized in every meeting, and hence we ought to do good unto the halt, the blind, the sick, the destitute, and, while your charities are unknown, many widowed hearts have been made glad and many orphans cared for because the members of the loyal lodge have been loyal to the memory of the dead.

It is sometimes asked what is the need of any organization for Protestantism. It must be remembered that the different organizations have taken up the work of and are teaching the church the value of the work. The organization is for the systematic doing unto others all that is necessary in the hour of their need. What is needed is workers at all times and in all places. By this means you will grow in numbers and strength as the years roll on. All our organizations need workers.

We look forward to something better for the future. We should take care of our bodies and our brains that we may use them for the good of all mankind, to bring on the glorious time of true brotherhood and equal rights.

A Family Necessity.

Mr. J. Wright, of [illegible] McPherson-ave., Toronto, says:—"I am always glad to say a good word for Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It has been in use in our family for two years, and we have never found it fail to cure coughs, colds and chest troubles. It is our regular stand-by." Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is a family necessity in the homes of Canada and the United States. 25 cents a bottle. Family size 60 cents.

An Explanation

We have during the last month advertised a Special Sale of the well known Slater Shoes.

We were enabled to do so having bought from the Slater Shoe Company regular lines of shoes stamped to sell at $3.50 and $5.00.

In order to clear out these lines and induce rapid sale we returned a quantity of these shoes to the Slater Shoe Co., and had the price mark removed, otherwise we could not have sold them at other than the stamped prices.

The balance of this line of unstamped Slater Shoes are most excellent value at the price we are asking for them. They deserve an early inspection from buyers.

A question of great interest for intending insurers is which Canadian Life Company is in highest favor with the insuring Canadian public? The following table is a good indicator:

Bouillabaisse.

Do you remember Thackeray's delightful "Ballad of Bouillabaisse," those rich, epicurean lines that the laird in "Trilby," when he fell sick, kept muttering over to himself in bed and the French doctor thought he was saying his prayers?

This Bouillabaisse a noble dish is—
A sort of soup or broth or brew
Or hotchpotch of all sorts of fishes
That Greenwich never could outdo.
Green herbs, red peppers, mussels, saffron,
Soles, onions, garlic, roach and dace—
All these you eat at Terre's tavern
In that one dish of Bouillabaisse.

This fishy stew is as much esteemed by the French now as it was in Thackeray's day. Bouillabaisse has been aptly termed the "mutton broth" of France, and once the taste for it is acquired it is a truly appetizing dish. The most important item is the absolute freshness of the fish used and the variety. In the south of France it consists chiefly of langouste, soup eels and a species of small green fish. The soup and the fish are served in separate dishes.—[illegible]

What You Pay For Medicine

Is no Test of its Curative Value—Prescriptions Versus Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are just as much a doctor's prescription as any formula your family physician can give you. The difference is that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills were perfected after the formula had proven itself of inestimable value in scores of hundreds of cases.

Dr. Chase won almost as much popularity from his ability to cure kidney disease, liver complaint, and backache, with this formula, as he did from the publication of his great recipe book.

The idea of one treatment reaching the kidneys and liver at the same time was original with Dr. Chase. It accounts for the success of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in curing the most complicated ailments of the filtering organs, and every form of backache.

As a family medicine Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are unapproached. They keep the kidneys, liver, and bowels healthy, active, and regular, and so [illegible] cure nine-tenths of the [illegible] is subject. One [illegible] of all dealers, [illegible] & Co., Toronto.

JEWELRY JOTTINGS.

Neck ornaments of every kind are this year in the front rank of jewelers' wares.

The fine gold neck chain with a handsome pendant jewel, either diamond, curiously shaped, or pearl, emerald or other colored stone, is one of the established styles of the season.

Old ideas in regard to the use of jewels have passed out of vogue. The most fashionable and best dressers do not scruple to wear strings of pearls or jeweled necklaces with the street costume.

Curious and unusual cuttings in costly stones are very much in evidence for rings and more especially for pendants. Fine diamonds are cut in marquise, oval or heart shapes, emeralds assume the pear or drop form, turquoises are fashioned into scarabs, etc.

PEKIN LEGATIONS SAFE JULY 4

Hopes Are Now Being Built Up on the Latest News.

Tien Tsin Is Still Being Hard Pressed—Admiral Seymour Orders the Women and Children to Be Taken to Taku—More Troops Arriving From Russia and Japan—Attack on the Native City of Tien Tsin by Russians Was Futile.

London, July 9.—(2.45 a.m.)—The foreign consuls at Shanghai met July 7 and officially announced that legations at Pekin were safe on July 4. The foregoing statement, read with Consul Warren's despatch to the Foreign Office on Saturday, makes it possible to believe that the legations will hold out for a number of days yet. Having fought to a standstill the first outbursts of fanatical fury, it is believed that something may intervene to save them. The news, after the sinister rumors of the last ten days, is enough upon which to build up hopes.

Tien Tsin Hard Pressed.

Tien Tsin is still hard pressed. A Chinese force, numbering from 80,000 to 100,000 men, as estimated by inconclusive reconnoissances, floods the country round about Tien Tsin, communication between which place and Taku is apparently possible by river only.

A Che Foo despatch to The Express says the Russians have landed 8000 men at Taku, and the Japanese have discharged several transports.

Japanese Fighting Hard.

The Japanese pushed on to Tien Tsin, leading in the subsequent assault upon the native city, in which their commander was killed. Ten more transports are engaged at Japanese ports. With the 10,000 British India troops afloat and fresh Japanese contingents, it is quite probable that the allies will have 50,000 men ashore.

Disorders in the Provinces.

The disorders in the provinces appear to be increasing in violence. A Chinese army is within 40 miles of New Chwang and the foreigners are preparing to abandon their homes. The southern part of the province is swept by raiders, destroying all works of the white man, except in spots garrisoned by Russians. The proclamations have been posted in all villages near Che Foo calling upon the loyal Chinese to rise and expel the foreigner for introducing among the pious Chinese an immoral religion. Every good Buddhist is expected to kneel three hours daily, knock his head upon the floor thrice and pray earnestly that sudden cruel death may overtake all aliens.

Che Foo in Danger.

The foreign settlement at Che Foo is at the mercy of two Chinese forts equipped with Krupp guns, which command two sides of the city. Six war ships, including the United States gunboat Nashville, are constantly cleared for action.

Tuan's Designs on Southern China.

The provisional Government at Pekin appears to have designs upon the southern provinces. Besides having ordered Kwan Shiki to advance upon Nankin, which Kwan Shiki says he will not do, Prince Tuan has sent an army along the route of the Grand Canal. Nankin is on the south bank of a river nearly a mile wide. The British cruisers Hermione and Piquet will assist in repelling attempts to cross. Six Chinese cruisers are there and 17,000 Chinese troops are at the disposal of the Viceroy Liu Kunyi. The forts mount 34 high power modern guns. The foreigners in Shanghai are becoming uneasy. Everything depends, they feel, upon Viceroy Liu Kunyi.

Only Five Foreigners Killed.

Refugees from Tien Tsin arriving at Shanghai, say that only five civilian foreigners were killed during the long Chinese bombardment. The foreign women became so indifferent that they walked thru the streets, unheeding the shells. Most of the civilians were deported to Taku, thence to be conveyed to Shanghai.

Legations Receiving Provisions.

The courier mentioned in Consul Warren's despatch gives a strange picture, says The Daily Mail's Shanghai correspondent, of how life jostles death in Pekin. Business apparently goes on as usual. The shops and theatres are open, and the streets are full of people. No imperial troops, except those of Gen. Tung Fuh Siang, took part in the fighting. They did more looting. The courier even asserts positively that provisions are being supplied to the legations, but by whom he does not say. The Boxers and Gen. Tung Fuh Siang do not get along well. The Boxers assert that they do all the fighting, and the latter all the looting, and nothing else.

Says Boxers Will Disband.

Gen. Kwang Shi Kai, Governor of Shantung, a correspondent of The Daily Mail avers, predicts that by July 11 the Boxers will disband, and negotiations will begin for peace. Nevertheless, circumstantial rumors of dark things to come are in circulation.

A REASSURING MESSAGE.

Pekin Carrier Brings News that Foreigners Have Food and Ammunition.

London, July 7.—(9.15 p.m.)—The Foreign Office has issued the text of a telegram from Acting-Consul Warren, at Shanghai, confirming, from a thoroly trustworthy source the news received by courier from Pekin, July 3, by way of Shanghai, to the London office of the Inspectorate of Chinese Maritime Customs, saying that two legations were, the day the courier left, holding out against the troops and Boxers, and the troops had lost 2600 men and the Boxers many leaders. Mr. Warren adds that the messenger says the troops were much disheartened by their losses, and that the Boxers claim that mystic powers have been broken by the foreigners, and that they dare not approach the legations.

It is further asserted that the foreigners at Pekin ought to be able to hold out for a long time, as they have sufficient food and ammunition.

LEGATIONS SAFE ON JULY 4.

The Only Fear Felt Was as Regards the Food Supply.

London, July 8.—A despatch from Tien Tsin, dated July 3, says: "Since early morning the Chinese have heavily bombarded the settlements. Admiral Seymour has ordered the women and children conveyed to Taku at the earliest possible moment."

The consuls at Shanghai report that the Pekin legations were safe on July 4 and that the Chinese had ceased their attacks. The only fear felt at that time, according to the reports of the consuls, was regarding the food supply.

The Russians Failed.

Berlin, July 8.—A despatch from Tien Tsin says that the Russians unsuccessfully bombarded the native town on July 2. The strength of the allied troops is about 10,000.

There is no fresh news regarding the situation in Pekin.

A COUNTER REVOLUTION.

Prince Ching Said to Have Attacked the Rebels in Pekin.

Brussels, July 8.—A despatch from Shanghai received here says that, according to a Chinese official, the two legations which were still holding out on July 2 were the object of incessant attacks. There had been some losses among the troops guarding the legations, but the diplomatists were safe.

The despatch also says the loyal troops, under Prince Ching, who is heading a counter-revolution, had attacked the rebels in Pekin.

The Governor of Shantung, according to the same authority, is reported to have declined to obey Prince Tuan's orders to seize Nankin.

Further despatches from Shanghai say the legations were holding out on July 3, that the rebels had been repulsed with a loss of 2000, and that the Boxers were discouraged. They also report that a Chinese journal confirms the announcement of Prince Ching's counter-revolution in Pekin.

40,000 British Troops.

London, July 8.—It is understood that the War Office is preparing to despatch nearly 40,000 men to China. These are to be drawn from India, South Africa and England, chiefly the latter.

The Government has been purchasing arms and ammunition for some time, and recently ordered 20,000,000 rounds of rifle ammunition.

The Situation in Pekin.

Paris, July 7.—The French Consul at Canton telegraphs that, according to the information he has received thru Li Hung Chang, the situation at Pekin had not materially changed up to July 1. News of a general massacre of the Europeans was freely circulated in Canton on July 6, but it was denied by a telegram received by one of the Consuls.

The French Consul at Canton added in his despatch that it had been stated at that place that Gen. Yung Lu had telegraphed the Viceroy at Canton to consider as null and void all so-called imperial decrees promulgated since June 21.

PEKIN'S CALL FOR AID.

How Sir Robert Hart's Messenger Got Thru—All Was Quiet at Tien Tsin.

Tien Tsin, June 29, 3 p.m., via Che Foo, July 1, and Shanghai, July 6, 9.40 a.m.—Sir Robert Hart's Pekin messenger was a servant at the French engineer refuge near Pao Ting Fu. Before leaving Pekin the messenger was searched closely, but succeeded by a clever device in concealing the despatch. He was four days making the journey to Tien Tsin. The message was addressed to "Seymour's Relief Column." When the messenger ascertained that the column was returning he decided to come on to Tien Tsin and arrived here yesterday. He was unable to pass the guards, but was found outside by two Americans. He says the Seku arsenal has been totally destroyed.

The messenger said there was plenty of food at the legations. The Chinese have cannon mounted on the walls commanding the legations. The messenger heard firing when he was leaving.

Sir Robert Hart's message, which is dated June 24, says: "Situation desperate, make haste."

Tien Tsin is quiet to-day. The French concession has suffered considerably and the German concession a little. The British and American consulates are safe.

Li Won's Travel North.

Berlin, July 7.—A despatch from Canton received here is authority for the statement that Li Hung Chang's journey north has been practically abandoned, altho the United States gunboat Princeton is still awaiting him at that point. Li Hung Chang himself declares that he has no influence in the north.

Missionaries at Tien Tsin Safe.

London, July 7.—A telegram from Tien Tsin, dated July 5, to the London Missionary Society, says the missionaries there were then uninjured.

All Quiet at Canton.

Hong Kong, July 8.—Canton is perfectly quiet. Business continues as usual. The Chinese are unanimous in saying that there will be no trouble, as long as Li Hung Chang remains in control. Arrivals from the north state that Boxers are hostile to the Cantonese, who, the Boxers say, first introduced the foreigners into China.

THE ARETHUSA IS READY.

Got Orders Saturday and Will Leave on Wednesday for China.

Victoria, B. C., July 7.—H.M.S. Arethusa, which was ordered early this morning to go to China, will sail on Wednesday next. It is also reported that her sister ship, now at Panama, will cross the Pacific. Reported also that the C. P. R. steamer Tartar has been ordered to carry troops from here, and that during the absence of the regulars the Fifth Regiment of volunteers will occupy the garrison.

THE COOMASSIE ESCAPE.

Sir Frederick Hodgson Deceived the Enemy as to the Route Chosen and Got Away.

London, July 9.—The Colonial Office has received a despatch from the Governor of the Gold Coast Colony, Sir Frederick Mitchell Hodgson, dated Atekwauta, June 26, saying that owing to the non-arrival of the relief column, and the reduction of the food supply, he had decided to push through the rebels and had deceived the enemy regarding the route followed. The column suffered great privations, but the loss was only six men killed and several wounded. Governor Hodgson expressed the hope of reaching the Gold Coast in 10 days. He added that the sufferings at Coomassie were terrible, the mortality from starvation being 30 persons a day. The column of the Governor numbers 400, and includes all Europeans, among them being the members of the Basle mission.

Will West India Send Troops?

Kingston, Ja., July 9.—The Government on Saturday received a telegram from Secretary for the Colonies Joseph Chamberlain, suggesting terms on which a West Indian contingent of militia should proceed to Africa to fight the Ashantis. It is believed the terms will be accepted.

Landers Goes for Trial.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 9.—The adjourned hearing of the famous case against William Landers, charged with using the Canadian mails for fraudulent purposes, came up before Magistrate Logan on Saturday. Evidence adduced by the prosecution showed that several letters containing money or money orders had been received by the accused on behalf of the fictitious firm of Leys, Landers & Scott, and there had been no response by the firm in the way of forwarding the Mauser rifles advertised as worth k25 and sold for $12.50. Landers admitted he was the whole firm. In summing up the evidence the magistrate thought that there was a case against the prisoner and committed him for trial at the next Assizes.

HE DROWNED THE BUFFALO.

A Texas Stockman's Story of an Experience In the Little Arkansas.

A group of cattlemen at the live stock convention at El Reno were talking about the skill of Oklahoma cowboys in throwing the lariat when R. E. Word, Sr., whose home is at Higgins, Tex., but whose cattle are mostly in Oklahoma, said: "I had an experience roping when I was a young man which put me through a lively gait. As a Texan who had followed the range all his life, I felt that there was not a broncho on top of the ground that could throw me and nothing on four legs that I couldn't rope and tie. In the summer of 1871 I was on the Little Arkansas river about five miles south of Wichita, Kan. I had a splendid horse, trained for the range and almost as intelligent as a man. One afternoon I came suddenly upon five big buffalo bulls that had wandered away from the main herd. I pulled my pistol, killed one of them and, not having time to reload, decided to rope one. Shortly afterward I found myself with a big job on my hands.

"At the first throw my rope dropped around the old bull's horns. Now, when a buffalo makes up his mind to go anywhere in a rush he travels in a straight line. You may be able to turn him a little, but in the main he will keep his course. That was what this bull did. He headed toward the Little Arkansas, with the evident intention of crossing it. My horse, always fearless when handling cattle, was timid when in close quarters with a buffalo, and I was unable to check the bull, who soon had me going south at a lively clip. I was becoming of the opinion that the only way out of my trouble was to cut my rope and let the bull carry it off.

"The Little Arkansas is narrow in places, while at no great distance away will be found pools four and five feet deep and from 25 to 40 feet wide. The bull rushed headlong into one of these pools. The opposite bank was perpendicular and about a foot and a half above the water. Taking in the situation quickly, I saw that I could run out my rope far enough to enable my horse to cross at a narrow, shallow place. He jumped across, in fact, ahead of the bull, which had to wade. My horse had to keep going and jerked the rope taut just as the bull started to climb up the bank. The jerk pulled the bull's nose into the water and his shaggy head against the perpendicular bank. He made a great uproar, but my horse held him there as in a vise. Strange as it may seem, I succeeded in keeping that bull's nose under water until he drowned. I always regarded this as my most brilliant feat of roping."—Oklahoma Cor. in Kansas City Star.

It is just as easy to drift into danger as to drive into it. The progress is slower but the end is equally sure. It is the gradual progress of drifting which blinds to the danger. Men and women drift into ill-health in such a way. There is a little feeling of oppression after eating. After a time it passes away. Some day it returns and brings another symptom—headache, perhaps. Something is done to relieve the headache, but nothing to relieve the cause. So one more victim goes drifting on to the rocks of disease.

Young women who are teaching or studying are very apt to become victims of disease of the stomach. They eat injudiciously, in some cases, and in general the brain is too occupied to allow the stomach the blood necessary to carry on its functions. Hence in time the organs of digestion and nutrition are totally deranged, and the young graduate goes home a chronic invalid.

The timely use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will avert such a condition; the faithful use of it in chronic cases will effect a complete cure.

"I was troubled with very frequent headaches, often accompanied by severe vomiting," writes Miss Mary [illegible] of San Diego, Duval Co., Texas. "Bowels were irregular and my stomach and liver seemed continually out of order. Often I could eat almost nothing, and sometimes absolutely nothing, for twenty-four hours at a time. I was entirely unfit for work, and my whole system seemed so run down that I feared a severe sick spell and was very much discouraged. I was advised to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and before finishing the third bottle I was able to undertake the duties of public school life, and [illegible]."

Itching Piles

A Fearfully Bad Case—Much Pain and Acute Misery From the Terrible Itching—Cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

It is doubtful if any remedy ever received so much grateful, unsolicited testimony as Dr. Chase's Ointment. The reason is not far to seek, for it is the only preparation known to man which never fails to cure piles.

Mr. F. G. Harding, a retired farmer, living at Milestown, [illegible] county, Ont., writes as follows: "I have been troubled with bleeding and itching piles for four or five years, and suffered intense agony at times. I had tried almost everything, but could get nothing that would give relief. On hearing of Dr. Chase's Ointment I procured a box, and it only required part of it to completely cure me. I am recommending it to all afflicted as I was."

Such incontrovertible evidence from responsible persons cannot, for a moment, be doubted. A few applications of Dr. Chase's Ointment will convince the most skeptical of its wonderful healing and soothing influence. A box or two will positively cure the most severe case of piles; 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

CHEESE MARKETS.

Belleville, Ont., July 9. — Twenty-three factories boarded 2,140 boxes white cheese here Saturday, June make. Sales were 525 at 9¾c, 70 at 9 11-16c.

Shelburne, July 9.—Six factories boarded 862 boxes. Laurel and Victoria factories sold at 9½c, the salesmen of the other factories holding for the same price.

ONTARIO'S PAPER TRADE.

An Influential Deputation From Great Britain on an Investigating Tour.

Toronto, July 9.—A large and influential delegation of gentlemen representing vast interests in the paper trade of Great Britain arrived in town last night from the Soo and registered at the Queen's Hotel. The party includes: Mr. James Marsden, the head of the firm of Charles Marsden & Sons, Barnsley, Wakefield, Sheffield and Tamworth; Mr. H. Duxbury, Darwen Paper Mills Company, Limited, whose three mills are all at Darwen, Lancashire; Mr. Norman Duxbury, of Yates Duxbury & Sons, Bury and Bolton; Mr. W. H. Dixon, Peter Dixon & Son, Oughtibridge, Yorkshire; Mr. John White, James Bertram & Son, Limited, Edinburgh; Mr. L. Zuanelli Chevalier—paper maker and journalist, and Mr. S. Charles Phillips, the honorary secretary and organizer of the party.

The party sailed from Liverpool on May 30, and are due to be home on July 26. Up to the present they have conducted their investigations in New York, Philadelphia, Wilmington, Washington, Boston, Worcester, Springfield, Holyoke, Watertown, Niagara Falls, Chicago, Appleton, Wis., Centralia, St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth and Sault Ste. Marie, and have yet to visit Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec. The delegation have come to Canada at the invitation of the Ontario Papermakers' Association.

The object of the delegation is to investigate processes and types of machinery at present employed in American and Canadian mills, also to inspect the Canadian pulpmills, water power and timber limits, with which interests many of the members are largely identified in Great Britain. The Canadian pulp is longer and stronger in fibre than the Scandinavian and consequently preferred.

There has been a big boom in the British paper trade during the last eight months, so great that several of the mills could not supply the demand and were brought to a temporary standstill for want of material, which is now learned Canada can abundantly provide. Several members of the delegation expressed their appreciation of the wonderful resources and splendid equipment at the Soo. They were shown through the great pulp works there by Mr. Clergue himself, and had only admiration of the methods and plant employed.

Evading the Censor.

Censorship was maintained pretty rigidly during the Spanish-American war. Most of the correspondents faithfully observed the rules. Some others, however, tried various methods and devices to evade them. When Sampson sailed for Porto Rico in the early spring, a young correspondent at Key West who knew of the plan racked his brain to think of a way to communicate it to his home office. Just as he was about to put to sea himself in a dispatch boat he sent a telegram to his office reading as follows:

"Tell father I have gone to Porto Rico."

He argued that this was a very simple cipher for the people in the office to read. He confided his great scheme to none of his associates and for a couple of weeks hugged himself with the idea that he had "beaten" them all.

When he returned to Key West, a telegram from his paper was handed him. He opened it, expecting to read congratulations and nearly fainted when he saw these words:

"Have made many inquiries, but have been unable to find your father."

The deaths on Saturday due to the heat in Chicago were twelve, while the prostrations numbered 20. Several of the latter are in a serious condition.

The steamer Amur arrived Saturday at Vancouver from Skaguay. She brought 100 men of the Canadian field force, who are being withdrawn from Yukon territory.

During a terrible thunderstorm Saturday afternoon, Myron Early, the 13-year-old son of Peter Early of Blenheim, while visiting on the farm of Mr. Wardell, was struck by lightning and instantly killed.

Lady Randolph Churchill confides to intimate friends that she proposes to marry young George Cornwallis West on July 20. Mrs. West's bold manoeuvre to gain time by getting her son ordered back to South Africa has failed.

Early Sunday evening a dog brought the body of a fully developed infant out of the water near the foot of Simcoe street, Hamilton. It was not decomposed, and could not have been dead long. An inquest has been ordered.

During the progress of the fire in the T. G. Evans & Co., at Pittsburg, Pa., on Saturday, one of the floors fell in, burying portions of two fire companies. Six of the men were rescued badly injured; the other three were dead when reached.

On Tuesday evening, 10th inst., at 10.50 the planet Saturn will be occulted by the almost full moon. The phenomenon will be visible to the naked eye. About 15 minutes after midnight the planet's rings will begin to reappear on the other side of the moon.

The large passenger steamer Pearl, running as an excursion boat from Crystal Beach to Buffalo, was driven on a reef upon the Canadian shore by a furious storm which swept in from the lake late Saturday evening. Her nine hundred excursionists were taken ashore.

William Pembleton, of Ayr, was smothered in Goldie's mill there on Saturday morning. He was sent to load a car of bran, and in going to near the spout he was caught by the bulk of bran and carried down with it. No one knew of the accident until the bran stopped coming down.

C.P.R. crop reports received from all parts of Manitoba Province, are of a very encouraging character. Many of the agents say that it will be impossible to estimate the benefit of the recent rains, which thoroughly soaked the ground. The opinion, however, is almost unanimously expressed that there will be at best only half a crop.

It is thought that Arthur Barrett, the 15-year-old son of the late John Barrett, of Brooklin, Ont., while seasick on the Garden City on July 4, fell overboard and was drowned. His aunt, whom he accompanied on the excursion, spoke to him half an hour before Whitby was reached and he has not since been seen.

All the boilermakers of Montreal, to the number of 200, are out on strike. Those in the shops of the Grand Trunk, numbering 50, quit Saturday. The C. P. R. men left the same evening, and those engaged in private firms also quit work Saturday afternoon. The men are striking for an increase of ten per cent.

The greatest trial Russia has known in years has just begun in Moscow. The famous railway king, M. Mamontoff, with five of his associates of less note, are charged with the embezzlement of 9,000,000 rubles, ($4,590,000) of State funds and 400,000 rubles ($240,000) of private funds. M. Mamontoff's plea of guilty has been entered.

The Algoma Central Railway has secured the privileges of the International Railway Bridge, and will run into Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., over the lines of the Michigan-Lake Superior Power Co. Construction work on the Algoma Central is being energetically prosecuted, and an army of workmen is getting the roadbed into readiness, placing material and laying rails, north of the Canadian Soo.

News of the finding of the body of Earl Olsen, the third man of the murdered trio, Clayson, Relfe and Olsen, has been brought to Vancouver by the steamer Amur. The other two bodies were brought down to Seattle recently. Olsen's body had two bullet holes in it. A man named O'Brien is being held at Dawson for the murder, which was committed last winter.

Saturday afternoon lightning struck and burnt the barn of Benjamin Howe, on the 7th concession, about three miles north of Leamington, Ont. In the barn there was nearly all of this year's crop of hay, about 400 bushels of oats, all the farm implements, including a new binder and a new mower just bought, and one horse. The loss will be about $2,500.

The schooner yacht Idler was lost in a terrific storm 16 miles off Cleveland, Ohio, on Saturday afternoon, with six persons, all members of the family of James Corrigan, a wealthy vessel owner of that city, aboard. Mrs. John Corrigan was the only passenger aboard who was saved. C. H. H. Holmes, the captain, and Samuel Biggam, the mate, four sailors, two cooks, and the ship carpenter were also saved.

HON. M. E. BERNIER SEATED.

New Minister Welcomed Back in the House After His Re-Election—The Manitoba School Question.

Ottawa, July 7.—Few members of the House of Commons were present this morning, and those who were did not warm to the business in hand.

Mr. Lariviere of Provencher presented petitions from the Catholic Board of Education, Winnipeg, setting forth numerous grievances that the Catholic minority suffered.

In reply to a question, Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that the whole question was before the provincial authorities, and he hoped for the best.

An Assayer for the Yukon.

Col. Prior read a telegram from the Victoria Board of Trade asking why an assayer had not been sent to the Yukon by the Government to facilitate the turning of gold dust into coin of the realm.

Mr. Fielding replied that the matter would be considered next year, though he did not think that a Government assayer would be named.

The New Minister.

At this point Hon. Michel Esdras Bernier was escorted into the House between Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Richard Cartwright and presented to the Speaker. The Speaker said: "Let the hon. gentleman take his seat," and Hon. Mr. Bernier sat down in the place lately occupied by Sir Henri Joly. He was cheered by the House.

The Elections Act Passed.

The Elections Act was read a third time and passed. Mr. Puttee's amendment that, in cities of upwards of 15,000, the polls should be kept open till 8 p.m., was voted down. Some minor amendments by Mr. McNeill and Mr. Bennett were also lost.

Hon. Mr. Sutherland's bill, re game preservation in the Yukon, was read a third time.

Bills Assented To.

The House then, at the bidding of Black Rod, went into the Senate, where His Honor Judge Taschereau, deputy Governor-General, gave assent to several bills.

B. C. Squealing.

After recess Col. Prior complained that British Columbia did not get her share of money from the public till. He claimed that British Columbia paid in revenue more money than was expended in the province. Last year British Columbia contributed $3,190,000 to the Dominion exchequer, while only $1,304,495 was spent in the province. The railway subsidies to the province were but $900,000, a beggardly sum. Referring to Sir Henri Joly's appointment, he said that while Sir Henri was a courtly gentleman, still the people in British Columbia thought a local man should have been appointed.

Sir Wilfrid said that the political tangle necessitated the appointment of no British Columbia man as Lieutenant-Governor.

The House then spent the rest of the afternoon in discussing the railway estimates.

The House adjourned at 6 o'clock.

The Senate.

Ottawa, July 7.—The correspondence between the members of the Federal Government and Lieutenant-Governor McInnes of British Columbia was brought down in the Senate Saturday. The discussion, which began on the correspondence to-day, will be resumed on Wednesday.

SIR WILFRID PEACE OFFERING.

Banquet Was Not Attended by His Compatriots of Quebec.

Ottawa, Ont., July 9.—Sir Wilfrid's peace offering came off on Saturday night with the French-Canadian members conspicuous by their absence. There were, it is true, half a dozen of them present, but they were such men as Lemieux and Bernier, both of whom owe more than they dare own to Sir Wilfrid. The rank and file of the Frenchmen, however, were conspicuous by their non-attendance.

This signifies that they are still disgruntled by Sir Wilfrid's dictum that they must get no additional session indemnity. Even Jean Baptiste Morin is annoyed.

"Why," said he, "the Government think nothing of giving $300,000 to a railway company, but when it comes to giving $140,000 to 300 members there is a tremendous outcry."

Monday is awaited with interest to see how the French members will move next.

AMONG THE CHURCHES.

Items of Interest Gathered From the Different Congregations.

ST. JOHN'S.

The congregation of St. John's yesterday was afforded an unexpected treat in solos morning and evening exquisitely sung by Miss Hendren, of Lakefield. At the morning service Rev. J. C. Davidson made a few remarks on the object of such solos in the services of the Church. He said that the usefulness of this type of music had always been recognised by the Church of England, which had appointed an anthem to be sung during the service, at which the people were accustomed to stand to express their participation in it as an act of honor to the Almighty. But owing to the demand for more congregational hymns the anthem in many churches, of which St. John's was one, had been transferred to the offertory but its purpose remained the same. It was not sung for the congregation and certainly not with a view to successful competition with other churches, but its object was to honor the Almighty in His house of prayer by the ministry of song. Incidentally it was a means of bringing home the message of the Gospel with beauty and pathos to the congregation or of stamping upon their minds important lessons from scripture. On these grounds while the choirmaster of St. John's with the conspicuous talent now at his command would be enabled to arrange for such solos at almost every service these would not be announced as a rule through the press.

The Rector then passed from the ministry of music to that which is performed through flowers. Many people successfully cultivated these beautiful creations in Peterborough and he wished there were many more. They brought them in, to adorn their own houses and it would be a happy thing for each garden to be represented in the house of God, there made more beautiful by God's handiwork with the added effect of cheering the hearts of His worshiping children. Any contributions would be welcomed from any source and might be placed in the vestry of the church on Saturday morning, when they would be arranged by church workers. The flowers were afterwards sent to the sick. The beauty of these in the church yesterday was generally remarked upon.

ST. LUKE'S.

St. Luke's Sunday school picnic will be held to-morrow to Chemong Park.

The pupils of Mr. Alfred Davies, of Ashburnham, have all successfully passed the examination of the Toronto Conservatory of Music recently held in Peterborough and Lindsay. Four candidates were entered for the examination in rudiments and harmony and all took honors, two pupils securing the high standing of 93 per cent. In the pianoforte department (1st year) there were three of Mr. Davies' pupils entered, two of whom took honors, and for 2nd year work (a most exacting examination) Mr. W. A. Staples, of town, was awarded first class honors. Miss Winifred Johnson, of Hastings, was successful in passing her second year singing.

CHARLOTTE-ST.

The services at Charlotte-st. church yesterday were well attended. The music for the day was very pleasing. At the morning service the choir sang the anthem, "I Will Praise Him," in good style, with solo by Miss Hall and duet by Miss Hall and Mr. Squires. The offertory selection was "Rest for the Weary." In the evening the anthem was "They that Trust in the Lord Jehovah," the solo being sung in good style by Miss Hall, duet by Misses Hall and Stephens. At the offertory Mr. A. L. Davis sang a solo, "I am Waiting for Thee," in good voice.

Itching Piles

Mr. O. P. St. John, Dominion Inspector of Steamboats, 246 Shaw-st., Toronto, writes:—"I suffered for nine years with itching piles. After trying many remedies in vain, I began to use Dr. Chase's Ointment and it has entirely cured me." More people have been cured of piles by using Dr. Chase's Ointment than by all other treatments combined. It never fails to cure piles.

A LETTER FROM COL. SAM HUGHES

HE RELATES HIS EXPERIENCE IN TWO ENGAGEMENTS

Canadian Officers Were in Command—General Warren Allowed Col. Sam to Lead and Have Charge of an Important Attack.

Last week Mr. Garnet Hughes, of Lindsay, received the following letter from his father. In it are some particulars of the work for which the London Times spoke so highly of the colonel:—

Douglas, 23rd May, 1900.

Dear Garnet,—I have had a busy and an important week. You heard from me up till Sunday last. Well, Sunday night we marched in two columns.

No. 1 was made up of infantry, Canadian Artillery and a few mounted men, with transport, etc., under Lieut.-Col. Spence, D. E. O. V. R.

No. 2, Warren's Scouts, Cape Police, 23rd Regiment Imperial Yeomanry from Cumberland and Westmoreland, and my own guides, all under my command.

Our orders were to march at 9.30 p.m., by a circuitous route, 12 miles north, 6 miles west, 3 miles south, to come into three miles of kopjes from the rear, while the other column would move slowly along the road to the kopjes—and reach there after I should have them explored. I marched—all mounted men—over the open veldt in a T shape. There was perfect stillness, not a match struck nor a loud sound heard. Now and again when some poor beggar took a "header," as his horse went into one of the many anteater's (antbears) holes, a muttered oath would break out on the stillness, but that was all. The antbear makes a hole nearly two feet in diameter deep in the ground. My horse went down twice, but I managed to hold the saddle.

FIND THE ENEMY.

At 3.30, night, we reached the N. W. side of kopjes, climbed the main ridge and got a good position. Then I sent scouts to explore the place. At 3.30 that was done, and the enemy were not found. I then sent a message back to General Sir Charles Warren that the kopjes were clear, and I had moved to hold the kopjes at two road passes, on the west side overlooking the plain over Douglas. We fortified the hills and lay down. At 6 o'clock, just at dawn, the other force overtook us, so we moved on.

When two miles out of the village, the enemy were seen in great numbers lining the boulders on kopjes across the river, 1,300 yards away, and as there were fordable drifts there, I feared they might have a few sharp-shooters among the cliffs on our side. So I extended Warren's scouts and Cape police on left side, and Imperial yeomanry on right front with a flanking party and reserve of the same.

I then halted until Gen. Sir Chas. Warren came up. He asked me "What are you going to do?" I said: "I am no longer in command now that the two brigades had joined." He said: "Why not?" I reminded him of what he well knew, that it devolved on him then. Then he said: "Well if you were in command what would you do?" My reply was—and here I was anxious both to plug the enemy and give Ogilvie's battery a show—"I would order up the guns and shrapnel them." "Then order them up," he says, and you bet I did. The first shot was too long range, but Major Ogilvie was not to blame—he took the range given him by a guide. The next shot was fine, as were also succeeding ones. We were over the kopjes to-day and found several dead horses, while the stones were fairly pickled where the shrapnel bullets hit.

ON THE FIGHTING LINE.

Meantime we advanced. I went over and took command of the fighting line, Cape police and Warren's scouts—the latter, by the way, under command of young Capt. Mackie, son of Mr. Mackie, Grit M.P. for Renfrew. The son is really a fine fellow and full of dash. His height, 6 feet, 6 inches, makes him on his enormous horse resemble a giant.

Wishing to catch the enemy in the trenches on the river bank off guard, I rushed the line, dismounted, over rocks, wire fences, etc., right to the hill crest over the place. Then the bullets from across the river began to sing in rare style. The old music—Mauser, Metford, Enfield, Mannlicher, Winchester, Martin—all singing around a fellow. The notes were so different that a musician might write a tune and have it played by the hum of the various bullets. Onward our boys went in fine style. On through the village right to the drift. Here the fire was somewhat warm. I may say without fear or care of offending anyone, that I was first man into the village and first to wade the river to reach trenches and first to reach them. Mackie was right with me, full of pluck. After ten minutes hot fire at the fellows in their cover—in shuits, etc., and some on the bank, they ran, and we went in wading, waist deep, and over after them. Mackie and I led the wading. I made an inventory of the capture—tents, blankets, rifles, ammunition, wagons, carts, harness, dead horses, blacksmith's outfits, mutton carcasses, and flour. There were five great camp fires, with pots, pans, kettles, etc., all full of the breakfast cooking.

I returned and had my report written out when the other column came into the village. This was about 10 o'clock. That afternoon the general and staff rode over the laager across the river.

ANOTHER ATTACK.

We had just returned and I was about dismounting when bang, bang, bang came shots from the kopjes two miles away. We had sent out a troop of Imperial Yeomanry and Warren's scouts to round up stock looted by rebels. The fellows, never suspecting any danger in the kopjes, were taken by surprise and retreated smartly. I galloped to the river bank and saw our fellows coming in, so I at once dashed to the general, asked permission to cross and rally them. He at once granted it, but first ordered me to order out all the troops. I did so and then went as fast as my horse could carry me through the river, over the bank and away up to meet the fellows. The leaders did not see me, but I rallied my own guides, whom I had sent out with Capt. Mackie, and with some of the Yeomanry who also rallied, I galloped up to the foot of the hill, all in extended order, dismounted under a hot fire and into them. The officer commanding the Yeomanry was potted through the leg, while Capt. Mackie's horse at first bolted over the bank. I feel greatly complimented by his action. He dashed to camp, asked for me, found I had gone over some time previously; then he dashed back after me and did splendid work. Turpin and Phillips—my own lads—were both enjoying a well-earned sleep that afternoon, for they had been at my back all the long and anxious night previously. I gave them an off afternoon. By the way, I forgot to say that in the morning when I had dismounted to lead the attack on the village they had to stay with the horses and go around the road. Hearing the firing in the village and on the bank Turpin and Phillips looked for me. Finally they said: "He's in there I'll bet," and came tearing down the roadway like veritable "knights of the turf" of old, and were at my back crossing the river. So I gave them an afternoon off. They were, however, rudely awakened in the afternoon just as I was reaching the foot of the kopje by the booming of OGILVIE'S ARTILLERY.

I attacked the enemy's left in order to give Ogilvie a chance at the right—the most dangerous spot. However, up and onward we went, banging away at every head and flash seen. It was nearly sunset, so the flash showed against the green bushes. Ogilvie, Costigan and Murray were the officers at the fine, and I tell you they did fine work. Two shells especially well planted among a batch of fifty or sixty of the enemy amid sluits on their right completely silenced them. That rifle fire was getting really severe on us. I led on the left, well in advance. I had borrowed the bandolier of one of the Imperial Yeomanry, sent back with a message to the General; so had over 200 rounds; and let me assure you whenever an enemy showed head, smoke or flash, some of our lads sent a bullet somewhere in his locality in very short metre. The lot Ogilvie shelled were either killed, wounded or scared off. They fired no more. I had only the centre and left of the enemy to settle. Tents, a regular village, loomed before me as I came over the crest of a ridge, and women and children everywhere ran screaming and waving white aprons. Yet, on the edge of a bank directly firing over them, were numbers of the enemy. We rattled back at them and pressed on. Not one of the fellows, whether my own guides, Warren's scouts or Imperial Yeomanry, faltered for a moment. A woman appeared beside a tree about 300 yards off. I was just firing at a fellow galloping off near it. One of my lads called out, "Don't shoot, colonel, it's a woman." Just then two flashes among the green of the bushes showed that there were rifles dangerously near, not to say aught of the music. So three or four bullets were sent into the bush. The "woman" turned out to be a man. He had an apron or something in front, but presented the ordinary male appearance as he turned to mount and run. That ended the show.

PLEASED GENERAL WARREN.

We rounded up the stock, and as the women reproached us for firing on them I decided that they should no longer be the first line of defence for Boer riflemen, so marched them bag and baggage to town, with hundreds of sheep, goats, donkeys, etc. The General was greatly pleased. No man ever did better than the boys did the second dash. The "calls" were a score apiece, some hats were ticked, clothes cut, etc., but only one was hit, Capt. Parkin, of Cumberland and Westmoreland. Ogilvie's shells were fine. He once gave the women and children a bang. Fortunately it hit just as it burst. An iron pot and crockery outfit went flying. The broken pan banged a big fat Dutch girl on the back of the shoulders, bruising, but not cutting her. Then he saw that they were women and banged at the men, but at 2,000 yards, amid bushes, they really looked like men, and the rifle fire was coming from the bank just behind them.

Yesterday we rested and rounded up some more stock. To-day we reconnoitred the enemy's position. To-morrow, 24th May, we attack the enemy. I wished another night march and morning attack, but it begins at 3.30 to-morrow instead of to-night. So we'll celebrate May 24th by plugging Boers or being plugged. We think they have guns now and we know they have reinforcements, but you'll know the result long before this reaches you.

A CANADIAN VICTORY.

I hear I have been specially mentioned to His Excellency for my conduct and plans of Monday. But I only did my duty. I was annoyed to see our fellows fail to bring in the stock. But Mackie and Warren's scouts, as well as the Imperial Yeomanry, did splendid service with me. Nothing could be braver. This was quite a Canadian affair. I am A.A.G., Chief of intelligence staff, and brigadier of No. 2 column. Major Ogilvie, Captain Costigan, Capt. Murray—a nephew of Major Jack Murray (W. A. Murray & Co., Toronto) and Capt. (Bull) Ogilvie feel rightly proud of the work they and their men did. I do not believe my attack could have come off without serious loss but for their shrapnel affecting the enemy's right. It was close firing, too, for their shells burst within 450 yards of our left. But they know their business well.

Captain Mackie, of Pembroke, leads Warren's Scouts. He and I have our own mess.

Major Worthington is Surgeon-in-Chief, or rather principal medical officer, for the column, and Major Massey, of Kingston, is principal veterinary surgeon.

Captain Southey, of Bowmanville, who came out with the Canadians as private, is an officer in the Duke of Edinburgh's Own Volunteer Rifles (D.E.O.V.R.)—a Cape Town regiment. Young Perrin, of Cameron, is with Major Ogilvie.

Thus in the attack on Douglas Canadians held the following positions:—

1. Brigadier, commanding No. 2 column and afterwards directing both brigades, Lieut.-Col. Hughes, A. A. G.
2. Officer commanding artillery, Major Ogilvie, R.C.A.
3. Principal medical officer, Major Worthington, R.R.C.I.
4. Officer commanding Warren's Scouts, Capt. Mackie, 42nd Batt.
5. Principal veterinary surgeon, Major Massey, R.C.A.
6. Captain in D.E.O.V.R., Capt. Southey, 46th Batt.
7. Chief transport officer, Capt. Duffus, of the Army Service Corps, an old R.M.C. Halifax boy. Not so bad for Canada, is it? Let us hope to-morrow may turn out successful.

Faithfully,
SAM. HUGHES.

THE FIELD OF GENERAL SPORT

PETERBOROUGH DEFEATS BOWMANVILLE BY ONE RUN IN A TEN INNINGS GAME.

The Peterborough Baseball team journeyed to Bowmanville on Saturday to play a scheduled game in the Midland League. The boys left here accompanied by just two supporters, but they went to win and the two sports are now satisfied that they witnessed the greatest exhibition of baseball that has ever been played by amateur teams.

Bowmanville have a very fast baseball team, and one considered invincible on their own grounds, having never suffered defeat there until Saturday last. Our boys were also out to win, and there resulted one of the fastest games that has been seen this year in the Midland League.

The home team all deserve praise for their very splendid work and it seems almost unfair to make special mention of any particular one, but standing out clearly is the work of McCabe, who certainly must have pitched a wonderful game, having struck out eleven men. Mulhall and Earls were in the game all the time, and gave the good citizens of Bowmanville such an exhibition of base running as they have never before seen. Connors was working at first bag, as may be seen, he having accepted 17 chances, and no errors.

In the first innings Peterborough went to bat and were successful in scoring four runs, which sent their stock away up. In the second they tallied another run, and then Bowmanville steadied down and gave the home team a dose of whitewash, Peterborough for the next five innings getting nil, while their opponents were steadily piling up their score, until at the end of the eighth the score stood a tie, 6 all. It was then that Bowmanville grew confident and their rooters rooted, but to offset this there were a number of Oshawa sports present, and they did root for Peterborough right royally.

Peterborough went to bat for the first half of the ninth and were retired without scoring. Bowmanville followed, and they also failed to score, (still a tie.) In that tenth innings, Earls spit on his hands, grabbed the bat, and walked leisurely up, he gave the plate a tap, swung the bat over his shoulder and kind of took a squint at the left field fence. Bang! the sphere went sailing over the fence, exactly where Earls had his eye. He started around the circuit, making a home run, but owing to an existing ground rule, he was placed back at second, however, he stole third, and came home on a hit by Graham. Bowmanville went to bat, and Bennet knocked out a long fly, which Earls gathered in grand style. Danny struck out Martin and Colwell, winning the game.

LAID THE CORNER STONE.

Ceremony in Connection With New Roman Catholic Church at Havelock.

Yesterday afternoon at three o'clock the ceremony took place of the laying of the corner stone of the new Catholic church at Havelock. It was witnessed by a big gathering of people, many visitors being present from Campbellford, Hastings, Marmora, Norwood and some from town. Rev. Father Conway, the parish priest, officiated and the address was delivered by Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, of Young's Point, who explained the nature and significiance of the ceremony in eloquent style. Other clergymen present were Rev. Father Murtaugh, of Marmora, Rev. Father McCloskey, of Campbellford, and Rev. Father McGuire, of Hastings. The collection taken up was a generous one, people of all denominations contributing. Mrs. Dineen entertained the clergy and committee at dinner and set forth a most appetising spread. The new church will be of brick with stone foundation. Mr. C. Rutherford is contractor.

plaintiffs, under which they were to expend moneys in doing certain acts for plaintiffs' benefit, which they had done at great expense, and that plaintiffs were estopped from contesting the defendants' right to retain possession of their right-of-way, and defendants counter-claimed for a conveyance. Held, that plaintiffs should be left to the remedies provided by the Railway Act; their claim was entirely without merit; the intention of the resolution was to give defendants a free right-of-way over the island to some mills and factories, which (it was to be assumed) were a benefit to the town. The Mayor appeared before the Privy Council in support of the application of defendants, and the latter took all proper steps and spent several thousand dollars in building the spur and compensating persons affected by it. If plaintiffs' contention is right, their proper and only remedy is compensation under the Railway Act. But, if they are estopped by their acquiescence and by the expenditure of money at their request, they cannot succeed in the action. The defendants have not shown themselves entitled to a conveyance. Both action and counter-claim dismissed with costs. Edwards, Q. C., for plaintiffs; H. D. Armour, Q. C., and Angus MacMurchy, for defendants.

A SYMBOLIC LANGUAGE.

What an Educated Chinaman Has to Say of Its Peculiarities.

The Chinese language is a purely symbolic language. All other languages are phonetic or alphabetical. In all the phonetic languages the sounds that are heard in the spoken language are analysed or split up into a few elementary sounds which by combination form words. To each of these few elementary sounds an arbitrary sign on paper is assigned, and these signs constitute the alphabet. Thus in any European language and in any other language except Chinese the sound of the voice in speaking is the basis of the written language. They are all phonetic. If the same sound is used to represent two or more ideas, this makes no difference. The appropriate letters of the alphabet are used, and the writer relies upon the neighboring words to prevent absurdity.

The Chinese written language is totally different from this. It has no alphabet at all and no approach to an alphabet, but proceeds on a different basis, which will be best brought home to an American by a simple illustration: When traveling recently in Belgium, I had occasion to examine a railway time table, and there I found that certain railway stations where refreshments might be procured were marked by a little representation of a wine cup.

This is Chinese writing. What mode of writing could be briefer or more to the purpose or more mistakable! You see the drawing of a glass, it stares you in the face, and you know that refreshments there await your exhausted frame. The symbol expresses an idea quite apart from the spoken utterance of that idea.

The chief disadvantage of any phonetic system is that since the writing follows the sound, and sound of a language is constantly changing, the written language changes too. This change is less rapid since the discovery of the art of printing, but there is still a gradual change. There is no fixity, no element of permanency in such a language. But symbolic language never changes. As long as the idea to be expressed remains the same idea it is expressed the same way. The work written in Chinese thousands of years ago can be read now with ease and certainty.

Vampires Not Bloodsuckers.

Mr. James Rhen, who is engaged in a special study of bats, says that it is a fallacy that the vampire is a bloodsucker. Travelers and story writers are responsible for the story of the terrible bloodsucking vampire bats of South America. Nearly all general writers on this subject agree with them as to its criminal record, and they all concur in laying the blame on a large grotesque looking bat with an enormous leaf nose, the Vampyrus spectrum. This bat is common in South and Central America and, from his great size, being about two feet across the outspread wings, is a suggestive and repulsive enough object to impute the blood loving habit to.

As a matter of fact, this is a somewhat useful animal and is totally innocent of these charge, the bloodsuckers being two much smaller and rarer bats. The front teeth of these two latter are enormous lancets occupying over half the tooth row of the animals and possessing very sharp edges, which can easily penetrate the human skin. The teeth of the big vampire, on the other hand, are simply adapted for a diet of insects and fruit. The true bloodsucking bats are much rarer than the vampire.—Philadelphia Record.

MOUNTED RIFLES IN BATTLE.

Hutton's Force Assists to Defeat a Boer Flank Movement.

Rustenburg Held in the Queen's Name—Hanbury-Tracy's Answer to a Call of Surrender—Capt. Nelles of Toronto One of Two Officers Wounded—Of 26 Men Hit Six Are Canadians and One Will Die—Boers Forced Back.

London, July 10.—The following despatch from Lord Roberts has been received at the War Office:

"Pretoria, Sunday, July 8.—As the enemy for some days had been threatening our line of railway by trying to get around our right flank I despatched Hutton July 5, with mounted infantry to reinforce Mahon and with orders to drive the Boers to the east of Broenkerspruit. These orders were effectually carried out during Friday and Saturday by Mahon who was attacked by some three thousand men with six guns and two maxims. Our casualties were: Wounded—two officers, including Capt. Nelles, of the Canadian Mounted Rifles, slightly, and twenty-six men.

"Steyn left Bethlehem on the night of July 4 for Fouriesburg, between Bethlehem and Ficksburg, accompanied by Christian De Wet and other Free State commanders with troops reported numbering 8,000.

Would Not Surrender.

"Hanbury-Tracy, commanding at Rustenburg, reports that a party of Boers under Limmer called on him yesterday to surrender the town and garrison. Hanbury-Tracy replied that he held Rustenburg for her Majesty's Government and intended to continue to occupy it. The enemy then opened fire with artillery and tried to take the heights commanding the town but did not succeed, owing to the good arrangements made by Hanbury-Tracy and his officers. Eventually they were driven off with the assistance of Holdsworth and his Hussars, who made a rapid march of 48 miles from the neighborhood of Zeerust, with the Bushmen under Col. Airie on hearing Rustenburg was likely to be threatened. The enemy suffered heavily and five men were captured. Our casualties were two men killed and one officer and three men wounded."

Nervousness is cured by making the blood rich and pure with Hood's Sarsaparilla. It gives the sweet refreshing sleep of childhood.

HUTTON AGAIN FIGHTING.

Boers Attacked Him, But He Cut Them Off Without Difficulty.

London, July 10.—Lord Roberts yesterday telegraphed the War Office from Pretoria, as follows:

"The Officer commanding at Heilbron reports that State Secretary Blignaut, State Attorney Dickson and members of the Council Vantander Kuppervergen, came in yesterday and surrendered.

Hutton Cut Off Boers.

"Hutton was attacked yesterday in a position he was holding by a large number of Boers. He cut them off without much difficulty. The five-inch guns with him are being found most useful. Our only casualty was Lieut. Young, of the 1st Canadian Mounted Troop; slight scalp wound. The enemy left several wounded on the ground, and sent a flag of truce, with a request that they might be received in our field hospital.

"I regret to say that Capt. Curtis and Lieut. Kirk, of the Imperial Light Horse, who were reported wounded in my telegram of yesterday, were both killed. One squadron of this distinguished corps pressed a very severe force of the enemy in a gallant attempt to carry off a wounded comrade, to which they attribute the heavy loss sustained. In addition to the officers, a farrier-sergeant and three troopers were killed, and the sergt.-major, three sergeants and seven troopers wounded."

Startling Developments Expected.

Cape Town, July 10.—It is reported here that President Kruger's retention of large amounts of gold at Machadodorp has created the utmost discontent among the officers and men. They expected substantial rewards for championing the Boer interests, but have received none. It is added that visiting foreigners, who have subsequently advocated intervention, are believed to have received substantial sums. Proofs, it is further asserted, have been discovered in Pretoria which promise startling developments.

Ottawa, July 10.—The Militia Department yesterday received a report from Lieut.-Col. Otter, dated Johannesburg, July 9th, reporting that his battalion has been taken from the 19th Brigade and detailed for duty at Springs.

What You Pay For Medicine

Is no Test of Its Curative Value—Prescriptions Versus Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are just as much a doctor's prescription as any formula your family physician can give you. The difference is that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills were perfected after the formula had proven itself of inestimable value in scores of hundreds of cases.

Dr. Chase won almost as much popularity from his ability to cure kidney disease, liver complaint, and backache, with this formula, as he did from the publication of his great recipe book.

The idea of one treatment reaching the kidneys and liver at the same time was original with Dr. Chase. It accounts for the success of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in curing the most complicated ailments of the filtering organs, and every form of backache.

As a family medicine Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are unapproached. They keep the kidneys, liver, and bowels healthy, active, and regular, and so prevent and cure nine-tenths of the ills to which humanity is subject. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

VIGOROUS PROTESTS FROM FRIENDS.

The wholesale extravagance of the Laurier Government, its endeavor to maintain power by a lavish expenditure of the people's money, is not being accepted by all Liberals with rejoicing and shouts of approbation.

The Farmer's Sun, edited by a strong Grit-Patron, makes this strong protest:—

"It would be idle for any one to attempt to prove that in this case performance is in harmony with promise. The figures show on their face the extent of the Liberal apostacy. The Government has apparently concluded that the people want to be bought, and has decided that they shall have no occasion to dicker over the price. Many an old-time Liberal will wish that the Sir Richard Cartwright of old were in the House of Commons to flay the Government. The Government may in its course secure the support of corrupted voters and venal interests, but they will lose the support of many a Liberal who, without hope or desire for personal reward, spared neither time nor effort in 1896 to secure the triumph of his party's cause."

And this is the Government that promised economy, was to reduce expenditure and lessen taxation. No wonder such protests are heard, and that the conviction is becoming stronger and stronger that the end of Liberal rule will come with an appeal to the people.

The Bobcaygeon Independent has had a good word for the Laurier Government on all occasions and never misses a chance to get a blow at the Conservative leader. But even with its Grit leanings the Independent cannot stand the present reign of extravagance without a protest. It says:—

"On many occasions this journal has assured Mr. Laurier that he possesses its esteem and respect. That esteem and respect he still possesses, but this journal would be neglecting its duty if it neglected to warn Mr. Laurier that he has latterly departed from his original wise and economic course and is becoming exceedingly extravagant. This will not do at all. The supplementary estimates have been introduced into the House of Commons and they amount to more than seven millions of dollars. This sum added to the previous estimates amounts to about fifty-six millions of dollars which Mr. Laurier proposes to spend in the current year. It is a great deal too much. A considerable percentage of that large sum of money will be expended, not in the interest of economy, but to secure votes, not to benefit the people of Canada, but to please and conciliate the passing popular whims of the moment. When Mr. Laurier was in opposition he talked economy, favored a reduced expenditure, said the Conservative Government was wasting the resources of Canada, and declared that the annual cost of government was much too high. He asks now for $56,000,000, a sum one-third larger than was ever expended by the Conservatives. This is unreasonable.

"The staid non-partisan element would like to see considerably more stiffness in the back displayed by the Government. It is much too easily swayed by the famished, grasping party pushers, and the frothy clamor of the ignorant mob. It can be well understood that the workers of the party machine, after a twenty-year famine, will be greedy to gorge themselves on the flesh pots of Egypt, but the Government might with wisdom impress upon those clamoring for the spoils, that ten years of a moderate feast would be better than five years of disgusting gluttony. That the Opposition has supported the larger grants, and encouraged even greater extravagance is no excuse. The Opposition would naturally encourage the Government to write its own doom. The session has been much too prolonged. It has caused an enervating and weakening condition, that Mr. Laurier should have avoided by administering an iron tonic to his Cabinet."

Last week it was feared that Manitoba was in for a period of hard times, as the crop prospects were poor in consequence of the drouth. But a heavy rainfall has changed the whole picture, and now prosperity and good times promise to continue. Yet the Laurier orators will tell the farmers that the Liberal Government has made the good times and made them prosperous. If it had not rained, the hard times, of course, would have been blamed on the drouth.

And now a scandal has cropped up in Mr. Blair's department, and in connection, too, with the oil for the Intercolonial, which the Examiner was boasting he had made such a saving in. The charge is that tenders were disregarded and the supplying of the oil given to a company, concerned, it is said, with the Standard Oil Co., at a much higher figure than was asked by other firms for a superior oil. The hand of the Standard Oil monopoly seems to appear very frequently under Laurier-Tarte-Blair rule, and an investigation of this oil scandal would be interesting. But it cannot be had this session.

Ottawa, July 10.—Mrs. J. Isbester, Ottawa, received on Saturday the following cable from Capt. Adamson of Strathcona's Horse: "Colin prisoner and wounded."

This refers to Colin Isbester, one of the draft sent out to strengthen Strathcona's Horse. The cable is dated Cape Town, July 7, but had evidently been forwarded from a place up the country.

ENEMY'S PLANS UPSET.

Fighting Their Way to Coomassie, the British Lost Six Men Killed and 88 Wounded.

London, July 10.—The Colonial Office has received the following despatch from Colonel Willcocks, dated Fumsu, Ashantee:

"Three companies of troops joined Col. Burroughs' regiment at Dompoasi, at the exact hour appointed, thus upsetting the plans of the enemy, who offered no resistance. Burroughs attacked Kokofu July 3, but failed to take the town. Lt. Brownlee and six soldiers were killed and 82 were wounded, including several officers slightly wounded. Proceed to Bekwai to-morrow. About 30,000 Ashantees are awaiting our approach at Coomassie."

The Journey Was Severe.

Later the Colonial Office issued the text of a telegram from the Governor of the Gold Coast, Sir Frederick Mitchell Hodgson, dated Akwaboasi, July 1, which said he had crossed the Ofin River with the force that left Coomassie, accompanied by Lady Hodgson and other Europeans. A special service officer and an assistant inspector died of wounds and hardships. The journey, he adds, was very severe.

PRINCE CHING V. PRINCE TUAN

Rivalry Between Chinese Factions Makes Outlook Hopeful.

All the Artillery Ammunition Intended for the Big Guns Trained Upon the Foreign Legations in Pekin Was Seized by Prince Ching—Empress Dowager Very Much Alive—H. M. S. Terrible's Guns Do Effective Work.

London, July 10.—(3.25 a. m.)—With the foreigners in Pekin probably safe amidst civil war, with Prince Ching on their side, with the powers and their forces constantly increasing, the outlook in China is now rather more hopeful than it ahs been for a month past. It appears from the cautious statement given out by Taotai Sheng in Shanghai that the reason the heavy guns bearing on the legations at Pekin were not used is that Prince Ching, who is served by 10,000 troops, seized all the artillery ammunition.

Yung Lu With Prince Ching.

Sheng likewise intimates that Yung Lu, commander-in-chief of the northern army, is associated with Prince Ching in opposing Prince Tuan's ferocious designs and dictatorial ambition. Sheng, who appears to be the sole Shanghai conduit of Pekin news, cheers the foreign consuls by these confidential communications, but takes excessive precautions to prevent the Chinese from thinking him friendly to the foreigners.

Unrest Continues.

The feeling of unrest in the southern and central provinces continues. The members of the official class in those provinces strive to remain neutral, with a leaning toward the foreigners, until they shall see whether the moderate or extreme factions will win in Pekin.

Prince Ching seems to be standing for the dynasty and old order against Prince Tuan's ambition.

Pekin is the Key.

From a foreign view point the capture of Pekin is the key to the situation, as there is a fear, says The Daily Mail's Shanghai correspondent, that delay now means 100 recruits for the Boxers for every soldier of the allies in the land.

A Letter From Sir Claude.

Two couriers arrived in Tien Tsin on July 1 from Pekin. One brought a letter from Sir Claude Macdonald to the same effect as that previously received from Sir Robert Hart. The couriers confirm the reports of the death of Baron Von Kettelor. They say that Prince Ching is doing his utmost to protect the foreigners, but that the native feeling against the whites is strong. Two high officials opposed to the Boxers are reported by the couriers to have been assassinated.

Sir Claude Macdonald's letter is dated four days earlier than that of Sir Robert Hart's.

Empress Dowager Very Much Alive.

A despatch to News Agency here, dated Tien Tsin, July 2, says: "The Empress-Dowager so far from being dead, is actively striving to prevent the factions fighting. Prince Chung has informed her that he would rather lose his head than be constantly obliged to warn her of the consequences of the prolongation of the present anarchy.

"Prince Tuan is quite willing that Ching should be decapitated, but the Dowager-Empress will not alow this. Prince Tuan has decided that he will take full responsibility. He purposes to retake Tien Tsin and Taku. Outside of Pekin, except in the Pe Chi Li and Shantung country, the people are supremely indifferent.

Tough Times at Tien Tsin.

However all this may be, the allies at Tien Tsin are having an exceedingly unpleasant time. The last engagement of which news has come through occurred on July 6. The Chinese artillery opened at dawn Their fire was more accurate, and their munition better, shells exploding with precision and setting fire to several buildings. H.M.S. Terrible's guns again quieted the Chinese, who, shifting their artillery, reopened the attack in the afternoon, but a thunderstorm breaking, the Chinese suddenly quit.

Drove Back the Chinese.

The allies immediately attacked, and drove the Chinese from their works, but lost 30 killed or wounded in so doing. The non-combatants are leaving Tien Tsin, and the opinion of a majority favors the military leaving also. Stories of colossal Chinese armies gathering continue to worry not only the rank and file, but the commanders, who admit the uncertainty of reconnaissances and the complete absence of an effective intelligence department.

Where Is the Confirmation?

London, July 10.—The Times this morning says: "Some Chinese officials are evidently desirous to have it believed in Europe that the legations in Pekin are still under the protection of one section of the Chinese army, but that only makes it more remarkable that they should not employ the only convincing argument by allowing direct communication between the Ministers and the outer world. We do not wish to insist too strongly upon this aspect, but these circumstantial rumors lack the confirmation so easily supplied, if they are true."

English Firms Sold Guns to China.

Mr. George Wyndham, Parliamentary Under Secretary of State for War, said in the House of Commons yesterday that since 1895 English firms had sold the Chinese Government 71 guns of position, 123 field guns and 297 machine guns, with ammunition for each class. He also said that a German firm had sold China 460,000 Mauser rifles.

Russia Says Japan "Must."

St. Petersburg, July 10.—Authoritative information just obtained confirms the report that Russia has consented to and is even desirious that Japan should actively co-operate in the pacification of China. Russia places no limit on the number of Japanese troops to be employed, and only stipulates that this agreement is not to constitute a mandate whereby Japan will obtain a privileged position. Japan, it is added, must cooperate in the work of pacification on the same conditions as the other powers.

Troops to China Via B.C.

Montreal, July 10.—The Star publishes the following special cables from London:

"London, July 9.—The Admiralty has been in communication with the Canadian Pacific regarding the transit of troops via Vancouver to China. Nothing has been settled as yet."

Japanese Forces for China.

Yokohama, July 10.—The Government has finally decided to immediately despatch 23,000 men and 5,000 horses to China.

LT.-COL. STONE RESIGNS.

No Satisfactory Explanation of His Status After Gen. Hutton Left.

Ottawa, July 10.—Lieut.-Col. Stone, commanding the Canadian Artillery, appointed a year ago by Major-General Hutton, has sent in his resignation to the Militia Department.

Ever since the departure of Gen. Hutton Lieut.-Col. Stone has been restless. He has found his position an anomalous one, and in spite of frequent communications with the Militia Department, has been unable to get a satisfactory explanation of his status. Hence his resignation, which was received yesterday. This may wake up the indolent Militia Department, for Col. Stone is looked upon as an exceedingly useful officer, who has done much for the Canadian Artillery.

Afridis Raided Afghans.

London, July 10.—Advices to The Express from Peshawur in the Punjab, under date of June 19, says: "Six hundred Afridis made a sudden night descent on 200 Afghans who were engaged in building a fort near Dacca, and killed a number of them. It is feared in some official Indian circles that another Afridi war is brewing.

Eminent Medical Man Dead.

Montreal, July 10.—Dr. Norbert Fafard, Professor of Chemistry at Laval University, and a most eminent member of the medical profession, died yesterday.

"May good digestion wait on appetite and health on both."

That sentence from Shakespeare is a genuine benediction of the body. In this as in so many other things the intuition of his mighty mind seems to have fathomed the facts which science has slowly discovered.

Science has shown that disease in any part of the body is almost always accompanied by weakness and failure of the digestive and assimilative organs. Under these conditions the stomach, liver and blood-making glands fail in their appointed work. Then the symptoms of disease appear, often in organs apparently remote from the real cause. Vitality is lowered. There is a dull and sluggish feeling often accompanied by headache. The heart may seem affected. There may be lack of ambition and energy with mental irresolution. With such symptoms as these "delay is dangerous." Such a condition affords the favorite starting point for consumption. It is useless to "doctor" for the symptoms. The remedy that reaches the cure must reach the cause of disease. The greatest medicine for all diseases of the stomach and other digestive and nutritive organs is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It restores the appetite, re-establishes a sound digestion, purges out the bilious poisons which infect the blood, carries off waste and builds up sound and healthy tissue. The "Discovery" is not a stimulant. It contains no alcohol or whisky. No other medicine has so great a record of cures, therefore accept no substitute.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure constipation.

LIFE..

A question of great interest for intending insurers is which Canadian Life Company is in highest favor with the insuring Canadian public? The following table is a good indicator:

Name of Company.	Commenced Business.	Canadian Business Written in 1899
North American	1881	$4,834,505
Sun Life	1871	3,996,865
Ontario Mutual	1870	3,965,509
Confederation	1871	3,839,469
Canada Life	1847	3,800,917

The above are the five leading Canadian Companies and although the North American is much the youngest in years, she is outstripping all her rivals in the Canadian field.

THE PARIS EXPOSITION.

The designs of too many of the Paris fair buildings look like millinery instead of architecture.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The American exhibit which is attracting the most attention at the Paris exposition is the large round dollar displayed by the American visitor.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

The Paris exposition is making a very bad start. The part of it that will stand without propping is inclined to take fire without the slightest provocation.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The cost of seeing everything on the grounds of the Paris exposition is estimated at $120 to $204. France has evidently started in to make a big stake out of her big show.—Minneapolis Tribune.

Mrs. Potter Palmer says that the Paris exposition is far inferior to the Chicago World's fair. But Mrs. Palmer is a Chicago lady and expects to return home when her duties at the exposition are at an end.

What You Pay For Medicine

Is no Test of Its Curative Value—Prescriptions Versus Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are just as much a doctor's prescription as any formula your family physician can give you. The difference is that Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills were perfected after the formula had proven itself of inestimable value in scores of hundreds of cases.

Dr. Chase won almost as much popularity from his ability to cure kidney disease, liver complaint, and backache, with this formula, as he did from the publication of his great recipe book.

The idea of one treatment reaching the kidneys and liver at the same time was original with Dr. Chase. It accounts for the success of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in curing the most complicated ailments of the filtering organs, and every form of backache.

As a family medicine Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are unapproached. They keep the kidneys, liver, and bowels healthy, active, and regular, and so prevent and cure nine-tenths of the ills to which humanity is subject. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

VIGOROUS PROTESTS FROM FRIENDS.

The wholesale extravagance of the Laurier Government, its endeavor to maintain power by a lavish expenditure of the people's money, is not being accepted by all Liberals with rejoicing and shouts of approbation.

The Farmer's Sun, edited by a strong Grit-Patron, makes this strong protest:—

"It would be idle for any one to attempt to prove that in this case performance is in harmony with promise. The figures show on their face the extent of the Liberal apostacy. The Government has apparently concluded that the people want to be bought, and has decided that they shall have no occasion to dicker over the price. Many an old-time Liberal will wish that the Sir Richard Cartwright of old were in the House of Commons to flay the Government. The Government may in its course secure the support of corrupted voters and venal interests, but they will lose the support of many a Liberal who, without hope or desire for personal reward, spared neither time nor effort in 1896 to secure the triumph of his party's cause."

And this is the Government that promised economy, was to reduce expenditure and lessen taxation. No wonder such protests are heard, and that the conviction is becoming stronger and stronger that the end of Liberal rule will come with an appeal to the people.

The Bobcaygeon Independent has had a good word for the Laurier Government on all occasions and never misses a chance to get a blow at the Conservative leader. But even with its Grit leanings the Independent cannot stand the present reign of extravagance without a protest. It says:—

"On many occasions this journal has assured Mr. Laurier that he possesses its esteem and respect. That esteem and respect he still possesses, but this journal would be neglecting its duty if it neglected to warn Mr. Laurier that he has latterly departed from his original wise and economic course and is becoming exceedingly extravagant. This will not do at all. The supplementary estimates have been introduced into the House of Commons and they amount to more than seven millions of dollars. This sum added to the previous estimates amounts to about fifty-six millions of dollars which Mr. Laurier proposes to spend in the current year. It is a great deal too much. A considerable percentage of that large sum of money will be expended, not in the interest of economy, but to secure votes, not to benefit the people of Canada, but to please and conciliate the passing popular whims of the moment. When Mr. Laurier was in opposition he talked economy, favored a reduced expenditure, said the Conservative Government was wasting the resources of Canada, and declared that the annual cost of government was much too high. He asks now for $56,000,000, a sum one-third larger than was ever expended by the Conservatives. This is unreasonable.

"The staid non-partisan element would like to see considerably more stiffness in the back displayed by the Government. It is much too easily swayed by the famished, grasping party pushers, and the frothy clamor of the ignorant mob. It can be well understood that the workers of the party machine, after a twenty-year famine, will be greedy to gorge themselves on the flesh pots of Egypt, but the Government might with wisdom impress upon these clamoring for the spoils, that ten years of a moderate feast would be better than five years of disgusting gluttony. That the Opposition has supported the larger grants, and encouraged even greater extravagance is no excuse. The Opposition would naturally encourage the Government to write its own doom. The session has been much too prolonged. It has caused an enervating and weakening condition, that Mr. Laurier should have avoided by administering an iron tonic to his Cabinet."

Last week it was feared that Manitoba was in for a period of hard times, as the crop prospects were poor in consequence of the drouth. But a heavy rainfall has changed the whole picture, and now prosperity and good times promise to continue. Yet the Laurier orators will tell the farmers that the Liberal Government has made the good times and made them prosperous. If it had not rained, the hard times, of course, would have been blamed on the drouth.

And now a scandal has cropped up in Mr. Blair's department, and in connection, too, with the oil for the Intercolonial, which the Examiner was boasting he had made such a saving in. The charge is that tenders were disregarded and the supplying of the oil given to a company, concerned, it is said, with the Standard Oil Co., at a much higher figure than was asked by other firms for a superior oil. The hand on the Standard Oil monopoly seems to appear very frequently under Laurier-Tarte-Blair rule, and an investigation of this oil scandal would be interesting. But it cannot be had this session.

Ottawa, July 10.—Mrs. J. Isbester, Ottawa, received on Saturday the following cable from Capt. Adamson of Strathcona's Horse: "Colin prisoner and wounded."

This refers to Colin Isbester, one of the draft sent out to strengthen Strathcona's Horse. The cable is dated Cape Town, July 7, but had evidently been forwarded from a place up the country.

ENEMY'S PLANS UPSET.

Fighting Their Way to Coomassie, the British Lost Six Men Killed and 82 Wounded.

London, July 10.—The Colonial Office has received the following despatch from Colonel Willcocks, dated Fumsu, Ashantee:

"Three companies of troops joined Col. Burroughs' regiment at Dompoasi, at the exact hour appointed, thus upsetting the plans of the enemy, who offered no resistance. Burroughs attacked Kokofu July 8, but failed to take the town. Lt. Brownlee and six soldiers were killed and 82 were wounded, including several officers slightly wounded. Proceed to Bekwai to-morrow. About 30,000 Ashantees are awaiting our approach at Coomassie."

The Journey Was Severe.

Later the Colonial Office issued the text of a telegram from the Governor of the Gold Coast, Sir Frederick Mitchell Hodgson, dated Akwaboasi, July 1, which said he had crossed the Ofin River with the force that left Coomassie, accompanied by Lady Hodgson and other Europeans. A special service officer and an assistant inspector died of wounds and hardships. The journey, he adds, was very severe.

PRINCE CHING V. PRINCE TUAN

Rivalry Between Chinese Factions Makes Outlook Hopeful.

All the Artillery Ammunition Intended for the Big Guns Trained Upon the Foreign Legations in Pekin Was Seized by Prince Ching—Empress Dowager Very Much Alive—H. M. S. Terrible's Guns Do Effective Work.

London, July 10.—(3.25 a. m.)—With the foreigners in Pekin probably safe amidst civil war, with Prince Ching on their side, with the powers and their forces constantly increasing, the outlook in China is now rather more hopeful than it ahs been for a month past. It appears from the cautious statement given out by Taotai Sheng in Shanghai that the reason the heavy guns bearing on the legations at Pekin were not used is that Prince Ching, who is served by 10,000 troops, seized all the artillery ammunition.

Yung Lu With Prince Ching.

Sheng likewise intimates that Yung Lu, commander-in-chief of the northern army, is associated with Prince Ching in opposing Prince Tuan's ferocious designs and dictatorial ambition. Sheng, who appears to be the sole Shanghai conduit of Pekin news, cheers the foreign consuls by these confidential communications, but takes excessive precautions to prevent the Chinese from thinking him friendly to the foreigners.

Unrest Continues.

The feeling of unrest in the southern and central provinces continues. The members of the official class in those provinces strive to remain neutral, with a leaning toward the foreigners, until they shall see whether the moderate or extreme factions will win in Pekin.

Prince Ching seems to be standing for the dynasty and old order against Prince Tuan's ambition.

Pekin is the Key.

From a foreign view point the capture of Pekin is the key to the situation, as there is a fear, says The Daily Mail's Shanghai correspondent, that delay now means 100 recruits for the Boxers for every soldier of the allies in the land.

A Letter From Sir Claude.

Two couriers arrived in Tien Tsin on July 1 from Pekin. One brought a letter from Sir Claude Macdonald to the same effect as that previously received from Sir Robert Hart. The couriers confirm the reports of the death of Baron Von Ketteler. They say that Prince Ching is doing his utmost to protect the foreigners, but that the native feeling against the whites is strong. Two high officials opposed to the Boxers are reported by the couriers to have been assassinated.

Sir Claude Macdonald's letter is dated four days earlier than that of Sir Robert Hart's.

Empress Dowager Very Much Alive.

A despatch to News Agency here, dated Tien Tsin, July 2, says: "The Empress-Dowager so far from being dead, is actively striving to prevent the factions fighting. Prince Chung has informed her that he would rather lose his head than be constantly obliged to warn her of the consequences of the prolongation of the present anarchy.

"Prince Tuan is quite willing that Ching should be decapitated, but the Dowager-Empress will not alow this. Prince Tuan has decided that he will take full responsibility. He purposes to retake Tien Tsin and Taku. Outside of Pekin, except in the Pe Chi Li and Shantung country, the people are supremely indifferent.

Tough Times at Tien Tsin.

However all this may be, the allies at Tien Tsin are having an exceedingly unpleasant time. The last engagement of which news has come through occurred on July 6. The Chinese artillery opened at dawn. Their fire was more accurate, and their munition better, shells exploding with precision and setting fire to several buildings. H.M.S. Terrible's guns again quieted the Chinese, who, shifting their artillery, reopened the attack in the afternoon, but a thunderstorm breaking, the Chinese suddenly quit.

Drove Back the Chinese.

The allies immediately attacked, and drove the Chinese from their works, but lost 30 killed or wounded in so doing. The non-combatants are leaving Tien Tsin, and the opinion of a majority favors the military leaving also. Stories of colossal Chinese armies gathering continue to worry not only the rank and file, but the commanders, who admit the uncertainty of reconnaissances and the complete absence of an effective intelligence department.

Where Is the Confirmation?

London, July 10.—The Times this morning says: "Some Chinese officials are evidently desirious to have it believed in Europe that the legations in Pekin are still under the protection of one section of the Chinese army, but that only makes it more remarkable that they should not employ the only convincing argument by allowing direct communication between the Ministers and the outer world. We do not wish to insist too strongly upon this aspect, but these circumstantial rumors lack the confirmation so easily supplied, if they are true."

English Firms Send Guns to China.

Mr. George Wyndham, Parliamentary Under Secretary of State for War, said in the Hause of Commons yesterday that since 1895 English firms had sold the Chinese Government 71 guns of position, 128 field guns and 297 machine guns, with ammunition for each class. He also said that a German firm had sold China 460,000 Mauser rifles.

Russia Says Japan "Must."

St. Petersburg, July 10.—Authoritative information just obtained confirms the report that Russia has consented to and is even desirious that Japan should actively co-operate in the pacification of China. Russia places no limit on the number of Japanese troops to be employed, and only stipulates that this agreement is not to constitute a mandate whereby Japan will obtain a privileged position. Japan, it is added, must cooperate in the work of pacification on the same conditions as the other powers.

Troops to China Via B.C.

Montreal, July 10.—The Star publishes the following special cables from London:

"London, July 9.—The Admiralty has been in communication with the Canadian Pacific regarding the transit of troops via Vancouver to China. Nothing has been settled as yet."

Japanese Forces for China.

Yokohama, July 10.—The Government has finally decided to immediately despatch 28,000 men and 5,000 horses to China.

LT.-COL. STONE RESIGNS.

No Satisfactory Explanation of His Status After Gen. Hutton Left.

Ottawa, July 10.—Lieut.-Col. Stone, commanding the Canadian Artillery, appointed a year ago by Major-General Hutton, has sent in his resignation to the Militia Department.

Ever since the departure of Gen. Hutton Lieut.-Col. Stone has been restless. He has found his position an anomalous one, and in spite of frequent communications with the Militia Department, has been unable to get a satisfactory explanation of his status. Hence his resignation, which was received yesterday. This may wake up the indolent Militia Department, for Col. Stone is looked upon as an exceedingly useful officer, who has done much for the Canadian Artillery.

Afridis Raided Afghans.

London, July 10.—Advices to The Express from Peshawur in the Punjab, under date of June 19, says: "Six hundred Afridis made a sudden night descent on 200 Afghans who were engaged in building a fort near Dacca, and killed a number of them. It is feared in some official Indian circles that another Afridi war is brewing.

Eminent Medical Man Dead.

Montreal, July 10.—Dr. Norbert Fafard, Professor of Chemistry at Laval University, and a most eminent member of the medical profession, died yesterday.

"May good digestion wait on appetite and health on both."

That sentence from Shakespeare is a genuine benediction of the body. In this as in so many other things the intuition of his mighty mind seems to have fathomed the facts which science has slowly discovered.

Science has shown that disease in any part of the body is almost always accompanied by weakness and failure of the digestive and assimilative organs. Under these conditions the stomach, liver and blood-making glands fail in their appointed work. Then the symptoms of disease appear, often in organs apparently remote from the real cause. Vitality is lowered. There is a dull and sluggish feeling often accompanied by headache. The heart may seem affected. There may be lack of ambition and energy with mental irresolution. With such symptoms as these "delay is dangerous." Such a condition affords the favorite starting point for consumption. It is useless to "doctor" for the symptoms. The remedy that reaches the case must reach the cause of disease. The greatest medicine for all diseases of the stomach and other digestive and nutritive organs is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It restores the appetite, re-establishes a sound digestion, pumps out the bilious poisons which infect the blood, carries off waste and builds up sound and healthy tissues. The "Discovery" is not a stimulant. It contains no alcohol or whisky. No other medicine has so great a record of cures, therefore accept no substitute.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure constipation.

Chronic Indigestion

By far the most important part of digestion takes place in the intestines and it is folly to expect stomach medicines to cure a severe case of indigestion or dyspepsia. The kidneys, liver and bowels must first be made regular and active, and the only remedy which acts directly on these organs is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They are purely vegetable, act pleasantly and naturally and positively cure dyspepsia, biliousness and stomach troubles. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box; take no substitute.

HIS LAST LETTER.

Late Trooper W. J. Hampton's Last Letter to His Family.

The following is the last letter received by his brother from the late W. J. Hampton, of Norwood, who died last month of enteric fever in South Africa:—

Bloemfontein, Orange Free State,
May 8th, 1900.

Mr. B. A. Hampton,
Parkbeg, Assa., N.W.T., Canada.

My Dear Brother,—You may know how I laughed when I received the letter you sent to Halifax, written on that piece of card board. I just got it the other day, when we were camping on Fischer's Farm, a place ten miles further up country than this town. Still I was glad to get even that out here, for you may say I have had no news at all since the 1st of April, then Emma said they intended to go west about the 10th. Percy Wasson had a letter from his mother saying that father was taking two car loads of cattle with him. I wish now I had stayed at home and helped, as I should have done, for now I do not know what he has done or how anything has gone on. I will feel worse, too, when I come home and find everything under way and I have had nothing to do towards helping him. That he will get along I feel assured, and I intend coming home as soon as I can after getting my discharge. If I can get the Government to take me on out through with the men from the west I will probably go with them, and if not I will use my pay to take me out. I would like to drop off in Norwood for a day and say "good day," turn around and say "good-bye."

You need not be alarmed about my staying here. Although I do not regret coming, as far as the trip is concerned, yet truly I did not move toward my best interest when I came out here, and will have to work to make up, that is all.

I will have lots of little stories to tell when I get back.

I suppose you sometimes read about British cruelties to the Dutch Boers out here, in burning their dwellings, taking their food, and making them prisoners. Well, here is the reason: One day we were sent out to examine some dwellings outside of Bloemfontein. Our troop was twenty-eight strong, and we divided in parties of four. I had charge of one four, and when I went up to a house a pitiful sight met my gaze. A woman, with an infant on her knee, was sitting on a wash tub crying and sobbing, saying her husband was killed at Paardeberg and her eldest son was a prisoner at St. Helena. We searched the house for arms, but found none; then I commanded her to rise, and underneath the wash tub was seven thousand five hundred rounds of ammunition; so we took that, all the bread she had, and set fire to the house. Then going out to the field, where a sentry outside had seen something moving, we found hidden under an orange tree the man and son. Under a tree close by there was a plough and the ground was dug up.

Thinking that strange for this time of year, and under a tree, too, I had them dig there, and unearthed seven Mauser rifles. See why we had to take the men prisoners and burn the house. It is hard, but such is war.

Our troop and division is away toward Kroonstad and Johannesburg now. I am still in Bloemfontein. Ever since we were at Springfontein I have had dysentery, and had I let it go any further I would surely have had enteric fever, so I went on sick list and was sent to hospital. I am going to the convalescent camp to-day, and will try and join the division on Saturday. This is Tuesday, and Saturday will be Emma's birthday. On the Queen's birthday we expect to be in Pretoria, the guests of Oom Paul.

Well, I guess this is all this time. Good-bye, and good luck.

Your brother,
WM. JAS. HAMPTON.

Colds that Hang on

Pneumonia is the result of neglected chest colds, colds that hang on and inflame and irritate the bronchial tubes and lungs. To promptly and thoroughly cure chest colds, tightness in the chest and all colds in the throat and bronchial tubes Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has proved itself the most effectual remedy extant. Its sale is simply enormous. 25 cents a bottle. Family size 60 cents.

BENCH APPOINTMENTS.

Chief Justice Armour Will Accept the Court of Appeal Appointment.

The Toronto Star of last week said:—

"It was learned from an authoritive source at Osgoode Hall to-day that Chief Justice Armour had decided to accept the Chief Justiceship of the Court of Appeal. The rumors from Ottawa that His Lordship would refuse the position were founded on certain observations made from the bench by the new appointee in regard to the Court of Appeal, and also for monetary reasons, the income being $1,000 less than for the old position. The salary connected with the Chief Justiceship of the Court of Appeal is $6,000 from the Dominion Government and $1,000 from the Ontario Government, while for circuit work, which Chief Justice Armour has been doing, each judge receives $1,000 additional. Chief Justice Armour is at present holidaying in Cobourg.

"Mr. Justice Falconbridge's promotion to be Chief Justice for the Queen's Bench Divisional Court is regarded with favor by the legal profession generally. The refusal of Mr. J. J. Foy, Q.C., to accept the vacancy in this court has left the field open to a number of eligibles, of whom Mr. Wm. Lount, Q.C., is the favorite to-day.

"The Government will not make the appointment for some time yet, so there will be plenty of time for speculation on the chances of the different candidates."

"Hunger is the Best Sauce."

Yet some people are never hungry. Whatever they eat has to be "forced down." There is, of course, something wrong with these people. By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla a short time they are given an appetite and then they enjoy eating and food nourishes them. If you find your appetite failing, just try a bottle of Hood's. It is a true stomach tonic and every dose does good.

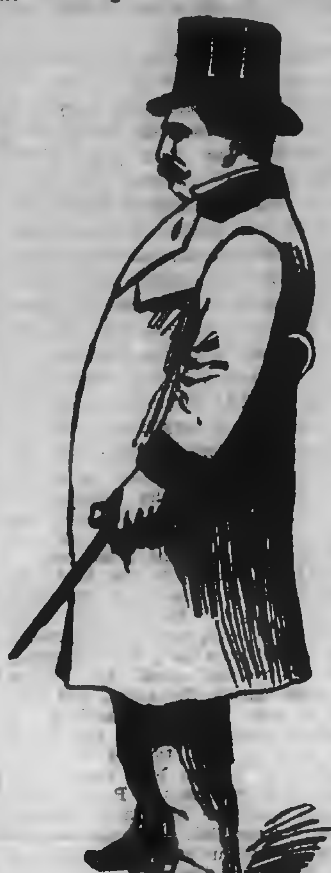
BARON VON KETTELER.

The German Minister to China Reported to Have Been Killed by the "Boxers."

Clemens August, Baron Von Ketteler, the German Minister to China, who was reported to have been killed at Pekin by the Boxers, married Miss Matilda Cass Ledyard of Detroit, Mich., Feb. 24, 1897. Miss Ledyard is the daughter of Henry B. Ledyard, president of the Michigan Central Railroad, and has been with her husband at Pekin. At the time of the marriage he was the German Minister to Mexico, a big, powerful fellow, with pink cheeks, good-fellow manners and the carriage of a German nobleman and soldier.



BARON VON KETTELER.

He was an officer in the German army from 1874 to 1881, and then entered the diplomatic service. In the fall of 1896 he was first assistant in the German consular service at Washington, a position he had held for five years. For ten years previous to that he was stationed at Pekin, and was therefore familiar with the Chinese character. He first met Miss Ledyard in Washington, and the acquaintance soon ripened into love and eventually led to a happy marriage. Since that event the Baroness has accompanied her husband to various parts of the world.

Baron Von Ketteler was transferred from his Mexican post to China but a comparatively short time ago. He was familiar with Chinese customs and manners, could speak the native language and understood the Mongolian character about as well as any man in the German diplomatic service. Those who knew him well in Washington say that he was cool under all circumstances, of good judgment, had great personal courage and adaptability to surrounding circumstances. He made friends easily, and, while a nobleman, appeared to be more fond of showing the fellowship side of his character than of exploiting his blue blood.

The Baron's position in Pekin would naturally be one of peril. The Boxers charge many of their troubles as natives to the Germans. They are particularly hostile to the German civil engineers, who have been running railway lines through Chi-Li and other provinces. They think that the Germans have been the main instigators of the "foreign" invasion of their country. They also have great hostility toward Catholics. The Baron, being both a German and a Catholic, and located in Pekin, has undoubtedly had much trouble in caring for his own safety and that of the German subjects with him.

THE SULTAN'S MONOGRAM.

Queer-Looking Symbol Highly Esteemed by Mohammedans.

Possibly you have seen this queer looking symbol upon pieces of Turkish embroidery, for it is much used by the Turks, and Mohammedans generally, for decorative purposes. It is the autograph, or more properly speaking, the monogram, of the Sultan of Turkey. It consists of the words "Abdul Hamid Khan, Second son of Abdul Mejid Khan." The smaller monogram just beside it contains the words "El Ghazi" (Warrior of the Faith), a title which the present Sultan adopted after his army had won several victories in the Turko-Russian war. The queer shape of the Sultan's monogram is due to the fact that it is a copy of the form of the signature of the first Sultan, who could not write. He signed his name by bringing the thumb and fingers of his right hand close together, dipping them in ink and pressing them upon the paper.

Soldiers in Camp

Ex-Sergeant William Johnston, of the 10th Royal Grenadiers, Toronto, writes:—"It is impossible for me to speak too highly of Dr. Chase's Ointment for piles or any itching skin disease. It is simply invaluable. Many of our men used it while in camp and received excellent results." Members of the Canadian contingents took 1,000 boxes of Dr. Chase's Liniment with them to South Africa to relieve the sufferings of campaigning life.

THE OFF AND THE NEAR HORSE.

He Enlightened Her on a Mystery to the Feminine Mind.

They were driving around the White lot.

He had been expatiating upon horses in general and the two in front of them in particular.

After he had been talking for half an hour about the superiority of the near horse over the off horse as a stepper she said:

"I wasn't raised among horses, you know. Therefore I haven't the slightest idea whether the near horse is on the right hand of the driver or not. Is he?

"No," the young man answered, "and you may comfort yourself and your sex with the assurance that only about two men out of ten know that the off horse is on the right side of the driver. Nearly everybody thinks that the near horse is on the right hand because he is the 'nearest' animal to the driver.

"The designations arose this way: In the days of postilions the driver rode the left hand horse, as he does today when the driver rides. Station yourself at F and Tenth streets any day when the big hay wagons come into town, and you will observe a survival of the ancient custom. The driver rides the wheel left hand horse invariably. This horse is, therefore, the 'near' horse to him, and the right hand horse is the farthest or the 'off' horse.

"In a four-in-hand team the 'wheelers' are the rear team and the 'leaders' the front team. Consequently when your horsy young lady friend talks about the 'off' leader of their four-in-hand quartet going lame from 'scratches' you will know that the right hand front horse is laid up with a raw sore in the folds of the skin above the posterior portion of the hoof directly under the fetlock, and as the muscles of the leg here corrugate and expand with every step, as those of the human wrist when it is bent toward the body, you may know that she won't 'tool' with that horse for some time to come.

"Great Men" at Close View.

Washington sentiment concerning our great men is apt to be biased. It always reminds one of the theory that contempt is engendered by familiarity and that few men remain heroes to the next door neighbor. Because a man walks about on two legs like an ordinary individual and betrays the ordinary tendencies of humanity to blow hot and cold he is subjected to the disillusionizing process and taken down from the pedestal of a demigod by the masses who have exalted him. It was on this theory that monarchs of the old regime surrounded themselves with courtiers and only moved about in a coach with a military escort and that when Napoleon the Great came to power he usurped their imperial privileges. But those who mercilessly dissect the great men of our capital because they are necessarily human and often everyday citizens in this republic forget that even heroes and statesmen are important to exactly the same degree that their fellow men are able to see them.—Boston Herald.

Horse or Beef?

The first day horse was served out at Kimberley some of it was cooked for the officers' mess at the mounted camp. At the table Peakman said:

"Gentlemen, I am sorry to say that we were unable to get all our ration in beef today and had to take part of it in horseflesh. This which I am carving is beef; the horse is at the other end, and any one who prefers it can help himself."

Nobody did prefer it, and so they all ate beef and made a good dinner. When they had finished, Peakman suddenly exclaimed:

"By Jove, gentlemen, I find I have made a mistake in the joints! This is the horseflesh and the other is beef."

It was just a dodge of his to get them started on the horseflesh.—Diary of Dr. Oliver Ashe.

ELECTIONS THIS YEAR

Liberal Members Expect an Early Appeal to the Country.

The Toronto World's Ottawa correspondent says: "The Liberal members of the House are getting ready for an election this year. They expect the election, but they are not in the secret councils of Sir Wilfrid. Yet signs are not wanting, pointing to an early appeal to the country. Mr. Sifton has returned to Canada after his trip about Great Britain in company with William Mackenzie of the firm of Mackenzie & Mann. Mr. Tarte left for home to-day. He will get here just about the time Parliament goes out of town. With the two machine men, Sifton and Tarte, in Canada, something may be expected to fall at any moment.

"The Liberal press talks confidently that this is the last session of this Parliament. To-night the Montreal Herald, supposed to be interpreter of the Government's policy, makes this statement: "What Sir Wilfrid's intentions are is known only to himself, and he is as silent as a mummy."

"Down by the Sounding Sea".

"St. Andrews-by-the-sea" is the title of a handsomely illustrated booklet which has just been issued by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company. The beauty and grandeur of New Brunswick's picturesque shores on which St. Andrews-by-the-sea is situated, and the illimitable attractions of the place to summer saunterers, as described, are such that the claims of the place to rank amongst the most popular watering places in America must be admitted.

ATE PARIS GREEN

Particulars of a Suicide of a Well-known Farmer.

The Lindsay Post of the 9th gives the following particulars of the suicide of Samuel McGinnis, a well-known farmer residing in Ops:—"Samuel McGinnis, a well-known farmer residing with his brothers, David and Richard on lot 21, con. 11, Ops, on the Emily boundary, was found dead in the barn yesterday morning at 6 o'clock. Indications went to show that it was clearly a case of suicide."

"Probably every man in the township and nearly everyone in town, was acquainted with deceased, who was generally spoken of as "big Sam McGinnis." He was an industrious, hard-working man, but addicted for many years to periodical drinking bouts. The farm of 250 acres worked by the brothers is kept in model shape, and is said to be one of the best-tilled farms in the township. The deceased had been in poor health for the past year, and had not visited Lindsay since last October. Of late he had been unable to work owing to a bad attack of rheumatism, and having always been a very healthy and active man his enforced illness and unaccustomed suffering preyed upon his spirits and rendered him gloomy and discontented, but his actions gave no indication of his rash resolve to end his troubles in so tragic a manner.

"On Friday, owing to the heat, he spent the day in the barn, and slept there that night. Saturday he also spent in the barn, and did not return to the house for supper, but the family heard him walking about the kitchen some time during the night, and supposed he was getting something to eat. Next morning Richard and David arose early as usual to feed the stock, and on entering the barn found their brother cold in death. Paris green scattered upon the floor and staining his thick beard left no doubt as to the means the unfortunate man had taken to end his life.

"Dr. Poole, coroner for the county, was notified, but concluded that an inquest was unnecessary. The funeral of the deceased, who was 66 years of age and unmarried, will take place tomorrow at 2.30 to Riverside cemetery."

MASONIC GRAND LODGE

The Session to be Held in London Next Week—The Election of Officers Discussed.

The London Free Press: The forty-fifth annual communication of the Grand Lodge of Masons of Canada in the Province of Ontario will be held at the City Hall in this city on Wednesday and Thursday, the 18th and 19th of July next, and the attendance promises to be the largest in the history of that Grand body. The bulk of the Masonic population comprising Grand Lodge is to be found in the section of the Western Peninsula lying west and north of Guelph, and London being the centre of that district, the prospect is that every lodge within that area will be represented by one or more delegates at the forthcoming meeting here. They will undoubtedly receive all the welcome that brethren noted for their hospitality and friendliness can possibly provide for them. An active committee has the arrangements already in hand for their entertainment, which will in all likelihood include a trolley ride to Springbank and over the lines of the street railway. There is not on the North American continent a prettier or more romantic spot than this pleasure resort down the river, and the committee will doubtless see to it that the eight hundred or more delegates are afforded an opportunity of taking in the sights at Springbank. London has the power, if it likes, to impress itself upon the visitors as the most go-ahead, the prettiest and most hospitable city in the Dominion; and the visitors are composed of the leading professional, mercantile and business men of the Province, whose good opinion is worth securing. The Board of General Purposes—the business committee of the Grand Lodge—meets the Monday previous, and will hold daily sessions in order to prepare reports and other business for presentation to Grand Lodge. The session at this time is fraught with more than ordinary interest to Craftsmen generally, being the time for electing new officers. Grand Master Malone, whose two-year term has been one of the most harmonious and progressive in the annals of Craft Masonry, will be succeeded by R. W. Bro. R. B. Hungerford, of this city, who has during the occupancy of the office of Deputy Grand Master shown zeal and activity which augurs a successful term in the highest position in the gift of his brethren. The question as to who will succeed him is one very difficult to answer with any degree of certainty; but the opinion of very many leading Craftsmen is that R. W. Bro. Jas. H. Burritt, Q. C., of Pembroke, will be successful. His opponents, so far as can be ascertained, are R. W. Bros. John E. Harding (Judge), of Lindsay, and Benjamin Allen, of Toronto. The fact that Bro. Burritt polled the next highest vote for D. G. M. two years ago to Bro. Hungerford, and that he has done nothing to warrant the withdrawal of the suffrages of his brethren since that time, leads to the belief that he will head the poll at the close of the contest. The Senior Grand Wardenship is sought after by two London Craftsmen, both of whom are active and energetic in all the branches of Masonry with which they are connected. Knowing ones openly assert that W. Bro. Alexander Findlay will have but little difficulty in securing the coveted honor; whilst others are just as confident that W. Bro. A. G. McWhinney has equally as good a show as his opponent. The friends of both gentlemen advance cogent arguments why their favorite candidate should win, but they need not be repeated here, for reasons which will suggest themselves to the initiated. The only name mentioned in connection with the office of Grand Junior Warden is that of V. W. Bro. Alex. Gibson, of Peterborough. He has a host of friends all over the jurisdiction, who feel confident that his election to that high office will reflect honor upon the Craft. The Grand Treasurer and Grand Secretary will be re-elected without opposition. The office of Grand Chaplain will in all probability result in the election of W. Bro. J. T. Farthing, of Woodstock. Another candidate in the person of W. Bro. R. Von Pirch, of Berlin, is mentioned in connection with this position. For Grand Registrar, the names of V. W. Bro. John D. Clarke, of Ottawa, and W. Bro. Joseph Hickson, of Toronto, are most prominently connected therewith. Both brethren are so well known as to warrant the statement that the contest between them—presuming there are no other nominees—will be close and exciting. Bro. Clarke, is by many years, the oldest Craftsman, and has a following second to none in the jurisdiction. The election of five members of the Board of General Purposes is also participated in by all the members of Grand Lodge, and there are generally from 40 to 50 nominations, the honor of being elected is generally regarded as a test of the popularity and usefulness of the brethren so honored. The retiring members are R. W. Bros. James C. Hegler, of Ingersoll; L. Secord, M.D., Brantford; J. S. Dewar, London; A. R. Hargraft, Cobourg, and D. F. McWatt (Judge), Sarnia, who comes next in rotation to Bro. Ben Allen, a candidate for D. G. M., whose name, according to the constitution, cannot be placed in nomination for more than one office.

THE FIELD OF GENERAL SPORT.

BASEBALL.

The Lindsay Post says:—"After a long correspondence with the Cuban Giants, the manager of our ball club received a message from Hammonsport, N.Y., late on Saturday night, saying date had been accepted, and the greatest colored ball team in America will play a game here Wednesday next, July 11th. This team plays only four games in Canada—Kingston today, Tuesday at Bowmanville, Wednesday at Lindsay, Thursday, return date at Kingston, and back to Potsdam, N. Y." Correspondence passed with a view to arranging a game with the Giants for Peterborough.

VICTORIA CHEESE BOARD

Four Buyers Present and Each Took a Share—Board to Meet Again in Two Weeks.

The Victoria County Cheese Board met on Monday morning at 10.30 at Lindsay, President Thomas Robertson and other officers being in attendance. The buyers present were Messrs. Whitton, Fitzgerald, Rollins and Flavelle.

The following factories boarded the number of cheese set opposite:—

Star......	106
Cameron...	93
Dunsford......	130
Mariposa......	103
Cambray......	80
Janetville...	76
Omemee......	205
Fenelon Falls......	106

Reaboro......	110
Bobcaygeon......	100
Maple Leaf......	140
Palestine......	78
Oakwood......	70
Red Rock......	60
	1,775

When President Robertson called for offers Mr. Rollins opened with a bid of 9c., Mr. Flavelle called 9 1-8c., and Mr. Fitzgerald raised to 9 1-4c. Then there was a lull and Mr. Whitton, after some figuring, said, "I can't raise it'."

Mr. Fitzgerald called Mariposa, Cambray, Oakwood, North Ops and Dunsford, totalling 473 boxes. All accepted.

Mr. Whitton offered 9 1-4c. for the second selection, and called Maple Leaf, Bobcaygeon, Omemee and Red Rock. The three former accepted; the salesman for the latter factory was not present. The total was 505 boxes.

Mr. Rollins secured the third selection at 9 1-4c., taking Star, Janetville, Pine Grove and Reaboro—362 boxes.

Mr. Whitton then offered 9c. for the balance of board, but was beaten out by Mr. Flavelle, who offered 9 1-4c for Cameron, Fenelon Falls and North Verulam, with freight off to Lindsay, and same to Palestine with Lindsay inspection, or cost of inspection at factory. The offer was accepted, giving Mr. Flavelle his largest purchase for some time—429 boxes.

The Board then adjourned, to meet again on Monday, July 23rd.—Post.

—"Railway Developement in China," by Mr. Wm. Barclay Parsons, chief engineer of the American-China Development Company, is of especial interest at this time because of the light thrown on the rivalry of the European powers, and on the political as opposed to the purely commercial aspects of China's railway development. This is one of the notable features in McClure's Magazine for July.

TALKS OF CHINA

A Missionary Just Returned from China Talks—Says Reports are Inaccurate.

Rev. Archibald Ewing, who comes from the Province of Anhuei and left Shanghai on June 9, has just arrived in Toronto. Anhuei is 900 miles inland, and though it is not within the sphere of the Boxers' operations, Mr. Ewing was nevertheless called upon by many persons at the China Inland Mission, anxious to hear the latest tidings of friends or relatives. Anhuei is situated just south of Shantung, where the revolt broke out. It is reached in a five weeks' trip by native houseboat from Shanghai.

THIRTEEN YEARS IN CHINA.

Mr. Ewing is a Scotchman who has spent thirteen years in China and has the geography and recent history of the Empire at his fingers' end. He is a Presbyterian minister, but a member of the China Inland Mission also.

He was seen by the World and takes an optimistic view of the situation in China, particularly as regards the missionaries, of whom there are 2,500 in the Empire, the great majority of whom are in the southern provinces. Many of those in the north, where the revolution rages, have escaped to Che Foo on the coast near the British naval station, Wei Hai Wei, where they are considered absolutely safe.

NATURE OF THE REVOLUTION.

It is reassuring to learn that with the exception of Mr. Brooks, Robinson and Norman, who were murdered early in the outbreak, Mr. Ewing knows of no missionaries who have been massacred. The point which he makes with regard to the revolution is its two-fold nature, It is anti-dynastic as well as anti-foreign, and the former character of the trouble dates much further back than the latter, indeed with the former element the anti-foreign movement would not have attained anything like its present dimensions.

QUEUE A BADGE OF SERVITUDE.

The anti-dynastic sentiment dates back for 300 years since the present Manchu dynasty assumed power. The Manchus are regarded as foreigners and their reign has never been acceptable to the native Chinese. The Manchu dynasty it was which imposed upon the Chinese the queue, which is really a badge of servitude, and one of the first acts of the revolutionists is to cut off this objectionable element of headgear. "For months," said Mr. Ewing, "we in the interior have apprehended a revolution of this character, and months ago I wrote to my friends in England that there might be a rising at any time. This was largely on account of the extortionate levies made by the Empress, who has irritated the higher officials by her course. So great have been these extortions that in many parts of China there is a chronic state of hardship, amounting in the Shantung Province to poverty and famine. No one expected then, however, that the revolution would take an anti-foreign turn."

CHINESE NOT COLD-BLOODED.

Mr. Ewing has seen a number of native risings in his time, including the Yangtse riots, the China-Japanese war and a local rebellion, and knows the temper of the Chinese under such circumstances. They are not, he says, the cold-blooded, calculating murderers that they have been pictured. In China as in other countries there is always a lawless element in every mob, and this, he says, has been responsible, with few exceptions, for the attacks upon foreigners. He regards the stories of wholesale massacre in the present outbreak as probable fabrications. Such stories were circulated in previous rebellions, and were invariably found to be greatly exaggerated.

REPORTS ARE INACCURATE.

Moreover he points out that in the absence of modern methods of communication some of the reports are manifestly inaccurate. For instance, from Pekin to Nanking is a twenty days' journey by courier notwithstanding which the wildest rumors were current in the latter place long before anything authentic could have reached there. Until the reports are confirmed, he prefers to hope for the best.

Speaking of the possible result in the event of the dynasty being overturned, Mr. Ewing said: "It seems to me the best things for the powers to do is not to attempt to govern the country themselves, which would be a hopeless task, but to place there nominee on the throne and make him responsible." Li Hung Chang, he regards as too old to make a good ruler, and thinks Yung Lu, the present commander-in-chief of the Imperial forces, is one of the likeliest aspirants if the revolutionists are successful. Yung Lu, he says, is a man of very great ability and force of character, but unfortunately he has been the leader in blocking the progress of the troops to Pekin.

EMPRESS THE FRIEND OF PRINCE TUAN.

To show the nature of the discrepancies in reports which reach the outside world, Mr. Ewing points out that it was the Empress who desired the son of Prince Tuan to assume the reins of power, hence his inability to credit the reports of her attempted murder by poisoning.

An Explanation

We have during the last month advertised a Special Sale of the well known Slater Shoes.

We were enabled to do so having bought from the Slater Shoe Company regular lines of shoes stamped to sell at $3.50 and $5.00.

In order to clear out these lines and induce rapid sale we returned a quantity of these shoes to the Slater Shoe Co., and had the price mark removed, otherwise we could not have sold them at other than the stamped prices.

The balance of this line of unstamped Slater Shoes are most excellent value at the price we are asking for them. They deserve an early inspection from buyers.

Lame for Two Years

It is not necessary for a man to meet with an accident to become lame or otherwise physically impaired. Friends of Mr. Samuel Donaldson, Pittsburg, Postmaster at Dufferin, Ont., post office, have wondered for some time what could be the matter with him, and when told that his crippled condition was due to rheumatism, could hardly believe it, But such was the case, however. Mr. Donaldson was lame with rheumatism for two years, and during that time suffered internal pain and experienced the greatest difficulty in getting out of a rig. Mr. Donaldson used liniments and mixtures of all kinds to no purpose. At last he tried Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure on the suggestion of a friend, who had been cured of a similar complaint, and after taking one bottle of this wonderful preparation the pain disappeared, and now he is as well as ever.

THE IVORY QUEEN

A Detective Story Of a Chicago Suburb. The Murder at The Grange and How its Mystery Was Solved by Darrent, the American Lecoq.

BY NORMAN HURST.

Copyright, 1899, by the American Press Association.

CHAPTER I.

THE MURDER AT THE GRANGE.

"Half an hour late! Of course she is. What can you expect? It wouldn't have surprised me if she had been an hour. There must be three feet of snow between here and Chicago."

"Yep, it be a mortal bad winter. Never had such a stiff one since '81. That was the year as I had 20 cows froze to death in one night."

"Yes; I've heard all about those cows before."

"It was a most strordinary affair. I said to myself as I went to bed the night afore. 'Now, I shouldn't be s'prised if some of them cows ain't froze in the mornin.'"

"She's whistling."

"And I said to myself just as I was goin to sleep, 'I shouldn't be s'prised if some of them cows ain't froze to death in the mornin.'"

"And you got up in the morning, and 20 were dead?"

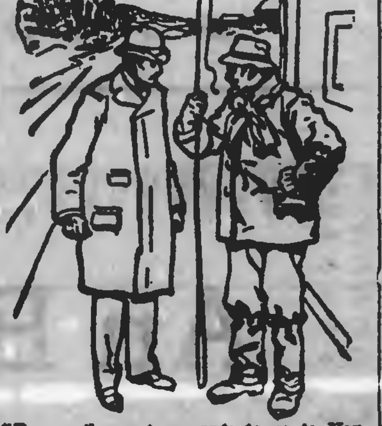
"Yes, but the strordinary part of the thing is I said to myself, 'I shouldn't be s'prised if some of them cows ain't froze.'"

"Well, never mind the cows. Here she comes. Are you taking any one?"

"One gent to Norcombe; that's all. Things ain't a bit like they was when I was young, and when they gets the new railroad I s'pose I shall have to go into the poorhouse."

A rumble in the distance growing nearer and louder gives warning of the approaching train, and in a few seconds the express from Chicago comes to a standstill in Barnstaple depot, and a solitary passenger alights and stamps his feet vigorously upon the platform.

The station master, forsaking the individual whose sole conversational powers seemed to be confined to reminiscences upon the untimely death of his 20 cows, enters into a lively conversation with the engineer as to the state of the road between Barnstaple and the end of the journey. The few passengers in the train gaze anxiously out of the steamy windows and growl disconsolately. Then the engine gives a mournful hoot, a disconsolate and fatigued kind of pull, and slowly they leave the station and issue forth into the night.



"Be you the gent as wants to go to Norcombe?"

The lights are lowered, and Barnstaple relapses into slumber.

"Well, that's a bad journey over," soliloquizes the traveler left upon the platform as he endeavors to restore his circulation by a variety of ingenious adaptations of the cellar flap. "Now for the worst part—seven miles along country roads in some ramshackle conveyance, I suppose."

"Be you the gent as wants to go to Norcombe?"

"Yes. Have you got a carriage?"

"It would be no matter of use a-tryin to get four wheels to Norcombe, so I've brought a dogcart, and I don't s'pose we'll get there in that. It be a mortal bad night."

"Well, we'll try, eh?"

"Yep, we'll try," the man answers in a melancholy voice as he clambers into the high dogcart, while the passenger takes a seat by his side and, glancing at the horse, estimates that the driver is not very far wrong and that they are not likely to get to Norcombe after all. But in two seconds he has altered his opinion altogether and arrived at the conclusion that he does not know a horse from a tenpenny nail.

"Old man," he would often say afterward in recounting the incident to some particular chum, "if you want a sure cure for ennui or a sluggish liver try a seven mile ride on a frosty night, with the roads like a sheet of glass, behind a Kentucky nag. Tobogganing in Canada's a fool to it. If you'd seen that horse, that looked as if he couldn't raise enough energy to drag a hearse, take a slippery hill, nearly as steep as the side of a house, at an easy trot, without so much as winking, you'd have gasped, and when he got to the top and went full speed down the other side your only regret would have been that you hadn't doubled the amount of your accident insurance. Of all horses in the world give me a Kentucky horse, as fast as a railroad train and as sure footed as a mule. Imagine, my boy, a seven mile drive on a frosty moonlight night behind a quadruped that treated the whole affair as a joke, and then imagine a jay, with the reins in his hand, who did nothing but say: 'He can't go like he used to. He's gettin old and lazy.' It was a drive I've never forgotten and one I'm never likely to forget."

"It's a mortal bad winter," the driver again observes as they spin over the frost bound road, "mortal bad."

"Yes; it's a bit severe."

"Ah, we've never had such a winter since '81, when I had 20 cows all froze to death in one night."

"Ah!"

"Yes, and the strordinary thing was that I said to myself as I went to bed, 'Now, I shouldn't be s'prised if some of them was froze in the mornin.' That's what I said the night afore."

"Then why didn't you get up and try to make them warmer?"

The driver turns a look of blank astonishment on Herbert Darrent. It is the first time that such a reasonable suggestion has been offered to him, and its novelty is a bit bewildering.

"City folks don't understand cattle," he grumbles at last and falls to ruminating why he didn't get up and do something for those 20 cows, but as he cannot arrive at any satisfactory solution he presently breaks the silence again.

"You've just come up from Chicago, eh?"

"Yes."

"Ah! What do they think of us?"

"Think of you?"

"Yep. What do they think of our murder?" he explains, with a ghoulish appreciation of the unenviable notoriety that Norcombe had suddenly achieved. "Have you heard about it, sir?"

"Oh, yes; I saw something in the papers—Mr. Marsden, the old Britisher, at the country place he called The Grange."

"Yep; that's right—old Marsden, close fisted old Marsden. He was a great miser, he was, sir. If young Marsden comes into the property, things will be better, but he's a wild devil."

"Son?"

"Eh?"

"Marsden's son?"

"No; picked him up somewhere. Perhaps he is. You never know."

"Who murdered him?"

"Dunno. Like to shake hands with him."

"Indeed! You seem an amiable kind of individual."

"Bah! Good riddance to bad rubbish. I was goin along all right till he raised my rent so that I couldn't make both ends meet, and it's hard times, sir, with such a bad winter. I mind me, sir, that we never had such a winter since '81."

"Yes, yes; you told me about that and the cows. Now, as to this murder. Have the police no clew?"

"No; can't have any. It was done by ghosts. The Grange is haunted."

"Oh, indeed! Then you'd like to shake hands with a ghost?"

The driver shivered and glanced half apprehensively over his shoulder. Then, sinking his voice to a mysterious key, he continued, "Some one went into the house and murdered old Marsden and never came out again, and he's not there now, and no one but a ghost could do that."

"Really?"

"And I expect we'll have one of them clever detectives comin down from Chicago, but he won't find out anything, 'cause it was done by a ghost, and no detectives can catch ghosts. Whoa!"

The horse is pulled up with a sudden jerk.

"This is Norcombe. The Palace hotel, eh, sir?"

"Yes."

"If you'd like to have a look at The Grange, it's about a quarter of a mile up on the right."

"Thanks. I'll stroll up in the morning. Good night."

"Good night."

Herbert Darrent climbs out of the dogcart, and the driver gathers up the reins, sets the horse's head homeward, and the animal canters off as lively as ever.

The man stands at the door of the village hotel in the ruddy light streaming through its short crimson curtains until the vehicle is out of sight and then turns and walks thoughtfully down the main street until he reaches a cottage dignified by the legend "Police Station" inscribed in large black letters on a white board—primitive abode of the law as represented in the person of a young policeman in a very badly fitting uniform who is just quitting the house and smartly salutes as he opens the gate.

"Are you Mr. Dobson?"

"No, sir; he's inside."

"Off duty?"

"Yes; it's my round."

"Then I won't detain you, but I shall want to see you in the morning, early."

"Very good, sir. I'll be here at 9 sharp. Good night."

"Good night."

"Smart young fellow that," Darrent observes to himself as he pushes open the door. "Thank goodness they're not all so old fogyish as my prosy driver!"

The door opens right into the kitchen of the cottage, where Dobson, chief of police of Norcombe, is lounging in his chair before the fire. The police cares of the day are over, and he is smoking an exceedingly dirty clay pipe and reveling in the luxury of purely animal idleness as only a man of absolutely enfeebled intellect can. Still, he can be pompous at times, as befits one who holds and has held for a round dozen years the important post of chief of police of Norcombe, an office that is little more than a sinecure, and, removing his pipe from his mouth, he gazes at his visitor with an expression of mingled annoyance at being disturbed and the importance that befits his position.

"Well," he inquires after examining Darrent from head to foot, "what's the matter with you?"

"You are Mr. Dobson, I believe?"

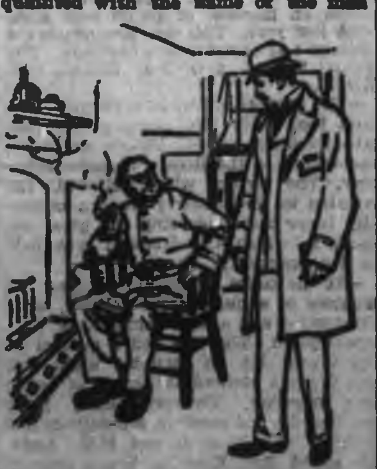
Mr. Dobson nods.

"Policeman?"

"Yes; chief of police of Norcombe."

"Well, it's all the same," Darrent rejoins. "I'm an officer from Chicago. Perhaps you have heard my name—Herbert Darrent."

"No; never heard of it before," answers Mr. Dobson, at once conclusively proving himself to be an idiot of the first water by confessing that he is unacquainted with the name of the man whom the newspapers are never tired of calling "the American Lecoq"—"never heard it before."



"Well, what's the matter with you?"

"Ah, well, that doesn't matter, after all," the visitor continues good humoredly. "Of course you know that Chicago detectives rarely interfere outside Chicago, leaving everything to the local authorities, but in this murder at The Grange, Mr. Dobson, your mayor has deemed it expedient, in face of the fact that there is more mystery than usual enshrouding the matter, not to leave the case entirely in the hands of the village police. He sent for me, and I am here."

Mr. Dobson again nods his head.

"Here are my credentials. You will see that from today I relieve you altogether of the case, and you are instructed to afford me all the assistance I may require."

Mr. Dobson is nettled and shows it.

"Then," he answers sharply, "you've come on a wild goose chase. No one can solve the mystery of the murder."

"Just the sort of case I like. Now, then, let me know all the particulars, or, rather, let me see if I'm right in my facts so far, as you seem rather slow of speech, Mr. Dobson."

The chief of police puffs his fat cheeks in indignation, but something seems to warn him not to answer, and he is wise enough to obey.

"Now, then," says Darrent cheerily as he takes a seat and refers to his pocketbook, "stop me when I go wrong."

Again Mr. Dobson merely nods.

"Josiah Marsden, a queer old Britisher, lived in an old rambling house known as The Grange, a quarter of a mile from here—lived a solitary life; reported to be a miser; only two or three rooms used; no servants. A woman came every morning for a few hours and did what was wanted. She went, as usual, on the 12th of this month; found Marsden dead, killed by a stab from a large clasp knife which was found there; no other clew of any kind. Is that right?"

Mr. Dobson, who has been sagaciously nodding his head in assent to each sentence as Darrent has read it out, now nods it more emphatically as he concludes, and, after taking a few whiffs at his pipe, asks, "What's the reward?"

"Nothing unless the relatives offer it."

"Oh!"

"Now, then, what can you add to what I've read?"

"Something that will puzzle the clever Chicago detectives, with all their brag," Dobson answers, with a grin. "On the night of the murder there was a heavy fall of snow—it began at 11 and ceased at 1—and none has fallen since in Norcombe."

"Well?"

"The murderer entered at the front of The Grange; went right in through the street door. I traced his footsteps from the gate to the door."

"Yes."

"That's all."

"What do you mean?"

"He never left. There were no footsteps from the house."

Herbert Darrent bends his head in thought for a moment. Here was the chief of police repeating exactly the same story as the driver of the dogcart had told him. He knits his brows and ponders, attempting to solve the problem.

"Very well; go on," he says at last. "Anything else?"

"Nothing," shortly replies Dobson, annoyed at the indifferent air of the detective. "I suppose you know the murderer already, eh?"

"I think, Mr. Dobson," he quietly answers, "if you've any respect for the post you hold, you'll keep that fool tongue of yours quieter. Murder is not a joke specially arranged for an ordinary 'cop' to air cheap wit upon."

The man flushes with wounded pride and glares at the fire.

"I'm getting sick of the whole blessed thing," he growls at last. "Being cross questioned twice in one day by Chicago detectives is enough to try any one's temper."

"What?"

"First one detective, then another. It's sickening."

Lame for Two Years

It is not necessary for a man to meet with an accident to become lame or otherwise physically impaired. Friends of Mr. Samuel Donaldson, Pittsburg, Postmaster at Dufferin, Ont., post office, have wondered for some time what could be the matter with him, and when told that his crippled condition was due to rheumatism, could hardly believe it. But such was the case, however. Mr. Donaldson was lame with rheumatism for two years, and during that time suffered internal pain and experienced the greatest difficulty in getting out of a rig. Mr. Donaldson used liniments and mixtures of all kinds to no purpose. At last he tried Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure on the suggestion of a friend, who had been cured of a similar complaint, and after taking one bottle of this wonderful preparation the pain disappeared, and now he is as well as ever.

Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure is put up in 50 cent bottles, containing ten days' treatment. For sale by all druggists and dealers in medicine. The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

A Detective Story Of a Chicago Suburb. The Murder at The Grange and How its Mystery Was Solved by Darrent, the American Lecoq.

CHAPTER I.

THE MURDER AT THE GRANGE.

"Half an hour late! Of course she is. What can you expect? It wouldn't have surprised me if she had been an hour. There must be three feet of snow between here and Chicago."

"Yep, it be a mortal bad winter. Never had such a stiff one since '81. That was the year as I had 20 cows froze to death in one night."

"Yes; I've heard all about those cows before."

"It was a most strordinary affair. I said to myself as I went to bed the night afore, 'Now, I shouldn't be s'prised if some of them cows ain't froze in the mornin.' "

"She's whistling."

"And I said to myself just as I was goin to sleep, 'I shouldn't be s'prised if some of them cows ain't froze to death in the mornin.' "

"And you got up in the morning, and 20 were dead?"

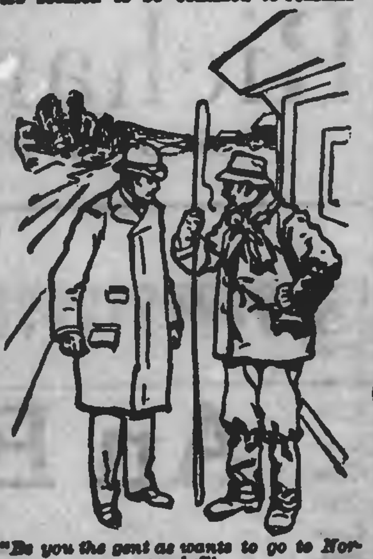
"Yes, but the strordinary part of the thing is I said to myself, 'I shouldn't be s'prised if some of them cows ain't froze.' "

"Well, never mind the cows. Here she comes. Are you taking any one?"

"One gent to Norcombe; that's all. Things ain't a bit like they was when I was young, and when they gets the new railroad I s'pose I shall have to go into the poorhouse."

A rumble in the distance growing nearer and louder gives warning of the approaching train, and in a few seconds the express from Chicago comes to a standstill in Barnstaple depot, and a solitary passenger alights and stamps his feet vigorously upon the platform.

The station master, forsaking the individual whose sole conversational powers seemed to be confined to reminiscences upon the untimely death of his 20 cows, enters into a lively conversation with the engineer as to the state of the road between Barnstaple and the end of the journey. The few passengers in the train gaze anxiously out of the steamy windows and growl disconsolately. Then the engine gives a mournful hoot, a disconsolate and fatigued kind of pull, and slowly they leave the station and issue forth into the night.



"Be you the gent as wants to go to Norcombe?"

The lights are lowered, and Barnstaple relapses into slumber.

"Well, that's a bad journey over," soliloquizes the traveler left upon the platform as he endeavors to restore his circulation by a variety of ingenious adaptations of the cellar flap. "Now for the worst part—seven miles along country roads in some ramshackle conveyance, I suppose."

"Be you the gent as wants to go to Norcombe?"

"Yes. Have you got a carriage?"

"It would be no matter of use a-tryin to get four wheels to Norcombe, so I've brought a dogcart, and I don't s'pose we'll get there in that. It be a mortal bad night."

"Well, we'll try, eh?"

"Yep, we'll try," the man answers in a melancholy voice as he clambers into the high dogcart, while the passenger takes a seat by his side and, glancing at the horse, estimates that the driver is not very far wrong and that they are not likely to get to Norcombe after all. But in two seconds he has altered his opinion altogether and arrived at the conclusion that he does not know a horse from a tenpenny nail.

"Old man," he would often say afterward in recounting the incident to some particular chum, "if you want a sure cure for ennui or a sluggish liver try a seven mile ride on a frosty night, with the roads like a sheet of glass, behind a Kentucky nag. Tobogganing in Canada's a fool to it. If you'd seen that horse, that looked as if he couldn't raise enough energy to drag a hearse, take a slippery hill, nearly as steep as the side of a house, at an easy trot, without so much as winking, you'd have gasped, and when he got to the top and went full speed down the other side your only regret would have been that you hadn't doubled the amount of your accident insurance. Of all horses in the world give me a Kentucky horse, as fast as a railroad train and as sure footed as a mule. Imagine, my boy, a seven mile drive on a frosty moonlight night behind a quadruped that treated the whole affair as a joke, and then imagine a jay, with the reins in his hand, who did nothing but say: 'He can't go like he used to. He's gettin old and lazy.' It was a drive I've never forogtten and one I'm never likely to forget."

"It's a mortal bad winter," the driver again observes as they spin over the frost bound road, "mortal bad."

"Yes; it's a bit severe."

"Ah, we've never had such a winter since '81, when I had 20 cows all froze to death in one night."

"Ah?"

"Yes, and the strordinary thing was that I said to myself as I went to bed, 'Now, I shouldn't be s'prised if some of them was froze in the mornin.' That's what I said the night afore."

"Then why didn't you get up and try to make them warmer?"

The driver turns a look of blank astonishment on Herbert Darrent. It is the first time that such a reasonable suggestion has been offered to him, and its novelty is a bit bewildering.

"City folks don't understand cattle," he grumbles at last and falls to ruminating why he didn't get up and do something for those 20 cows, but as he cannot arrive at any satisfactory solution he presently breaks the silence again.

"You've just come up from Chicago, eh?"

"Yes."

"Ah! What do they think of us?"

"Think of you?"

"Yep. What do they think of our murder?" he explains, with a ghoulish appreciation of the unenviable notoriety that Norcombe had suddenly achieved. "Have you heard about it, sir?"

"Oh, yes; I saw something in the papers—Mr. Marsden, the old Britisher, at the country place he called The Grange."

"Yep; that's right—old Marsden, close fisted old Marsden. He was a great miser, he was, sir. If young Marsden comes into the property, things will be better, but he's a wild devil."

"Son?"

"Eh?"

"Marsden's son?"

"No; picked him up somewhere. Perhaps he is. You never know."

"Who murdered him?"

"Dunno. Like to shake hands with him."

"Indeed! You seem an amiable kind of individual."

"Bah! Good riddance to bad rubbish. I was goin along all right till he raised my rent so that I couldn't make both ends meet, and it's hard times, sir, with such a bad winter. I mind me, sir, that we never had such a winter since '81."

"Yes, yes; you told me about that and the cows. Now, as to this murder. Have the police no clew?"

"No; can't have any. It was done by ghosts. The Grange is haunted."

"Oh, indeed! Then you'd like to shake hands with a ghost?"

The driver shivered and glanced half apprehensively over his shoulder. Then, sinking his voice to a mysterious key, he continued, "Some one went into the house and murdered old Marsden and never came out again, and he's not there now, and no one but a ghost could do that."

"Really?"

"And I expect we'll have one of them clever detectives comin down from Chicago, but he won't find out anything, 'cause it was done by a ghost, and no detectives can catch ghosts. Whoa!"

The horse is pulled up with a sudden jerk.

"This is Norcombe. The Palace hotel, eh, sir?"

"Yes."

"If you'd like to have a look at The Grange, it's about a quarter of a mile up on the right."

"Thanks. I'll stroll up in the morning. Good night."

"Good night."

Herbert Darrent climbs out of the dogcart, and the driver gathers up the reins, sets the horse's head homeward, and the animal canters off as lively as ever.

The man stands at the door of the village hotel in the ruddy light streaming through its short crimson curtains until the vehicle is out of sight and then turns and walks thoughtfully down the main street until he reaches a cottage dignified by the legend "Police Station" inscribed in large black letters on a white board—primitive abode of the law as represented in the person of a young policeman in a very badly fitting uniform who is just quitting the house and smartly salutes as he opens the gate.

"Are you Mr. Dobson?"

"No, sir; he's inside."

"Off duty?"

"Yes; it's my round."

"Then I won't detain you, but I shall want to see you in the morning, early."

"Very good, sir. I'll be here at 9 sharp. Good night."

"Good night."

"Smart young fellow that," Darrent observes to himself as he pushes open the door. "Thank goodness they're not all so old fogyish as my prosy driver!"

The door opens right into the kitchen of the cottage, where Dobson, chief of police of Norcombe, is lounging in his chair before the fire. The police cares of the day are over, and he is smoking an exceedingly dirty clay pipe and reveling in the luxury of purely animal idleness as only a man of absolutely enfeebled intellect can. Still, he can be pompous at times, as befits one who holds and has held for a round dozen years the important post of chief of police of Norcombe, an office that is little more than a sinecure, and, removing his pipe from his mouth, he gazes at his visitor with an expression of mingled annoyance at being disturbed and the importance that befits his position.

"Well," he inquires after examining Darrent from head to foot, "what's the matter with you?"

"You are Mr. Dobson, I believe?"

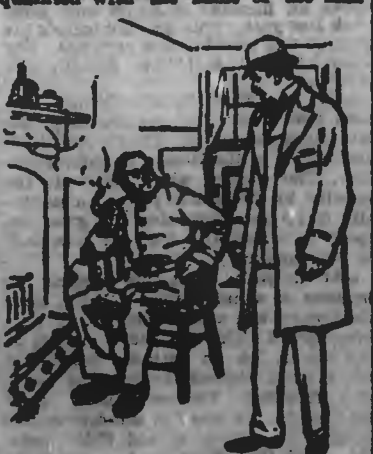
Mr. Dobson nods.

"Policeman?"

"Yes; chief of police of Norcombe."

"Well, it's all the same," Darrent rejoins. "I'm an officer from Chicago. Perhaps you have heard my name—Herbert Darrent."

"No; never heard of it before," answers Mr. Dobson, at once conclusively proving himself to be an idiot of the first water by confessing that he is unacquainted with the name of the man whom the newspapers are never tired of calling "the American Lecoq"—"never heard it before."



"Well, what's the matter with you?"

"Ah, well, that doesn't matter, after all," the visitor continues good humoredly. "Of course you know that Chicago detectives rarely interfere outside Chicago, leaving everything to the local authorities, but in this murder at The Grange, Mr. Dobson, your mayor has deemed it expedient, in face of the fact that there is more mystery than usual enshrouding the matter, not to leave the case entirely in the hands of the village police. He sent for me, and I am here."

Mr. Dobson again nods his head.

"Here are my credentials. You will see that from today I relieve you altogether of the case, and you are instructed to afford me all the assistance I may require."

Mr. Dobson is nettled and shows it.

"Then," he answers sharply, "you've come on a wild goose chase. No one can solve the mystery of the murder."

"Just the sort of case I like. Now, then, let me know all the particulars, or, rather, let me see if I'm right in my facts so far, as you seem rather slow of speech, Mr. Dobson."

The chief of police puffs his fat cheeks in indignation, but something seems to warn him not to answer, and he is wise enough to obey.

"Now, then," says Darrent cheerily as he takes a seat and refers to his pocketbook, "stop me when I go wrong."

Again Mr. Dobson merely nods.

"Josiah Marsden, a queer old Britisher, lived in an old rambling house known as The Grange, a quarter of a mile from here—lived a solitary life; reported to be a miser; only two or three rooms used; no servants. A woman came every morning for a few hours and did what was wanted. She went, as usual, on the 13th of this month; found Marsden dead, killed by a stab from a large clasp knife which was found there; no other clew of any kind. Is that right?"

Mr. Dobson, who has been sagaciously nodding his head in assent to each sentence as Darrent has read it out, now nods it more emphatically as he concludes, and, after taking a few whiffs at his pipe, asks, "What's the reward?"

"Nothing unless the relatives offer it."

"Oh!"

"Now, then, what can you add to what I've read?"

"Something that will puzzle the clever Chicago detectives, with all their brag," Dobson answers, with a grin. "On the night of the murder there was a heavy fall of snow—it began at 11 and ceased at 1—and none has fallen since in Norcombe."

"Well?"

"The murderer entered at the front of The Grange; went right in through the street door. I traced his footsteps from the gate to the door."

"Yes."

"That's all."

"What do you mean?"

"He never left. There were no footsteps from the house."

Herbert Darrent bends his head in thought for a moment. Here was the chief of police repeating exactly the same story as the driver of the dogcart had told him. He knits his brows and ponders, attempting to solve the problem.

"Very well; go on," he says at last. "Anything else?"

"Nothing," shortly replies Dobson, annoyed at the indifferent air of the detective. "I suppose you know the murderer already, eh?"

"I think, Mr. Dobson," he quietly answers, "if you've any respect for the post you hold, you'll keep that fool tongue of yours quieter. Murder is not a joke specially arranged for an ordinary 'cop' to air cheap wit upon."

The man flushes with wounded pride and glares at the fire.

"I'm getting sick of the whole blessed thing," he growls at last. "Being cross questioned twice in one day by Chicago detectives is enough to try any one's temper."

"What?"

"First one detective, then another. It's sickening."

HOUSE OF COMMONS.

The End of the Session Apparently Near—Mr. Sifton's Land Grants Policy—House in Supply

Ottawa, July 10.—The session is drawing rapidly to a close. The despatch of business shows it. Short speeches are the rule. The end is at hand. Nothing outside the ordinary happened in the House yesterday.

In answer to a question, Sir Wilfrid said that Hon. Mr. Scott, Secretary of State, wrote to Lieutenant-Governor McInnes just as one chum would write to another. The Government instructed Mr. Scott to give McInnes no instructions.

In reply to Mr. Richardson, Mr. Fielding said the situation in the Northwest does not demand a removal of the $2 hay duty since the rains have fallen.

Mr. Blair informed the House that the I.C.R. made $35,888 out of transporting the Canadian contingents to Halifax.

As to Col. Prior's series of questions regarding the insurance of the first contingent, Dr. Borden said: "The Government has nothing to do with it."

Mr. Lariviere, Provencher, said a man named Schrintz had obtained a grant of land in Manitoba, but it was taken from him because he had not got a receipt for his money paid. His grant was given over to two brothers, named Waldmann, against whom a real estate man named Christie got payment of $1,000 as a fee for obtaining the grant for the brothers. Mr. Lariviere claimed there was collusion between Christie and Land Agent Whitely over this matter, and that therefore the Interior Department was responsible. He held that the department was now in favor of land speculators as against the poor settlers.

Mr. Sifton, replying, said that Christie had no connection with his department, and therefore his department had nothing to do with the charge.

Steamship Mail Service.

The estimates of Sir Richard Cartwright created some discussion. His item of $150,000 for steamship mail service provoked a number of questions. Sir Richard Cartwright explained that the contract was first let to the Allans for $161,517, but the South African war caused them to refuse to live up to their contract. Then it was given to the Elder-Dempster Line on Oct. 20, for $150,000. The contract called for a weekly service of 7½ days in summer and 8 days in winter from Liverpool to all Canadian ports. He regretted that the average of voyages had not been kept up, and he was not satisfied with the service given. He proposed [illegible] deduction to compensate for the poor service. The item carried.

After dinner, Sir Richard's estimates were again considered, and by 10 o'clock the House had passed items totalling $879,388.

One item of $5,000 was for promoting direct communication and trade between Canada and South Africa. It is the intention of the Government to charter one vessel and run her from Montreal to South Africa.

Then Mr. Sifton's estimates were taken up. After some discussion the item of $110,000 for salaries of immigration agents was passed, and the House adjourned.

The seven provinces of Canada have a total area of 1,078,880 square miles and the nine territories 2,321,000 square miles, while the great lakes of the St. Lawrence system have an area of 47,000 square miles.

THROUGH THE WHIRLPOOL.

Capt. Nissen Successfully Navigated Angry Niagara Rapids.

Started in His "Fool-Killer" Just Under the Great Falls and Shot Down the Enormous Rapids as a Living Sacrifice—Now He Is in the Whirlpool! Whirled Among Logs and Trees—Pulled Ashore Safely.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 9.—Captain Nissen, alias P. M. Bowser, successfully navigated the Whirlpool Rapids this afternoon.

Bowser (which he has been commonly known here by) has had endless troubles to get his "Dorley" into the river below the Falls, and has worked incessantly since its arrival on June 20. There being only one place to launch the boat, that being at the Maid of the Mist Landing on the Canadian side, he first paid the duty on the boat, then was stopped by the police. He then took the craft across to the American side, but could not get it down to the water's edge there, and finally brought it back to Canada, and asked for permission to launch the boat, promising he would start only from the American side, which was granted him. When he started to launch the boat yesterday and announced that he would make the trip at 3.30 p.m. Sunday he was stopped for attempting such work on Sunday.

Got the Boat Into the Water.

During last night he got the boat put into the water and towed across the river and tied up on the American shore below the mill raceways, by Howard Lake and Fred Preston of this town.

Bowser made a second announcement this morning that he would surely make the trip this afternoon between 3 and 4 o'clock.

In the "Fool-Killer."

Precisely at 4 o'clock he got into his "Fool-killer," as he named his craft. At 4.05 o'clock he pulled up anchor, and pulled away from shore by means of a rowboat, with Frank Leblonde, a son of James Leblonde, caretaker of the Canadian dock of the Maid of the Mist, at the oars in the rowboat. The two crafts slowly came down stream, watched eagerly by the thousands of people that lined both banks of the river and packed both bridges, and, if the minds of the multitudes of people could have been known, the only one was Bowser that even thought he had a chance to go thru the raging rapids and come out alive.

The "Fool-Killer" Cut Loose.

Down came the boats nearer and nearer, and when about midway between the Grand Trunk steel arch bridge and the starting point the rowboat was cut loose from the "Fool-killer" and put into the Canadian shore. Then Bowser and his "Dorley" were left to the mercy of the current. He was plainly seen attempting to keep his craft in the middle of the river by aid of a paddle. Down he came moving straight down the stream, then caught in an eddy, whirling completely around, then broad side down stream.

Caught in the Eddies.

When the boat reached a point opposite Christ's Church it got caught in what is known as the Canadian current and taken into the eddies in the cove and turned its course up the river towards the Falls. Bowser fought hard to extricate himself, but was unable. On he went in the current to the "Swift Drift" and the rowboat and Leblonde went to his assistance, hove alongside of the Fool-killer and towed it once more out into the middle of the river, well over to the American side, and again cut loose.

Down the "Fool-Killer" Came.

Down the stream came the Fool-killer with its master, Bowser, standing on deck of the boat sculling for dear life to keep it in the middle of the river. As soon as it reached the neck of the river, just above the cantilever bridge, where the water swiftly and smoothly glides down before the first breakers under the steel arch bridge, the boat shot straight down stream, and when directly under the cantilever bridge Bowser jumped into the cockpit.

Waved His Handkerchief.

Standing erect, he waved his handkerchief to the multitude of spectators, with as much apparent confidence and nerve as if he was sailing in a mill pond. The "Dorley" looked very trim and pretty as she shot down under the steel arch bridge at 5 p.m. and looked like the Indian Princess shooting the mighty cataract in her canoe as a sacrifice.

Bowser Lost His Hat.

The Fool-killer struck the first small breakers bow first, and rode them very prettily, Bowser waving his handkerchief. The next lunge she made was smash into a large one, opposite the Incline Railway, broadside, and Bowser could plainly be seen smashed against the sides of the cockpit. His hat, which he had a moment before pulled down tight on his head, was torn off and went sailing down on the crest of the tossing and surging waves.

Went Any Old Way.

Down went the "Dorley," first bow first, then stern first, and then broadside under and on top of the mountains of tossing waters. Each time the brave little boat, true to its designer's trust, righted itself up with care. Everyone stood breathless, waiting to see it smashed to atoms, when it struck the big, tearing, tossing mountain of water opposite the foot of the Whirlpool Rapids promenade.

Capt. Webb's Death Hole.

As it neared the death-hole of Capt. Webb, the seething rapids sucked the "Dorley" into its jaws like a chip, broadside, keel upwards. The iron bar, weighing 1250 pounds, fastened with rods at the bottom, was on top. Crash it went, high into the air, Bowser clinging for dear life to the sides of the cockpit, as he was smashed with hundreds of tons of water in its greatest fury, completely submerging the "Dorley" and its occupant for some seconds.

"There's His End," They Shouted.

Everyone yelled, "There is his end," and a moment later the boat was thru, right side up, and Bowser waving his hand to tell the people he was still all right in his boat. Down he went, riding on the crest, and under each successive rapid, when the cheering broke out that re-echoed up the gorge, announcing that the boat had entered the Whirlpool all right near the Canadian side. Smash it went against the palisades of rock, bounding back each time as it struck unharmed.

On Into the Whirlpool.

Then into the Whirlpool amongst the driftwood it went with its master at 5.04 p.m. When it entered the centre of the pool it struck the centre swirl broadside, and was sucked right in and stood upright a second, then was completely submerged, and then shot out a few feet away. Around it went, the circle of the pool four times; large poles and logs shot up in his very teeth, meaning sure destruction if one of them struck his craft when falling back into the water. One large piece of a bridge chased him around, the swirl, occasionally catching the "Dorley," smashing into it. Hundreds of people watched the performance of the "Dorley" in the pool.

Finally Pulled Out.

Finally it reached the outside circle at a point about midway around the Canadian bend known as "Gravel Rock," and when the Dorley was about 50 feet from shore Howard Lake, Archibald Donald and a young lad named Fuller swam out, and Bowser threw them a rope, and they towed the Dorley into shore at 5.55 p.m., being just 51 minutes in the pool, and Bowser was shivering and shaking, being chilled to the bone. He was given dry clothing and taken up to the top of the bank, and came direct to the Windsor House.

He Tells His Story.

He was seen afterwards, and gave the following description of his trip, boat and himself. He said when he first struck the rapids he felt happy and confident it would be dead easy, but when the third big rapid hit him it was unexpected, and nearly knocked his head off, knocked him breathless, filling his lungs with water. He said he did not know exactly if his boat was upside down or not, and was only afraid once: that was when he entered the centre of the pool. He thought it was all day with him, as he expected his boat and himself would be crushed to pieces amongst the timber and logs rushing, swirling around.

Frightened a Boy.

When he passed the entrance to the Whirlpool he shot by a boy who was sitting with a pole in his hand fishing in an eddy close to shore and badly frightened the lad. Bowser said the force of the rapids was far greater than he anticipated.

The Business End in View.

He said to-day's trip was not for a wager, but in view of the Pan-American Exhibition next year he could prove to the world his lifeboat he built three years ago could navigate the rapids safely, and he intended to have a line of such boats constructed for taking parties thru next year and make a barrel of money out of it. He had conceived the idea about two years ago, but since his experience to-day he will not go into the excursion business thru the rapids, and the feature of to-day's trip that has frightened him the most was the fact that before starting this afternoon he nailed fast with four tenpenny nails an oar on the deck of his boat, driving the nails down to their heads, for the purpose of propelling the boat out of the Whirlpool. When the boat reached the pool, the oar could not be found, having been torn from its fastenings by the sheer force of the water.

Description of the Man.

Nissen is 32 years of age, 5 feet 10½ inches, 170 pounds, swarthy complexion, heavy black moustache, black eyes and hair. He is a Dane by birth, but has been in the United States since a boy. He is a school teacher, but at present book-keeper in Chicago on his vacation.

The Boat.

His boat is 20 feet long, 4 feet beam, 4 feet deep, and is built with six air-tight compartments, filled with 800 pounds of cork, two aft and two fore, with one on either side of the cockpit, which is 18 inches wide, 4 feet long and 4 feet deep. The outside of the boat is pine, inside elm and ribs oak. Four iron rods run thru oak keel, bolted on either side of the keel, the rods extend about 2 feet below the keel. On these rods is screwed and bolted the 1250 pound iron bar, which righted the boat this afternoon when it was turned topsy turvy in the rapids.

How He Harnessed Himself.

The only thing he had to hold himself in the cockpit was a piece of ¾-inch line, which he had tied around the keel inside of the cockpit, which he looped around his shoulders like a pair of braces, which no doubt did its work to hold him in the boat when it turned upside down. Around his waist he wore a cork vest or life preserver. The water in the river to-day was unusually high and kept his boat off the rocks. The boat is lying on shore at the Whirlpool to-night not much the worse of its trip. Bowser does not think he will make another trip, and is the first man that has navigated the Whirlpool Rapids exposed to the full force of the rapids in all their great fury.

Chatham, Ont., July 10.—News was received here yesterday of great destruction in Harwich Township by the severe storm of Saturday afternoon. A son of Cornelius Thompson was severely shocked by lightning, which struck the barn into which he had just driven his team. The young man revived, but the barns were burned with all the contents, including the team of horses. The chimney of Hector McLeod's house was torn off and the side of the house shattered. Other barns were struck, trees cut down and peach orchards devastated west of Blenheim.

Itching Piles

A Fearfully Bad Case—Much Pain and Acute Misery From the Terrible Itching—Cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

It is doubtful if any remedy ever received so much grateful, unsolicited testimony as Dr. Chase's Ointment. The reason is not far to seek, for it is the only preparation known to man which never fails to cure piles.

Mr. F. G. Harding, a retired farmer, living at Nilestown, Middlesex county, Ont., writes as follows:—"I have been troubled with bleeding and itching piles for four or five years, and suffered intense agony at times. I had tried almost everything, but could get nothing that would give relief. On hearing of Dr. Chase's Ointment I procured a box, and it only required part of it to completely cure me. I can recommend it to all afflicted as I was."

Such incontrovertible evidence from responsible persons cannot, for a moment, be doubted. A few applications of Dr. Chase's Ointment will convince the most skeptical of its wonderful healing and soothing influence. A box or two will positively cure the most severe case of piles; 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

THE METHODISTS.

Under the new conference regulations a Methodist minister will be permitted to remain in one community long enough to justify him in sending for his family.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

By the conference's action the time limit is entirely removed and the great Methodist denomination passes into the domain of congregationalism, where no limit to a pastorate is fixed.—Philadelphia Call.

When a man has a reasonable assurance of permanence in his position, he can do better work than when he is certain that he will have to move within a few years. It takes time to accomplish big results.—Brooklyn Eagle.

It is asserted that the new rule will be a great advantage to the talented ministers of the church by giving them a chance to build themselves up in communities that appreciate their ability and power. It will raise the standard of the Methodist ministry.—Indianapolis Press.

The removal of the time limit on the service of Methodist clergymen will install a new era in that denomination. For the present it is an experiment. But doubtless the plan will produce results as acceptable and as valuable as have followed the same method in other Christian sects.

The grip of the iceman is now upon the consumer in good earnest, and the ice king reigns supreme. But it's just as well to keep cool about it.—Boston Globe.

One of the regulations of the new ice trust in New York will provide that if the housegirl is not at hand to receive the 10 cent lump it will be pushed under the door.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

It is strange that the ice trust has not [illegible] to secure an injunction restraining the people from endeavoring to cool themselves from the rapacity of the ice trust. There are many precedents for such a course of action.—Omaha World-Herald.

Miner Fell 300 Feet.

Rossland, B. C., July 9. — Lon French, a miner, who had a contract at the Green Mountain, met a terrible death Sunday morning. He fell from the mouth of the shaft to its bottom, a distance of 300 feet, and was fearfully mangled. French wanted to go into the mine to give instructions to the men who were working under him. There was a strap around the windlass rope into which he stepped. He put his whole weight into the strap before he had taken a good hold on the rope end. The strap broke and down he went, striking against the side of the shaft in the descent. The deceased was about 32 years old, a member of the Miners' Union, and leaves a wife and two children to mourn his loss.

Havre, July 9.—The strike of the laborers employed in making excavations is becoming dangerous, owing to their ferocious behavior. A number of the Gendarmes were injured. Twenty of the leading rioters were afterwards arrested.

OUR SPECIAL OTTAWA LETTER

THE MINISTERS HAD A BAD WEEK AT THE CAPITAL

Ten Liberals Refuse to Join in Approving the Emergency Food Deal—And Six Convict Dr. Borden of Gross and Culpable Negligence — Prohibition Shelved—Majority Say the Country is not Ripe.

Special Correspondence of the Review.

Ottawa, July 7.—Two discussions and divisions of a most interesting character took place this week. The first, which occurred on Tuesday, disposed of the prohibition issue for the time being. On Thursday the House was called upon to discuss and deal with the emergency food reports.

PROHIBITION VOTED DOWN.

"At the Plebiscite of 1898, only about twenty-three per cent. of the registered electors of the Dominion voted for prohibition; in the Provinces and Territories, excluding Quebec, only 27 per cent. of the registered electors voted for prohibition. These results show that there is not an active prohibition sentiment sufficiently pronounced to justify the expectation that a prohibition law could be successfully enforced, and therefore, in the opinion of this House such a prohibitory law should no the enacted at present."

With these words the House of Commons on Tuesday disposed of the prohibition question. They are found in the Mr. Parmalee amendment to Mr. McClure's amendment to Mr. Flint's resolution for provincial prohibition. Mr. Flint asked for prohibition in those provinces which voted in favor of it, that is all the provinces but Quebec. Mr. McClure asked for "the enactment and enforcement of a law prohibiting the importation, manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes." Mr. Parmalee's amendment, which was supported by the Government, is given above.

HOW THE PARTIES VOTED.

The vote was 98 to 41. Every minister present, including Mr. Fisher, "the temperance representative in the Cabinet," voted for the Parmalee motion. Of the 97 Liberals present 82 responded to the call of the Premier, Mr. Fielding, Sir Louis Davies and Mr. Fisher. All these made appeals to the House to vote down both prohibition motions by supporting the second amendment. On the Conservative side 26 voted against the amendment and 16 for it.

SIR WILFRID'S POSITION.

The discussion occupied the greater part of the afternoon and evening. It was on the whole a vigorous debate. Sir Wilfried Laurier's speech was rather significant. The premier protested strongly against provincial prohibition, declaring that Quebec would not adopt it, and that it would be a most unfortunate thing if one law were made for Quebec and another for the rest of the Dominion, thus emphasizing the difference between the English and French provinces.

He also took the ground strongly that general prohibition was not called for as was shown by the vote. The conclusion from the Premier's speech was that the rest of Canada must wait for Quebec, since that province would not go in with the others and must not be be left out alone. Mr. Foster pointed out that the Premier's speech was a notice to prohibitionists to give up hope.

THE PLEBISCITE FRAUD.

Mr. Foster reviewed the record of the Government and the Liberal party since the plebiscite clause was placed in the platform. He quoted Sir Wilfrid's various statements in answer to temperance delegations and representatives of religious bodies, and at public meetings, showing that at no time did the Premier ever hint that the prohibitionists would be required to poll a majority of the registered vote. At Winnipeg, for example, the Premier said: "I pledge my honor that as soon as the Liberals come into power in Ottawa they will take a plebiscite of the Dominion, by which the party will stand, and the will of the people will be carried out, even were it cost power forever to the Liberal party." Mr. Foster observed that this assurance filled the temperance people with hope. The Premier did not say "I am going to grant you a plebiscite because I want you to be put in a position to be polled, but I am not going to follow it up by any action unless there is a majority polled of the total number of names on the voters' list." If Sir Wilfrid had said that he would have poured an arctic current down the backs of his enthusiastic audience. Mr. Foster went on to describe a plebiscite meeting where Mr. Fisher and he spoke on the prohibition side. It was the opening of the campaign, and Mr. Fisher was there as the minister who had introduced the plebiscite bill. Mr. Fisher made a statement like those of his leader. Mr. Foster speaking after him said that the meeting had now a pledge from a minister that if a majority of those who voted declared for prohibition a prohibitory law would be enacted. Mr. Fisher spoke no word of dissent. It was after the returns were in that the Government took the new ground.

THE EXCUSE OF THE MINISTERS.

Sir Wilfrid said that he never yet made a pledge to introduce a prohibitory law as a result of a majority vote. Mr. Fisher argued that as the true prohibitionists all went to the polls, and as the vote was so small it is evident that the temperance sentiment is not strong enough to justify action. Sir Louis Davies said that such good prohibitionists as Mr. Spence and McLaren justified the Government's action.

Mr. Fielding spoke for the temperance people of Nova Scotia, declaring that they did not condemn the Government for refusing to act. All the Ministers called upon their supporters to vote for the Parmalee amendment, and all the Liberal members but fifteen responded.

THE EMERGENCY FOOD.

The worst day that the Government has seen during the five sessions of this term was passed by the ministers over the emergency food reports. Previous letters have given the deatils of these charges, and of the evidence, and a synopsis of the majority and minority reports.

The debate was set down for Thursday and it was agreed by the leaders that the discussion of the reports would be left to six members of the committee, three on each side. Chairman Belcourt opened by moving and supporting the majority report, Mr. Monk following by moving and arguing for the report of the minority. Mr. Russell and Mr. Britton on the Government side and Mr. Casgrain and Mr. Clarke contra continued the discussion. The ground was pretty well covered at this stage and it was nearly midnight.

THE DEAL DEFENDED.

On the Government side the speakers defended everything. They seriously declared that the Minister of Militia had taken all necessary precautions, and refused to admit that the purchase of Dr. Devlin's food was open to objection. They even justified the price of two dollars per pound. According to their argument the only criminal in the case was Mr. Monk who made the charges, and who was strongly condemned in the majority report. Mr. Russell did, however, denounce Chief Analyst Macfarlane, who committed the offence of informing the department that the Devlin proteid food so called was not entitled to be called a proteid food and was not a concentrated article, and was not worth two dollars per pound. The goods had not then been paid for and most people will think that Mr. Macfarlane did his duty in making the Government acquainted with the facts. Dr. Russell does not think so. He finds the analyst guilty of "gross impertinence." Mr. Belcourt, fresh from the chairmanship of the committee asserts that Mr. Monk who made the charges was actuated by "a morbid desire to throw mud." The whole three appeared perfectly sure that the majority of the House would join them in whitewashing Dr. Borden and his department, and the Government, and Dr. Devlin, and the whole transaction.

THE OTHER SIDE.

Mr. Monk and his colleagues presented the other side of the case in strong speeches. Mr. Monk said he was less concerned about the $4,000 plundered from the treasury for a worthless article. But he recognized in the country a deep interest in the question from another point of view.

Our soldiers had been sent into the field with this so-called emergency rations, one can of which they were told was sufficient for a day's rations. It was proved that no less than eight would be required to maintain a man for a day on active service, and that any soldier who depended on this food would suffer and might lose his life.

Mr. Monk and his two comrades pointed out that a swindle which might cause this disaster and distress was the meanest and cruelest kind of swindle, and one deserving the most severe punishment. Mr. Monk stated his conviction that Dr. Devlin had been compelled to share with others the profits made from this dark transaction.

Mr. Casgrain declared that the food purchased was nothing more nor less than ground up dog biscuit, or the refuse of some biscuit factory. Mr. Clarke affirmed that the majority of the committee and the Government had done their utmost to prevent the exposure of the facts, and that the one officer who appeared disposed to protect the interest of the soldiers, and the treasury was the man whom Dr. Russell accused of gross impertinence.

AN ANXIOUS TIME.

While the discussion was going on the Ministers were busy. It became apparent that a number of Liberals were not disposed to whitewash the Department of Militia. For hours the Premier and his colleagues moved about among their friends and labored with them. How many were persuaded is not known. A dozen or so who could not be induced to vote the majority report through were persuaded not to vote at all. The McCarthyite party, Mr. Stubbs and Mr. McCarthy, went off in a body without pairs. Rev. Dr. Douglass solemnly wandered off and was seen no more. One after another certain members who had heard from their indignant constituents, folded up up their tents and silently stole away.

But this was not the worst. Mr. Monet, a French speaking Liberal, offered some observations. Mr. Monet supports Mr. Tarte and Mr. Bourassa in the view that Canada should never have sent troops or supplies to Africa. He recalled the fact that when Mr. Hatch offered to sell the Department his genuine emergency food the Minister told him that the British War Office would feed them.

Mr. Monet said Dr. Devlin came in afterward and sold the Government a thirty cent food for two dollars per pound, and Mr. Monet fears that the Minister bought it for the sake of helping a political friend.

CONDEMNED BY FRIENDS.

Next came Mr. Oliver, a Liberal member from Alberta. He said that he was sorry to take sides against the Minister, but he had no doubt that the swindle had been perpetrated on the country and the soldiers through the Department of Militia. This swindle Mr. Oliver believed to have been to some extent known to the Minister. The money had been paid to Mr. Devlin, and after the exposure no attempt was ever made to recover the money or prosecute the offender. Therefore Mr. Oliver could not relieve the Minister from responsibility.

This was growing serious. But another Liberal, Mr. Richardson, from Manitoba, took the floor. He also supported the minority report convicting the Minister of culpable negligence, and charging that a cruel and mean swindle had been perpetuated.

Still there was more to follow, for when the vote was taken six Liberal members voted for the minority report. Mr. Monet was not one of them. He voted against both reports.

HOW THEY VOTED.

The revolters who remained in the Chamber and voted for the verdict of guilty were Ellis, of St. John; Graham, of Ontario; Puttee, of Winnipeg; Oliver, of Alberta; Richardson, of Lisgar, and Rogers, of Frontenac.

In voting for this report these Liberals affirmed the proposition contained in it "that the food was totally unfit for the purpose intended," that "an imposition was practiced," that the Minister did wrong in not informing the soldiers that the food they gave them was not what it professed to be, and that the Minister of Militia and his Department were guilty of culpable negligence in purchasing and providing the Canadian soldiers with an article totally unfit for the purpose for which it was intended."

The minority report contained other charges against the Minister, declared that $4,666 was paid to Devlin for goods which did not cost more than $1,350, and which were "absolutely worthless as an emergency ration."

The vote on the main motion was still more disastrous to the Government. No less than ten Government supporters voted against the majority report which justified the Government and which declared the charges not proved. The majority was thus cut down to fourteen, the vote standing 66 to 52. It is believed that if the Government supporters who refused to vote the report through, but who consented to go out and refrain from voting, had remained and voted as they thought, the Government would have had a very close call.

NOTES.

Another discussion was taken on a motion of Mr. Bennett condemning the Government for allowing free coasting privileges to United States coasting vessels plying on the great lakes to and from Port Arthur and Fort William, a concession made last year and repeated for this session. Canadian vessels cannot ply between United States ports, and 21 members voted against the one-sided system. They were voted down.

It is still a growing time. The largest main estimates in the history of the country were brought down at the beginning of the session. The largest supplementary estimates ever known on current account came down last month. On Wednesday of this week a railway subsidy bill of unusual vastness appeared. This little bill asks for subsidies for bridges and railways as follows:—

In Ontario......	$1,162,400
In Quebec......	900,400
In Nova Scotia......	461,200
In New Brunswick......	465,000
In the West......	503,000
	$3,492,000

Mr. Sifton has come home. It is too late to investigate anything, and his estimates are through. He would have been welcome earlier.

The session has continued five months and one week. Government supporters accuse the Opposition of obstruction. But the Hansard shows that the Ministerial side has talked several hundred columns more than the Opposition and is gaining about five columns a day.

WHAT THE MAJOR DID.

Explanation of Remarkably Uneven Career of His Regiment.

"There wasn't a man at the officers' mess but despised the major," said an old army captain, talking to some friends in a down town cafe the other night. "We all felt that he distinctly lowered the social tone of the regiment. He was sullen and loutish and slovenly, with the air of a man who had proved false in some crisis and who had a grudge against fate for his own misdeeds. He was full of mean, contemptible ways. Besides, he drank heavily and would lie for days at a time in a drunken stupor.

"We would have got rid of him on charges but for the fact that he could fight. It was in the early days of the campaign in the Tennessee valley, and there was plenty of fighting to do. In battle the major became another man. The boys forgot his ugly and contemptible ways, and I guess the major himself did. Then we got a glimpse of the man as he must have been before some great trial spoiled him. His eyes lost their dull and filmy look and blazed beneath his shaggy brows, and under his soiled uniform his frame took on the commanding lines of the soldier. In the noise and smoke his manhood had a brief and savage resurrection.

"Somehow, before the regiment knew it, on such occasions it was following the major lickety split in a dashing charge or taking his orders as it stood grimly in line awaiting attack. The colonel and lieutenant colonel, good fellows though they were, did only a thinking part. It was the major who was doing all the fighting, and the boys knew it.

"After every battle we would treat the major with respect for a little while. Our regiment was winning glory. The colonel got the thanks of congress, and the general of the brigade got a promotion, but we all knew it was that mean cuss, the major, who did it. We tried to be nice to him, but he always spoiled things. Once we actually got up a banquet in his honor after he had led the regiment brilliantly in three successive days of fighting in the woods. But he drank himself under the table and into a prolonged debauch, and the next day the regiment went into battle under the colonel and was on the run until nightfall.

"I think we were all relieved when the major disappeared once for good. It made the officers' mess more congenial. But the regiment never amounted to much after that. While it began the war brilliantly, it ended it in disgrace, and our brigadier is unofficially on record with the statement that the only good charge we made in these last years was once on the sutler's tents. The war department never knew why our record was so uneven. It was all on account of that heroic old scoundrel, the major."—New York Mail and Express.

POULTRY POINTERS.

Oats if scalded at night and left to stand until morning make an agreeable change for the hens.

Very fine dust is an excellent preventive of lice and disease and may be used freely scattered around.

The hens should always have somewhere to dust. They will soon rid themselves of lice if they have dust.

When the wings are cut, the feathers do not renew until the bird molts, which is usually in the fall, but when the feathers are pulled out new ones appear in a short time.

One advantage with the heavy breeds of ducks is that they can readily be kept within an inclosure with a low fence, and if given water in a trough for bathing they will thrive and do well.

Do not allow the drinking fountain to stand in the same place all the time. Change it to a new place every day or two; otherwise the place may become so foul as to cause disease.—St. Louis Republic.

STEYN IS ADVISED TO GIVE UP THE FIGHT

British Successes at Bethlehem Have Made Peace a Near Possibility--All Free State Government Surrendered Except Steyn.

BRITISH SUCCESS WILL HASTEN PEACE

Pretoria, July 10th—The British success at Bethlehem has considerably improved the prospects for peace. It is said the whole of the Government of President Steyn, of the Orange Free State, has surrendered, except President Steyn himself. These Free State officials, who are British prisoners, have been allowed to communicate with President Steyn for the purpose of attempting to prove to him the uselessness of a continuance of the struggle which can produce only blood shed without any counterbalancing advantages. The collapse of the forces of General Dewet is expected daily. The Boers here say that the men have taken a solemn oath never personally to surrender, but they are beginning to see the unfairness of sacrificing life to personal wishes. It is expected that when General Botha learns of the defeat of his colleagues he will gladly enter into conferences looking to the establishment of peace.

BETHLEHEM IS NOW BRITISH.

But the Boer Town Was Only Taken After a Hard Battle.

The Fight Lasted Two Days—By Noon of Second Day the Enemy Was in Full Retreat—The British Casualties Were Few Considering the Strength of the Positions Assailed—Convalescent Canadians Coming Home.

London, July 11.—Lord Roberts has sent the following despatch to the War Office:

"Pretoria, July 10.—Clements' and Paget's forces entered Bethlehem July 7. The former, on nearing the town, sent in a flag of truce demanding its surrender, which was refused by Dewet, when Paget, making a wide, turning movement, succeeded in getting hold of the enemy's most important position covering the town. This was carried before dark by the Munster Fusiliers and Yorkshire Light Infantry. The following morning the attack was continued and by noon the town was in our possession and the enemy in full retreat.

The British Casualties.

"Our casualties were 4 officers and 82 men of the Munsters wounded; 1 missing; Captains Macpherson and Weakes and Lieut. Conway severely, and Lieut. Boyd-Rochefort, Scottish Rifles, slightly wounded; 7 men of the Yorkshires wounded; 1 killed; 2 wounded of the Imperial Yeomanry, Battery Practice Accurate.

"Paget reports that but for the accurate practice of the Thirty-eighth Royal Artillery and the Fourth Imperial City Batteries the casualties would have been many more.

Baden-Powell at Rustenberg.

"Baden-Powell reached Rustenberg during the evening of July 8 without opposition. He found all quiet there and public confidence entirely satisfactory, thanks to the prompt and bold grasp of the situation taken by Major Hanbury-Tracey.

"The district west of this is somewhat unsettled owing to the small force which attacked Rustenberg being still in the neighborhood. Measures are being taken to meet this.

The Capture of Bethlehem.

"Further information regarding the capture of Bethlehem has now been received from Clements. He states that the country there is broken and difficult. Consequently his and Paget's cavalry were unable to make any wide turning movements. Clements attacked one position while Paget attacked another.

The Royal Yeomanry Did It.

"The position assailed by Clements was gallantly captured by the Royal Yeomanry, who captured a gun of the Seventy-seventh, lost at Stormberg. The list of casualties has not been issued, but Clements states they are few considering the strength of the positions assailed.

"Hunter's cavalry under Broadwood reached Bethlehem July 8. Hunter, with his main force, was within nine miles of the town when Clements despatched his report."

Boers Have Slipped Out.

Senekal, Orange River Colony, July 11.—An extended reconnaissance yesterday resulted in the discovery that the Boers had evacuated all their positions around Senekal. Numbers of them appear to have gone towards Fickburg and the remainder in the direction of Bethlehem. The British commanders express the opinion that the retirements of the Boers foreshadows a speedy end of the war in this section of the country.

CANADIANS COMING HOME.

There Are 27 of Them on Board the Parisian, Now En Route for Canada—Col. Hershmer in Charge.

London, July 11.—There are 27 Canadians on board the S. S. Parisian, now on its way to Canada. They had all been invalided to England from South Africa and had recovered sufficiently to be allowed to return to their homes across the Atlantic.

The list, which is somewhat incomplete, as given out by the War Office, is as follows:

LIFE..

A question of great interest for intending insurers is which Canadian Life Company is in highest favor with the insuring Canadian public? The following table is a good indicator:

Name of Company.	Commenced Business.	Canadian Business Written in 1899
North American	1881	$4,834,505
Sun Life	1871	3,996,865
Ontario Mutual	1870	3,965,509
Confederation	1871	3,839,469
Canada Life	1847	3,800,917

The above are the five leading Canadian Companies and although the North American is much the youngest in years, she is outstripping all her rivals in the Canadian field.

The Daily Review.
WEDNESDAY, JUNE 11, 1900.

A SAMPLE.

Sir Wilfrid and his party promised to reduce the taxes of the people. Under Conservative rule in 1896 the tax charge per head was $5.02. Under Liberal rule in 1896 it was $5.42 and has increased each year until in 1900 it is $7.00. This is one sample of how Liberal promises have been kept.

WHEN THEY MAY TALK.

The Hamilton Times complains in a defence of the present rulers that the Conservatives did not do this and that when they were in office. Why, my dear fellow, if the Tories had shut out the Chinese or Italians or no matter what they had done the Times would have found fault with them and condemned their action. If the Times, whose bitter attacks on the Tory Government and its loud talk of what Liberals would do if given office was notorious, would now consistently stand by its former contentions and advocate its alleged principles of four years ago, the public might be justified in giving some weight to what it says. But the Times, like the other great "Reform" journals, has to swallow its principles and defend the present rulers at Ottawa who have outdone and outdistanced all their predecessors in the practice of the worst of those sins which the Times and other Liberals newspapers condemned so fiercely. Scandals, deals, extravagance galore, letting contracts without tenders, satisfying hungry followers at the expense of the country, all these things are accepted by the Times without a protest. When it rises to some show of consistency then it may talk with some effect about what the Tories did not do. They did a good deal in spite of the Times and its party, or Canada would not be what it is to-day.

WAS A CONDEMNATION.

The Hamilton Herald, independent Liberal, cannot allow the emergency ration scandal to pass without a reference, and it does not spare the Government and the disgraceful whitewashing job that was done by the majority of the committee. The Herald says:—

"The vote on the emergency ration committee's report is virtually a condemnation of the course and conclusions of the Liberal majority of that committee. True, the majority report was adopted, but it was adopted by a majority of only fourteen, and ten members who usually vote with the Government revolted against the gross partizanship of the report and voted against it. Of these ten, five are straight Liberals, two are Patrons, who have uniformly supported the Government, and one is a labor representative. It is a significant fact that every independent member who voted gave his vote against the majority report.

"This result is humiliating to the Government. As we have said, it is equivalent to condemnation. And we believe it accurately represents public opinion. It will be impossible to remove the conviction in the public mind that a gross swindle has been perpetrated in connection with the purchase of emergency rations. By strong party pressure it has been possible to get a small majority of the House to exculpate all the officials of the militia department from blame; but that will not prevent the great public outside from forming its opinion. There is no doubt whatever that the opinion and sentiment of the vast majority of the Canadian people on this matter is the opinion and sentiment of the Liberal members who have dared to vote against their party, choosing to satisfy their own conscience rather than the party whip.

"It may be taken for granted, we suppose, that, the whitewashing report of the committee majority having been adopted, no action will be taken by the Government against the vitaline contractor. For the report says that the transaction was quite regular, and if it was regular then the contractor as well as the officials must be held blameless. The escape of the man Devlin from prosecution and punishment will be the most regrettable feature of the whole melancholy business."

That coat of whitewash was very thin.

Tarte is coming home. He will arrive at Ottawa just after Parliament has prorogued. How convenient!

Liberals of any independence will not accept the Borden whitewash, and condemn that disgraceful majority report.

Who has been made rich by the Liberal Government at Ottawa? Have you or has your neighbor? If he has is he a relative of Tarte or Sifton or some other of the men in the "pull" at Ottawa?

Elections this fall will suit the Conservatives all right. The people are ready to give their verdict, too, and it will not be an endorsement of the present Government with its broken pledges, discarded principles, its deals, its scandals and its extravagance.

Sir George Goldie will be appointed governor of the Cape Colony. TORNADO AT MANITOU, MAN.

Destroyed Some Houses and Barns and Damaged Others.

Manitou, Man., July 11. — Last evening a tornado passed at the outskirts of the town in a southeasterly direction. Harmer's farm buildings, a mile and a half from town, were in the path of the storm and suffered severely, the barn being completely demolished. The house was also damaged. A small house and stable on the next farm, which were unoccupied, were also destroyed. Two miles further on John Tait's house was picked up bodily and entirely destroyed, with all its contents. The occupants at the time were Mrs. Tait, two children and a man named Martin Fiddlelick, from Morden. Fiddlelick's leg was broken, a little boy one arm broken, while the others escaped with a severe shaking up. Very little hail accompanied the storm and no damage to crops is reported from it.

Mr. Cameron the Man.

Stayner, July 11.—Three hundred delegates attended the North Simcoe Liberal-Conservative convention held here yesterday to nominate a candidate for the House of Commons.

Many of the delegates supported Leighton McCarthy at the last election, but having become disgusted with his support of the Laurier aggregation at Ottawa have decided that in the future the county must be represented by a Conservative.

All the nominees retired in favor of Mr. Charles Cameron of Collingwood, who accepted the nomination. Mr. Charles Cameron is a well and widely-known successful business man of Collingwood and commands the respect and esteem of all classes in North Simcoe.

San Jose, Cal., July 11.—George A. Moore, an aged, and absolutely helpless patient in the Agnew's Asylum, was slowly boiled to death last night in a bath in the men's ward of that institution. He was placed in a bath tub, and, after the hot water had been turned on, the attendant left the room for a towel, and forgot his patient.

MOVED WANT OF CONFIDENCE.

Hon. Mr. Foster's Scathing Arraignment of Liberal Rule.

The Ex-Finance Minister Was Particularly Happy in His Phrasing, and the Words are so Pat and so Well Describe the Situation that Their Truth Is Recognized Instantly by the Reader—Vote Stood 44 to 86.

Ottawa, July 11.—Yesterday in the House, Mr. Casey arose with the Hamilton Spectator in his hand and found fault with an editorial that claimed that the French-Canadian Liberal members had been "around Robin again," and had be-fridmmmmnnbbvdccxx vzv vzv v vvv come disgruntled because Sir Wilfrid had not opened up the public treasury to them. Casey said it was "a purely gratuitous lie, because the French-Canadian members were not alone in desiring increased indemnity." Casey himself had signed the round robin. He was not a French-Canadian.

T. Dixon Craig took up the strain. He had signed the round robin and was not ashamed of it. He argued that members of Parliament attending a session lasting over five months were poorly paid if they got but $1,000.

Sir Wilfrid Only Smiled.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier listened calmly to the discussion, and only smiled. The incident then dropped.

Why Was Not Cazes Hanged?

Sir Adolphe Caron brought up the subject of Dube and Cazes, the Quebec murderers. Dube killed a man and was hanged. Cazes killed his wife and his sentence was commuted. He wanted to know why this discrimination was indulged in.

Sir Wilfrid viewed the report of the trial judge, and declared it was on the strength of that repoet that Cazes' sentence of death was commuted.

Corporal Courtney's Case.

Dr. Borden spoke of the case of Corp. Courtney, who was reduced to the ranks at Kingston for disobedience. The matter was purely of a regimental nature. Courtney was in charge of a squad of soldiers who were marched to a canteen to drink the health of the Queen or get the equivalent in money. Courteny refused to carry aut orders. A court fused to carry out orders. A court martial reduced him to the ranks. The report of the court which reduced the corporal to the ranks concluded: "Religious scruples, however conscientious, cannot excuse disobedience."

Mulock's P.O. Amendments.

The next order of business was the discussion of Mr. Mulock's amendment to the Postoffice Act on the second reading.

The Opposition opposed the motion because they declared the present proposal would introduce the principle of discrimination among the provinces.

Mr. Davin moved that the bill should be given the six months' hoist in order that the Government bear the odium of having discriminated against the newspapers.

On a vote, Mr. Davin's motion was lost and the bill was read a second time. The vote was 37 to 79 Messrs. Ingram, Kaulbach and Ferguson voted with the Government Hon. M. E. Bernier polled his first vote as Minister.

Mr. Moore a Woman's Man.

An interesting interlude to the routine was introduced by Mr. Moore of Stanstead. He appeared as the champion of woman's suffrage. He declared that a great number of women in Canada thought the House of Commons should remove the disabilities under which they were laboring. He thought women should not be disqualified from voting because of their sex. They were mentally, morally and intellectually the equal of men. He appealed to the pages of history to prove his assertion. He quoted from the speeches of English statesmen to confirm his opinion.

Provinces in Control.

Sir Wilfrid replied that as the matter of the franchise had been relegated to the provinces this House could do nothing.

When Mr. MacDougall of Cape Breton had given some statistics regarding the coal trade in the East, and Mr. Bell (Picton) had complained of the buying of hay for the Imperial army, recess had come.

The Government Arraigned.

When the House reassembled at 8.15 Mr. Foster presented a scathing arraignment of the Government, and moved a vote of want of confidence. He declared the Government had promised to reduce the volume of taxation, but their reduction was an increase of $12,5000,000 in 1899 over the taxation of 1894. They promised to increase the public debt, but it was increased $8,000,000 in 1899 over 1896. They promised to cut down expenditure, but they increased it $11,800,000 in 1899 over 1896. They promised to obtain reciprocity, but they gave the United States free corn, free twine and free wire, while getting nothing in return. They promised to abolish protection, but the tariff had been reduced only 30-100 of 1 per cent. They promised to open new markets for Canada, but instead they had opened new markets in Canada for 30 foreign countries, not a single country had taken down a bar of restriction to Canada's trade. They promised to abolish railway subsidies, but in the past three years they had passed $14,200,000 in railway subsidies. They promised to protect the independence of Parliament, but fourteen Liberal M.P.'s had been seduced from the paths of independence and were now located in public offices. They promised purity of elections, but there was no need to comment on this broken reed. They claimed to be a business Government, but the very first essay in that line was the Teslin Lake Railway contract, which was killed by the Senate, but which caused Mackenzie & Mann to present their bill for $834,000 for service rendered. What would the Government do? Other instances of lack of business ability were the fast line of steamships unobtained, contracts let without tender, and others. Mr. Foster concluded by referring to the procrastination exhibited in the presentation of business during the session.

Mr. Fielding's Reply.

Mr. Fielding replied and placed the blame for the long session upon the Opposition, declaring they had wasted weeks in talk upon every conceivable subject. He confessed the Government had increased the public debt. He repeated the old time axiom, wise expenditure is true economy, and declared that the Government had spent more money than the late Government, because they had the money. The late Government could not spend so much because they did not have it to spend. Further, this was a growing time, and the Government would be recreant to its trust if it did not respond to the demands of the people. In face of all this Mr. Fielding declared that the present Government was not as extravagant as the late Government, and he was ready to let the people decide.

After Mr. Davin had spoken, Mr. Foster's motion was lost by a vote of 44 to 86, and the House went into supply.

More Supplementaries.

Mr. Fielding laid on the table last night the following supplementary estimates: Improvement to Port Colborne entrance (re vote), $300,000; Hull public building (re vote), $19,158.99; bridges over the Chaudiere slides (re vote), $19,622.21; total, $388,776.20.

Minor items in the military, the immigration and postoffice estimates were discussed at length and passed at 1 a.m, and the House adjourned.

The railway subsidies will be taken up on Thursday.

Senators Marking Time.

Ottawa, July 11.—In the Senate yesterday there was much marking of time. The Pilotage bill and the Quebec Judges' bill were put throu Quebec Judges' bill were put through and stages given to the Railway bill and the Conciliation bill, but nothing else was done.

Suicided With Paris Green.

Lindsay, July 11.—Samuel McGinnis, a well.known farmer residing with his brothers David and Richard on lot 21, con. 11, Ops, on the Emily boundary, was found dead in the barn Sunday morning at 6 o'clock. Indications went to show that it was clearly a case of suicide. Paris green scattered upon the floor and staining his thick beard left no doubt as to the means the unfortunate man had taken to end his life. Deceased was 66 years of age and unmarried.

Kind words are benedictions. They are not only instruments of power, but of benevolence and courtesy, blessings both to the speaker and hearer of them. —Frederick Saunders.

WOMEN'S SECRETS.

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over thirty years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, and the honor paid him by the profession as the first of specialists in the treatment of women's diseases.

Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely without charge. Every woman's letter which contains her secret remains her secret. It is read in private, answered in private, and its contents guarded as a sacred confidence. That no third party should enter into this secret, all replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever, upon them. Write without fear as without fee, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

ANIMAL LIFE.

As many as 4,061 muscles have been counted in the body of a moth.

Every square mile of sea is estimated to contain some 120,000,000 fish.

Horses, giraffes and ostriches have the largest eyes of all terrestrial animals, but among marine animals there are cephalopoda, or ink fishes, which have eyes as large as a plate.

Silk of the great spider of Madagascar is strong, fine and elastic. It is used by the natives for fastening flowers to sunshades. The spiders which produce it are busy spinners, and a spider has been known to produce two miles of it in 24 hours

THE DRESS MODEL.

Among other favored colors for the summer all the tints of the primrose form a dainty note.

High collars of some description—linen, silk, French lawn, embroidered muslin or pique, etc.—will be worn all summer on gowns intended for general uses.

Toile, the pretty mercerised linen—very popular in Paris and London—makes exceedingly smart summer gowns, beige, hyacinth blue and ecru being favorite colors.

The plentiful use of point d'esprit net as a fashionable dress material helps greatly in the summer scheme for transparent effects, and when it is decorated with lace appliques it makes very handsome gowns.

Lace, lace, is the dernier cri everywhere, both here and abroad. There is hardly a dressy gown or hat from Paris that has not a touch at least of this dainty and refined garniture upon it, laces in applique form taking high place.

One of the French ways of making the newest blouses to wear with tailor suits is to tuck them with colored silks. For example, a white silk blouse is entirely covered with the tiniest possible tucks stitched with pale green silk.

The latest novelty brought out among lace fancies are the box coats in chantilly, Brabant, Flemish and renaissance patterns. They are unlined, and, unlike the cloth box coats, the lace models curve in considerably at the underarm seams.

All of the new full ungored skirts designed for slender figures that have thus far been sent over as models are either shirred very closely from the belt to below the hips or else laid in fine lingerie plaits, which are often of graduated depth, forming a pointed yoke effect on the front and sides of the skirt.

The Greek, the Gretchen and the Marie Antoinette are three different names given to the increasingly popular bell shaped dress sleeves that terminate a little below the elbow and are completed by full gathered undersleeves, finished at the wrists with a narrow band of embroidery ribbon or silk strap, edged with a line of fine gold braid.—New York Post.

The great and growing popularity of the emerald quite disproves the old saying that "all things green are unlucky." On the contrary, the new and revised legend credits this beautiful gem with smoothing off all the rough angles of life and makes it the smartest of bridal gifts. —Jewelers' Circular-Weekly.

Queen Victoria's Long Reign.

As illustrating the wonderful long reign of Queen Victoria it may be stated that Her Majesty has seen 11 lord chancellors, ten prime ministers, six speakers of the house of commons, at least three bishops of every see and five or six of many sees, five archbishops of Canterbury and six archbishops of York and five commanders-in-chief. She has seen five dukes of Norfolk succeed each other as earl marshal and has outlived every duke and duchess and every marquis and marchioness who bore that rank in 1837. She has outlived every member of the Jockey club and every master of the hounds who flourished in 1837. She has seen 17 presidents of the United States, ten viceroys of India, and France successively ruled by one king, one emperor and seven presidents of a republic.

Nervous Debility.

A Sufferer From Weak Blood and Exhausted Nerves Tells of His Cure by Using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Mr. A. T. P. Lalame, railway agent at Clarenceville, Que., writes:—"For twelve years I have been run down with nervous debility. I suffered much, and consulted doctors, and used medicines in vain. Some months ago I heard of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, used two boxes, and my health improved so rapidly that I ordered twelve more.

"I can say, frankly, that this treatment has no equal in the medical world. While using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I could feel my system being built up until now I am strong and healthy. I cannot recommend it too highly for weak, nervous people."

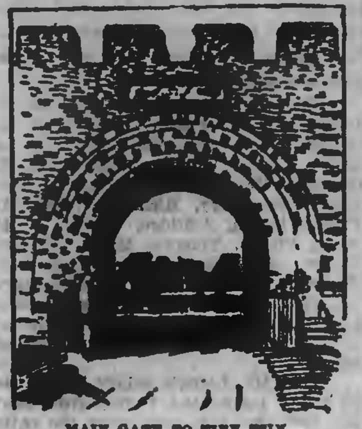
DIVISION OF CHINA

A HISTORY OF THE SEVERANCE OF THE EMPIRE UP TO DATE.

Ports in Chinese Territory That Have Been Leased to Foreign Nations and the Reasons For It.

China's division among the nations may be said to have commenced with the leasing of valuable ports and harbors to foreign nations, and the establishment of spheres of influence by the nations controlling these ports.

While the Portuguese have controlled the island of Macao, near Canton, since 1537, and the English became owners of the island of Hong Kong, in the same vicinity, by the treaty of 1842, no other nation had possession on or near the coast of China until within a comparatively recent date. One result of the war between China and Japan was that Japan obtained the island of Formosa, lying 90 miles off the coast of central China. By this treaty Japan was also to have certain territory on the peninsula of Liaotung, which commands from the north the entrance of the Gulf of Pechili, the gateway to the capital of China; but on the urgent protest of Russia, France and Germany this was abandoned, and the mainland of China up to that time thus remained intact.

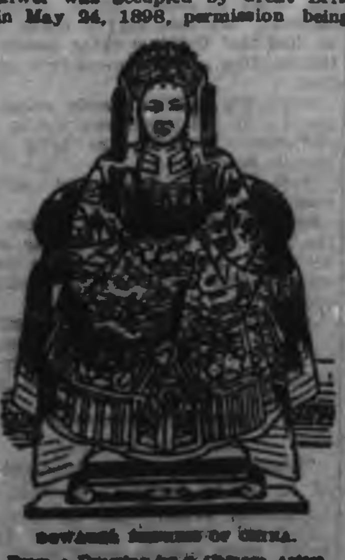


MAIN GATE TO TIEN TSIN

On November 4, 1897, however, the German government seized the port of Kiaochau, on the northeastern coast of China, asserting as the cause of its action the desire to obtain satisfaction for the murder of German missionaries by Chinese on November 1 of that year. This port was held by a German warship until the announcement of a treaty with China by which the port of Kiaochau and adjacent territory were leased to Germany for a term of 99 years, the German government being given the right to land troops, construct fortifications, and establish a coaling and naval station, while German subjects were to have the right to construct railways, open mines, and transact business in the rich agricultural and mineral provinces of Shantung.

One month later, on December 22, 1897, the Russian government obtained permission for its naval squadron to winter at Port Arthur, on the Liaotung peninsula, which it had, with Germany and France, in 1895, required Japan to abandon. On March 27, 1898, an agreement was signed by the Chinese government by which Port Arthur and the adjacent port of Talienwan were leased for a term of 25 years to the Russian government, the lease to be subsequently extended by mutual agreement. This lease included 800 square miles of territory and all harbors between Port Arthur and Talienwan, the harbor of Port Arthur and a part of Talienwan to be for the sole use of Russian and Chinese men-of-war, Russia to have the privilege of extending its trans-Siberian railroad line through Manchuria to Port Arthur and Talienwan, and to protect the same, during and after its construction, by Russian troops.

This action, by which the northern side of the entrance to the Gulf of Pechili, leading to the capital of China, was placed under control of Russia, being satisfactory to the English government, a lease of the harbor of Weihaiwei, on the opposite or southern side of the entrance to the Gulf of Pechili, was made to Great Britain on April 2 of the same year, 1898, the lease to be on the same terms as that by which Port Arthur was granted to Russia, and to continue as long as Russia should occupy the peninsula of Liaotung. Weihaiwei was occupied by Great Britain May 24, 1898, permission being given also to occupy the islands of Liukung and a strip of land 10 miles broad along its entire length, with the privilege of erecting fortifications and occupying the adjacent coast for military and naval purposes, the walled city of Weihaiwei, lying within these limits, however, to remain under control of the Chinese government. On June 9, 1898, a lease was also made by England of an area of about 200 square miles on the mainland opposite its island of Hong Kong, and surrounding the Chinese city of Kowloon, which city, however, was to remain under Chinese jurisdiction, the lease to continue for a term of 99 years.



DOWAGER EMPRESS OF CHINA.
From a Drawing by a Chinese Artist.

The concession of territory to Germany, Russia and England led to a demand for similar privileges by the French government, and on April 13, 1898, the Chinese government leased to France the harbor of Kwangchauwan, in the Leichau peninsula, on the southern coast, near to the French possession of Tonkin, and protecting in some degree the Gulf of Tonkin. This lease was also accompanied by the privilege of connecting the French territory of Tonkin with the Chinese province of Yunnan and the city of Yunnanfu, the harbor of Kwangchauwan to be used as a naval station. The lease was for 99 years and similar in terms to that made with the German government for Kiaochau, carrying with it exclusive mining privileges in the area to be traversed by the proposed railroads. In view of this agreement, Great Britain therefore has now the right to extend her Burmese railroads into the province of Yunnan, in southwest China, through and agreement made with China January 15, 1896, by which all privileges to France or Great Britain in the provinces of Yunnan and Szechuan should be given to both countries.

These concessions to Germany, Russia, Great Britain and France which followed each other so rapidly in 1897 and 1898, were followed in March, 1899, by a demand by the Italian government for similar privileges at the port of San Mun, and in April, 1899, somewhat similar demands are reported to have been made by Japan regarding certain territory on the coast opposite her island of Formosa.

WOUNDED SOLDIERS.

South African Lady Tells of Hardships En Route to Hospitals.

It is very sad, yet precious work, this visiting the ambulance trains, and one gets very weary, as we are apt to be called away any hour of the night or day. But can you not imagine how grateful the poor sick men are who have been perhaps for five days without moving their clothes or boots, and have no nice things like we serve to them to eat. We take custards, soups, jellies, bread and butter, and eggs and tea to those who are better.

I wish you could look into just one carriage and see the need, that you might be able to realize it better, so that you could put the need of funds for this work more forcibly to your friends, as I want you to do. The loyal people at the Cape are doing their utmost, and I am writing to friends in England and America for help for the dear fellows. Oh, so many with glassy eyes, sunken cheeks and shaking hands, and we do long to do what we can to alleviate the suffering. I am hoping to write to your son this week, but you can imagine how busy this outside work keeps me, as I have six children to care for at home. The dear Lord blesses the service and I am so surprised at the strength I have for the work.—Mrs. Puttick, wife of the President of the Huguenot University, Wellington, South Africa, in a letter to Pte. AT STONY LAKE

George-st. Sunday School Picnic Held at Stony Lake.

The annual picnic of the George-st. Sunday school was held yesterday to Stony Lake via G. T. R. and steamer Sunbeam and barge. The excursion was well attended, between 300 and 400 people being on board. Juniper Island was reached after a pleasant sail and here dinner was served. The steamer left for a sail up the lake about 2 o'clock and the beautiful scenery was viewed until evening, when the boat returned and took on board those still at the island. The homeward sail was also very enjoyable.

Answered by the Vote.

To the Editor of the Review.

Dear Sir,—Your contemporary, the Examiner, has at last plucked up enough courage to mention "Emergency Food." It gives editorial prominence to an article in the Toronto Star, a paper organised to do the scavenger work for the Grit party in Toronto. The editor of the Examiner knows that the article is a tissue of falsehoods, and that the conclusions arrived at are diametrically opposed to the evidence. The fact that the Government with a normal majority of 50 could only muster 14 majority on the question is enough to give the lie to all such articles by Grit editors. Let them explain that phase of the situation before they start picking the evidence to pieces.

Yours,

PROPERTY MATTERS.

Mr. Ferguson, chairman, presented the report of the Property Committee as appended:

Gentlemen,—Your Property Committee, after visiting the schools, find them in want of the following repairs:—

Institute Building.—The plaster of ceiling in the boys' closet requires to be taken off and replaced with matched lumber and cellars whitewashed. Clothes Closets.—Plaster repaired and painted at least two feet above the wainscot and coat hooks required, also floor painted in labratory. We find a large number of coat hooks wilfully broken in the boys' clothes closets, which should not be.

Central Public School.—Eave trough repaired and steps should be rebuilt. Low pressure gauge wanted in the boiler, and brick replaced; one new window in east end of hall three feet wide and about four and a half feet high. One light in janitor's door instead of wooden panel to improve light in hallway; main door on west side repaired and plaster fixed in Miss Perry's room. We recommend also that all class room doors should be numbered in the Central and South Ward Schools. Estimate of cost would be about $150.00, including stairway. We also beg to report that we find that the new water closets in this building are giving excellent satisfaction.

North Ward.—Wire guards should be placed over cellar windows and in the playhouse. Windows are being continually broken.

West Ward.—It is all very much in want of repair and cleaning.

South Ward.—The old part is dirty and the halls are very dirty. Cellar walls are black and all require to be whitewashed. The whole building should be cleaned.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

William G. Ferguson,
Chairman.

The report was adopted and the Board adjourned.

THE PERJURY CASE

John Macfarlane Found Guilty but Allowed off on Suspended Sentence.

At the session of the County Judge's Criminal Court yesterday was heard the charge of perjury laid against John Macfarlane, driver of the fire department. The evidence was very much the same as that offered at the preliminary investigation. Macfarlane again went into the witness box in his own defence. Judge Weller after hearing the evidence and argument found the accused guilty but, in view of his family being dependent on him, allowed him to go under suspended sentence. County Crown Attorney Wood conducted the prosecution and Mr. D. O'Connell acted for the defence.

AN ELECTRIC RAILWAY

Some Warkworth People Anxious to Have it Touch Norwood.

The Warkworth Journal says:—"Prospects for the early commencement of the building of the proposed electric railway to pass through this village seems to look quite favorable. On Monday Mr. D. Carlaw received a blue print (map) pointing out the proposed route, which is likely to run from Brighton to Havelock. The following are the names of principal points along the proposed line, viz., Brighton, Hilton, Orland, Codrington, Norham, Warkworth, Meyersburg, Campbellford, Healy Falls, Trent Bridge and Havelock. Mr. Carlaw is working hard to make the proposed road a success, for which he deserves much credit. He is of the opinion that the above named route is the best one to be operated. But there are a number of other persons in this village who argue that the C.P.R. will build their proposed road through the back country and that one terminus will be the village of Norwood, and in this case Norwood instead of Havelock would be the best point to connect with the C.P.R. Mr. Carlaw expects that representatives will be along in a few days, when the matter will be finally settled. If the road is pushed through electric light can be furnished for the villages along the line at a very cheap rate. This alone would be a very great advantage to Warkworth as well as other villages."

CENTRAL CANADA AT OTTAWA

Special Attractions to Make This Years Exhibition at the Capital a Success.

With an immense number of new attractions and increased prize list, and a programme of specialties which cannot be beaten, the Central Canada Exhibition this year cannot fail to be a greater success than ever before.

One of the grandest attractions will be the spectacular at night, the battle of Paardeberg, in which so many of our gallant Canadian soldier boys in South Africa laid down their lives for their country and their Queen. Messrs. Hand & Teale, of Hamilton, have designed this masterpiece specially for the exhibition, and it will be produced every night. It is also the intention of the management that in case the war in South Africa is over by that time to have the same Canadian regiment which behaved with such conspicuous gallantry at this battle, to take part in this scene.

A large number of other splendid attractions have already been secured, although the list is by no means yet completed. Among others, Miss Lillian Shaffer, the champion lady rider of the world, will give an exhibition of her peerless horsewomanship.

Prof. Ed. R. Hutchinson and Miss Retta Danzelle will appear in their wonderful balloon ascension and the double drop from the clouds from their monster air ship, in which the parachutes fall 400 feet before opening.

Another interesting feature of the programme will be Prof. N. R. Sutherland with his wonderful ten trained horses.

The demand for space for the exhibition proper is greater than ever this year, and there is no question but what the exhibits will be more attractive and numerous than ever before. Any person desirous of obtaining information in connection with the exhibition should apply to Mr. H. McMahon, who will cheerfully answer all inquiries.

TO-MORROW'S PROGRAMME

Preparations Complete for the Anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne.

To-morrow the Orangemen, True Blues and 'Prentice Boys of the various districts of this vicinity will gather in Peterborough to celebrate the 210th anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne. At two o'clock in the afternoon the procession will be formed up in Central park and will proceed down George-st. to Hunter, Hunter to Aylmer, Aylmer to Charlotte, Charlotte to George, George to Brock, Brock to Water, Water to McDonnel, and thence back to the park, where addresses will be given by clergymen and prominent members of the Order.

SUMMER DAYS AT CHEMONG PARK

SUCCESSFUL PICNIC OF ST. LUKE'S SUNDAY SCHOOL

Pleasant Day Spent by Many—Picnics at Chemong Park Almost Daily—Cottagers in Summer Residence.

Chemong Park seems to be the favorite point for picnics this summer. Every day last week and each day of this week has seen gatherings of merry makers enjoying themselves in the beautiful pine grove and delighting in the pleasure of boating on its beautiful lake. As a place for a day's outing Chemong cannot be surpassed, and if there were some means of easy transportation its popularity would be unbounded.

All Saints' Sunday school scholars, teachers and friends enjoyed themselves there in large numbers and in large measure on Monday. St. Luke's held its annual outing yesterday, and St. Andrew's Sunday school excursionists are there today. Among the excursions there last week was one run by the Methodists, of Fenelon Falls.

The picnic of St. Luke's school yesterday was a most enjoyable one. The weather was ideal and the park was charming in its freshness and beauty. The children were mustered in large numbers, and many of the grown ups accompanied them. Mr. Leary's 'bus service was used and altogether fourteen crowded omnibusses of picnickers were transported to the grounds. Most of the children went out early and the parents and friends by the later trips. The return trips were started about 6.30 o'clock and the homeward procession lasted until after ten.

The committee in charge of the picnic had made perfect arrangements, and the ladies had so prepared their part that not the slightest thing seemed to be missing. Long tables were spread under the trees and a great abundance of good things were served both for dinner and tea. After the dinner had been disposed of a programme of races was run off for the children, the older folks enjoying the sport almost as much as the younger ones. Then the afternoon was pleasantly spent in swinging, boating, promenading round the park and lolling in peaceful nooks.

The prizes for the children were distributed immediately after the races. The winners were as follows:—

Girls, five and under—Ada Adams, Lizzie Maniece.

Boys, 8 and under—Geo. Gray, Rollie Howden.

Girls, 8 and under—Fanny Long, Katie Leary.

Boys, 10 and under—Norman Gale, Geo. Carpenter.

Girls, 10 and under—Clara Adams, Lily Scott.

Boys, 12 and under.—Fred Hickey, M. Grassett.

Girls, 12 and under—Muriel Scott, Rossie Bennett.

Boys, 14 and under—Sid Gibbs, M. Grassett.

Girls, 14 and under—Rossie Bennett, Muriel Scott.

Boys, 16 and under—Sid Gibbs, M. Grassett.

Wheelbarrow race—Norman Gale and Geo. Butcher.

Boot race, girls—Ethel Pogue, Olive Parker.

Boot race, boys—S. Gibbs.

Swimming race—Tom Sargenson, Douglas Hammond.

Mr. M. O'Brien, Separate School Inspector, has his family at Chemong.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Overend have taken a cottage at Chemong for the summer.

Mrs. Moore and family, of Ottawa, are among the Chemong cottagers now at the park.

Mr. Hartshorn and family, of New York, are at their cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Parker and children are occupying their cottage at Chemong.

Mrs. Twain and family are spending the summer at Chemong.

Prof. Bull and family, of New York, are at their Chemong cottage.

Messrs. W. H. Hill, H. S. Macdonald and J. W. Tully open their cottages at Chemong this week.

A number of guests are expected at the hotel next week from Rochester, New York and Pittsburg.

A fine new telephone cabinet for the use of the guests has been placed in Chemong park hotel.

The steamer Ogemah calls at Chemong park wharf daily at 9.45 a.m., on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and at 5.30 p.m. on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. On the latter three days she leaves for Bobcaygeon; on the morning trips she leaves the park for Buckhorn, Burleigh, Bobcaygeon and other points on the lakes. Leary's 'bus from town connects with both morning and afternoon boats.

Mr. R. M. Dennistown has his family at their summer house at Chemong.

Mrs. Sherwood and family are occupying their cottage at Chemong.

An Explanation

We have during the last month advertised a Special Sale of the well known Slater Shoes.

We were enabled to do so having bought from the Slater Shoe Company regular lines of shoes stamped to sell at $3.50 and $5.00.

In order to clear out these lines and induce rapid sale we returned a quantity of these shoes to the Slater Shoe Co., and had the price mark removed, otherwise we could not have sold them at other than the stamped prices.

The balance of this line of unstamped Slater Shoes are most excellent value at the price we are asking for them. They deserve an early inspection from buyers.

PITH AND POINT.

When a man plans a wicked thing, circumstances all shape themselves to assist him in doing it.

We are forced to respect some people who have been in jail more than a lot of people who have never been there.

If you feel that you must occasionally yield to the temptation to tell a lie, tell one so big that no one will believe it.

So many of the new novels have an immoral tendency that people are gossiping about them instead of their neighbors.

Look on the bright side. If a baby arrives at your house, it means that you will have no more trouble in finding safety pins.

It is a pity that every one hasn't the privilege enjoyed by a lawyer of sending in a bill to those who insist upon telling him their troubles.—Atchison Globe.

ANEMIA

is thin blood. It causes pale faces, white lips, weak nerves and lack of vitality. A blood-enriching, fat producing food-medicine is needed.

For Anemic girls, thin boys, and enfeebled mothers, it is the Standard remedy.

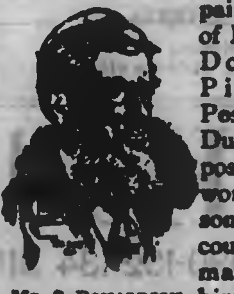
Lame for Two Years

It is not necessary for a man to meet with an accident to become lame or otherwise physically impaired. Friends of Mr. Samuel Donaldson, Pittsburg, Postmaster at Dufferin, Ont., postoffice, have wondered for some time what could be the matter with him, and when told that his crippled condition was due to rheumatism, could hardly believe it. But such was the case, however. Mr. Donaldson was lame with rheumatism for two years, and during that time suffered internal pain and experienced the greatest difficulty in getting out of a rig. Mr. Donaldson used liniments and mixtures of all kinds to no purpose. At last he tried Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure on the suggestion of a friend, who had been cured of a similar complaint, and after taking one bottle of this wonderful preparation the pain disappeared, and now he is as well as ever.



MR. S. DONALDSON.

Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure is put up in 50 cent bottles, containing ten days' treatment. For sale by all druggists and dealers in medicine. The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE IVORY QUEEN

A Detective Story Of a Chicago Suburb. The Murder at The Grange and How Its Mystery Was Solved by Darrent, the American Lecoq.

BY NORMAN HURST.

Copyright, 1899, by the American Press Association.

"Do you mean to tell me you've had a detective here before me?"

"Yes: this morning."

"From Chicago?"

"Yes."

"How do you know?"

"He said so."

"Oh! He said so, did he, Mr. Dobson, and you believed him? Did you ask him for his authority?"

"No."

"Then you are a fool! Wake up, man, wake up! Rouse yourself! What was he like? What did he do? What did he say? Where is he?" shouted Darrent in short, snappy sentences like pistol shots.

"How do I know where he is? He came this morning and said he'd just arrived by train from Chicago and had driven over."

"What time was that?"

"Ten."

"Then how the deuce could he come from Chicago?"

"I never thought of that."

"No, of course you didn't, Mr. Dobson. Go on."

"He said he'd come to look into the murder, so I took him up to The Grange and told him all about it."

"Well, is that all?"

"I showed him the knife."

"Which, of course, you let him take away."

"No, I didn't. He didn't ask for it."

"Oh! That's a relief anyhow. Then he didn't take anything away?

"Yes, he did."

"What?"

"Some chessmen."

"Chessmen?"

"Yes; a set of carved Indian chessmen—horses and elephants and things. He said that he had an idea they had something to do with the murder."

"A set of carved chessmen—ivory, I suppose?"

"Yes."

"Anything else?

"Nothing."

"You're sure he took nothing else?"

"Certain."

"Very well, Mr. Dobson. I shall report your idiocy to your mayor," Darrent remarks as he finishes writing in his pocketbook and rises from his seat. "What the deuce," he mutters to himself, "did he take a set of chessmen for and leave the knife, and who the dickens is he?"

"Do you want to know anything else?" Dobson sulkily asks as he relights his pipe, which he has let go out during the cross examination.

"Yes; give me the name and particulars about every one related to or friendly with the dead man. Any sons?"

"No; at least I don't know. Perhaps he is his son. You never know. Old Marsden always said he adopted him. I don't believe it."

"Never mind what you believe, Mr. Dobson. I'm asking for facts. Well, who is it?"

"Astray Marsden."

Boiled Down Facts

ABOUT . . .

Dr. Ward's Blood and Nerve Pills

No remedy ever introduced in Canada has gained so many words of praise from sufferers all over the country as these thoroughly effective pills.

WHY?

Because they positively cure all diseases brought on by impoverished blood, such as heart trouble, nervousness, rheumatism, dyspepsia, etc.

ALSO

Because they induce sound, healthy sleep, and restore VIM, VIGOUR, and VITALITY to the body.

ALSO

Because their use enables the system to successfully resist attacks of colds and the inseparable results, viz., lung and kidney troubles, a fact of especial importance at this season of the year.

50 cents per box, five boxes $2.00. All druggists, or Doan Williams & Co. Toronto, Ont.

"Astray—curious name."

"Yes; old Marsden said he was a stray when he found him, and he stuck to the name. It was his joke."

"I see. Where is this Astray?"

"Quarreled with old Marsden a couple of years ago and went abroad."

"Oh! Never been seen in Norcombe since, eh?"

Dobson hesitates under the keen eyes of the detective, who, it seems to him, is reading his inmost thoughts. It will be no good trying to keep anything from Herbert Darrent, so he suddenly blurts out, "Came back on the night of the murder."

"I see," says Darrent, again writing in his pocketbook. "What time?"

"I saw him about half past 10."

"Did he seem strange in his manner at all?"

"Not particularly; only a bit excited."

"Did he mention old Marsden?"

"No."

"Where did you meet him?"

"At the corner of the road that branches off to The Grange."

"How was he dressed?"

"Long overcoat and soft hat."

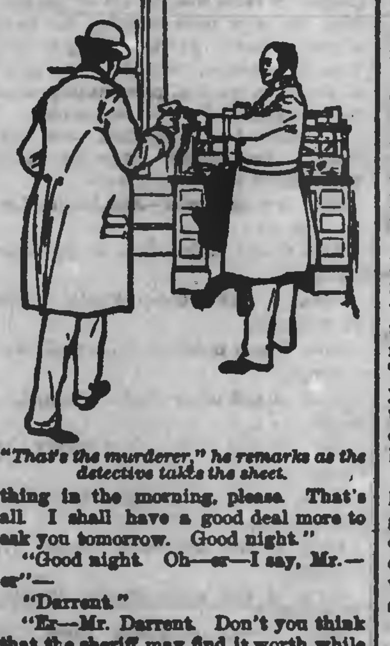
"Was it snowing then?"

"No; didn't commence till 11."

"Right. Thank you, Mr. Dobson. Now, do you know any one else connected with old Marsden either here or at Barnstaple?"

"Only one or two distant relatives and acquaintances."

"Very well. You can employ the rest of your evening by making me a complete list of them, and say all you know about them. Have it ready by the first thing in the morning, please. That's all. I shall have a good deal more to ask you tomorrow. Good night."



"That's the murderer," he remarks as the detective takes the sheet.

"Good night. Oh—er—I say, Mr.—er"—

"Darrent."

"Er—Mr. Darrent. Don't you think that the sheriff may find it worth while to offer a reward pretty soon?"

It is the second time that Dobson has mentioned the chance of a reward being offered, and Darrent pauses for a moment, then suddenly confronts him.

"Now, look here, Dobson," he says gently, "you're simply playing the fool, and you've given the whole game away. Twice you've asked after a reward. That means you know something more than you have told me and expect to be paid for your knowledge. Well, you're wrong. You won't be. You ought to know even if a reward is offered it is not paid to those in the service, whose duty is to do their duty. Come, now, Dobson. Own up all you know and not half of it."

"I know nothing except what I've told you."

"Very well, then, Mr. Dobson, you'll never get any promotion from your mayor or any reward, which your soul so hankers after."

"Then you will never know."

"Ha, ha! I've got you! So you do know who committed the murder! Very well, Mr. Dobson, very well. You are what the law calls an accessory after the fact. It's a very unenviable position, Mr. Dobson. Good night!"

"Half a minute."

"Good night. I think an accessory after the facts gets about ten years."

"Stop!"

"Well?"

"I'll tell you all I know."

"That's better. I would rather reward than punish. Now show your sense by telling me everything you know, every iota, and your mayor may probably look over your indiscretion and remember you when the proper time comes."

Without answering, Dobson goes over to a desk, unlocks it and, taking out a stained and crumpled sheet of paper, hands it to Darrent.

"That's the murderer," he remarks as the detective takes the sheet.

Darrent carefully examines the paper—a sheet of note paper stained with one or two nasty smears—and then, in almost illegible writing:

I am dying
murdered by Astra

And there it ceased, as the pen had evidently fallen from the dying fingers and had rolled across the sheet, leaving blots in its track.

"Where was this?"

"Crumpled up in Marsden's hand."

"Murdered by Astra"—

"By Astray, don't you see? He had not strength to finish it. The 'y' is missing."

"Hum! So Astray Marsden is the murderer, and you intended to hold this for the reward or else blackmail Astray Marsden, eh?"

"I put it by and forgot it."

"That's a lie, Dobson," he answers as he carefully folds the paper and places is in his pocketbook. "You could not have forgotten it in a couple of days. Have you shown it to any one?"

Dobson shifts uneasily and tries to avoid the fixed gaze of the detective.

"Well, answer up."

"Only to young Marsden—to Astray."

"When and where?"

"The day after the murder, at the Palace hotel, where he had put up."

"Well, what did he do?"

"Said he'd come round and see me later."

"Well, did he?"

"No; he skipped."

"I see. Well, Mr. Dobson, whether he committed the murder or not, I should advise you to be very careful, my friend. You may find that you've got yourself into serious trouble. Tomorrow morning I go over The Grange. I shan't want you. Send your patrolman to meet me there at 9. Don't forget. Good night."

Darrent turns on his heel and leaves Mr. Dobson to his own reflections, which, to judge from that gentleman's expression of countenance as he moodily pulls at his pipe as he sits before the fire, are not of a very enviable description.

In the short walk from the police station to the Palace hotel Herbert Darrent marshals his facts.

The old man, reputed a miser, murdered, the footprints in the snow leading one way only; the return of Astray Marsden on the fatal night; the mysterious visitor of the morning, claiming to be a detective, who had taken merely a set of ivory chessmen, when one would have assumed that the weapon with which the deed was done would have been the first consideration. That factor in itself was a problem. Then there was the writing of the dead man that seemed to reveal the name of the murderer at once and to make all clear. That paper accused the man who two years ago quarreled with old Marsden, the man who only returned to Norcombe on the night of the murder and had since fled—Astray Marsden.

Herbert Darrent felt that indeed all his art would be needed in this investigation, for he knew better than any one that the cases that seemed to be over before they had really commenced very often proved to be almost unsolvable mysteries.

CHAPTER II.

DARRENT FINDS A CLEW.

To say that Herbert Darrent passed a good night would have been to have stretched veracity to breaking point.

It was cold in that small bedroom in the village hotel, and the discordant clanging of the cracked bell of the church clock from quarter to quarter and from hour to hour irritated him in his restlessness. His mind was far too active to allow his eyes to be wooed by slumber, and through the long watches of the bitter winter's night the few threads of information that he had gathered tangled themselves into twists and knots in his brain, and the very fact that prima facie the solution of the mystery seemed to be so simple only served to worry and irritate him more.

Detectives, after all, are only human beings, not mechanical contrivances, and their intellects, trained though they be to keener and clearer intuition than those possessed by ordinary men, do not render them free from the worries inseparable from complicated problems of which the solution is obscure.

Darrent lay awake for hours wondering and speculating. Those clews which seemed to point at once to the culprit often, he knew, failed utterly upon closer investigation, broke off sudden and short, and, once the thread snapped, one was left absolutely without the possibility of following the trail for another inch and had to hark back to the very commencement again, only perhaps to have the same experience and the same result. One never hears of a detective's failures. It is only his victories that are noised abroad. One does not learn of all the byways and crossroads, all the narrow lanes and blind alleys, that his search leads him into. It is only when success has crowned his patient task that one hears of him at all.

Once when he had dozed off for a little while the dreary, monotonous recital of the untimely death of the wretched 20 cows disturbed his brain, and he awoke with a shiver to realize that, whatever the winter of 1881 in Norcombe was like to have killed the score of cows in one night, the winter of 1896 was quite as severe a one as he ever desired to experience. Thinking of the cows recalled the brief conversation he had with the driver of the dogcart. Evidently that individual did not think very much of Josiah Marsden and, moreover, had admitted to having a grudge against the murdered man because his rent had been raised. Was it possible that that man who told so glibly the story of a ghost was implicated in the murder? Perhaps. One never knew. But against that supposition there was the paper that had been written by the dying man, the half finished accusation that he had been murdered by Astray. What a colossal idiot Dobson was to have shown that paper to Astray! And directly Astray had seen it he fled. That certainly looked like guilt and yet might only be a sudden spasm of fear—fear that a train of circumstantial evidence might be gathered together that would inevitably put the rope around his neck, be he innocent or be he guilty.

There were indeed many black factors in the case that pointed to Astray. Let him recapitulate them:

(1) Astray was not Mardsen's own son, but had been adopted by him, and who could tell what Astray's antecedents were or why Marsden had kept him?

(2) Astray and old Marsden had quarreled and separated some two years back. Why?

(3) Astray had returned, after an absence of two years, on the very night of the murder. Why?

(4) The unfinished note written by the dying man seemed to accuse Astray of the murder.

(5) Astray had fled.

Yes; all these facts certainly did point to Astray Marsden as the murderer. All through the long winter's night the disjointed fragments of the puzzle jumbled themselves about in the perplexed mind of Herbert Darrent until the dawn broke gray and cheerless.

He gazed out of the window across the waste of snow to where in the distance the trees that fronted The Grange met his eye. Should he, he wondered, fathom the mystery of the midnight murder within that dwelling, whose smokeless chimneys stood out black against the wintry sky?

Breakfast, with its steaming coffee, its crisp toast, savory bacon and new laid eggs, over, and Darrent felt another man, ready to commence his investigations, to piece together every tiny scrap, every minute fragment, until the whole puzzle was complete, the mystery solved, Josiah Marsden avenged and justice satisfied.

Mine host, who waited upon the stranger from Chicago himself, was of a communicative turn of mind. Oh, yes, he knew the Marsdens, father and son—at least they called him son—well enough. Josiah Marsden was a strange sort of fellow; seemed to have no friends and no enemies. Visitors to The Grange were very rare indeed. Marsden kept himself to himself and never associated with the inhabitants of Norcombe; went over to Barnstaple once or twice a year. He rarely had any letters. Now and again one with a foreign postmark, so the village postman told him, would come, or maybe he would have a French newspaper or a chess magazine. Young Marsden—ah, he was always a nice, affable young gent, he was! Many's the bottle he'd had in the room where they were now, and many more bottles he hoped to open for him. Yes, Astray Marsden staid there at the Palace on the night of the murder, and in the morning, after Dobson had called and seen him, he left for Barnstaple.

Chronic Indigestion

By far the most important part of digestion takes place in the intestines and it is folly to expect stomach medicines to cure a severe case of indigestion or dyspepsia. The kidneys, liver and bowels must first be made regular and active, and the only remedy which acts directly on these organs is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They are purely vegetable, act pleasantly and naturally and positively cure dyspepsia, biliousness and stomach troubles. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box; take no substitute.

"BOXERS" MOVEMENT

ANOTHER CHINAMAN'S OPINION AND HISTORY OF THE TROUBLERS.

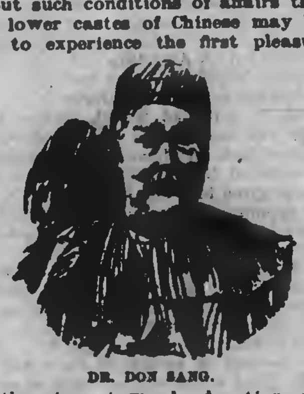
Dr. Don Sang, a Chinese Doctor in Chicago, Represents Them as Almost the Antithesis of What Westerners Have Been Taught to Believe of Them—What He Says.

Dr. Don Sang, a Chinese resident of Chicago, speaking recently of the troubles in China, said:

"The 'Boxers' represent the most progressive class of the Chinese Empire, which is endeavoring to bring in European and modern civilization among its people. Their idol, Kwang Shu, has been in prison for ten years through the influence of the dowager empress. The latter is upheld in part by the lower castes of Chinese, the very ones whom the different sects of missionaries have been endeavoring to convert. First, they were met by possibly a Catholic missionary, who told them that all they had learned heretofore was absolutely false and wrong, and that the Catholic church was the only right one. Shortly afterward they were met by missionaries from the Baptist or Presbyterian church, and these told them that the laws of Confucius and Catholic laws were wrong, and that the only way to get on the right track toward heaven was to join their church.

"Many of these weaker disciples of the imperial faith followed out the lines laid down by the missionaries, and in a very short time committed acts which, in view of the Chinese laws, were considered transgressions, and as a result led to punishments. When a number of such punishments had been inflicted these poor misled converts laid all their trouble at the door of the missionaries, and as a result found this feeling of mistrust had grown into hatred, and then followed by murderous assaults, in which a number of missionaries were sacrificed. The 'Boxers,' which means the strong arm of the Almighty, in no wise endorsed the present empress.

"The whole matter summed up as far as the 'Boxer' movement is concerned is nothing more or less than to civilize the Chinese Empire, enact laws which shall by degrees bring about such conditions of affairs that the lower castes of Chinese may begin to experience the first pleasure in the steps toward education and civilization.



DR. DON SANG.

"Another element entering into complication is that the dowager empress is, in fact, of the old Japanese race, and she is endeavoring to place on the throne an illegitimate son instead of Kwang Chih, who is at present kept in prison.

"In order to thoroughly understand this matter, it will be necessary for me to go back to the beginning to learn why this Manchu family holds the throne. In 1662 Woo San Kwai, the chief officer of the Ming dynasty, was stationed at one of the passes leading from China to the foreign countries, on the north. Hearing that Pekin had been taken by the rebels, he asked the Manchu to come to his assistance. They did so, and having arms superior to the rebels whipped them. The Manchu leader, assuming the title Shun Chih, was made emperor in 1644. He reigned eighteen years, until 1662, and in turn was followed by Kanghi, 1662-1723; Yung Cheng, 1723-1736; Kien Lung, 1736-1796; Kia Cheng, 1796-1821; Tau Kwang, 1821-1851; Hien Fung, 1851-1862; Fung Chih, 1862-1875, and he by the present Emperor, Kwang Shu. He died in 1875, and the present emperor, Kwang Shu, a nephew of Hein Fung, at the age of five years, was put upon the throne, where he now is. That leads us to this present date, the trouble with the so-called 'Boxers.'

"The 'Boxers' is a society that was formed for the purpose of bringing Kwang Shu out as the real emperor, and for him to reign instead of the dowager empress. Kwang Shu is a man of very liberal ideas and progressive, while the dowager empress still clings to old ideas. This 'Boxer' element is in no way connected with the responsibility of the uprising now in China and the slaughter of Christians. It is being done by people under the direction of the dowager empress and her followers, in order to make the people of other countries believe that the 'Boxers' are responsible for all of this. She has incited these people to do these acts."

FATE OF THE LEGATIONS.

No Authentic News From Pekin is the Burden of Despatches.

The Greatest Anxiety, Therefore, Still Prevails—Japs Only Prevented a Disaster at Tien Tsin by Timely Arrival—One Russian Company Wiped Out—War to the Knife Between the Dowager-Empress and Prince Tuan.

London, July 11.—(4.15 a.m.)—"No authentic news from Pekin" is still the burden of the despatches from the Far East, and, altho the disposition is to believe the optimistic reports from Chinese sources, no real confidence is possible until the legations, if they are still in existence, are permitted to communicate with their Governments. If, as is alleged, the Boxer movement is losing ground in Pekin, it might have been supposed that the Boxers would have endeavored to send up reinforcements from Tien Tsin, but instead of that they are still in great force in the neighborhood of the latter place, and are assisted by the Imperial Chinese troops with ample, efficient artillery.

Fighting Around Tien Tsin.

According to a special Che Foo despatch the fighting around Tien Tsin on the third and fourth was the severest yet experienced. The British losses alone were 80 killed or wounded. The Chinese had 75,000 men attacking simultaneously from the west, north and east, and made excellent practice with over 100 guns.

Japs Prevented a Disaster.

The defenders numbered 14,000, with scant supplies, and it was only the presence of the newly-arrived Japanese and Russian guns that prevented a disaster.

Terrible Slaughter of Russians.

One Russian company of infantry numbering 120 men had 115 killed or wounded. The German contingent also suffered heavily. By the evening of the 4th the situation was very critical. The allies narrowly escaped total defeat. Providentially, when things were at their worst, a torrential rainfall compelled the Chinese to retire.

On the 6th the rain had abated and the Chinese renewed the attack, opening fire on Tien Tsin with two batteries of four-inch guns, but the allies, aided by two of H.M.S. Terrible's 4.7 guns, succeeded in silencing the Chinese artillery after 8 hours of fighting.

Was the Date Wrong?

At Shanghai it seems now to be the general belief that the date of the despatch of July 3, asserting that two legations were still standing, was an error, either accidental or intentional. The couriers must have left Pekin at least five days earlier, making the real date of the message June 28, while the alleged massacres are said to have occurred on June 30. Until this point can be cleared up the greatest anxiety will be felt as to the fate of the Europeans.

According to the Shanghai correspondent of The Express, it is war to the knife between the Dowager Empress and Prince Tuan. In a recent edict the latter boldly discards his mask and signs himself as Emperor. He warmly defends the prowess of "his faithful Boxers," and in flowery language appeals to their cupidity and fanaticism. In the same decree Prince Tuan appoints Prince Tsuan, the "Iron Capped;" Prince Tsaisha his imperial clansman, and Kangyi to command the three chief wings of the Boxer army.

Refugees in a State of Destitution.

Three hundred European refugees from Tien Tsin have arrived at Shanghai in a state of destitution after terrible suffering.

Von Ketteler Was Hated.

The Chinese version of the origin of the outbreak, as published in Shanghai, is that Baron Von Ketteler was hated by the Pekinese, who, taking advantage of the disturbed condition of affairs, shot him out of revenge, thereby causing a conflict between the Chinese troops and the Germans, the latter of whom destroyed the Tsung li Yamen. The infuriated soldiers under Prince Tuan then gained complete control over the Dowager Empress.

Will Bombard Tien Tsin.

The Daily News Tien Tsin correspondent says the allies have decided to bombard the native city which they have hitherto hesitated to attack owing to the heavy commercial interests involved.

THE FOREIGNERS ARE SAFE.

According to a Despatch From Chinese Sources They Are in One of the Palaces.

Tien Tsin, July 3.—It is reported from Chinese sources that the foreigners at Pekin have taken possession of one of the Prince's palaces opposite and commanding the British Legation, and that the native Christians have been installed there.

The News is Confirmed.

Washington, D.C., July 10.—The Secretary of State has received a despatch from Mr Goodnow, United States Consul-General at Shanghai, stating that it is given out by the Governor of Shantung that the legations were standing on July 5, and that the outlaws were dispersing. Mr. Goodnow adds that this statement does not obtain general credence.

Shantung Governor Says It's So.

Washington, July 10.—The following official despatch was received here to-night from China:

"Che Foo. Secretary State. Shantung Governor wires has reports 4th July. All legationists Pekin safe, except German. Fowler, Consul."

HEAVY ARTILLERY AT WORK.

Chinese Are Good Shots From the Results Shown at Tien Tsin on July 3.

Tien Tsin, Wednesday, July 4.—The Chinese shelled the foreign settlements all day long, July 3. Upwards of 150 shells fell into the concession, and many houses were partially wrecked. The casualties, however, were few, the civilians and women and children being ordered to seek shelter in the cellars of the Town Hall and the Astor Hotel.

Chinese Are Great Shots.

Three companies of Japanese infantry, a mountain battery and a body of Russians engaged the Chinese artillerists, but with little effect. The twelve-pounder of the British first-class cruiser Terrible then came into action, but the enemy placed two shells fairly under the gun, damaging the carriage and wounding the crew. The gun was withdrawn and replaced by a French gun, which had a similar experience, a shell bursting in the midst of its crew.

Japanese Casualties.

The Japanese casualties during the day's fighting were an officer and two men killed and 20 men wounded. The casualties of the other forces engaged are not known.

JAPAN WILL HAVE 63,000 TROOPS

In China Before the Rainy Season Begins—All With Modern Equipments.

London, July 10.—The Chinese correspondent of The Express telegraphs yesterday (Tuesday):

"The Japanese force is equipped with 30 heavy mortars and 120 field guns and has pontoon and balloon sections. It is expected either Marshal Nodzu or Marshal Oyama will take comand. The plan of campaign contemplates operations extending two or three years.

"A further force of 13,000 men will be landed at Taku a week hence and an additional 10,000 soon afterwards.

"Before the rainy season is well advanced Japan hopes to have 63,000 troops in China."

American Troops Going.

Washington, July 10.—Gen. MacArthur cables the War Department that the 14th Infantry and 5th Artillery will leave Manila on Friday for Taku. Other troops are being sent to replace these.

Money Voted for the War.

Paris, July 10.—The Chamber of Deputies and Senate to-day voted an additional 14,500,000 francs for the purpose of carrying on France's operations in China.

French Troops on the Way.

Toulon, July 10.—The French troopship Aquitaine sailed from this port to-day with 850 infantry soldiers and artillery for China.

THE ROUTE THROUGH CANADA.

Canadian Pacific May Be Used to Transport Troops to China

Montreal, July 10.—(Special).—The Canadian Pacific Railway Company have received a communication from the Admiralty Office in London making enquiries with regard to the transport of troops over the company's system to Vancouver.

The officials of the company have communicated to the Admiralty authorities the information asked for, but the negotiations are of a purely confidential character as yet. It is not known to what extent the Imperial authorities propose using the great Canadian road as a military highway, but it is extremely probable that it will be utilised for transport purposes during the trouble with China.

BEST CROP REPORT YET.

Half Average Yield in Manitoba and Over Average in the Territories.

Winnipeg, July 11.—General Superintendent Osborne, of the C.P.R., has just received what he states is the most important crop report yet received from agents along the C.P.R. lines in the province and territories. The reports show the most promising outlook yet given this year, and predict a good half crop of wheat, while good yields of oats, barley and hay are looked for.

At territorial points reports show wheat to be above the average. Around Edmonton wheat is expected to go as high as 40 to 50 bushels to the acre, while oats may in some cases yield 100 bushels per acre. The most pleasing feature noticed is that the farmers this year will have no trouble over feed. The grass is now in splendid condition at all points and greatly improved by the rains.

Only Child Drowned.

Brigden, Ont., July 11.—About six o'clock last evening the three-year-old daughter of J. B. Collins, principal of the public school here, was drowned in the cistern. While Mrs. Collins was ironing the child was playing about the door outside, and is supposed to have raised the cover and fallen in. She was their only child.

Rev. Dr. Mowat Critically Ill.

Kingston, Ont., July 11.—Rev. Dr. Mowat, brother of Sir Oliver Mowat, is critically ill.

To-day the Canadian locomotive works, building and plant was offered for sale by Joseph Salter. There were bids of $20,000 and $50,000 but they were below the reserve bid and no sale was made.

Sir Frederick Hodgson Safe.

London, July 11.—The Daily Mail's Accra correspondent, telegraphing July 10, says:

"Sir Frederick Mitchell Hodgson, Governor of the Gold Coast Colony, and his wife, arrived at Cape Coast Castle to-day. The remainder of the party is expected to-morrow.

Soldiers in Camp

Ex-Sergeant William Johnston, of the 10th Royal Grenadiers, Toronto, writes:—"It is impossible for me to speak too highly of Dr. Chase's Ointment for piles or any itching skin disease. It is simply invaluable. Many of our men used it while in camp and received excellent results." Members of the Canadian contingents took 1,000 boxes of Dr. Chase's Liniment with them to South Africa to relieve the sufferings of campaigning life.

Burglary Is Not Profitable.

A Sing Sing prisoner says the remuneration of burglars of average industry and intelligence is not more than $15 or $20 a week, with enormous expenses involved in the maintenance of two places of abode, the necessity of dressing well and similar requirements of the profession. Then, too, there is the expenditure involved in keeping out of jail.

THREE CHEERS GIVEN FOR "BOBS"

BY THE CANADIAN BOYS WHEN HE INSPECTED THEM NEAR KROONSTADT

Interesting Letter From Sergt. McCrea—He Tells of the Movements of the First Contingent in Their March Towards Pretoria.

The following interesting letter was received by his sister at Omemee from Sergt. John McCrea, who is with the first Canadian contingent:—

Winburg, May 13.

Dear Flora,—I have not received a letter since we left Bloemfontein, but I found an old one of yours in my pocket with this piece of paper in it, so I write you. It is not easy to get names right and you may find discrepancies in my versions of what happens. We left Bloemfontein on April 21st and camped at Springfield. Nearly all Sunday we could hear fighting to our right, and in the evening we could see smoke of cannon. On the 24th we could see the chimney of the pumping station. I had a splendid view of our force that morning as they advanced to take the station. It was like a great elegant fan formed of different material and colors, the centre portion made up of infantry, on either side of that the artillery, and outside of that again the mounted infantry. The edge of the fan begins as a very light fringe, which gradually thickens and contracts until it converges in the handle, which is made of the transport, the end of it being finished off by a tassle, otherwise the rear guard. There was no resistance worth mentioning at the station. Although our advanced mounted infantry had been driven back by shell fire the previous evening. On the following day we entered Thaba N'Chu at noon. It seems as if the Boers do not intend to make a stand at any town. On the 28th we went north of the town and had a lively half day; that was the first day the R.C.R. were under shell fire from anything larger than a Pom Pom. Towards evening we were supposed to have a number of the enemy and some guns surrounded, but another lot came at our Mounted Infantry with such force that we had to fall back, and we had to leave a tremendous kopje which it had taken all day to gain. Sunday the R.C.R. rested, but beyond the hills to the north-east. The rest of the march to Winburg I have described in mother's letter, which I hope she received. We rested there on Sunday and received congratulations through Col. Bucham, from Lord Roberts and Gen. Ian Hamilton for work done. We left Winburg at 6 p.m. to steal a march on the Boers. We did eight miles, but to our surprise stayed there till 7 a.m. on the 9th. At 11 a.m. we camped at Boomplaats, which is a very fine farm. There were hundreds of spring bok and hartbeste about. Bunches of them ran through the camp. A few were captured by the men, while the officers shot a few more.

THE FIGHT WENT ON

Our guns shelled the enemy that evening, and in the morning we moved on and in about a mile came in touch with the enemy. The R.C.R. were posted to hold a hill—a supposedly easy task but it turned out to be the hottest place in the fight. We had to move our ammunition carts back to escape rifle-fire. Not long after that the Mail and Empire correspondent was hit, not far from my cart. The Boers were using a pom-pom freely on our Mounted Infantry, but one shot from our 6 in. gun put them on the run. Our field guns shelled the Boers off the kopjes and out of the dongas and shortly after noon they were in full flight. The R. C. R. had one killed, two mortally wounded, and five others hit. We crossed the Zand River at dark and camped there. It was a bad crossing and the last of the transport did not get over till morning. We left at 10.30 and overtook the Gordon Highlanders and Sussex, who had five prisoners, among them a field cornet. We marched at 3 p.m. by a very dusty road and camped at 9. We left that camp yesterday morning at 3, and were surprised that we heard no firing of any kind when we halted at noon, but soon had the news that to French the day we were at Zand River. At 5 p.m. yesterday I sighted the railway and the effect was magical, for presently I heard a train running, but it proved to be the lead rope of a mule which was tied behind rubbing against the wheel. I am writing on top of a conical kopje. Looking north I can see Kroonstadt about four miles distant. On my left, I see another city much larger, a new city, a mushroom city if you please, but I think a city more progressive, enlightened and civilized. On my right there is also a good sized town which has sprung up in a night. This country we are passing through lately is the finest yet. More trees, grass and water. Nearly every farm has orange trees, and I have had several oranges fresh picked. Although we are on 3-4 rations it is not so bad as it was from [illegible] to Bloemfontein as we are in a more populous country and it is easier to supplement the rations. We can buy cornmeal and fowls. The Boers had fine trenches made for the defence of Kroonstadt, but made no stand at all. I think Cronje's fate must have taken the heart out of them and I hope so, for I am fed up with the business. We are to be here for a few days and expect the railroad to be in order in a day or so.

KROONSTADT HAD FALLEN.

FROM KROONSTADT.

In Camp 4 miles south of Kroonstadt, May 14th, 1900.

When we left Bloemfontein we expected to return in a couple of days for our winter clothing. I heard to-day that we are to get it here and I hope so, for very few brought any clothing of anything and it is not [illegible] long enough to go without while one could wash, besides times and water are not convenient at the same time as a rule.

There was divine service yesterday morning. I heard Rev. Fullerton, Presbyterian Chaplain. The service was short for there were no hymn books and closed with the National Anthem and Doxology. In the evening Cook's Chorus gave several patriotic sentimental and sacred selections. There are some good voices amongst them. The Y. M. C. A. had service at night. Dr. Barrie has worked hard for the comfort of the men.

I met Fraser, of Hastings, yesterday. He is one of our draft and is acquainted with Hugh Murray. We were busy all morning getting ready for inspection by Lord Roberts. All I heard him say as he was passing through the ranks was "How are you off for boots." As Bobs rode away we were lead by Col. Buchan in three rousing cheers. I must close now, hoping to hear from home soon.

A Hint to Letter Writers.

The practice of writing private letters from the first to the third page of a letter sheet and then going back to the second page is a matter of taste, but it will not do to follow that course of procedure in writing legal documents.

The New York courts have disallowed the provisions of a will written in this way. The testator wrote the will on three sides of a folded paper, commencing on the first page and continuing on the third page, at the top of which was written "second page," and completing and signing the instrument on a page marked "third page," which, in fact, was the second page of the sheet.

The court held that the will was not signed at the physical end, as required by the statute. The law does not contemplate going backward in order to get forward, and the will was refused probate. The New York court of appeals sustained the decision throwing out this form of will.

A Discouraging Entry.

The performance of the Shakespearean drama of "Hamlet" was dragging itself slowly along.

The time had come for the appearance of the ghost.

There was a slight delay owing to the tardiness of the ghost in responding to its cue.

The profound stillness that followed was broken by a loud voice in the front row of the main balcony:

"Mamma, there are 37 men down there with round white spots on top of their heads."

And no stage ghost ever made its appearance under more discouraging auspices than the armor clad phantom that came stalking upon the stage at this moment.—Chicago Tribune.

Parrots Natural Gymnasts.

The curious gymnastic feats which parrots sometimes perform in their cages have been ascribed to the desire of the birds to vary the monotony of their life in captivity. That was the opinion of Mrs. Mandsley, the wife of the Central American explorer, until she lived in the forest region near Copan, where she saw the parrots in a state of perfect freedom indulging in all the feats practiced by their caged cousins.

A STRANGE ANOMALY

THAT KING OF AMERICAN FOOD FISHES, THE SHAD.

It Is a Salt Water Fish, Yet It Is Only Known In Fresh Water—Its Ocean Life and Habits Are a Mystery to Scientists.

The shad is the king of American food fishes. As soon as winter is fairly gone this splendid creature appears in countless myriads, and from Florida to Maine it furnishes one of the most valuable of the "harvests of the sea." It may be considered an American fish, for the European "maifisch," that resembles it on the other side, is far inferior to it. The flesh of our shad is rich without being oily and has a flavor unequaled even by the salmon. Unimaginative science has recognized this quality in the technical name given to it and knows it as the Alosa sapidissima, the most toothsome alosa, and no one who has tasted a "planked" shad will criticise the title.

The shad is a member of the herring family, an immense tribe that includes the sardines, the alewives, or "river herrings," and many well known fishes, and, like them, it is a salt water fish. Little or nothing is known of its ocean life. The parts of the sea to which it resorts, the food it eats and its movements when in its true home have not been determined, and it presents the strange anomaly of a sea fish known only in fresh water. Like its kindred, it moves in great shoals, and to this fact the family owes its name, for the word herring came to us from an old German term meaning army. The movements of the shad seem to depend on the temperature of the water, and a late spring will delay their coming very materially.

The annual run into the rivers is solely for spawning, and they appear in almost regular succession, according to latitude. About the middle of November the run commences in St. Johns river, in Florida, and the first or second week in January finds them in the Savannah and Edisto. Somewhat later they enter the streams of North Carolina, while April is usually the month in which they are most abundant in the Potomac. By the middle of May they have reached New Brunswick, and their season is over. The time they stay in fresh water varies, and it seems that under some circumstances they may remain in the rivers throughout the year, and occasionally one is taken in midwinter, but as a rule they are found only in the spawning season.

Shad were formerly very abundant and went for long distances up the rivers in search of spawning grounds. The reckless building of dams cut them off from the spawning beds and so diminished their numbers until they seemed threatened with extinction, and the shallows on which the eggs are laid became clogged up by the sawdust and other refuse that a shortsighted public policy allows to be thrown into streams. The fear of the loss of this important industry was one of the causes that led to the establishment of the United States commission of fish and fisheries, and it is mainly by the efforts of this bureau that it has been restored to its importance.

This has been effected by artificial culture. The fish commission has several stations situated on noted shad streams and a steamer, the Fishhawk, that is practically a floating hatchery that follows the fish, and in these millions of young shad are hatched. The "ripe" fish are captured on the way to the spawning beds, and the spawn is gently pressed or "stripped" into tin pans and fertilized by milt taken from the males by mixing eggs and milt together. The eggs are then put into the hatching jars, and then the fry develops. The jars are arranged so that the water flows in through a tube that reaches nearly to the bottom and flows out through the top, the current keeping up a boiling motion in the mass of eggs. All the dead eggs rise to the top and are carried off into the waste pipes, so that they are not dangerous to the living ones. The living eggs are heavier than the dead ones and stay near the bottom, so the hatching jar sorts them out automatically.

In from 8 to 15 days, according to the temperature of the water, the fry begin to hatch. A young shad is about one-third of an inch long and is almost transparent, and to this invisibility it owes its escape from enemies. As soon as it hatches the young fish rises to the top of the jar and is carried by the current of water into a large collecting tank, where it stays until the whole lot is hatched. The fish commission gets about 98 per cent of fry from the eggs it procures, including unfertilized and dead eggs in the count. A pair of shad yield from 15,000 to 30,000 fertile eggs, so if but two in this number reach adult age the number will be maintained. This means that in nature only from 1-150 to 1-75 of 1 per cent survive.

As soon as possible after hatching is complete the young shad are planted. The fish commission cars are loaded with tanks filled with fry and dispatched to the rivers into which the tiny fish are put to reappear some four or five years later as fine, luscious food.

Richly endowed by nature as is our Pacific coast, one valuable gift was missing. The shad is not a native of the Pacific, and soon after the fish commission was organized it was urged to try to introduce the fish into these new waters. No such feat had been attempted before, but Professor Baird, aided by Dr. Turleton H. Bean and Livingston Stone, finally succeeded in carrying the Atlantic fry across the continent and planted them in the Sacramento river. Other plants have followed, and the fish is now abundant from Mexico to Alaska. Had the commission done nothing but this it would have more than paid for its cost.—Washington Star.

Rewarded.

Employer—I have noticed, Mr. Johnson, that you, of all the clerks, seem to put your whole life and soul into your work; that no detail is too small to escape your critical attention, no hours too long to cause you to repine.

Clerk (joyfully)—Y-yes, sir!

Employer—And so, Mr. Johnson, I am forced to discharge you at once. It is such chaps as you that go out and start rival establishments after they have got the whole thing down pat.—Judge.

Uniforms of the Irish Guards.

An English exchange says: Though not definitely settled, the uniform of the Irish Guards will be pretty much the same pattern as the other Household regiments. A green feather, white at the base, will adorn the bearskin. The forage cap will have a green band, and the field cap green piping along the top, both having the Star of the Order of St. Patrick as a badge. Shamrock badges will also be worn upon the collars and straps. On the buttons will be stamped the Irish harp and crown.

The Disappearing Dutchman.

A favorite form of amusement among the British soldiers is "the disappearing Dutchman." One of the soldiers rigs himself up in a slouch hat and a long false beard and gets into a barrel, while the others shy sticks at his head at so much a throw. There are holes in the cask near the top which enable him to see when to bob up without being hit.

SIXTY DEAD IN THE SAALE.

Appalling Addition to the Mortality by the Fire at Hoboken Docks.

New York, July 12.—Twenty-four bodies were recovered from the hold of the burned steamer Saale, which makes the total number of dead taken from this ship alone 60.

Great pumps were worked in the Saale yesterday and by 2.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon the vessel was floated. The ship was in 8 or 10 feet of mud and when she finally freed herself from this bed she seemed to jump fully two feet out of the water.

UNFATISFACTORY STATE OF THE ALLIED TROOPS

Not the Necessary Co-Operation Among the Different Nationalities--Destruction at Port Arthur--Prince Tuan Reported to Be Insane.

A SUNDAY ARTILLERY DUEL

Che Foo, July 8th, Sunday, p.m.—An artillery duel is proceeding at Tien Tsin. The Chinese guns are so masked that the allies find difficulty locating them.

DESTRUCTION AT PORT ARTHUR

Tien Tsin, Wednesday, July 4—The late Chief of Police of Port Arthur has arrived here. He reports that the Chinese have sacked and burned New Chwang. He further asserts that the Chinese are wrecking the Manchurian Railway and are also pillaging the unprotected outskirts of Port Arthur.

UNSATISFACTORY CONDITIONS

Tien Tsin, July 4, via. Che Foo, July 8th, Shanghai, July 11th—A homogenous army of half the strength of the allied forces could do better work than is being done by the allies. The operations are dangerously handicapped and the safety of the city is imperilled by lack of organization and the want of one commander to control all the forces. The representatives of the several nations manage the military and civil affairs of their Government largely without co-operation. The ranking officer of each nation has absolute jurisdiction over the operation of his Government's troops and questions of policy are discussed daily at International Conferences which have not the power to enforce the wishes of the majority. Admiral Seymour's method of commanding is to make requests. The other commanders generally follow these but there have been instances of the ranking officers holding aloof from portions of which they disapproved. There is great need of more troops. The present force of 10,000 men is attempting to hold a line 15 miles long, around the city. There is great need of rebuilding the railway to Taku and getting artillery equal to the guns with which the Chinese are daily bombarding the allies' position. The week's work resulted in a substantial gain for the Chinese. The allies lost 50 or 60 men and accomplished nothing. The Germans have occupied and raised their flag over the Imperial University at Tien Tsin. The officers of the university are Americans. The Vice-roy deeded the property to them. Consul Ragsdale has protested against the action of the Germans.

FROM ADMIRAL SEYMOUR

London, July 12—The British Admiralty has received the following despatch from Vice Admiral Seymour: Tien Tsin, Saturday, July 7—The Chinese continue fighting after shelling the settlements. They are extending their lines along the Lu Taion Canal to the north east, and are appearing in greater force west of the city. Yesterday we bombarded the city and immediate suburbs which stopped the Chinese gun fire for some time. The French settlement and station are most subject to attack. To-day there was another bombardment. Am steadily getting up more guns. Ten thousand troops are now here, more are required, but both the Russian and Japanese are expected.

PRINCE TAUN REPORTED INSANE

Che Foo, July 9—It is reported on good authority that Prince Taun has become insane. In consequence of the movement of the rebels toward Tsin Tan, the Germans have withdrawn some of their troops from Ta Ku to protect Tsin Tan. The women and children from New Chewang have arrived here.

ORDERED TO CHINA

Allahabad, July 12—The 16th Bengal lancers and the 23rd Bombay cavalry have been ordered to China.

RUSSIANS FOR CHINA

St. Petersburg, July 11—Four Russians regiments of Odessa have been sent to China.

WAR IN SOUTH AFRICA LIKELY TO DRAG ALONG

Ottawa, July 12—The general officer commanding the Standerton, cables the Militia Department the following among Strathcona Horse missing near Greylynstand: Acting Corporal, L. Mills; Shoeing Smith, J. I. Griffith; Pte. S. Simpson, Pte. Gilroy, Pte. R. J. Brown, Pte. J. Norris. A cable from Sir Alfred Milner repeats the list of casualties at [illegible]fontein on the 7th July among the 1st Battalion Canadian Mounted Rifles. In the first list Pte. H. B. White was reported as mortally wounded, while this time the name is given as J. B. White, who is mentioned as wounded. In the list of wounded to-day there appears the name of Pte. C. S. Strong, but reference to the nominal roll shows there is no such name in either battalion.

THE WAR LIKELY TO DRAG

Manchester, Eng., July 2—The Guardian reports that Mr. Chamberlain is eager to dissolve parliament and appeal to the country before the Boer war drags on further. Experts have confidentially informed the government that hostilities are likely to continue for two years longer. The Sydenburg district has not yet been touched, the burghers are still willing to fight on.

TO BREAK THE TRAGIC NEWS.

Li Hung Chang Said to Have Been Ordered to Pekin.

Prince Tuan's Edict, too, Seems to Indicate that the Worst Has Happened at the Capital to the Foreign Legations—Perilous Condition of the Allied Forces at Tien Tsin—Situation About as Bad as It Can Be.

London, July 12.—(3.30 a.m.)—The Chinese situation again bears a most ominous aspect. Eighteen days ago Sir Robert Hart despatched his last message, declaring that the situation was desperate, and since then no word has come from the Europeans in Pekin.

Li Ordered to Pekin.

According to The Daily Mail's Shanghai correspondent, Li Hung Chang has received an imperial decree ordering his immediate departure for Pekin, presumably to break the news of the Pekin tragedy to the European powers, and, in his usual role of negotiator with Europe in difficult matters, to endeavor to act as mediator and to avert the vengeance of the powers.

Peril at Tien Tsin.

To add to the grimness of this suggestion all advices from Tien Tsin tend to confirm the reports of the perilous condition of the allied forces and the optimist Chinese rumors. Unless reinforcements speedily reach Tien Tsin another disaster may be expected.

As Bad as Can Be.

The Daily Mail's Tien Tsin correspondent, telegraphing July 5, says: "The situation is about as bad as it can well be. I only trust that we shall not soon want relieving ourselves. A forward movement is impossible. From 30,000 to 40,000 troops are wanted, and there are only 10,000 here. The foreign troops are working well together, but it is inconvenient that there is no supreme commander. In some quarters the feeling is, 'Let us rescue Pekin and then clear out in favor of Russia.' ".

Advance is Impossible.

Other Tien Tsin correspondents say that no advance is possible until Sept. 1, and explanations are being asked by the papers here of the tardy action of Japan in sending the troops, since it was known that she was ready and willing to send them and Russia raised no objection to her doing so. It is hinted that a difficulty arose as to the manner in which Japan was to be recouped for her heavy outlay. Rumors are current that Japan demanded the cession of a Chinese port.

Boxers Ravaging Manchuria.

The Russian papers report that the Boxers are ravaging Manchuria and have damaged 60 miles of the railway, threatening [illegible] and Kirin, while Port Arthur and New Chwang are said to be endangered. Russia therefore has notified the powers of her intention to [illegible] military force to Manchuria.

It appears that [illegible] is suggesting [illegible]ter, and it transpires that 6000 regular troops have already arrived from Port Arthur and Amur to protect the Manchurian Railway, and that other troops are now on their way to Manchuria.

All Kinds of Stories From Shanghai.

All kinds of stories come from Shanghai which it is impossible to verify. It is stated that the Boxers have murdered the chancellor of the Pekin University and 60 of the members of his family and retainers.

Tried to Kill Tuan.

A confidential officer of Gen. Yung Lu disguised as a Boxer, is reported to have crept into Prince Tuan's tent while the Prince was sleeping, with the intention of stabbing him. He was caught by the sentries, so the story goes, and decapitated on the spot. His head was sent with Prince Tuan's compliments to Yung Lu as a warning to him to beware.

Catholics Were Murdered.

The French Consul at Shanghai has news that the Chinese prefect at Moukden himself murdered the Catholic Bishop Guillon in his yamen. Besides this Guillon Fathers Cruenot, Corbel, Bourgnoois and Veuillemot and two sisters of the French mission and numerous native Christians were massacred.

AN EDICT FROM TUAN

Would Show That He is Paving the Way for a Final Lifting of the Veil.

London, July 12.—The Shanghai correspondent of The Express gives the text of a long edict of Prince Tuan, dated June 29, and addressed to the Chinese Ambassadors, which, The Express declares, is identical with the message from Emperor Kwang Hsu, mentioned by the Shanghai correspondent of The Daily Mail, and with the Chinese edict published in Washington. The Express considers that the edict proves that Prince Tuan is making no attempt to disguise the fact that the worst that could be anticipated has happened.

The edict contains the following paragraphs:

"The anger of our people know no bounds. They could not be restrained. The task of guarding the legations, which before was difficult, [illegible] made impossible."

Elsewhere, referring to the desire to protect the legations, still unharmed, it says: "If it is impossible for us to continue this protection, let it be represented to the powers that we must be held blameless, for the anger of our people grows with the rising of each sun that sees more and yet more foreigners and soldiers coming to overrun and lay waste our country and slay our people."

The correspondent says the edict is intended to pave the way for a final lifting of the veil over the recent history of Pekin.

SIXTY DEAD IN THE SAALE.

Appalling Addition to the Mortality by the Fire at Hoboken Docks.

New York, July 12.—Twenty-four bodies were recovered from the hold of the burned steamer Saale, which makes the total number of dead taken from this ship alone 60.

Great pumps were worked in the Saale yesterday and by 2.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon the vessel was floated. The ship was in 8 or 10 feet of mud and when she finally freed herself from this bed she seemed to jump fully two feet out of the water.

UNFATISFACTORY STATE OF THE ALLIED TROOPS

Not the Necessary Co-Operation Among the Different Nationalities--Destruction at Port Arthur--Prince Tuan Reported to Be Insane.

A SUNDAY ARTILLERY DUEL

Che Foo, July 8th, Sunday, p.m.—An artillery duel is proceeding at Tien Tsin. The Chinese guns are so masked that the allies find difficulty locating them.

DESTRUCTION AT PORT ARTHUR

Tien Tsin, Wednesday, July 4—The late Chief of Police of Port Arthur has arrived here. He reports that the Chinese have sacked and burned New Chwang. He further asserts that the Chinese are wrecking the Manchurian Railway and are also pillaging the unprotected outskirts of Port Arthur.

UNSATISFACTORY CONDITIONS

Tien Tsin, July 4, via. Che Foo, July 8th, Shanghai, July 11th—A homogenous army of half the strength of the allied forces could do better work than is being done by the allies. The operations are dangerously handicapped and the safety of the city is imperilled by lack of organization and the want of one commander to control all the forces. The representatives of the several nations manage the military and civil affairs of their Government largely without co-operation. The ranking officer of each nation has absolute jurisdiction over the operation of his Government's troops and questions of policy are discussed daily at International Conferences which have not the power to enforce the wishes of the majority. Admiral Seymour's method of commanding is to make requests. The other commanders generally follow these but there have been instances of the ranking officers holding aloof from portions of which they disapproved. There is great need of more troops. The present force of 10,000 men is attempting to hold a line 15 miles long, around the city. There is great need of rebuilding the railway to Taku and getting artillery equal to the guns with which the Chinese are daily bombarding the allies' position. The week's work resulted in a substantial gain for the Chinese. The allies lost 50 or 60 men and accomplished nothing. The Germans have occupied and raised their flag over the Imperial University at Tien Tsin. The officers of the university are Americans. The Vice-roy deeded the property to them. Consul Ragsdale has protested against the action of the Germans.

FROM ADMIRAL SEYMOUR

London, July 12—The British Admiralty has received the following despatch from Vice Admiral Seymour: Tien Tsin, Saturday, July 7—The Chinese continue fighting after shelling the settlements. They are extending their lines along the Lu Taion Canal to the north east, and are appearing in greater force west of the city. Yesterday we bombarded the city and immediate suburbs which stopped the Chinese gun fire for some time. The French settlement and station are most subject to attack. To-day there was another bombardment. Am steadily getting up more guns. Ten thousand troops are now here, more are required, but both the Russian and Japanese are expected.

PRINCE TAUN REPORTED INSANE

Che Foo, July 9—It is reported on good authority that Prince Taun has become insane. In consequence of the movement of the rebels toward Tsin Tan, the Germans have withdrawn some of their troops from Ta Ku to protect Tsin Tan. The women and children from New Chewang have arrived here.

WAR IN SOUTH AFRICA LIKELY TO DRAG ALONG

Ottawa, July 12—The general officer commanding the Standerton, cables the Militia Department the following among Strathcona Horse missing near Greylynstand: Acting Corporal, L. Mills; Shoeing Smith, J. I. Griffith; Pte. S. Simpson, Pte. Gilroy, Pte. R. J. Brown, Pte. J. Norris. A cable from Sir Alfred Milner repeats the list of casualties at Reitfontein on the 7th July among the 1st Battalion Canadian Mounted Rifles. In the first list Pte. H. B. White was reported as mortally wounded, while this time the name is given as J. B. White, who is mentioned as wounded. In the list of wounded to-day there appears the name of Pte. C. S. Strong, but reference to the nominal roll shows there is no such name in either battalion.

THE WAR LIKELY TO DRAG

Manchester, Eng., July 2—The Guardian reports that Mr. Chamberlain is eager to dissolve parliament and appeal to the country before the Boer war drags on further. Experts have confidentially informed the government that hostilities are likely to continue for two years longer. The Sydenburg district has not yet been touched, the burghers are still willing to fight on.

TO BREAK THE TRAGIC NEWS.

Li Hung Chang Said to Have Been Ordered to Pekin.

Prince Tuan's Edict, too, Seems to Indicate that the Worst Has Happened at the Capital to the Foreign Legations—Perilous Condition of the Allied Forces at Tien Tsin—Situation About as Bad as It Can Be.

London, July 12.—(3.30 a.m.)—The Chinese situation again bears a most ominous aspect. Eighteen days ago Sir Robert Hart despatched his last message, declaring that the situation was desperate, and since then no word has come from the Europeans in Pekin.

Li Ordered to Pekin.

According to The Daily Mail's Shanghai correspondent, Li Hung Chang has received an Imperial decree ordering his immediate departure for Pekin, presumably to break the news of the Pekin tragedy to the European powers, and, in his usual role of negotiator with Europe in difficult matters, to endeavor to act as mediator and to avert the vengeance of the powers.

Peril at Tien Tsin.

To add to the grimness of this suggestion all advices from Tien Tsin tend to confirm the reports of the perilous condition of the allied forces and the optimist Chinese rumors. Unless reinforcements speedily reach Tien Tsin another disaster may be expected.

As Bad as Can Be.

The Daily Mail's Tien Tsin correspondent, telegraphing July 5, says: "The situation is about as bad as it can well be. I only trust that we shall not soon want relieving ourselves. A forward movement is impossible. From 30,000 to 40,000 troops are wanted, and there are only 10,000 here. The foreign troops are working well together, but it is inconvenient that there is no supreme commander. In some quarters the feeling is, 'Let us rescue Pekin and then clear out in favor of Russia.' ".

Advance is Impossible.

Other Tien Tsin correspondents say that no advance is possible until Sept. 1, and explanations are being asked by the papers here of the tardy action of Japan in sending the troops, since it was known that she was ready and willing to send them and Russia raised no objection to her doing so. It is hinted that a difficulty arose as to the manner in which Japan was to be recouped for her heavy outlay. Rumors are current that Japan demanded the cession of a Chinese port.

Boxers Ravaging Manchuria.

The Russian papers report that the Boxers are ravaging Manchuria and have damaged 60 miles of the railway, threatening Tsitsia and Kirin, while Port Arthur and New Chwang are said to be endangered. Russia therefore has notified the powers of her intention to despatch a large military force to Manchuria.

It appears that the Russian censorship is suppressing all references to this matter, and it transpires that 6000 regular troops have already arrived from Port Arthur and Amur to protect the Manchurian Railway, and that other troops are now on their way to Manchuria.

In New York's New Rich Society.

A salient feature of the reign of the new rich is the habit of estimating a man's success in life solely by the money he has acquired. There are gatherings of society in New York where if the question were asked about a fellow citizen, "Has he been successful?" the answer would be in the negative had the person inquired about not accumulated wealth. No matter whether he had served his country as a soldier, statesman or philanthropist, had led the youth of his generation as a college president, had been an educator of the people in school or pulpit, had achieved wide renown as a jurist, had written a great book, had held multitudes enthralled by his poetry, had painted noble pictures, had advanced science or surgery, had created a leading newspaper or magazine! Nothing of all this tells. He is not a "success" because he has not piled up dollars to flaunt in the world's face!

Poor Quality of Blood

A Frequent Cause of Consumption, Heart Failure and Other Constitutional Diseases—Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a Blood Builder.

The heart, the lungs, the stomach, the liver, the kidneys, and bowels cannot perform their functions and repair wasted tissue when supplied with blood that is deficient in nutritive qualities, and sooner or later the weakest organ succumbs to the attacks of disease.

The indications of thin, watery blood are paleness of the lips, gums, and eyelids, shortness of breath, weakness of heart action, and languid, despondent feelings. These symptoms are usually accompanied by nervousness, sleeplessness, and general weakness of the body.

It is positively useless to doctor the symptoms, and injurious to use opiates or stimulants. Cure can be brought about gradually and certainly by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which contains in condensed pill form all the elements required for strengthening and revitalizing the blood. As a blood builder and nerve restorative, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is of inestimable value. In pill form, 50 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

THURSDAY, JULY 12, 1900.

IS MASTER STILL.

It is now said that Mr. Tarte has not been recalled, and is not retiring from Paris just yet. Which all goes to show that Tarte is still Master of the Administration, and can do as he likes as long as Sir Wilfrid is Premier.

Tarte has misrepresented Canada, and his speeches have been condemned by the London press as dangerous, and have even drawn protests from such a leading Liberal journal as the Montreal Herald. He has talked to the Frenchmen in Paris of Canada's neutrality in the event of a British-Franco war, and other such untruthful rot. His recall has been urged by British journals in London and demanded by Canadians.

But Laurier cannot, dare not recall him. He is the Master, and the people will have to punish the Government in order to reach him. And they will do it.

A DISCREDITED MINISTER.

The Globe has been summoned to the aid of the "Young Napoleon," Hon. Clifford Sifton, the Minister of the Interior. In a two column double leaded leader the Toronto organ makes a special plea for the discredited minister, but its presentation of his case is such a confession of his weakness among even his own party, that Mr. Sifton will probably be sorry that the organ of his friends of the Crow's Nest Pass deal came to his defence at all.

The Globe first refers to Mr. Sifton's difficult position between the two fires, that of his assailants in his own party and that of his political opponents. Then it attempts to make its readers believe that Mr. Sifton is not in the Dominion Cabinet as the result of intrigue, but because he was the "free and voluntary choice of Sir Wilfrid Laurier." Think of that! And he was not nominated by the Canadian Pacific Railway. Another startling fact that only need be made on behalf of a man who had been doing some very peculiar sailing. Next the Globe calls up the Crow's Nest Pass deal and his administration of the Yukon in evidence of his ability. But no reference to details is made in speaking of the Crow's Nest Pass deal, and the Globe does not explain why, if his Yukon administration was of such a high standard and so free from official corruption, he has refused to allow an investigation of the grave charges made against his administration and his officials. The Globe is handling a poor case or it would not make such a statement as the following:—

"Then Mr. Sifton has been savagely hounded for his administration of the Yukon, but the world-judgment, the judgment of Americans, the judgment of men familiar with other mining camps, seems to be that never under similar circumstances was law better administered and order better observed nor a higher standard of official rectitude maintained. It is true that some faults were committed and some blunders made, there were perhaps some mistakes in policy, but every suspected official has been removed, and every grievance arising from methods of administration has been remedied."

The "judgment of Americans" was almost unanimous in denouncing and condemning the corruption and blunders that characterized the Canadian Yukon administration. But, when charges were made by Americans, the Globe was like other Liberals and passed over these charges because they came from Americans. But "the world judgment" condemned the disgraceful state of affairs. The London Times sent a special correspondent into the country and the condemnatory report sent to that paper gives reply to the Globe's statement, and, combined with all the charges made in Canada, in the country and in the Parliament, shows how the Globe was compelled to disregard facts in making its special plea for Sifton.

Finally the Globe says "it is true Mr. Sifton is a practical rather than a theoretical statesman," and with this statement his relatives will undoubtedly agree, for the practical way he has looked after them has not been tinged with any coloring of the theoretical. But the Globe's lengthy article does not mention what he has done for his relatives, but it concludes as follows:—

"It is our sincere conviction that Mr. Sifton has been badly treated by some Liberals and by the mass of his political opponents; and he is both honest and able, and that time will vindicate the man and give him a large place in the story of the well-laid plans for the expansion and upbuilding of Canada which marked the closing year of the century."

What a pathetic appeal for a discredited man, but how well the Globe has endeavored to bear it up with lofty phrases about expansion and upbuilding. The Sifton expansion and upbuilding will not be so marked in the history of Canada as it will in the history of his friends and relatives.

No one will wonder that the Globe makes its special plea. Mr. Sifton, as Events, a strictly non-partisan journal, said, is "politically dead." His whole record has not commended him to the country as a whole or to his own party. But he is like Tarte and possesses some secret tie that ensures him his place in the cabinet, no matter how coolly he may be received by his party or how fully his sins and lack of ability are recognized.

But the Globe is evidently assigned the task of squaring him with the party, for the Crow's Nest Pass deal must not be forgotten. But when it is necessary to square a minister with his own party by such a pathetic appeal as the Globe makes, it is pretty good evidence that that minister is badly discredited, that he should be sent adrift, but the leaders dare not send him. This too, is one of the members of "the strongest Government Canada has ever seen."

SOME POINTED QUESTIONS

Queries are being resorted to by Government writers to draw attention to what are thought its strong points. Queries naturally suggest queries, and here are some by the Montreal Gazette that, in view of recent historical events, may reasonably be asked:—

Have you principles, or do you think that political platforms were only made to get in on?

Do you think a Minister wh osaid $38,-000,000 a year was enough to run the Government service should show his sincerity by his acts, or do you think he should spend $55,000,000 a year?

Are you an imperialist, or do you think the "no precedent" proviso in the order sending the soldiers to South Africa was an act of statesmanship?

Did the Drummond deal make you rich, or were you one of the lot that had no stock in the concern?

Do you think it was unwise to pay $2,-000,000 more for building the Crow's Nest Railway than the company was willing to take, or were you let into the coal lands syndicate?

Did you like the Yukon railway arrangement, or were you interested in the Mackenzie-Mann-Sifton combination?

Do you approve of giving dredging contracts without tender, or are you a family connection of Mr. Tarte's?

Do you think that nothing is too good for the soldiers, or had you a friend selling cheap cracker rations at $2 a pound?

Do you believe that elections should be elections, or do you approve of "the machine" stealing in the Government's man?

Do you think a public servant should serve the public, or would you have him a Yukoner?

Are you a business man, or did the business is business letter appeal to your inner instincts?

Do you intend to vote for Laurier and Tarte, and Sifton and Blair, and Borden, or do you think it time for a change?

The Truro (Nova Scotia) Headlight has the following:—"Tuesday night last a Truro gentleman received a letter from a friend in Ontario. From a political standpoint the letter is quite a surprise, as the writer has been known as an out and out Liberal; now he declares that the Government must and will go, no matter when the elections are brought on. The gentleman in question has no personal grievance against the Government, never sought office or favors in any way; he condemns them as an old Liberal who has weighed his party in power in the balance and found it wanting. They have not practised what they preached. This gentleman in question has much to do with organized labor, and has gone from Ottawa to Vancouver, meeting, as he puts it, all sorts and conditions of men. From what he has heard and seen, he is sure the Conservatives will sweep the country from Ottawa to Vancouver.

The independent press is unanimous in condemning that whitewash. The Toronto Telegram says:—

"Next to Hon. F. W. Borden the subscribers to the majority vote on the emergency rations suffer most from the reduction in the usual Government majority. The ten Liberals who refuse to excuse the blunder of Dr. Borden must also refuse to condone the offence of Chairman Belcourt, Messrs. Britton, Russell and Campbell. There may have been extenuating circumstances in the case of Dr. Borden. The multiplicity of his cares, haste, over-confidence in his officials, were all suggestions which might tell in his favor. There were no extenuating circumstances in the majority report. It was the climax to the behavior of a majority which acted throughout the proceedings as though it wished to suppress the truth. The best tribute to the character of the work of that majority was the refusal of ten Government supporters to swallow the Belcourt - Britton - Russell - Campbell dose."

SPOKE HIS MIND TO TRAITORS

A Stout Britisher's Hard Road in Quebec Province.

Mr. W. H. Wood, Collector of Customs St. John's, Quebec, Said that Rebels Were Hanged in 1837—Now Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Bourassa and Monet are After His Official Scalp With a Long Knife.

Ottawa, July 12.—Mr. Mulock's amendment to the Postal Act so as to reduce the tax on newspapers circulated in the province of publication, from ½c a pound to ¼c a pound, was discussed, practically the whole day, in committee of the House yesterday.

Mr. Davin moved that the tax should be 1c a pound upon papers wherever circulated.

Why the Amendment?

There was much curiosity to know why Mr. Mulock wishes his amendment. It is claimed that the French papers in Quebec want to get a shot at a Conservative journal in Montreal, nine-tenths of whose circulation by mail goes outside of Quebec, according to Mr. Quinn. This paper, it is alleged, pays now $30,-000 a year of the $88,000 collected by this tax.

Mulock as a Proprietor.

Again, Mr. Wallace hinted that Mr. Mulock was not impersonal in the matter. He held a controlling interest in a Toronto paper that aims to compete with the already named Montreal paper, but wants a handicap, and Mr. Mulock's amendment gives that handicap.

A vote was taken on Mr. Davin's motion, after much discussion, and it was lost by 36 to 79.

Mr. Mulock's bill was read a third time.

A Surprise From Borden.

Dr. Borden surprised the House by making amendments to his Militia Act to meet the wishes of the Opposition. He declared that it was wise policy for the future to have the appointments of honorary colonels and honorary lieutenant-colonels given as a reward only to militiamen who have served with honor and distinction. He proposed to draft a new regulation respecting such appointments, and thereafter no civilians need apply.

The Minister of Militia proposed two amendments to his bill to amend the Militia Act. The first gives the rank of full colonel to district officers commanding. Dr. Borden explained that this was desirable in such cases as Col. Otter, D.O.C., No. 2, who had served long and was approaching the age limit. It would give him an extension of time. The second amendment stated that "officers now on the retired list holding the rank of lieutenant-colonel may be made colonel."

When the discussion became free about tinpot colonels, Sir Wilfrid said he would set a good example by resigning. (Laughter.) It is not known whether Sir Wilfrid is in earnest or not.

Dr. Borden's bill was read a third time and passed.

In answer to Mr. Wallace, Dr. Borden said that 35,000 sets of Oliver equipment had been purchased by the Government at $6.35 a set, each weighing 8 pounds. No more sets would be bought. The equipment would not be issued to the militia.

A Spicy Letter Read by Monet.

At 5 o'clock a little space was given to the sitting by Mr. Monet, Mr. Bourassa's running mate. He read the following letter:

H. W. Wood, Collector of Customs at St. Johns, Que., writes the following letter to The News of that place:

"Sir,—After reading the attack made upon me in the recent number of The Canada Francais of this town, and the exaggerated statement in La Patrie of the 20th inst., it becomes necessary for me to place myself in a proper light before those people whose respect I covet. Living in a community where one-half of the citizens at least are Boer sympathisers, who have talked treason every day since the war in South Africa began and have gloated over every misfortune that has befallen the British arms, it is not to be wondered that a man who was born a loyal British subject and has continued to remain so for more than half a century should become enraged at continually hearing disloyal utterances.

"After hearing one of those Boer sympathisers say that the Government had no right to send men to South Africa; that our brave soldier boys had no business there, and that he hoped they would all be shot, and that not one of them would ever return, I made the remark to him that the British hung several like him in 1837, and that they ought to have hanged more.

"Now, if the 'cap fits' the editor of The Canada Francais or any other who reads this, he or they are at liberty to put it on. My remark was intended for such men as the Boer sympathisers above mentioned, and not for such men as Major Pelletier, Dr. Fiset and the other brave Canadian boys who went to South Africa; whose actions have been such that all loyal British subjects are justly proud of them.

"In conclusion, I may say that I have been a civil servant for more than ten years, and have been sober and attentive to my business, and have not defrauded the Government to the value of a farthing, and, if under these circumstances the Government sees fit to dismiss me from the service because I am loyal and have lived up to the oath of allegiance which I have taken and am unwilling to listen to disloyal talk without protesting against it, I must submit, but I shall not hang my head in shame, nor be obliged to seek refuge in a foreign country."

This letter was written June 28, after a heated argument on the street between Mr. Poitvin of St. Johns and Collector of Customs Wood, in March, following on the Montreal students row, had been commented upon in La Patrie.

Mr. Monet directed particular attention to the sentence in the letter: "I made the remark to him (Poitrin) that the British hung several like him in 1837, and that they ought to have hanged more." Such language was in Mr. Monet's opinion unworthy of a civil servant living in a town where "half of the whole population were Boer sympathizers." He wanted Wood dismissed from his position.

How Sir Wilfrid Viewed It.

Sir Wilfrid said that Wood's words were offensive, reprehensible and should not be tolerated. He promised to have an investigation made.

Mr. Bourassa said that in his opinion Wood should be dismissed at once.

Mr. Foster cautioned the House and asked that opinions should be held back till all the facts were known.

Mr. Wallace declared he had never before heard such gross misrepresentation of the language of Wood as had been given by Sir Wilfrid and Monet. He declared Laurier had condemned Wood without knowing the facts, and was like a Dutch magistrate who served judgment on a prisoner by saying, "You are guilty, and in five months I will fine you $10 and costs."

The matter went out of sight when a motion to go into supply was carried.

Supplementary Estimates.

Considerable progress was made with the supplementary estimates. The following Ontario items were passed:

Brockville—Drill Hall (revote), $8000.
Deseronto—Public building, $5000.
London—Custom House, alterations, $1200; postoffice, addition to, $2000.

THE QUEEN'S GARDEN PARTY.

Brilliant Function at Buckingham Palace and a Row in the Commons.

London, July 12.—The Queen's garden party at Buckingham Palace yesterday was an especially brilliant function. Her Majesty came from Windsor, and there were a large number of guests, who included the members of the Royal Family, the diplomatic corps and other distinguished people.

The garden party gave rise to an extraordinary scene in the House of Commons. The usual humdrum Wednesday business was in progress when an adjournment was moved to enable members to attend the function at Buckingham Palace. Mr. John Dillon, Irish Nationalist, objected, saying the business interferred with such a purpose. But Mr. Fred Maddison, Radical, who followed, protested in an excited manner against what he considered "flagrant abuse of Government power and gross waste of time of the House." These remarks brought forth angry shouts of "Withdraw!" and on the demand of the Speaker, Maddison withdrew his expressions.

Eczema in Its Worst Form.

Back Covered With Blisters—Terrible Itching—No Sleep Possible—Dr. Chase's Ointment Simply Marvellous in Its Curative Powers.

Mr. John Kelly, 79 Trinity street, Toronto, in an interview, made the following verbatim statement:—

"I have been troubled with eczema in almost its worst form for the past three years. At times my back and shoulder blades were literally covered with patches like water blisters, and these, accompanied with terrible itching on my legs, put sleep out of the question. I tried various well-known ointments (names mentioned), and did everything possible to obtain relief, but with little success. I had frequently heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment, but meeting with so many disappointments, I had not tried it. Seeing the advertisement one day I concluded to get a box. Since using Dr. Chase's Ointment, I am like a new being. Its soothing and healing properties are simply marvellous, and I am honestly grateful to Dr. Chase's Ointment for the release from long suffering."

THE CAPTURE OF BETHLEHEM

Has Considerably Improved the Prospects for Peace in South Africa—Will Dewet Collapse?

Pretoria, July 10.—The British success at Bethlehem has considerably improved the prospects for peace, it is said. The whole of the Government of President Steyn of the Orange Free State has surrendered except President Steyn himself. These Free State officials, who are British prisoners, have been allowed to communicate with President Steyn for the purpose of attempting to prove to him the uselessness of a continuance of the struggle, which can only produce bloodshed without any counterbalancing advantages.

Will Dewet's Forces Collapse?

The collapse of the forces of Gen. Dewet is expected daily. The Boers here say that the men have taken a solemn oath never to personally surrender, but that they are beginning to see the unfairness of sacrificing life to personal wishes. It is expected that when Gen. Botha learns of the defeat of his colleagues he will gladly enter into conferences looking to the establishment of peace.

Need of Civil Administrators.

The need of more civil administrators is urgent, and the necessity for their appointment is becoming daily more apparent. Intelligent administrators, with a knowledge of the people, could undoubtedly greatly aid in the future settlement of difficulties inasmuch as a frank feeling in favor of submission is prevalent among the Boers.

Death of a Preston Man.

Preston, Ont., July 12. — August Ploethner, aged 78, and a highly respected citizen of Preston, went out to cut hay in his field near the G. T. R. tracks. He was missed early yesterday morning by his wife, and search was made for him. Emil Brown, a neighbor, found the missing man dead in a corner of the hay field lying over his scythe, with his hand still grasping its handle. Deceased had been troubled with weakness of the heart, and death was probably caused by over-exertion.

Simla, July 12.—The rainfall is increasing in Central Rajpootana and the Eastern Punjab, but elsewhere there is still an entire lack of rain.

THE SENATE.

Ottawa, July 12.—Yesterday the bill respecting Quebec judges was amended by the Senate by striking out the clause relating to the appointment of three new judges in Montreal. On a vote the bill as amended was read a third time.

Including the Criminal Code, the amendment from the Commons making it a criminal offence to obtain credit under false pretenses was cast out.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell moved that the Commons amendment exempting trades unions from the operations of the Commons Act should be amended by adding the words, "that nothing in the foregoing clause should interfere with any rights which workmen enjoy, under the law as it now stands." This was carried by a vote of 20 to 17.

Hon. Mr. Mills thought that the action of the Senate would kill the bill in the eyes of the Commons. The Commons would submit to the credit clause, but they would object to the union clause and the clause changing the date of enforcement from Jan. 1, 1900, to Sept. 1, 1900. The discussion of the code was stood over.

THE SPARTAN RAISED.

Greatest Wrecking Feat Ever Performed on the St. Lawrence.

Montreal, July 12.—The Richelieu and Ontario steamer Spartan was successfully floated at noon yesterday through the instrumentality of the Calvin Wrecking Co. of Garden Island, Ont. The work of saving the Spartan has been a masterly piece of marine ingenuity. The Spartan has been ashore since June 30, and would have been floated much earlier had the weather been favorable. The first pull was made shortly before noon yesterday, with the result that she slid off into deep water apparently uninjured. After being surveyed and necessary repairs made, she will be placed on her regular route again.

It Was a Great Feat.

Garden Island, July 12.—The Calvin Wrecking Company have succeeded in releasing the steamer Spartan from her perilous position in the middle of Lachine Rapids uninjured. This is considered the greatest wrecking feat ever accomplished on this river.

Canadians Hit the Mark.

London, July 12.—At Bisley yesterday, the Albert competition and the Wimbledon Cup were the only important events in the National Rifle Association meeting. No Canadians took part in these two contests. The weather was very warm.

In the Association Cup contest, 600 yards, A. Fleming of Canada made the highest possible score, 35.

Staff-Sergt. H. Morris of Hamilton made 34 in the Golden Penny match.

In the Gregory match Capt. Kirkpatrick of the Queen's Own Rifles, Toronto, made a total of 34 points.

Colborne in Darkness.

Colborne, Ont., July 12.—The electric light station, Toronto street, with its entire plant, owned and operated by James A. Spence, was burned Tuesday evening about 7.30 o'clock. The cause of the fire is a mystery. The worst feature is there was no insurance on building or contents. Darkness prevailed during the balance of the evening, and gave clerks and business men a night off.

Ice Around Belle Isle.

Father Point, Que., July 12.—The captains of the steamships Lake Huron and Memnon, which passed here last evening, report clear water for 60 miles eastward of Belle Isle, but there is much ice nearer the island. The light-keeper at Belle Isle reported himself well.

THE KING'S EXAMPLE.

Once Sultan Nushirvan the Just, hunting,
Stopped in an open field to take a lunch.
He wanted salt, and to a servant said,
"Go, get some at the nearest house, but pay
The price the peasant asks." "Great king," exclaimed
The servant, "thou art lord o'er all this realm;
Why take the pains to buy a little salt?"
"It is a little thing," said Nushirvan,
"And so at first was all the evil whose
Most monstrous load now presses to the world.
Were there no little wrongs, no great could be.
If I from off a poor man's tree should pluck
A single apple, straight my slaves would rob
The whole tree to its roots. If I should seize Five eggs, my ministers at once would snatch
A hundred hens. Therefore, strict justice must
I, even in unimportant acts, observe.
Bring salt, but pay the peasant what he asks."

SHE GOT THE MONEY.

A Shrewd Wife Outwitted a Most Penurious Husband.

"I know a woman," said a man of large acquaintance, "who had a husband of a kind which I honestly believe is in the very largest minority among husbands, and I am glad to say that he is, or was, because he is now dead. She was good looking, young, and loved all the better things of life, and he was neither young nor good looking, but he had a bushel of money. I am sorry to say, too, that if he had not been rich the woman would not have married him. But that is neither here nor there, and we can't always blame women who marry men for their money. Notwithstanding this chap had plenty of money he was mean with his wife and gave her just as little as he could possibly let go of. They had a good social position, and he was compelled to spend something extra on her, but he did it grudgingly, though he had a fine wardrobe and expensive jewelry himself. It wasn't so much that he was stingy as that he just wanted to be ugly with his wife.

"Well, one day she evened up with him in fine style. She had been invited to a house party, and it was necessary for her to have some new dresses, and she figured on $1,000 worth as about right and told him of it. He refused flatly to permit any such expenditure. She simply told him he would have to do it, and she went off and ordered what she wanted. They were to be done on the Thursday of her departure, and she so notified her husband on the evening of the day she gave the order. Each morning thereafter she sent for him to come to her room before he went down town to business and told him she expected a check for $1,000 on Thursday morning, and each time he told her to go to the hot place or words to that effect. He did the same on the morning the goods were to be delivered and paid for, and as soon as he had left the house she sent out for a furniture van, and into that she had the servants put all her husband's clothes and other effects and sent the load to a pawnshop of high respectability. She followed it there with his jewelry in a hand bag and had the whole lot piled up on the floor of the shop.

"'I want $1,000 on that,' she said briefly to the astonished pawnbroker, and he demurred because, as he assured her, he never loaned money on clothes. She told him he might think differently when he had looked the lot over, and when she told him who she was he concluded to look the lot over. The result of the negotiation was $1,600 in money and a pawn ticket, and she was ready to pay the bills when the dresses came. That afternoon she went away merrily to the house party, but before she left she wrote a pretty little note to her husband inclosing the ticket. She came home after a pleasant week in the country, and her husband never said a word to her about the ticket—never a word, but she noticed that during her absence he had had burglar proof locks put on all his closets. Now, that was the kind of a woman that kind of a man should have had for a wife, wasn't it?"—Detroit Free Press.

Mr. Allaferre Taliaferro.

"I suppose," said a government clerk to the man across the table, "that you have heard of the Virginia family of Derby which spells its name E-n-r-o-u-g-h-t-y, as well as the Chumleys of England, but I came across one the other day that I'll bet a hat you never heard of. The subject of the sketch was a Virginian or claimed that he was, and he was so youthful and unsophisticated that I guess he was telling the truth. Children and fools, you know, have a weakness in that regard.

"I met the young fellow on a train between Richmond and Petersburg, and we struck up quite an acquaintance. He told me his name was Tolliver—Oliver Tolliver—and I very naturally asked him if he spelled his name as did the famous F. F. V. Taliaferros, and he said he did and seemed to be proud of it. I was rather proud to be friendly with one of the name myself and made myself extra agreeable.

"When he left me at a way station and bade me goodby, he tendered me his card and told me he hoped I would not forget him. I didn't look at the card till he had gone, and, would you believe it, the young fellow had his name spelled to match, as it were, and it appeared thus, 'Mr. Allaferre Taliaferro,' which, in my humble opinion, was getting Oliver Tolliver down pretty fine. Don't you think so too?"—Washington Star.

THREE BURGLARIES IN ONE NIGHT

THREE PLACES BROKEN INTO DURING LAST NIGHT

Morgan's Barber Shop, Meldrum's Elevator and the Oxford House Were Victims of the Burglar's Attention.

No less than three burglaries were reported to the police this morning, and the officers do not think they were all the work of the same parties.

During the night some person or persons forced an entrance into W. Morgan's barber shop on George-st. An entrance was gained by breaking in the back door. A dozen razors and a pair of clippers were taken, and a grip belonging to Mr. Green, a commercial traveller, which had been left in the shop, was slit open and the contents rifled.

Then the office of the head elevator man, Mr. John King, at Meldrum's elevator was entered by the glass being smashed in the door. Here the till was opened and two two dollar bills and a ten cent piece secured.

The third burglary was at the Oxford House at the C. P. R. station, where a window in the rear was broken but nothing was missed. This is supposed to have been the work of tramps.

ENJOYED AN OUTING

St. Andrew's Sunday School Picnic at Chemong on Wednesday.

About 300 excursionists left town by 'busses yesterday for a day's outing at Chemong in connection with the annual picnic of St. Andrew's Sabbath school.

Heavy rains in the afternoon marred the pleasure of a number, yet all seemed to take their experiences very pleasantly, and the children thoroughly enjoyed themselves. Mr. Kelly's steam yacht, "Lady of the Lake," was chartered for the afternoon and made half-hour trips around the lake. This was taken advantage of by all and made a very agreeable change in the afternoon's pleasure.

The 'busses began to return home at 5.30, and all were safely housed at 10.30. Before leaving the park three rousing cheers were given for Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Tully.

Personal

Mr. T. H. Hamilton, of Toronto, was in town to-day.

Mr. Thomas Armstrong, of Lindsay, was in town to-day.

Mr. J. C. Wilson, publisher of the Port Hope Guide, was among the visitors in town to-day.

Mr. H. A. Ward, ex-M. P., and Mr. Jas. Evans were among the prominent Port Hope citizens who came up with the Orangemen this morning.

Mr. Philias Archambeau, of Syracuse, N. Y., is in town on a visit to his home. Syracuse evidently agrees with this Peterborough boy in every way, for he appears to have prospered in stature as well as in things worldly. He reports that other Peterborough boys in Syracuse are doing well.

Mr. Louis C. Harding, of the Ninth Massachusetts Regimental Band, is visiting in town, the guest of his uncle, Mr. Robt. Begley. It is his intention to locate in town and become a member of the 57th band. He is a cornet soloist and will be a valuable acquisition to the local regimental band.

CELEBRATING THE GLORIOUS TWELFTH

Great Gathering of the Orangemen of the District to Celebrate the Battle of the Boyne.

Thousands of Visitors Were in Town Along with the Lodges—The Parade in the Afternoon Was a Long and Creditable One—Lodges and Bands that Were in Line—A Few Notes of the Day.

Peterborough had thousands of visitors within its gates to-day to celebrate the 210th anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne. The town has seen many of these celebrations, and a crowd is always expected and expectations are never disappointed. This year the district drawn from was somewhat limited, because there were celebrations at Norwood on the east and Bobcaygeon on the north. But Lindsay and the immediate vicinity, Omemee and its neighboring township of Emily, Port Hope and its townships, Cavan and the district of West Northumberland sent large delegations. The result was a large and creditable gathering of Orangemen, True Blues and 'Prentice Boys. With the lodges came many hundreds of visitors and at an early hour the streets were crowded, and continued crowded until noon, when the visitors dispersed to have dinner.

The local Orangemen had not been idle, and the visitors walked into a town that had on its holiday attire. The banners had been hung on the outer walls, and flags, bunting and mottoes were waving overhead on all the principle streets. George-st. was a picture of brightness. The streamers of flags and banners of all colors stretched across the street, and made a beautiful scene when the processions of uniformed men were moving beneath. Charlotte, Hunter, Simcoe and Water-sts. were also lavishly decorated. The centre of the town was splendidly decorated, and the visitors realized at once that they had come to a town that was alive to their coming.

The weather was the only uncertain factor in the morning calculations. The sky was overcast, and rain did not seem to be far off. But the threatening weather frightened nobody, and the crowd was good-natured and happy, while watching the arrival of the different lodges.

The local lodges and the county officials were early astir, and were busy receiving the visitors and directing them to the hotels and places where they were to be entertained. The C. P. R., owing to the celebration at Norwood, did not bring in many outside lodges. A Pontypool delegation came in on the train from the west, but none came from Havelock and other points east. The cheap fares, however, attracted many excursionists.

The Grand Trunk was handling the crowds, and ran specials over the Midland, both from Port Hope and Lindsay. The first train from Lindsay brought about six hundred, and the regular from Port Hope also brought about the same number. The specials which followed brought equally large crowds. These trains were met and the brethren marched in procession to Central Park and thence to the hotels where they were to dine. Each delegation as it came up was led by one or two of the local marshalls. By noon all the visitors had arrived, and the music of bands, the fifes and the drums was silent during the noon hour.

THE PROCESSION.

The Afternoon Parade Was Witnessed by Thousands.

The rain which threatened held off, and when the lodges began to assemble at Central Park for the procession the prospects were good for a fair afternoon. While the lodges were gathering the people were assembling, and when a few minutes after two o'clock the procession started from Central Park, the streets along the line of march were lined by immense crowds. The parade was a long one, and the lodges made a most creditable appearance, some of them with their natty uniforms making an especially fine showing. The line of march was down George to Hunter, along Hunter to Aylmer, down Aylmer to Charlotte, across Charlotte to George, thence up to Hunter and then over to Water-st. and up to the park.

The order of procession was as follows:

Marshall—J. B. McWilliams, Past County Master.
County Master—Joseph Jones.
District Master—W. A. Kindred.
County Director of Ceremonies—Geo. W. Hall.
District Director of Ceremonies—Allan McCarthy.

FATAL ACCIDENT

A Boy Named McIlwain Struck by Lighting at Omemee.

News reached town last night of a fatal happening in yesterday afternoon's storm. A young lad named McIlwain, aged 11 years and eight months, who lived with his parents near Omemee, had been sent a couple of miles north of the village on an errand, and had just started when the storm broke. He was struck on the head by lightning and instantly killed.

Soldiers in Camp

Ex-Sergeant William Johnston, of the 10th Royal Grenadiers, Toronto, writes:—"It is impossible for me to speak too highly of Dr. Chase's Ointment for piles or any itching skin disease. It is simply invaluable. Many of our men used it while in camp and received excellent results." Members of the Canadian contingents took 1,000 boxes of Dr. Chase's Liniment with them to South Africa to relieve the sufferings of campaigning life.

THE FIELD OF GENERAL SPORT.

BASEBALL.

The Cuban Giants, who were expected in Lindsay yesterday to play ball, did not materialize.

The Peterborough baseball team has a scheduled game in Lindsay on Thursday next. The executive asked the Lindsay club to agree to have the match played on the following Saturday in order that an excursion might be run up from town, but the Lindsay managers, with the same courtesy that has marked all their acts this year, declined to be obliging. The course they have pursued all season in their dealings with the other clubs has not been such as to gain for them any credit as sportsmen.

The HealthProblem.

Is much simpler than is sometimes supposed. Health depends chiefly upon perfect digestion and pure blood, and the problem is solved very readily by Hood's Sarsaparilla. You may keep well by taking it promptly for any stomach or blood disorder. Its cures of scrofula, salt rheum, catarrh, dyspepsia, rheumatism and other diseases are numbered by the thousands.

The favorite family cathartic is Hood's Pills.

BEAUTY OF WATER AND SCENERY

IS OFFERED IN AN OUTING ON THE CHAIN OF WATERS NEAR AT HOME

The Trent Valley Navigation Co. Have Put on a Line of Steamers That Bring the Back Lakes Before the Citizens Looking for an Outing as They Never Were Brought Before.

What about that holiday trip? The walls and windows are placarded with the announcements of the railway and steamer lines offering alluring rates to the summer traveller. The attractions of the several parts of the continent are set forth in glowing periods. The possible disbursement may range from 35 cents for a half day at Millbrook to the $135 trip to the Rockies and on to the West.

Most of us have to be content with a little more than the one and a deal less than the other. A favored few may go where and when they choose, but the greater number of those who gain a holiday at all have to be careful that the funds at disposal carry one as far and to as cheerful sights as possible. Almost every mail brings the folders and cards of the lake and river trips, and of these Canada has enough to satisfy the most critical.

The longing to see something new is natural. A holiday at home is thought to be no holiday at all. But when one has decided to go forth, and see, and be hot and thirsty, and hungry and tired, it is only timely to arise in open meeting and say that these desirable sensations can all be experienced close at home, and in addition a lot of other things, better and sweeter, and healthful and rejuvenating. Why rush off to Muskoka or the St. Lawrence when we have just as picturesque scenery, fresher air and clearer water right at our doors, so to speak. It is in order, and timely, as well, to speak a word in season for our own lakes and their attractions for the summer voyager. Is it that familiarity is apt to breed contempt, and that the things we think we are familiar with lack freshness and novelty? If such as we have be good enough and present the desirable features that induce people to journey hundreds of miles to see and enjoy, they should be good enough for us. It is true that in taking a vacation one often seeks to gratify a longing for the novel and the unfamiliar. This is what induces the New York merchant to get into the Canadian woods for his outing, and the Haliburton egg merchant to hie him to New York. Enjoyment is found in conditions directly opposite of those in which the daily grind of our lives is spent.

In speaking of the lake region the country to the north of Peterborough is referred to. Almost every one in town is familiar with Stony lake. It is the Mecca of those who sojourn in cottages and many who live in tents. It is easily accessible, and deserves all that may well be said in its praise. But Stony lake is only the vestibule, so to speak, for the lake waters beyond. Not many have gone above Burleigh Falls, and few above Sturgeon lake. Always has there been an open door for the canoeist, who may push wherever he may find water to float his craft. Communication by steamer has been occasional and uncertain, and then there was the matter of meals, for your holiday voyager does not care to set out on a two or three days' trip with a box of sodas under one arm and a can of salmon under the other. Thanks to the enterprise of a number of enterprising men all this has been changed. This season, for an almost nominal fee one may travel, by comfortable boats from Lakefield away to the top of the divide between Lake Ontario and Georgian Bay, at Coboconk. It is a trip all should take, and if for no other reason that they may learn of the magnificent water channels that lie to the north and west.

The Trent Valley Navigation Company, with headquarters at Bobcaygeon, has organized a steamboat service that should result in large patronage. They have placed on the route three steamers, the Esturion, Ogemah and Manita. The boats are commodious and comfortable. The time table has been framed so as to meet the wants of the traveller. One can embark at either Chemong, reached by stage from Peterborough, or at Lakefield, reached by train from Peterborough. From Lakefield to Burleigh Falls (through Clear and Stony lakes), the trip is made by the steamers Majestic, Sunbeam or Empress. These boats make between them three trips each day. At Burleigh Falls the steamer Ogemah carries the traveller through Lovesick lake to Buckhorn, and through Buckhorn and Chemong lakes to Chemong, and on up Pigeon lake to Bobcaygeon. From Bobcaygeon to Sturgeon Point and Lindsay the steamer Esturion makes double trips each day. From Lindsay (calling at Sturgeon Point), the steamer Manita makes daily trips to Coboconk, passing through Sturgeon lake, Fenelon Falls, Cameron lake and Balsam lake, returning the following morning. This steamer makes the round trip from Coboconk to Lindsay each day. Meals are served on the steamers Esturion and Ogemah, and time is allowed at Fenelon Falls to

THE PEDAGOGUE.

Provision must be made annually in the Boston public schools for 2,500 additional pupils.

President Eliot of Harvard is to make another tour of the west this summer. He will again be the guest at dinner of the various Harvard alumni clubs in different cities.

Frederick Washington Atkinson, principal of the high school at Springfield, Mass., is studying the methods of the industrial schools of the south preparatory to taking up his new duties as the first American superintendent of public instruction in the Philippines.

At Harvard university there is promise of an increased attendance in the regular departments of the summer school. The number will probably be near 900, besides the Cuban teachers, or a total of about 2,300 students. The session will begin on July 5 and close on Aug. 15.

ANOTHER VICTIM REJOICES.

Dr. Hall's Pamphlet on Rheumatism free Send for it.

IT is not an uncommon thing by any means for a sufferer from Sciatic Rheumatism to become completely helpless from the disease, in fact more helpless than a child. And what havoc such pain creates in the entire system! The effects of a long siege of rheumatism is apt to be very severe on the constitution, so that the patient should be prompt in obtaining relief the moment the opportunity presents itself. The restoration to health of a rheumatic sufferer is like unto the freedom from a prison cell of an innocent man. In either case the bondage is unnatural and uncalled for. Mr. John Hunter, 331 Brock Street, Kingston, Ont., was laid up for six weeks with rheumatism. He was so helpless he could not leave his room or dress himself. A friend advised him to try Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure. After taking the contents of the first bottle he was able to move around the house. The second bottle cured him completely, and he was able to return to his work. Mr. Hunter says he would strongly recommend Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure to all who suffer with rheumatism.

Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure is put up in 50 cent bottles, containing ten days' treatment. For sale by all druggists and dealers in medicine. The Dr. Hall Medicine Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE IVORY QUEEN

A Detective Story Of a Chicago Suburb. The Murder at The Grange and How its Mystery Was Solved by Darrent, the American Lecoq.

BY NORMAN HURST.

Copyright, 1899, by the American Press Association.

"Bless your heart, sir," said mine host as Darrent buttoned up his coat and prepared to start for The Grange, "there are some people who suspect Astray of the murder, but they might just as well suspect me, sir—just as well."

The irritating church clock chimed the hour of 9 as Darrent reached the gates of The Grange and found awaiting him, erect as a soldier on parade, the patrolman he had seen the previous night.

"Good morning. I am glad to find you are punctual."

"Good morning, sir."

"Any message from Mr. Dobson?"

"He hoped you would call upon him again this morning."

"Right. Have you the keys?"

"Yes, sir," answered the policeman, unlocking the gate as he spoke.

"I suppose you didn't see the ghost who committed the murder?" Darrent hazarded, with a smile.

"Ghost!" laughed the young officer. "Not much. There's no ghosts in Norcombe. I've heard the fairy stories about ghosts and The Grange being haunted, but I don't believe any such nonsense, sir."

"Indeed!"

"No, sir, not a bit of it. There was flesh and blood on this job, sir, and it looks like a case of revenge."

"What makes you think that?"

"Well, sir, as far as we can make out, nothing in the house has been disturbed and no robbery committed."

"Well, let's get inside."

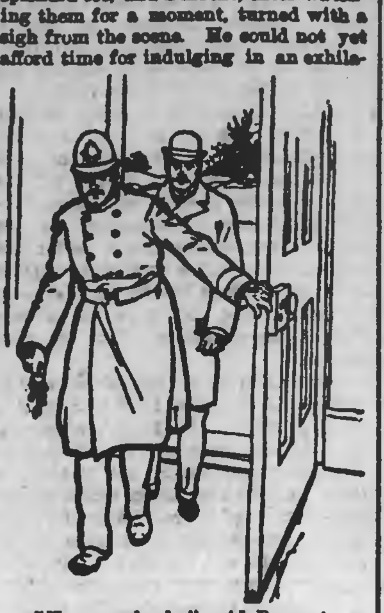
The policeman unlocked the heavy door and pushed it open.

"Now, go slowly," said Darrent as they entered, "and tell me all you know about the building."

The door banged after them, and the dull echo of the sound reverberated through the house.

The entrance hall gave access to rooms on either hand, and the policeman, unlocking and opening a door on the right, stood on one side for Darrent to enter.

The room, which was at the back of the house and evidently the library, was a large and lofty apartment paneled in dark oak, and the old fashioned furniture matched the decoration—solid armchairs with deep seats and sunk backs and a massive oblong table. The walls were lined with bookcases, but they were evidently very rarely opened, for Darrent noticed how thickly the dust lay in all the crevices where the glass doors shut. He walked slowly round the room. Two sides were entirely taken up by the bookshelves, while at the two others were the fireplace and a broad window. The chimney piece, with its high mantel in carved oak, had a couple of cosy corner seats, one on each side. The window, which was opposite the fireplace, commanded a magnificent view of the distant snow covered country for miles and the windings of a river, its frozen surface glistening in the sunlight. Some dozen skaters were gliding over the splendid ice, and Darrent, after watching them for a moment, turned with a sigh from the scene. He could not yet afford time for indulging in an exhilarating pastime in which he delighted, and, although a clear, unbroken stretch of a mile or so of black ice temptingly invited him, duty called him, and duty must be done.



"Now, go slowly," said Darrent.

"Now, then— By the way, what's your name?"

"Thompson."

"Right. I dare say you know mine already—Darrent."

"Yes, sir."

"Is this the room where the murder was committed?"

"Yes; this is where we found him, sir," replied Thompson, indicating a spot on the floor between the table and the fireplace where an ominous dark stain showed.

"Do you know the house at all?" asked Darrent, his eye upon the floor.

"No, sir; never entered it till the day after the murder. We searched the rooms, but, as you know, discovered nothing."

"Ah! Who went over the house?"

"Chief Dobson."

"Ah, we'll go over together presently, Thompson. Now, tell me, is the room exactly as it was when the crime was discovered, eh? Nothing has been disturbed, nothing removed?"

"Exactly the same. Nothing has been taken away except a box of chessmen. I suppose Mr. Dobson has mentioned that to you already, sir?"

"Ah, yes! They were called for yesterday morning, I understand, by a man who said he was a detective from Chicago."

"Yes; that's what he said, sir."

"Did you see him?"

"No, sir. Mr. Dobson saw him. I was on my round."

"I suppose you have never seen the particular set of chessmen?"

"No, sir."

"And have no idea what they were like?"

"Well, sir, I heard Mr. Dobson say that they were Indian work in ivory, very finely carved with figures, elephants, men on horseback, and the like."

All the time that Darrent had been questioning Thompson his eye had never ceased to wander over the room, from the window to the bookcases, from the bookcases to the lofty chimney piece and back to the window again. Those round panes in the doors of the dark oak bookcases seemed to Darrent to glare down at him like wide open eyes—wide open, staring eyes that never closed night or day, eyes that had gazed down on Josiah Marsden score upon score of times, eyes that had witnessed the murder.

What was Josiah Marsden doing that fatal night? Was he sitting, solitary and alone, by the fire, the gray ashes of which still filled the grate, reading one or other of those treasures of literature that lined the shelves?

Darrent walked round the room and minutely examined the fastenings of the bookcases. No; the dust proved that they had not been opened for weeks.

Had Marsden been seated there at the table with the chessmen and board in front of him, working out some problem, when the assassin had crept noiselessly in, stolen behind him and stabbed him to death?

Was there nothing in all that room to afford one tiny clew to the murderer?

Had there been a struggle between the murderer and victim, and in it had there possibly been a tiny thread of material torn, or a button wrenched off, or an ornament broken, that could afford something of a clew? With eyes fixed on the floor, Darrent stood thinking, while Thompson waited respectfully on one side. Darrent paced the length of the room from the window to the fireplace several times and pondered. At last he paused in one of his journeys and gazed out over the whitened country. From the house to the river not a footmark marred the surface. The snow that had drifted on to the broad window sill was undisturbed. There had been no escape that way.

He faced round and stood with his back to the light. The wintry sun was shining full into the library and throwing a ribbon of color across the floor, and in its track upon the polished wood something white glittered. It was only a tiny speck, but it caught Darrent's eye. He stooped, picked it up and examined it closely. It seemed to be a broken piece of ivory, a little mite of lacelike filigree. He looked at it in the full light of the window, and suddenly it dawned upon him that here was his clew, here in this tiny scrap, for Darrent felt confident that it had formed part of the ornamental carving of a chessman, and it was a set of chessmen that some one had been at great pains to secure from that very room.

Yes, here was the clew! Once let him trace the set of chessmen that had been obtained from The Grange, once let him find that one was damaged and satisfy himself that this fragment fitted, and the first step in the discovery of the murderer of Josiah Marsden would be accomplished.

He carefully wrapped the piece of ivory in a cigarette paper and placed it in his pocketbook.

"Now, Thompson," he said to the officer, who had been interestedly watching his proceedings, "I think I've seen enough of this room, for the present at any rate. Let us turn our attention to a thorough search of the rest of the building. The murderer seems to have entered in the ordinary way, but he did not depart the same way as he entered. Therefore, Thompson, he knew of some other means of exit, and what we have got to do is to find it."

Darrent had already arrived at the conclusion that the murder had been committed by some one who possessed an intimate knowledge of the structure of The Grange itself and of some secret means of escape. There must be a secret means of exit from the building—of that he was confident—but where? That was the trouble, and that they would have to discover. That the entrance had been in the usual and ordinary way and the exit in some unusual and extraordinary way was certain, and that gave rise to two possible theories. One was that the murderer was merely an ordinary visitor, with originally no ill intent. Something which might never be solved had led to a quarrel with old Marsden, and that had ended in a struggle and his death, whereupon the murderer, acquainted with the structure of the building, had escaped by the secret way. Or, on the other hand, the assassin had entered, with malice aforethought, determined, for some reason of revenge, upon the death of Josiah Marsden, intending after the committal of the deed to make use of the secret route and leave no trace of his escape. In either case it proved a thorough knowledge of the house and the existence of some private means of exit, and that was what they must discover.

Together they left the library and began their search. From garret to basement they ransacked every room, but could discover nothing. Dust reigned supreme everywhere, and the most careful investigation revealed no possible hiding place or means of escape.

After several hours' thorough search Darrent and his assistant conclusively satisfied themselves that the murderer was not concealed upon the premises. How, then, had he escaped? He had not gone out by the front door. Then he must have escaped from the back of The Grange, and yet from the house to the river the snow lay in one smooth, undisturbed mantle of white. Not a telltale mark betrayed the way of the murderer's flight.

On the left of the entrance hall, opposite the library, was the only other room that seemed to have been in constant use, and at the far end, in the same place as the window was situated in the library, a fernery had been built, but it was bare of foliage now and boasted only a collection of dry and withered shrubs. This was the last room Darrent entered. He stood in the conservatory and opened the door leading to the grounds. A flight of steps, protected by an ornamental iron awning, over which ivy and creeping plants had grown, led down to a covered trellised walk, where the thick intwining foliage had kept the snow from penetrating. The walk extended from the bottom of the steps to an open rockery some 50 feet away, built in the dip of the ground. Large masses of rugged stone had been piled together, and rough hewn steps led down to a deep pool filled with brushes and aquatic plants. The pool, which was frozen and black, was overhung by drooping trees, whose pendent branches almost touched its surface—a charming spot in summer, with its moss grown stones, its white and yellow water lilies, its creeping plants and miniature waterfall plashing gently down, but now, in the grip of the ice king, its sylvan beauty was transformed as by a magic wand. It seemed a very fairy grotto. The overhanging trees gleamed white with frosted snow, glistening like diamonds, and from every rock hung fantastic icicles in all the beauty of an Aladdin's cave.

Darrent descended the steps and traversed the covered walk, which was entirely free from snow, until he reached the rough hewn steps that led down to the pool, and as he gazed upon the beauty of the scene before him and admired the pendent branches frosted with their white, feathery powder his keen eye was attracted by the slender trunk of a silver birch which some four feet from the ground showed a space a few inches wide absent of the snowy covering which decked the remainder of the tree. He carefully examined the spot. It looked as though a hand had gripped it. Then he bent down and scrutinized the earth at the foot of the birch. Yes, there was the mark as of a footstep. Any one coming from the covered walk that led from the conservatory to the rockery would have been able without treading on any of the snow covered ground to have seized the trunk of that tree and so swung himself down toward the bottom of the pool. Stepping carefully over the slippery stones, Darrent and Thompson reached the bottom and stood side by side upon the frozen surface.

Evidently some one had been there before them, for the impression of footprints was visible, leading to the very back of the grotto. Following the track, they pushed aside the long streamers of creeping plants coated with ice, that jingled musically as they moved them, and found the grotto extended some feet beyond, and then it seemed to cease, shut in by heavy masses of rock, but on closer approach a narrow opening at right angles became visible, and into this the footprints led. With an effort they forced themselves through the entrance and into a kind of tunnel, at the far end of which a ray of light shone like a star. The floor of the tunnel was coated with ice, and evidently they were walking along the bed of a channel by which the overflow from the grotto found its way out into the river.

Slowly and painfully they groped along in the darkness, stumbling and slipping upon the smooth surface of the ice and bruising their hands against the sides of the tunnel. Half way through, the pathway grew narrower and lower, and it was only by creeping in a painfully stooping attitude that they could get along at all. The light grew nearer. They struggled on for a dozen or so yards more and at length, through a tangled mass of shrubs and brushes, saw stretching before them the broad expanse of the river, while the ring of the skates sounded merrily in the distance.

The skaters passed, flying like the wind, along the stretch of perfect ice. No one was in sight, either to the right or the left, as, pushing aside the bushes, Herbert Darrent and his companion crept on their hands and knees from the narrow causeway out on to the frozen river, and the way of the escape of the murderer of Josiah Marsden was solved.

CHAPTER III.

ON THE TRACK.

Although the passage or tunnel by which the murderer had in all probability escaped from The Grange had now been discovered, Darrent was obliged to own to himself as he stood upon the frozen river that he was really no nearer learning the truth or solving the mystery.

What had proved a mysterious, supernatural factor in the crime in the eyes of the unsophisticated inhabitants of Norcombe and had set their imaginations, such as they were, to work on the wild ideas of haunted houses and ghostly assassins had, after all, turned out to be nothing.

Chronic Indigestion

By far the most important part of digestion takes place in the intestines and it is folly to expect stomach medicines to cure a severe case of indigestion or dyspepsia. The kidneys, liver and bowels must first be made regular and active, and the only remedy which acts directly on these organs is Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They are purely vegetable, act pleasantly and naturally and positively cure dyspepsia, biliousness and stomach troubles. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box; take no substitute.

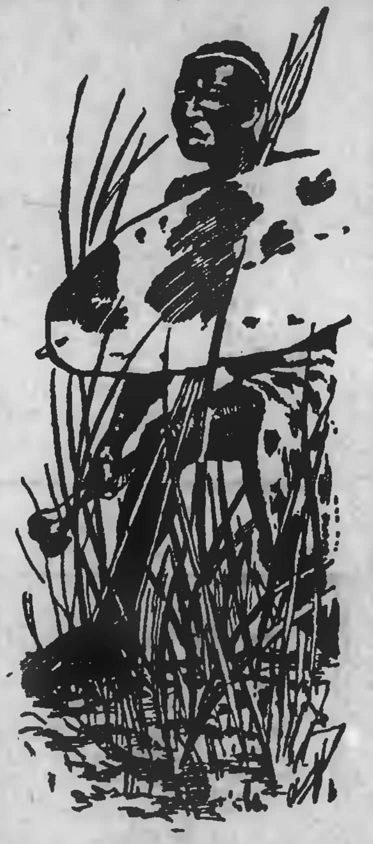
THE FUTURE MENACE

BLACK CLOUD THAT CONFRONTS SOUTH AFRICA'S PEACE.

Great Britain Could Not, If She Would, Ignore the Native Races in the Transvaal and Orange River Colonies—Their Numbers and Strength Make Them a Force to Be Reckoned With.

One of the most serious and urgent phases of the problem that will confront Great Britain after the war is the question of the future governments of the blacks. They cannot be ignored in considering the disposition and future of South Africa, for there are only about 750,000 whites, while the blacks are estimated at anywhere between 4,000,000 and 7,000,000.

To comprehend the situation it is necessary to rid the mind of the idea, so generally held here, that the blacks are weak and a negligible quantity in discussing matters. They are in no sense of the word weak, either individually or collectively. Personally they are tall, strong and hardy and have proved their ability to fight against either the Boers or the British on many a hard fought field. Collectively they are not so strong, for they are divided both by distance and racial hatred, though all the tribes are very much alike, being descended from a common stock. However, their very numbers render them formidable. On the whole, it may be said that they are more favorable to the British than to the Boers, for the reports of Boer cruelty to the natives are true, though often exaggerated.



BASUTO WARRIOR.

The name Kaffir, so often heard, is a generic term and includes Zulus, Basutos, Bechuanas, Matabeles and others. Of these the most civilized and best organized race and the one to be taken into consideration most is the Basutos, who number about 250,000 and inhabit Basutoland, to the southeast of the Orange Free State (Orange River Colony). The Basutos, like all the other tribes, are extremely jealous of any interference with their internal affairs, although they are nominally under British control. For instance, recently, when the cattle disease was prevalent in South Africa, the government of Cape Colony established a quarantine on the border by means of colonial troops. The Basutos were alarmed, and their chief, Lerothodi, sent a strong body of men to the frontier, and the colonists were compelled to retire to avoid trouble.

The blacks in their present state are a great and growing menace to the civilization of South Africa, for, numerous as they are and strong as they would be if combined, they could wipe out every vestige of civilization if they were to rise against white rule. The only hope for future British rule is to keep them divided, in the meantime striving to Christianize them and educate them into a sense of responsibility. With education they are certain to discover their own strength, and then it will be impossible to avoid according them at least some share in their own government.

Under peaceful conditions the Kaffirs are certain to grow in numbers and in wealth. Formerly, when fierce tribal warfare prevailed, there was no question of white supremacy for the wars kept the blacks from attaining to any real power in South Africa. Now that peace is imposed upon them by the sovereignty, real or nominal, of Great Britain, they are bound to assert themselves in the government, and how to prevent them by peaceable means from becoming the whole government is the problem that confronts British statesmanship.

Solomon was the wisest of men. He knew enough to cut his copy up into short paragraphs. In that way he succeeded in getting his writings read.
